ADOPT ELECTRIC CHAIR

New Law in Effect and There Will be No More Hangings.

NO DEATH HOUSE

There Is No Place To Execute the Murderers, Because of Hitch In Legislature.

New Jersey's electrocution law went into effect today, but the indications are that it will be some time before the State will be able or ready to substitute the death chair for the hangman's noose. The electrocution bill was passed by the last Legislature, but the lawmakers forgot to include in it the annual appropriation bills and nothing could be done toward carrying out its provisions during the past year.

The framers of the bill made it effective March 1, 1907, in order to give time enough for the erection of a death house and the equipment of the place with the necessary electrical apparatus, but they were thwarted by the negligence of the appropriations committee.

A bill was introduced in the early part of this session appropriating $10,000 for the building of the chamber of death. It has passed the Senate, but is still hanging fire in the House. Even in the event of its passing both branches and being signed by the Governor, the appropriation will not become available until November 1 next, unless some special provision is made for the immediate payment of the amount. And even if this provision is made, it is generally conceded that the amount is entirely too small for the purpose.

Dr. George B. Wight, State Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, who has charge of all the building operations of the commonwealth, declares that the building and equipment required for the electrocution of criminals cannot be erected and completed for less than $50,000. This places the State authorities in a quandary, for the electrocution bill provides that there shall be no more hangings after today.

The original intention was to have the electrocutions at the State prison, but Trenton people made such a protest that last winter' bill was amended to have the executions at some isolated place. This adds to the cost of the plant. Dr. Wight urges that sentiment be cast aside and the death chamber be constructed at the prison, where executions can be conducted with greater economy for the State and with less horror and publicity for the c ondemned persons.

The electrocution law provides that condemned persons shall be delivered to the prifncipal keeper of the prison and detained by him until the time of the execution. This seems to be abundant reason why executions should take place at the prison, where the necessary room could be constructed well within the $10,000 now asked of the Legislature.

POND FOUNDRY BLAZE.

Roof Slightly Damaged by Fire Evidently Caused by Sparks.

The trurret roof of the foundry at the Pond Machine Tool Works caught fire in some way, last night, possibly from a spark from some source, and caused damage amounting possibly to $75. It was discovered first by Mrs. Lindsay, of West Front street, who telephoned Fire Headquarters but an alarm was turned in from box 47 as the men were responding.

The blaze had not gained full headway when the department arrived and it was put out without laying in hose. The men used extinguishers inside and out and stopped the progress of the flames in a few minutes. It is thought the sparks that started the blaze may have come from a locomotive or the founndry cupola.

Work of Consumers League.

The executive committee of the Consumers League of New Jersey, of which Mrs. Riley, of the borough, is a member, met today at Newark to consider measures calculated to arouse the interest of the consumer to the conditions under which the produces works, as well as school laws and the hiring or minors.

P. H. S. Debating Society.

The debating society of the Plainfield High School held its regular meeting yesterday, at which these officers were elected: President, George H. Fisher, Jr.; vice president, William Lambert; secretary, Isaac Rothberg; treasurer, Sallo Kahn. A debate will be held next week.

Haven't Found Needle Yet.

The operation performed on Rudolph Buck, of West Front street, at the hospital for the removal of a needle from the arm, failed to find the small piece of steel. X-ray examinations will be made from time to time until the needle is located.

CALVERT SEES FORT AS NEXT GOVERNOR

COUNTY CLERK BELIEVES JUSTICE AS STOKES' SUCCESSOR.

A boom has been started by some Republican politicians at Elizabeth for Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort, of Essex county, for Governor. The movement is said to be headed by County Clerk James C. Calvert, who is one of the most prominent of the party leaders in Union county and for several years chairman of the Elizabeth city central committee.

Mr. Calvert said yesterday that he favored Justice Fort because he thought him the strongest, most popular and available candidate that the Republican party could select.

Mr. Calvert declared that from information which had come to him, he felt pretty confident that the next nominee for Governor of the Republican party would come from Essex county, and he did not know of any man from that section who would be more acceptable to the rank and file of the party throughout the State than Justice Fort.

The demand for his nomination, Mr. Calvert predicted, would grow in strength from now on until the time for the election of delegates to the Gubernatorial convention.

REDMEN STRONGER IN NUMBERS AND MONEY

JUDGE NEWCORN CHOSEN REPRESENTATIVE TO GREAT COUNCIL.

Trenton, March 1.—There were 300 delegates in attendance yesterday morning when the annual council fire of the Great Council of New Jersey, Improved Order of Red Men, opened in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Great Sachem Thompson reported that he had made thirty-nine visitations during the last year; has held district sessions and had aided in the institution of new tribes at Englewood and Guttenberg. He also reported that the last Legislature had enacted a State law making it a misdemeanor for any one not a member to wear the emblem of the Red Men.

Great Chief of Records Stevens, of Camden, making his twenty-first annual report, showed that during the last year the order had gained both in numbers and finances. During the last twenty-one years the Red Men have increased from 5,911 to 26,064, there having been gains every year excepting three during the business depression. In that time the total wealth of the tribes has increased from $77,569 to $522,432.81.

Great Keeper of Wampum William J. Smythe, of Long Branch, reported as follows: General fund, receipts, $12,964.73; disbursements, $7,759.22; aged men's fund, receipts, $2,124.91; disbursements, $78; orphans' fund, receipts, $2,536.65; disbursements, $1,260.75.

The following officers were elected: Great prophet, Charles D. Thompson, Atlantic City; great sachem, Frank P. Jackson, Camden; great senior sagamore, Emil W. Schabilon, Hackensack; great junior sagamore, Harry J. Rathbone, Trenton; great chief of records, Daniel M. Stevens; great keeper of wampum, William J. Symthe, Jr., Long Branch; great sannap, John Thompson, Avon by the Sea; great mishinewa, Gill M. Hannold, Paulsboro; great guard of wigwam, Stanley Kahlbach, Wildwood; great board of appeals, Arthur H. Stiles, Atlantic City; John Y. Dater, Ramsey, and William J. Forsyth, Jersey City.

Representatives at the Great Council of the United States, Charles D. Thompson, Atlantic City; Fred P. Rees, Trenton; William Newcorn, Plainfield, and Thomas Sprague, Burlington.

A proposition to elect representatives to the Great Council of the United States from the floor instead from the past great chiefs, as now, was defeated. A resolution was adopted to invite the Great Council of the United States to Atlantic City in 1908.

Ambrose Campbell Catches Runaway.

A horse belonging to John McDonough, of Summit avenue, and attached to his milk wagon, ran away on Somerset street this morning. It had gathered together a good-sized bunch of speed and was streaking down the borough's Broadway at a 2:10 clip when headed off by Ambrose Campbell, of the Fire Headquarters. At the risk of sustaining personal injury he caught the animal by the head and clung to it until brought to a stop. The rig escaped damage.

—The Public Service Corporation still continues to operate its cars on the Arlington avenue line every half-hour after 8 o'clock at night, greatly to the annoyance and inconvenience of people who desire to patronize that line.

SEWER REPORT TONIGHT

Commission of Fifty on Sewage Disposal System to Meet With Borough Council.

TO PRESENT REPORT

Expert Engineer's Findings to Be Made Known—Consolidation Invitation to Be Read.

Probably the most important session of the North Plainfield Common Council held in some years will take place tonight when it will meet with the commission of fifty, whose duty it has been to investigate the feasibility of establishing a sewer disposal system in that borough. After months of hard labor and research this commission, through its subcommittee of seven, is prepared to make a preliminary report to the borough fathers. William H. Fuller, the expert engineer, submitted his findings to the sub-committee some days ago as exclusively told in The Daily Press, and it is reliably reported that he has prepared an elaborate report in which he advises the construction of an independent system.

The commission of fifty, appointed by Mayor N. B. Smalley, was empowered to investigate and recommend whether in its opinion it would be better for the borough to construct its own plant or to make overtures with the Plainfield Common Council for joint use of the city's plant. Mr. Fuller's report goes deeply into both schemes. He leaves it, however, to the commission to decide which proposition it considers most advantageous.

All these matters will be threshed out at the joint meeting tonight and Mayor Smalley urgently requests every member of the commission of fifty to be present. The discussion will follow the short routine business session of the Council and probably two hours will be consumed in a mature consideration of the sub-committee's report.

Another matter to be brought before the Council tonight will be the invitation of the bi-municipal consolidation commission for interested citizens of North Plainfield to make known their views on the proposed merger of the two places. A meeting of the commission will be held at the office of Mayor C. J. Fisk for that purpose on Monday afternoon at 4:30. Those who are unable to be present at that time are invited to communicate with the consolidation commission by letter.

Mayor Smalley will also present for confirmation tonight his appointment of a policeman for the borough force.

CENTRAL LODGE, A. O. U. W. ENTERTAIN THE WOMEN.

Programme of Music and Magic at "Ladies' Night" Affair.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, gave a "ladies' night" entertainment in its rooms on Park avenue, last night, the features of which included instrumental music, magic and skits by a sketch artist, and an address by Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington. Harvey R. Thorn, the lodge recorder, was master of ceremonies and he gave a short address of welcome to the members and their women friends, who were present in large numbers.

There were piano solos by Miss Anna Boss and Prof. Irwin, of New York, gave a clever exhibition of magic. Frank King, also of New York, enteretained with humorous selections and an amusing sketch. Grand Master Workman Fowle gave a brief sketch of the order, telling of its marvelous growth and great benefits. Refreshments were served after the entertainment. The committee in charge consisted of L. J. Spicer, Harvey R. Thorn and Theodore J. Mason.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL NETS $25 FOR CARPET FUND.

The Ladies' Aid Society of First M. E. Church Provides Fine Entertainment.

The birthday social held last night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, in Vincent chapel, netted about $25, which will go toward a fund to purchase a new carpet for the chapel. There was an excellent programme, including piano solos by Miss Beatrice Miner and vocal selections by F. C. Iglehart, Jr., of the First Presbyterian church choir.

An enjoyable feature was the display of a large number of views from all parts of the world, including many from Plainfield, by J. Hervey Doane. The affair was arranged by Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, and all the women of the society whose names are included in the alphabet from A to H, assisted. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

ALONE IN NEIGHBOR'S HOUSE, OLD MAN DIES

WOMAN FINDS INVALID DEAD ON RETURNING FROM SHORT JOURNEY.

George Shaffar, 70 years old, who for years had lived alone in a house on Walnut street, Dunellen, fell to the sidewalk on North avenue, that borough, Saturday afternoon, in the grip of a heart attack. He was revived by Dr. P. W. Brakeley, but fearing a recurrence of the attack he made arrangements to stay at the home of Mrs. Theodore Kuldoshes. On Wednesday at noontime Mrs. Kuldoshes left him alone in the house while she went on a trip to this city. When she returned early in the afternoon she found the old man dead on the floor.

Mr. Shaffar had apparently gained in health. He had gone out in the street several times since Monday, and was getting up when Mrs. Kuldoshes left. He urged her to make the trip when she expressed reluctance to leave him alone. Asthma is said to have complicated his heart trouble.

The dead man's only living relative is a sister, Mrs. Henry Wagner, of Newark. She has been notified and will make arrangements for the funeral. The body is at the undertaking parlors of Walter G. Runyon, Dunellen. Mr. Shaffar lived in Dunellen for fourteen years; his wife died six years ago. He was a pensioner.

WARRANT NOT YET SERVED ON TEACHER

MESKILL'S FRIENDS GIVE DIFFERENT ACCOUNT OF ENCOUNTER WITH PUPIL.

Though Principal Frank Meskill has refrained from discussing the occurrence at the South Plainfield school, Wednesday, in which he is said to have struck Michael Saverd, a pupil, on the head with a handbell, his friends declare that his side of the story will reveal a different state of affairs. Saverd's father has preferred a charge of assault against Meskill and the warrant is now in the hands of Justice R. P. F. Von Minden but at the request of the Piscataway school board is being held up until tomorrow. It will in all probability be served then and the principal's version can be heard at a formal hearing.

Meskill's friends claim that Saverd has been unruly for several weeks and that he had been reported to the trustees for incorrigibility. They also assert that on Tuesday afternoon when he and two other boys nearly ran over the principal with a sleigh they did it deliberately and when he called after them he was greeted with jeers and insulting remarks. Meskill is a young man and of slender build and the friends declare that in the scuffle at the school Saverd hit him first in the head with a book and then struck him with his fists. He was greatly excited, not only by the attack but also by the confusion among the pupils, and naturally struck at his assailant. He had the bell in his hand as he had just rung for assembly and the weapon caught the boy on the head. It is declared by Saverd that Meskill hit him several times afterward and also threw him on the floor, but this is denied by some of the witnesses.

There is hardly any doubt in the minds of the unprejudiced South Plainfield residents but what the order in the school has not been of the best and that since the Lloyd Harris-Miss Steele incident, the pupils have been inclined to resent ordinary commands. The friends of Meskill will insist that the Board of Trustees give this affair and others their full attention and place the blame where it belongs. They assert that the faculty has not been upheld in maintaining discipline and is in no way to blame for the disorder.

Annual Meeting Park Golf Club.

The annual meeting of the Park Golf Club to be held at the Park Club on Tuesday night, March 12, will be one of great importance to every member as several questions concerning the coming season will be discussed and decided. There will be the election of trustees, followed by the choice of officers, together with the annual reports for the year.

William H. Pangborn's Funeral.

The funeral of William H. Pangborn, who died suddenly Wednesday night, will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon and will be private. It will be conducted by Rev. John S. Dobbs, of New York, and Rev. J. O. McKelvey. Friends wishing to see the body may call at the house tomorrow morning from 10 o'clock until 1.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular conclave Monday night.

C. J. FISK FOR GOVERNOR

In Political Circles the Name of Plainfield's Mayor is Beiug Discussed.

A PARTY HARMONIZER

Has Not Announced His Candidacy—Enjoys the Confidence of Dryden, Kean and Briggs.

For some weeks a story has been going the rounds in Union county's political circles that a boom is about to be launched for Mayor Charles J. Fisk for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination. Much credence has been given the tale inasmuch as it is known that Mr. Fisk is held in high esteem within the councils of the State leaders and that he has made many friends and gained ardent admirers by his years of work in behalf of the party. When seen by a Daily Press man some days ago, the mayor refused to discuss the subject. With his usual smile lighting up his countenance, he said, "Oh, there's nothing in it; how could I be made Governor?" Despite his assertion it is reported that close political friends high in the service of the party in New Jersey have made favorable comments on a proposition to make him the party's standard bearer for Mr. Stokes' berth.

For many years, Mr. Fisk has spent his time and money in behalf of the party and there is probably no single man in Plainfield who has done so much to bring about Republican success. Moreover, he has been a commanding figure in Union county politics and has often been the means of restoring harmony whenever disruption threatened the party's ranks. Time and again he has acted as chairman at conventions. In such capacity he served when Congressman Fowler was last renominated. He has also been the chairman of county conventions. His advice has always been sought when ways and means for party success at the polls was being considered.

As chairman of the Republican city committee before leaving that office recently he restored harmony where for several years there had been confusion and even an open split in the last primary campaign.

He is a close political friend of United States Senators John F. Dryden and Kean and of United States Senator-elect Frank O. Briggs. In fact there is not a State leader of any prominence whose confidence he does not hold. He is eminently qualified to discharge the duties of Governor and should he announce himself a candidate for the office, it is needless to say that Union county would immediately fall in line behind the banners of Plainfield's model mayor.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS WHILE ON VISIT HERE.

Superintendent of Roosevelt Hospital Removed to That Institution Today.

James Roosevelt Lathrop, who was superintendent of Roosevelt Hospital, New York, for twenty-three years, and who, with Mrs. Lathrop, has been visiting his brother-in-law, John H. Harris, of East Front street, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital today following a stroke of parlysis on Tuesday. Mr. Lathrop resigned his position in New York a few days ago and intended spending a year in California. Prior to making that trip he and Mrs. Lathrop came here for a short visit. They were to have sailed today for California, but his condition was such that it was decided that he should return to Roosevelt Hospital.

Last August while spending a vacation at Saratoga he had a slight stroke of paralyis, but within a short time recovered sufficiently to return to his duties. However, the trustees of the hospital granted him a three months' leave of absence and he spent the time in Europe. He returned home during Christmas week and again took up his duties as superintendent, which he was later forced to relinquish on account of his health. During his illness here a New York specialist was in attendance.

Miss Flynn Recovering.

Miss Bertha Flynn, who was made seriously ill by the "Black Hand" letter sent her guardian, Dr. A. H. Dundon, was able to leave her bed yesterday for the first time since she heard of the threat. She has been fully reassured that she is in no danger and her complete and speedy recovery is looked for. The police are still working on the case and will make an arrest as soon as the necessary evidence can be secured. The man who has been suspected of sending the letter and who has been under surveillance has left the city. Miss Flynn is at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Fosbre, of West Sixth street.

NORTH PLAINFIELDER ON TYPHOID BATTESHIP

EDWARD KENNER AMONG THE FORTY-FIVE MEN BROUGHT HOME.

The battleship Connecticut arrived at the Brooklyn Navy Yard early yesterday morning from Guantanamo with forty-five cases of typhoid fever in the sick bay. Among them was Edward J. Kenner, of the borough, who had only returned to duty after recovering from a broken arm when stricken. His sister, Mrs. Charles Lowery, telephoned to the navy yard this morning and learned that his is one of the lightest cases and that he is in no immediate danger. He is being treated at the Naval Hospital and is listed as a seaman.

The origin of the fever outbreak is obscure but it is thought to have come from drinking water. The case started February 1 and kept appearing at the rate of two or three a day. As soon as it was apparent that the outbreak was serious the Connecticut was ordered north in the hope that change of climate and conditions would prove beneficial.

Before the ship arrived, rumors were rife that it was speeding toward Brooklyn with many dying on board and the navy yard received the greatest stirring up it has had in years. The officials were fairly smothered with messages from all over the country from anxious parents and friends. Kenner's relatives were not aware that he was among the sick until his name was published in the newspaper accounts this morning.

NANSEN'S GREAT DASH IS VIVIDLY DESCRIBED

REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE TELLS OF HIS THRILLING EXPERIENCS.

While perhaps it was not attended with that intense interest which characterized Peary's vivid description of his dash for the North Pole, it being the story of the hero himself, the illustrated lecture given at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, by Rev. Samuel D. Price, of Camden, on "Nansen's Polar Expedition" was attended by a large audience and fully enjoyed. Mr. Price had a great many views taken on the Nansen expedition, and he closely followed the explorer's story as written by himself. The fact that Nansen and his brave companions did not reach that farthest northern point, touched by Peary, his trip was nevertheless attended by perhaps as many hazardous experiences.

The views included many scenes in the polar region, showing several pictures of the famous ship, the Fram, how she was pinned in the mountains of ice and how the party spent two winters amid the hardships of the north. The views and story of Nansen's dash from the Fram to the pole was the most thrilling part of the lecture. He came within forty miles of reaching the point touched by Peary, and was then obliged to return to Franz Joseph Land, where he and his party met the Windward and came home. Mr. Price cited the fact that Nansen's expedition was different from that of Peary in that the former practically bore the entire expense of his trip, outside of providing the ship. This was furnished by the Norwegian Government. In many respects Nansen's experiences were not unlike those of Peary and in many instances there was a decided similarity. During the evening a silver offering was received.

George E. Hall, superintendent of the Sunday-school, operated the lantern. Mr. Price is the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Camden, and lately has devoted much time to the study of explorations in the polar region.

Oracle Awards at P. H. S.

The prizes for designs and stories which were offered by the Oracle, the Plainfield High School monthly publication, were awarded this morning at the chapel exercises. A prize of $5 for the best cover design went to Weston Gavett. A prize of $2 also was awarded to Weston Gavett for a department heading for athletics. DeLancey Furgeson received a prize of $3 for the best continued story which is entitled "An Understudy to a Nihlist." Honorable mention was given to Miss Cornelia Christofferson, Miss Clara Hollard, Joseph VanDeventer and Weston Gavett. The designs and story will appear in the next issue.

Married In Quebec.

Word has been received in Dunellen of the marriage of Edward Maurer, of that place, to Miss Ellena Agatha Way, of Quebec, Canada. They were wedded on February 23, at the home of Samuel F. Way, father of the bride, in Quebec. They will live in Dunellen after a Southern wedding trip.

CITY FATHERS FAIL TO COMPLY WITH LAW

Common Council Has Failed to Carry Out Provisions of Statute Ordering Publication of Expenses.

REQUIRED MONTHLY

By An Act of Legislature Passed in 1893, It Is Necessary to Publish Detailed Itemized Expenditures Every Month.

Despite the provisions of a law that has been on the statute books of New Jersey since March 28, 1893, the Common Council has continually neglected to make public monthly the amount of its expenditures in the administration of municipal affairs during the preceding month. The law is mandatory and is couched in plain language. It has never been repealed or amended in any form.

By the terms of the Act of the Legislature enacted just thirteen years ago yesterday, the Common Council of a second class city, Plainfield being in that class, is required to have published every month a detailed itemized statement of its expenditures during the preceding month. These statements must be published in a local newspaper designated by the city fathers and are required to appear in the same paper for the term of one year. Moreover, the city treasurer under the direction of that body must prepare the financial reports in question.

"One. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the common council or other governing body in cities of the second class, monthly, to publish in a newspaper printed and published in said city a detailed itemized statement of the expenditures of the public moneys by said board for the preceding month; and it shall be the duty of the treasurer of every such city to prepare the statements of such expenditures for publication.

"Two. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the common council or other governing body in said cities of the second class, at their first regular meeting held after the passage of this act, to designate a newspaper in said city to publish the said expenditures of the public moneys as herein provided for, and which newspaper so designated shall publish the same for the period of one year, at teh expiration of which year it shall be the duty of said common council or other governing body to again designate a newspaper for that purpose; and in like manner shall a newspaper be designated each succeeding year.

"Three. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

"Four. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately."

Discussing a Y. W. C. A.

The parlors of Mrs. Frederick G Mead's home, "Sunnyside," were filled yesterday afternoon with an interested group of one hundred women, who came together to hear Miss Louise Holenquist and Miss Blanche Snider, of New York, speak of Young Women's Christian Association work. The world-wide organization was outlined in a concise and pleasing way by Miss Holenquist. Miss Snider told of the investigation which had been carried on in Plainfield, and reported that more than 350 young women had signed the petition asking that an association be organized here. An informal discussion followed. The chairman was empowered to appoint a provisional committee which should further the investigation and if thought advisable to work toward the organization of an association in Plainfield.

Judge to Swear Specials.

Mayor Fisk, ill with a heavy cold, is not expected to be at his office tonight to swear in the newly-appointed special policemen. He has asked City Judge Runyon to take his place and administer the oath.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The women of the First Baptist church are planning a fair to be held Tuesday, March 26. A feature of the bazaar will be the sale of cook books containing old family recipes contributed by Piscataway and Dunellen housewives. Some of the recipes will be reduced to writing for the first time since some feminine genius compounded them generations ago in a Colonial or English kitchen. Mrs. A. G. Nelson, Miss Alice Pierce and William Piddington are compiling the book.

The Dunellen Lumber and Stone Co., which succeeds Garretson & Gray and A. A. Gray & Co., in business, started on its actual career this morning, the first of the month. The consolidation of the two firms under corporation management means a bigger and more active field for the business.

A horse belonging to Mrs. Catherine Miller died this week. The same day the horse died several of her small pigs were frozen to death. Another horse belonging to her died less than two months ago.

The bank received $7,000 in its own bills Wednesday, in $10 and $20 notes. Five-dollar bills will come later. President A. A. Gray got the first note of the new money circulated.

"I WAS AN INVALID."

"Doctors Said That I Would Die, Cooper's New Discovery Cured Me."

YOU WHO SUFFER READ THIS LETTER

The Cooper Medicine Company:

Gentlemen—I write to tell you the wonderful results that I have obtained from the use of the Cooper medicines. For five years I was an invalid suffering from a severe affection of the bowels. I was operated upon by skilled physicians five times in three years without any success and was given up to die. My weight dropped from 164 pounds to 100. I had heard so much of Cooper's New Discovery and Quick Relief but must admit I had but little faith in them. I decided however to give them a trial. The result was that in two weeks I was able to be out walking around. I continued the treatment until I was entirely well and now weigh 169 pounds. I cannot thank Mr. Cooper enough for his wonderful medicines.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Gordon and Gilbert in their latest comedy edition of the success, "Hans and Nix," claim a whirlwind of laughs from the first act to the final curtain. Nothing that might add to the production has been neglected. The principals have been chosen for their aptitude for their parts; the "show girls" and feminine chorus comprise graceful girls, attractive in face and figure, and costumed with rare skill for artistic and brilliant effects. The finals of the two acts are marvels in the way of scenic stage pictures, and nothing like them has ever been attempted before. The production will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

The story of Harry Woodruff and his wife Bessie, which forms the background of the big scenic melodrama, "A Woman of Fire," coming to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, is said to be one of the most thrilling ever presented on any stage. The story itself is full of human heart interest, as the love story of an honest man is and the trials and tribulations they are forced to endure while winning their way to the goal of happiness, are of the kind that arouse and hold the sympathy of every man, woman and child with brains enough to understand and heart enough to appreciate a great story of life in a big city. The production which P. H. Sullivan has given his exceedingly interesting drama is lavish in the extreme and without doubt is the most costly ever made for popular priced theatres. One of the most sensational scenes in the play shows a fight for life under water.

There are many amusing as well as bright things in the "Hottest Coon in Dixie Co.," which was presented yesterday at the Lyceum theatre. Its purpose, as is plainly shown, is to arouse the risibilities of the audience and in this it was superior to any of the so-called musical farces. It is a play worth seeing, for in addition to the fun-makers, the theme and its consequent laughter, it has a number of pretty musical hits that add to its attractiveness." This is the way the Toledo, O., Times speaks of "The Hottest Coon in Dixie," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night.

"His Last Dollar," which is announced for presentation at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night, is now in its fourth prosperous season. It is the story of the love of a manly man and a womanly woman, well woven with bright comedy lines and mirthful situations. While David Higgins is a notable stellar feature in the company he by no means carries the entire burden of success, for the incident of the brave Kentucky girl, Eleanor Downs, played by Miss Eleanor Montell, who has brought her dearly loved horse East to race in the Great Futurity, is woven into the general theme of this American play in a natural and skillful manner, and the truer side, as well as the better of the racing subject is in this play shown for the first time on the stage. A strong drama well set in five acts is the result of the effort of Mr. Higgins and his collaborator, Dr. Cooke, and the play promises a continued life of success and popularity. A strong company will support Mr. Higgins and Miss Montell, under the management of Messrs. Stair and Nicolai, and an elaborate scenic equipment has been provided.

PERRY TELLS RESULTS OF POLAR EXPEDITION

EXPLORER BELIEVES THAT REACHING NORTH POLE WILL BE EASY.

In his article in Harper's for March, Commander Peary, who will give a lecture in Plainfield on Monday night, gives an interesting summary of just what his expedition has accomplished and states his belief that the reaching of the Pole is now comparatively simple.

"It seems proper, also, to note that the result of the last expedition of the Peary Arctic Club has been to simplify the attainment of the Pole 50 per cent.; to accentuate the fact that man and the Eskimo dog are the only two mechanisms capable of meeting all the various contingencies of serious Arctic work, and that the American route to the Pole and the methods and equipment used remain the most practical for attaining that object.

"Had the winter of 1905-6 been a normal season in the Arctic regions, and not, as it was, a particularly open one throughout the Northern Hemisphere, there is not a member of the expedition who doubts that we would have attained the Pole. And had I known before leaving the land what actual conditions were to the northward, as I know now, I could have so modified my route and my disposition of sledges that we could have reached the Pole even in spite of the open season.

"The main results of the expedition may be summarized as follows:

"First—The attainment of the 'highest North,' leaving a distance of but 174 nautical miles yet to be conquered this side of the Pole, narrowing the unknown area between my highest and Cagni's to less than 374 nautical miles, and throwing the major remaining unknown Arctic area into the region between the Pole and Bering Strait.

"Second—The determination of the existence of a distant new land northwest of the northwestern part of Grant Land, probably an island in the westerly extension of the North American archipelago.

"Third—The distinct widening of our horizon as regards ice and other conditions in the western half of the central polar sea.

"Fourth—The traversing and delineation of the unknown gap in the coast line between Aldrich's furthest west in 1876 and Sverdrup's furthest north in 1902.

"Fifth—The determination of the unique glacial fringe and floeberg nursery of the Grant Land coast.

"Another expedition following my steps and profiting by my experience not only can attain the Pole, but can secure the other remaining principal desiderata in the central Arctic Sea, namely, a line of deep-sea soundings from the north shore of Grant Land to the Pole and the delineation of the unknown gap in the northeast coast line of Greenland from Cape Morris Jesup southward to Cape Bismarck. This work can be accomplished by an expedition absent for the same length of time as the last one, and without a greater expenditure."

Lecture on Peru Tonight.

Harriet Chalmers Adams, the South American traveler, will tell the story of her adventures in "Peru" tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The color pictures of unusual beauty which illustrate the narrative, portray all regions of this most interesting country in the New World. From the desert coast to the highlands and on down into the tropical forest, Mrs. Adams journeyed with her camera. Up to the summit of Mt. Misti, she climbed, 19,200 feet above the sea. All who are interested in travel should avail themselves of the opportunity which tonight affords. Reserved seats on sale at Hodge's drug store.

FOR COMMUNITY'S GOOD.

The idea of consolidating the Plainfield Protective Association with the Plainfield Board of Trade is without doubt an excellent one. It can be readily seen that these two forces, both of which are working for the common welfare of both city and borough, will be able to do much more effective work than by acting independently. The object of each is to advance the general interests of the community and has done much good in that direction. During its eighteen years of existence many things have been accomplished by the Board of Trade and during the brief history of the Portective Association some noteworthy achievements have been recorded. Greater things, however, may be expected should these two splendid civic bodies unite for the upbuilding of the queen city of New Jersey.

Bonci will get $180,000 for singing forty times next season, while Roosevelt receives $130,000 less for guiding the ship of State of the greatest country on earth all the year round. But when it comes to pecuniary gain neither is in it with Harriman. He appears to be able to realize a million at a moment's notice by making a deal on paper with himself.

THE FORUM.

Fault of W. C. T. U. Itself.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In order to clear up any misunderstanding that may have arisen as a result of a communication published in the forum column of The Daily Press last night, please permit space for the publication of the following copy of a letter, which I sent on Wednesday, March 26, at Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, as president of the W. C. T. U.:

"Your communication of no date, protesting against the granting of liquor licenses was received this a. m., too late to be presented to the Common Council last evening, at which time the liquor licenses were granted."

JAMES T. MAC MURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, March 1.

Bureau to Check Suicides.

New York, March 1.—Following the success of the anti-suicide bureaus in London and other European cities, the Salvation Army will today open a similar bureau at its headquarters, No. 122 West Fourteenth street, and any person who for any reason may have thoughts of self-destruction is requested to call upon or at once communicate with Colonel Thomas Holland or Mrs. Bovill at the Fourteenth street headquarters. This bureau will be kept open day and night, and absolute secrecy will be maintained concerning those who call. Special private waiting rooms have been provided and no matter how great the burden of woe may be Colonel Holland promises that a way will be found to give hope and a new grip of life, and in some cases assistance of a more practical kind. Bureaus will be established in all of the larger cities of the United States, and it is believed that the number of suicides will be greatly reduced.

The Maine's Metal in Bell.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Replying to a request, made through a resolution in Congress, the Bureau of Ordnance of the Navy Department has recommended that 2,000 pounds of the metal taken from the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor, prior to the war with Spain, be donated to the Jamestown Exposition to make a bell to be hung in the Virginia building. About three thousand pounds of metal stripped from the hulk is lying in the New York Navy Yard. It consists largely of gun mountings and other brass work and is of no particular use or value to the government.

NEW STATE TREASURER WAS SWORN IN TODAY.

Formal Transfer of Briggs' Office to Voorhees Won't Take Place Till Next Week.

Trenton, March 1.—Although the resignation of United States Senator-elect Frank O. Briggs as State treasurer took effect today, and Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morris county, was sworn in as his successor, the formal transfer of the office will not take place until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. This will be due to the fact that it will require some time to balance the books and also to the fact that there will be a complete audit of the State treasurer's office before Mr. Voorhees takes hold.

State Treasurer Briggs notified all the banks which hold State deposits to send to his office at the close of business yesterday the exact amount of State funds on hand. It is not likely that all these will reach the State house before Saturday or Monday. Following the balancing of the books the joint legislative committee on the treasurer's accounts will audit the books.

All the State securities will be examined, and the State comptroller will be asked to pass upon them. This was done, as it was stated at the State house yesterday, in order to give the retiring treasurer "a clean bill of health." As soon as this work is completed Mr. Voorhees will take charge of the office.

BROKE INTO HOSPITAL FOR QUICK TREATMENT.

Nurse Nearly Scared Into Fainting by Man's Climbing in by Way of Window.

Trenton, March 1.—George Marbaker, of Taylorsville, created much excitement in Mercer Hospital last evening by trying to break into the institution for treatment. He raised a window, and nearly caused a nurse to faint with fright. She called the head nurse, and the man by that time had got in the window.

He declared that he was nearly dead from the effects of asthma, and as he could not find the door, came in a window instead for quick treatment.

His need was so apparent that he was not arrested, but given immediate attention by the surgeons.

VETERANS' PENSIONING ACT STIRS OPPOSITION.

Objectors Declare $1,000,000 Appropriation Leaves Department Without Pay.

Trenton, March 1.—There is a protest arising over the measure of Senator Hand, Cape May, for giving to every veteran of the Civil War a State pension of $72 a year.

There are about 13,700 veterans living in the State, and to pay them the proposed annual pension would take about $1,000,000 annually.

Objectors point out that this money would only provide for the bare pensions and leave nothing for maintenance of the new department. There is much criticism heard here over Senator Hand introducing the measure.

Cow Makes Butter Record.

Fond du Lac., Wis., March 1.—In a sixty-day test just completed under the supervision of a representative of the Wisconsin experiment station a Holstein-Friesan cow, owned by W. J. Gillett, has broken the world's butter record by forty pounds. The official test shows 5,326.7 pounds of milk and 260.5 pounds of butter. The cow gave birth to a calf December 19 and the test was begun on the fifth day of her period of lactation. The test was continued sixty-four days, during which period every milking was watched, the quantity of milk weighed and samples taken and tested by a representative of the experiment station. The yield was so phenomenal that H. H. Gardiner, superintendent of the advanced registry, ordered two separate re-tests, the first for twenty-four hours and the second for forty-eight hours, during which time additional representatives were sent from the experiment station. The cow was under constant supervision day and night to preclude fraud. The best day in milk was 106 pounds, the best day in butter 5.47 pounds.

Sighted Twenty Waterspouts.

New York, March 1.—While waterspouts are by no means rare, especially in tropical waters, it is unusual to encounter so many as twenty at one time and to fall in with them so far north as the region known as "off the Banks." Such are the phenomena reported yesterday by officers of the steamship Maine, of the Atlantic Transport line, from London. According to Second Officer Nixon, a full score of these serpentine dancers of the deep waved their sinuous lengths about the path of the sober trader, some approaching so close that the swish of their watery skirts could plainly be heard.

Father Ardia Dying.

Baltimore, Md., March 1.—Rev. Joseph M. Ardia, the oldest member of the Society of Jesus in the world, is dying in Loyola College. He is in his ninety-first year, and until within the last two weeks celebrated mass daily. He was one of the confessors appointed for the upper church of St. Ignatius during the afternoons in Lent. Father Ardia was born in Naples, and came to this country about sixty years ago, and for many years he was stationed at old St. Joseph's church, in Philadelphia.

He had been in failing health for several months.

Coastwise Trolley.

Atlantic City, March 1.—A trolley line to link the resorts of the entire Jersey coast is contemplated, along with the opening of the electric service between this city and Ocean City by way of Somers Point. Financial men believe that the plan to furnish a long coastwise trip will pay both in traffic and in booming of the several resorts.

WALKS WITH CRUSHED HEAD.

Perth Amboy Man Alive, Although Part of Brain is Gone.

Perth Amboy, March 1.—With his skull fractured and the front of his head crushed by being hit by an elevator at the United Lead Company's works yesterday morning, Christian Anderson walked down four flights of stairs and sat in the office, awaiting the arrival of the ambulance, into which he stepped without help.

He was taken to the City Hospital, where it was found that an iron rod had broken through his skull and pierced the brain. Dr. W. E. Ramsay performed an operation at once, removing four inches of bone and some of the brain tissue.

The man has a slight chance of recovery. In speaking of the accident, Dr. Ramsay says it was the most remarkable exhibition of vitality he had ever seen. He declared the wounds Anderson received were sufficient to kill an ordinary man instantly. Anderson was painting when he was struck and had reached into the elevator shaft, not noticing the car descending.

Fever Ship In; Cases Mild.

New York, March 1.—From the battleship Connecticut, Captain William Swift, which arrived at the New York Navy Yard yesterday, thirty-three typhoid patients were removed to the Naval Hospital. Dressed in white, the men were conveyed in ambulances, waiting at the dock, to the hospital, under the supervision of Dr. Floyd Curtis, of the ship's surgical department, and G. E. H. Harmon, medical director of the hospital. It was later reported that the entire thirty-three cases are mild. It is certain that none is seriously ill or has been in any immediate danger since the epidemic started, a month ago, while the ship was near Guantanamo, Cuba. There are eight hundred and seventy-eight sailors aboard the Connecticut, and the spectacle of the combined ship's crew, lined abreast with heads bared, as a mark of sympathy, was impressive.

No Date On Canned Goods.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—In conference between the House and Senate yesterday the Senate amendment to the meat inspection provisions of the Agricultural bill providing for placing the date of inspection on all canned goods was discarded. Senator Beveridge obtained the insertion of this amendment, declaring that it was needed to perfect the law and show the consumer just how old was the article sold. The House conferees yesterday refused to accept it and the Senate conferrees receded, leaving the meat inspection provision exactly as in the bill last year.

SHOULDER BRACES

For Men, Women, Boys and Girls.

Stooping Shoulders is one of the growing tendencies of the age. It's a great pity, especially to see children getting into the stooping shoulder habit, for, like other habits, it may become fixed and lasting, if not corrected in time.

Now is the time to brace up, and the best bracer is a pair of our Shoulder Braces, which we are selling for 75c and $1.00.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL.

Women of Various Churches Meet to Talk Over Missions.

Over 100 women attended the annual interdenominational missionary meeting at the Congregational church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Curtis Bates presided, and offered the opening prayer.

Three-minute talks were delivered by representatives of different churches. Mrs. Wardner, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, spoke on "The Public Schools;" Mrs. Kennant, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, on "Cry of the City;" Mrs. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, on "Immigration;" Mrs. Bodine, of the First Presbyterian church, on "Stumbling Blocks;" Miss Noal, of the First Presbyterian church, on "Sabbath Keeping;" Miss Wilson, of Trinity church, on "Mountaineers of the South;" Mrs. Knox, of the First Baptist church, on "Mormonism;" Mrs. Pierson, of the Crescent Avenue church, on "Alaska;" Mrs. Feickert, of Grace P. E. church, on "The Philippines."

Mrs. John M. Whiton, of the Congregational church, gave a brief talk on the missionary outlook. Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich offered the closing prayer.

B. and O. Train Wreck.

Connellsville, Pa., March 1.—Baltimore and Ohio train No. 49, west bound, running eighteen minutes late and at a speed of forty miles an hour, was wrecked last night near Indian Creek, seven miles east of here. The entire train, consisting of a combination, smoking and baggage car, two passenger cars and the private car of Robert J. Finney, superintendent of the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, left the rails and after running for two hundred feet along the ties was thrown into a ditch at the foot of the mountain, where the wreckage was completely burned. The engine driver was killed, the fireman fatally injured, and the baggagemaster, express messenger, conductor and six passengers were seriously injured. About thirty passengers were more or less cut and bruised. Wylie Irwin, of Pittsburg, the engine driver, was caught under the wrecked engine and burned to death before the eyes of the passengers, who were powerless to liberate him.

Kills Four for Revenge.

Bloomington, Ill., March 1.—Maddened by exposure of his attack on his niece, Cora Eiseman, aged fourteen years, Thomas Baldwin, a wealthy business man of Colfax, yesterday shot dead the girl, her mother and Charles Kennedy and wife, who had testified againt him. Baldwin, who is sixty-nine and had hertofore led an exemplary life, was indicted by the last Grand Jury on the charge of assault. Mr. and Mrs. Eiseman and the Kennedys were before the Grand Jury. Baldwin came into court last week and gave bonds in $2,000 for appearance when his case was called for trial. Yesterday morning he evidently determined vengeance on everybody connected with his prosecution. He drove from Colfax to Arrowsmith in a buggy and went to the home of the Kennedys, expecting to find the Eiseman girl there. As she was not there he blew out the brains of the Kennedys. He then went to the Eiseman home, where he killed his girl victim and her mother.

Dream Caused Death.

Meriden, Conn., March 1.—That Matthew Wareck, thirty years old, an operator in a local mill, was frightened to death yesterday is the belief of his fellow employes. Many of the mill hands have been injured by machinery lately, and Wednesday morning Wareck said he had received warning in his sleep of impending danger. His agitation was aggravated when a fellow workman's hand was severed from the arm by a machine. In the afternoon a pile of cotton beside Wareck became ignited, and when he saw the flames he shrieked and fell to the floor. The fire was soon extinguished and Wareck was found dead.

Old American Mason Dead.

Claremont, N. H., March 1.—William Welch, believed to be the oldest citizen of New Hampshire, the oldest member of the Grand Army of the Republican and the oldest Mason in the United States, died yesterday at the home of his son in East Lempster. He was 106 years old on March 29.

RAMLEH

TURKISH CIGARETTES

Most smokers prefer mildness in fine cigarettes, if it can be secured without sacrificing the tasty flavor and delicious fragrance of Turkish Tobacco.

That's why you like the mildness of mild cigarettes and the flavor of strong cigarettes—but you seldom find both in one cigarette.

It is because RAMLEH Cigarettes are "tasty" without being heavy and smooth without being too mild, that they suit the taste of smokers of all classes.

You'll probably find RAMLEH the very cigarette you've been looking for. Why not try them to-day?

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Jolly Twenty-four Social Club will hold a dance in the Camera Club rooms tonight.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chappel have moved from West End avenue to Green brook road.

—Mrs. Matthew H. Ewart, of Fairview avenue, gave a sleighing party Wednesday afternoon for the children residing on her street.

—Rev. Samuel D. Price, who has been visiting in town for a couple of days, returned to his home in Camden, today. Last night he gave an illustrated lecture at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

—George N. Benbrook, of Somerville, an amateur photographer, has an exceptionally fine picture of the old Somerset County Court House, which has been demolished. Mr. Benbrook has a reputation throughout this section as a landscape photographer.

—As soon as settled weather arrives Mayor N. B. Smalley expects to again take up the work of improving West End avenue. Everything is now in readiness for the macadamizing of that thoroughfare and grading the land on either side preparatory to building houses.

LEAL'S '09 LOST.

Y. M. C. A. Boys' Five Win Fast Game; Heavyweights in Line.

With two heavyweights in the lines, the Y. M. C. A. boys' five and the Leal's '09 five played a fast game yesterday afternoon. Y. M. C. A. won for the third time, 28 to 22.

The heavyweights were Brown, of Leal's, and Physical Director Listman. Brown is a beefy youth and weighs more than the Physical Director. He is a '09 lad, right enough, but he is a member of the " 'varsity" five, and it was agreed that the director go into the game to balance matters. They opposed each other at center, and played the star games for their sides. Mr. Listman got a shade the better of the meeting; he made eight goals, two more than Brown.

The line-up and summary:

Leal's.	Y. M. C. A.
Gluck	Conroy
Lawrence	Manley, Robbins forward
Brown	Listman
Campbell	R. Miller
Duke	Vail, Richardson

Goals from field, Conroy 6, Listman 8, Gluck 1, Brown 6, Campbell 4.

POLISHERS INVADE PLAINFIELD TOMORROW.

Will Clash With Pond Tool Works Bowling Team at Saengerbund Hall.

Factory Inspector Neil A. McCarthy, accompanied by the Polishers' bowling team of the Singer League, of Elizabeth, will invade Plainfield tomorrow afternoon and clash with a team from the Pond Tool Works, of this city, which is headed by Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell.

The Polishers' team is at present leading the Singer League in the race for the emblem donated by the Journay and are bowling at a fast clip.

McCarthy informed McCardell not to confine himself to the Pond Tool Works when picking his team, but to gather the best material he could from the four corners of the earth as he intends to "hang it on" Plainfield in every game and does not want to hear any after regrets expressed about taking an unfair advantage of his colleague.

Andy simply smiled and said, "I guess Neil forgets what I did to his baseball team last summer and also that Plainfield never loses either in politics or athletic games."

A large crowd of Elizabeth "rooters" are going to attend the games, which will begin at 3 o'clock on the Saengerbund Hall alleys. A feature of the game will be that the pin boys will be required to produce working papers to prove they are over the legal age required in the child-labor law.

The return game will be rolled in Elizabeth Saturday, March 9.

BOYS' DUAL MEETS.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors To Compete Against Elizabeth and Summit.

The Y. M. C. A. boys are to have a round of dual athletic meets, as well as their elders. Arrangements have been all but completed for meetings with teams from the Elizabeth and the Summit associations.

The meet with Elizabeth will be held at the county seat, March 9. The Summit boys will come here, on March 16. The events in the first meet are to be running high jump, standing broad jump, potato relay race, high dive and 15-yard dash.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Physical Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. passed a rule, last night, granting the association emblem to all members who win first place in events in two or more dual meets.

The Y. M. C. A. has received two new mats and a new springboard. A new picket was put in the gymnasium fence yesterday.

BASKETBALL.

The Eagles were awarded a game by forfeit against the Storks in the Bible class basketball league yesterday afternoon. The Storks couldn't get their team together.

Y. M. C. A. Competition.

The running high kick and the potato race were run off in the Y. M. C. A. all-around championship competition last night. Collier won the kick, touching at 7 feet 6½ inches. Lueder was second, kicking 7 feet 6 inches. Viebrock, Templin and Douglass were tied in the race, time, 1:46 4-5; distance, ¼ mile. Burgess leads the competitors, 732; Banks is second, 721; Douglass third, 623.

Date of Meet Changed.

It has been decided to hold the dual meet between the Plainfield and Elizabeth Y. M. C. A.'s on March 7, instead of March 8, in this city. The events will be running high jump, standing broad jump, three standing broad jumps, potato race and shot put.

GUS HILL PAYS $16 TO SEE HIS OWN SHOW.

It Was All a Joke But He Vows He'll Get Square.

Despite the fact that he is the owner of a dozen shows and one of the biggest managerial stars in the theatrical firmament, it cost Gus Hill $16 to see his own company in "Happy Hooligan," yesterday. It was all the result of a joke put up by the New Plainfield theatre attaches.

"Happy Hooligan" was given at the local playhouse, yesterday, as the annual benefit to Treasurer Sam Cunningham and Hill came out from New York to see that everything passed off smotohly. He believes in "helping a good thing along." He brought three friends with him and bought $4 worth of box seats for the matinee. After the first act was over he and his party went outside to "get a breath of fresh air" (that's a new way of expressing it) and never thought of taking door-checks. The lynx-eyed Sam and Manager Counihan noticed the fact and gave the door-keeper his instructions.

When Hill and his friends came back they were asked for checks and when they couldn't produce them they were refused admittance. Gus argued for a moment or so but all to no purpose and as a last resort he had to pay another $4 to get back. Last night the party appeared at the theatre again and for another time they were held up for tickets. The owner of the show realized it was up to him and again he handed out real money to see a performance he knew by heart. During one of the intermissions the desire for "fresh air" came back to the quartette and they sallied out, taking the trouble to ask for checks but the man at the door waved them away and remarked that it would be all right.

When they returned, another employe was taking tickets and he absolutely refused to recognize Hill or his remonstrance that he had been inside. Gus vowed he wouldn't pay again and slipped around to the stage door but everyone was posted there and he was "shooed" away as though he had been a pestiferous Johnny. There was no help for it and he had to come back and produce $4 for the fourth time. He went back to New York last night vowing he would get even with Counihan, Cunningham and all the rest of the New Plainfield theatre bunch if it took him ten years.

Large audiences were present at both performances of the show and the result was in every way gratifying to "Uncle" Sam. The performance was as pleasing as ever and Joe Sullivan made another big hit in the comedy role.

Cat Walks Fifty Miles.

Waterbury, Conn., March 1.—"That cat has run away and I want my money back," "Jim" Roose, of New Hartford, wrote on a postal card to his friend, Ashley Stevens, of Mount Carmel, near Hamden. The rural postman delivering the missive met a weary looking cat. The animal had walked nearly fifty miles in the snow. It had returned home by way of Prospect and Cheshire, almost as direct as a bird flies.

Charles J. Ward, of Clinton avenue, who is commissioner of highways and electric lights for Piscataway township, is the father of a boy born yesterday.

REASON FOR INCREASE IN STATE SCHOOL TAX

GROWS WITH VALUES; LOCAL SCHOOL FUNDS MATTER OF CONJECTURE.

A letter regarding school taxes has been received by County Collector N. R. Leavitt from State Comptroller J. W. Morgan. It shows that the figures in the school budget this year will present a radically different appearance from what they did last year, as exclusively told some days ago in The Daily Press. Each year the State Comptroller writes to the Collector of each county school tax. This year it is $292,213.45 for Union county. By an act of the Legislature twenty-fice per cent. of this is appropriated out of the State fund, so that Union county must actually raise $219,160.09 for the support of the schools, which is payable to the State Comptroller on or before January 20, 1908. The system is such that when this money is paid to the State the greater part of it is immediately returned to the respective counties.

A year ago this county had to raise only about $98,000. The reason that the figures have doubled is the large increase in valuations, since. Two and three-quarter mills on each $100 of valuation must, according to the school law, be appropriated for the support of the schools. The rate always remains the same, but in the past year valuations in this county have jumped from $55,260,709 to $106,259,437, which explains why the amount to be raised for the schools is more than doubled.

The final appearance of Plainfield's school money receipts for this year will not be known positively until July, when the apportionment of the State money is made. Until that apportionment everything in the way of a statement as to school taxes or school funds here must be the veriest guesswork. Last year the amount received by Plainfield from the State was $27,814.

ARMY SURGEON'S THRILLING ACCOUNT OF BOXER UPRISING.

Dr. Harold Corbusier Lectures for the Benefit of Grace Church Colored Mission.

Dr. Harold Corbusier, of Watchung avenue, who served as a surgeon in the U. S. Army during its campaign in the Philippines and during the Boxer uprising in China, gave his illustrated lecture in the parish house of Grace church, last night, for the benefit of the colored mission. The room was filled with persons interested in the achievements of the army in China, when Uncle Sam's soldiers were the first to scale the high walls at Pekin.

The speaker told of Dr. Titus, a trumpeter of the 15th Infantry, who was the first man to reach the top of the wall and place thereon an American flag. He also described the successful efforts of the various troops in quelling the Boxer troubles. He told of the part taken in this campaign by the troops from other nations, not forgetting to give due praise to the American soldiers.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services will be held in Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock.

Chaplain Fithian, U. S. N., will be the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon. Miss Grace Carroll will sing.

Mrs. William Brown, of Washington, who has an extended reputation throughout the country as an evangelist, will commence a series of special services at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church Sunday morning. They will continue for two weeks under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Ashley. Mrs. Brown has conducted successfully special meetings in New York, Boston, Orange and in many other large cities.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and have a programme of special interest.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met last night and after transacting routine business, decided to hold a banquet for the members on Thursday night, March 14. There will also be an informal musical. Regent W. R. Townsend is the chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A Dog Habit.

Have you ever thought why it is that a dog turns around and around when he jumps upon the cushion or starts to settle himself anywhere for a nap? Now that you are reminded you can recall that you have seen a dog do it many times, can't you? This habit is about all that is left to our tame little doggies of the days long ago, when they were a race of wild animals and lived in the woods. Their beds then were matted grass and leaves, and it was to trample enough grass and properly arrange the leaves that the dog always trod around a narrow circle before he would lie down. The dog of today keeps up the same old habit, although there is no longer any need for it, and of course the animal has no notion why he does it.

THE MALE OPERA HAT.

Why It Rises Superior to Any Passing Fashion Dictates.

Men generally protest against the changes of style in hats, and one of the sex has written to the New York Mail this complaint:

Why attack as a "collapsible, many named pretender" the opera hat, or chapeau de claque?

I have such a hat and also a silk hat, in which respect I think I differ from most Gothamites. Whenever I have an option I wear the opera rather than the other. It's more convenient.

At the theatre or opera you can carry it better on your between the acts promenades. If there is no rack for your hat under the seat you can tuck it in your overcoat and put it on the floor under you without destroying it, as you would do with a silk hat.

If you put your hat in the rack under your seat and then rise and stand close to it to permit a late comer to pass an opera hat suffers no damage. A silk hat would be either ruffled or crushed.

The opera hat looks as well at all times as the silk hat and requires much less care. Indeed, I think it looks better. The glossy surface of a silk hat, like the glossy bosom of a stiff white shirt, is an uncomfortable survival of the time when men wore polished helmets and breastplates.

There is so much reason in the opera hat that men of discrimination will continue to wear it, the style of the moment regardless.

Food for Babies.

"Do not at any time force or urge milk or solid food upon the child; if he should refuse part or the whole of a feeding, let that meal go and do not give any food until the next feeding hour comes," says Marianna Wheeler, the famous baby expert of Harper's Bazar. "For the first twenty-four hours after birth very little food is necessary; feed the infant about once in five hours. If it is possible, the baby should be nursed by the mother, as the nourishment it receives from her contains certain ingredients which are necessary to cleanse the stomach and intestinal tract of the newly born, as well as to stimulate the digestive juices to activity. If for some good reason it is not possible for the mother to nurse her child, give as a substitute a litlte boiled water slightly sweetened or thin gruel dextrinzed. After the first thirty-six hours milk can be given in a dilute form. Cow's milk can be diluted, plain, or in the form of top milk. The diluent should be thin gruel or boiled water."

Willett and Britton Get Two.

Only one series of games was rolled in the bowling tourney at McLaughlin's alleys, last night, the contestants being Willett and Britton and W. and J. Schaub. The former won two out of three, both by good leads. As the contest stands at present, Kiely and Runyon have a good chance of winning. They have won twenty-one games and lost nine, while the leaders, Gaddis and Dilks, have won twenty-four and lost nine.

SILVER JUBILEE PLANS

Bp. McFaul and Mgrs. O'Grady and Brady to Take Part in St. Joseph's Celebration.

ON SUNDAY, APRIL 17

Bhief History of a Prosperous Parish Whose Original Edifice Was a Barn.

St. Joseph's parish will celebrate its silver jubilee on Sunday, April 7. The rector, Rev. William H. Miller, is now engaged in preparing the programme for the occasion which will be an auspicious one. Bishop McFaul, the head of the Trenton Diocese; Monsignor O'Grady, together with several other noted prelates of the church will be present. An announcement of special interest is that Monsignor Brady, of South Amboy, who said the first mass at St. Joseph's church, will be at the anniversary and will celebrate the mass.

The beginning of the borough parish occurred when a few Catholics first gathered at the Verdon homestead on upper Somerset street, and then made arrangements to meet in the barn on that property. New Jersey was then under the supervision of Archbishop Hughes, of New York, this State not having been divided into separate dioceses. Finally, the congregation grew so rapidly that after two months time it was found necessary to secure a hall near the centre of the town. In the meantime, Mr. Verdon was appointted as a committee of one to visit Archbishop Hughes and secure the services of a priest for the congregation. He assured Mr. Verdon that he would send one to Plainfield at the first opportunity, and Father James McDonough was sent in 1851. The congregation was then meeting in what is now known as T. A. B. Hall. Before the institution of the latter church the Catholics of Plainfield and North Plainfield met at T. A. B. Hall. In 1881 the State was divided into two dioceses, one being called the Newark Diocese and the other the Trenton Diocese, and North Plainfield was in the latter. Bishop O'Farrell consecrated St. Joseph's church, and Father John Brady, now Monsignor Brady, said the first mass in the edifice on Palm Sunday, April, 1882, but he only remained two Sundays, when Father Thomas O'Hanlon succeeded him. He remained six years and through earnest effort succeeded in building the present edifice in 1883 and the congregation has continued to worship there ever since. As the parish now numbers about 1,000 communicants, the church is far too small for worship. Within the next two years it is expected that a larger and most imposing edifice will be built.

Father Nicholas Freeman succeeded Father O'Hanlon, and he remained two years, as did also Father James McKernan, who succeeded him. The present pastor, Rev. William H. Miller took charge on April 17, 1893, and during that time has performed a noble work. Under his direction the parish has grown steadily and rapidly. The fact that Mt. St. Mary's College, now in course of construction, and which will be dedicated by Bishop McFaul in May, is located in North Plainfield, lends especial interest to the work of St. Joseph's church.

The college is being built on the picture land, given by David T. Kenney, of the borough, in memory of his mother, and the structure will be one of the finest of the kind in the State. In connection with the anniversary of the church there will be special music.

Special Musical Service.

The combined choirs of the First M. E. church and the Westfield Presbyterian church will give, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, the cantata, "Faith and Praise," by John A. West, at the First M. E. church, tomorrow night. The soloists will be Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis, soprano; Miss Suzanne Zimmerman, contralto; H. P. Annen, tenor; Carlos C. Gallup, bass; Frederick Kreidler, baritone. Mrs. Harry N. Taylor will preside at the organ. The programme will also include the festival anthem, "King All Glorius," by Barnby, and a soprano solo, "Save Me O God," Randagger.

Missionary Society Elects.

The election of officers in the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church took place yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting held at the residence of Charles E. Rocap, of West Front street. It resulted as follows: President, Mrs. J. B. Probasco; vice-presidents, Miss May S. Shreve, Miss Ada E. Fountain; secretary, Miss Helen Robins; treasurer, Mrs. John P. Reynolds.

Miss Lillie Felmley, of this city, has been visiting Miss Nellie Seals, of Califon.

DISLOCATED ANKLE RESET BY ACCIDENT

LUCK FAVORS A PLUMBER IN TUMBLE FROM A TALL LADDER.

Accident reset a dislocated ankle bine for Percival A. McVoy, of the plumbing firm of I. L. McVoy & Sons, East Front street, yesterday afternoon, after he had tumbled from the top of a ladder reaching to a porch roof. He escaped serious injury narrowly.

Mr. McVoy was at work on a house on East Front street, almost opposite his father's home near Water street. He was standing on the top rung of his ladder, when it slipped on the icy walk and fell. Mr. McVoy's left leg went between two of the rungs as he toppled back, the circumstance saved him from striking his head; the ladder jerked him into a upright position and he struck on his feet.

When he looked down at his left leg, his foot was sticking out to one side like a bent stick. He raised himself on his right leg and pulled the other one from between the rungs. As he did so the twisted foot struck against one of the rungs, and the bent ankle bone snapped back into place.

Mr. McVoy's two helpers, Frank Emmons and Monroe Terry, put him in their wagon and took him to his father's home, where a doctor attended him. He will be confined to the house for several weeks, the ligaments of the ankle having been strained severely.

P. P. A. OFFERS TO AID THE BOROUGH COUNCIL

WILL CO-OPERATE IN EFFORT TO GET BETTER LIGHTING SERVICE.

Aside from the sewer committee's report, the Borough Council transacted nothing but routine business at the regular monthly meeting last night.

The Greenbrook Improvement Association presented a communication protesting against the emptying of any sewage matter in the Plainfield disposal beds that might have a tendency to pollute Green brook. A similar communication was read at the meeting of the City Council last week. The matter was referred to the sewer commission. Another communication was received from the Plainfield Protective Association, referring to its investigation of local electric light and gas conditions and offering to aid the borough in any effort to better them. It was referred to the committee on fire, water and lights.

Mrs. Sarah McNabb asked permission to erect a frame dwelling on Westervelt avenue in the fire limits and same was granted. Recorder Dolliver reported eleven arrests during February and $21 in fines collected. Charles Keller was appointed a regular marshal on one month's probation.

Councilman Smith reported that the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is now furnishing the power for the fire alarm system and that it is working successfully. He also announced that he had received a bill from the company amounting to $137.50 for repairing the various circuits but that the work was not done to his satisfaction and he had decided to defer payment. The mayor approved of his action. In response to a question he stated that the fire alarm system as a whole is in good order but that the bell tower needs repairing. A new platform is to be erected at the top as soon as the weather moderates. In connection with fire matters Mr. Smith informed the Council that H. B. Dunham, a call man in the department, had submitted the regular semi-annual bill of $12:50 for services, but that as he had failed to attend seventy-five per cent. of the fires he had reduced it to $2.50.

On a resolution offered by Mr. McGee $500 was ordered borrowed to meet payment of bills.

Little Fire.

Paper stuffed into a chimney hole in the cellar of the house at 461 West Sixth street, owned by Mrs. Mary Hines, of Liberty street, caught fire from burning soot at 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the flames spread to a wooden partition beside the chimney. The family discovered the blaze almost as soon as it began, and the firemen, summoned from box 34, extinguished it with chemicals. The damage was trifling.

—Dr. Ralph M. Crane, osteopath, of 220 Central Park South, New York city, will visit Plainfield Tuesdays and Saturdays. Those desiring appointments for consultation and osteopathy treatment, address, care of Rev. A. C. Nickerson, 768 Kensington avenue. 3 2 tf s m ***

FOR TUBERCULOSIS CAMP

Plans of Organization Formed Last Night With Mayor as Its Head.

BY-LAWS ARE ADOPTED

Brief History of a Prosperous Parfor the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis.

The tuberculosis committee of the Plainfield Clinical Society, under whose auspices the State exhibit for the care and treatment of that disease is to be held next week, met in Mayor C. J. Fisk's office, last night, and in addition to deciding to form a permanent local organization, announced as its purpose the establishment of a tuberculosis camp in Plainfield, where it is hoped to further the interest of outdoor treatment for persons afflicted with this disease. The new organization will be known as the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis.

In forming a permanent organization these officers were elected: President, Charles J. Fisk; first vice president, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges; second vice president, Joseph O. Osgood; secretary and treasurer, Leon R. Thurlow.

The bylaws adopted provide that the society shall be composed of persons who live in Plainfield, North Plainfield and vicinity who are interested in the prevention and relief of tuberculosis. The annual dues shall be $1 a year. The officers of the society shall be president, two vice presidents, a secretary and treasurer to be elected annually. The annual meeting of the society is to be held in the month of March and other meetings may be called by the president at any time. Seven members shall constitute a quorum.

The State tuberculosis exhibit will open on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and there will be a nurse in charge who will explain to all who attend the meaning of the models, pictures, etc. The exhibit will be open every afternoon and evening during the week, ending Sunday, March 10, at the Stirling building, 210 Park avenue.

REV. A. P. TULP TO BECOME PASTOR OF NEWARK CHURCH.

Accepts a Call Extended Him by the New York Avenue Reformed Congregation.

Rev. A. Peter Tulp, who filled the pulpit of Marconnier chapel for some time and who has frequently preached in Trinity Reformed church, has accepted a call extended to him by the New York Avenue Reformed church, of Newark. He is at present the pastor of the First Reformed church of Hasbrouck Heights, where he has been doing a splendid work. When he assumed charge of the congregation three years ago the membership was forty bpt it is now 150 and there is a Sunday-school with an average attendance of 200.

Mr. Tulp is but twenty-seven years old and he has had wonderful success in his work among young people. He received his early education in New York but was graduated from Rutgers Theological Seminary in 1904. While pursuing his studies he preached Sundays at Marconnier chapel and relieved Rev. Dr. Schenck at Trinity church on numerous occasions. He was ordained as the pastor of the Hasbrouck Heights church on June 3, 1904.

TEACHERS GOING TO TRENTON.

Will Urge Passage of Act Giving Them Tenure of Office.

Principal Ira Travell, of the Plainfield High School, will be among the large number of instructors in public schools throughout the State who will go to Trenton on Monday to attend a hearing on Assembly bill No. 76, which provides for tenure of office for teachers.

As president of the Principals' Association, William S. Sweeney, of Jersey City, has sent a circular letter throughout the State, in which he asked that the principals see their Assemblymen and Senators, with a view of having the interests of superintendents and principals also conserved in every tenure of office act presented.

Annual Meeting Baptist Church.

The annual business meeting of the Park Avenue Bautist church will be held in the lecture room on Wednesday night, March 27, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing four deacons, each for the term of two years, to succeed Deacons William M. Tallman, Isaac R. Giles, Thomas H. Cuming and Charles F. Dayton, all of whose term of office will then expire; and for the election of a church clerk for the term of one year to succeed Harry C. Runyon and for the election of a treasurer of teh benevolent fund, for the term of one year, to succeed E. Frank Vail.

LEADERS FAVOR MR. FISK

Senator Ackerman and Others Say Mayor Would Make Ideal Governor.

"SILENT" SMITH'S VIEWS

E. T. Barrows, Andrew McCardell and George Tobin Declare Plainfielder Would Be Excellent Choice.

State Senator Ackerman and many other prominent Republicans today went on record as favorable to the nomination of Mayor Charles J. Fisk for Governor. The Senator declared that should he allow his name to be used, he would pledge his support in the effort to secure the nomination for the Mayor.

State Senator Ackerman said today: "Mayor Charles J. Fisk is a fine type of a public-spirited citizen who would make an excellent Governor of New Jersey. He is a man of ideas and energy who is always ready to give his time and talents to the work of the people. His long, continued and unselfish labor on behalf of Muhlenberg Hospital will illustrate the character of the man. Mr. Fisk is able and very diplomatic; a business man and financier; conservative and progressive; thoroughly in accord with the ideals and ambitions of the people.

"If Mayor Fisk becomes a candidate I shall heartily support him because I believe he would make a worthy and admirable Governor."

County Chairman Frank H. Smith told a Daily Press man today that he considered Mr. Fisk eminently qualified for the Gubernatorial position and that should he become a candidate Plainfield's delegates to the convention would undoubtedly be for him. Furthermore he stated that in his opinion Union county would lend its support.

"It is a little early to be talking about candidates," said "Silent" Smith. "The Republican party naturally always picks the strongest man it can find for that office and it is a question whom the people will agree is the best man to make the fight. It is going to be a hard fight and the best man will be picked to be the standard bearer. No man could say anything against Mr. Fisk when it comes to connecting his name with the Gubernatorial nomination. He is clean-cut, honest, efficient and possesses extraordinary executive ability. I agree fully with what Senator Ackerman has said about Mr. Fisk's fitness for the office. Personally I would be favorable to Mr. Fisk, but I do not believe that a county chairman should take any sides in such a matter, especially when more than one excellent man in Union county is mentioned for the honor."

"He would be a crack-a-jack," was the way Andrew McCardell expressed himself, when he was asked what he thought of Mr. Fisk as the next Governor. "If he could be prevailed upon to stand for the nomination I believe he would make the strongest run of any candidate that could be selected."

Former Councilman Elliott T. Barrows was asked for his opinion as to the candidacy of Mr. Fisk for Governor, and he declared, "I want to tell you that that is no joke. Mr. Fisk is in every way qualified for the high position. They speak about Senator Frelinghuysen as a possibility. He was the man who stood by Senator Dryden, when he was opposed by a majority of the people of State and who was distasteful to them. I think Mr. Fisk would be an ideal candidate."

"He would be a fine Governor," said George J. Tobin. "He stands well with the leaders and would be an ideal choice."

Buys Deserted Village.

Arthur Brisbane has bought the deserted village of Allaire, N. J., from the Allaire Water Supply and Land Company. The place takes in some 600 acres, and Mr. Brisbane is understood to have paid $125,000 for it.

Game Warden Dead.

Charles M. Hawkins, State deputy game and fish warden, died this morning at his home in Elizabeth, from Bright's disease. Mr. Hawkins held the position of game and fish warden for eight years.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Gerda Ohgren, of Hillside avenue, and Hogan Hansen, of Duer street, is announced. No date is set for the wedding.

Thomas Buckley, of Orchard place, is at Sprinfield, Ill., erecting several three-deck presses for the the Potter Printing Press Works.

—Charles H. Hand has sold to Robert L. Heck, a New York broker, the home of Robert A. Meeker, 535 Belvidere avenue. Mr. Heck and family will get possession May 1. Mr. Meeker will build a smaller house for himself on the lot adjoining, corner of East Seventh street.

SHIFTS IN POLICE DEPT.

Detective-Sergeant Flynn and Sergeant Overbaugh Taken Off the Street.

CHANGE IN THE BEATS

Two Night Patrolmen Put On Day Duty—McCarthy Acting As Roundsman.

There was a general shift in the police details last night, when two of the new men, Richard Overland and Cornelius McCarthy, went on duty. Overland and McCarthy were sent into the West End, and practically all the other men were assigned to new posts.

Sergeant Overbarugh and Detec- from sidewalk pounding, and Rounds- from sidewalk ponding, and Roundsman Higgins was relieved from the old round of patrol duty. Patrolman George Dobson was put on Higgins' post in the East End this morning, for day service, and Patrolman Theodore Martin was assigned to Overbaugh's beat in the center of town in the day shift. Patrolman Charles Flynn remains on duty during the day, at the depot, and Patrolman Kelly continues in the West End.

The details of the assignments to fall to the newly-promoted officers had not been arranged this morning. Captain Frederickson was on his old job at the desk last night, and this morning Detective-Sergeant Flynn was hanging around with a sleuth-like air, but no definite idea of the round of duties to be laid out for him. He is envied by the rest of the promoted ones, because he will not have to buy any new uniform. A detective-sergeant doesn' t use uniforms, and saves some money and lots of bother in dress. Sergenat Overbaugh had a day off, and Roundsman Higgins was trying to get used to the fact that he was no longer expected to chase small boys from East End corners.

Frank Sweeney, the only one of the four new cops unassigned, will go on duty tonight. He and a big batch of specials were sworn in by Judge Runyon at the mayor's office last night. Tobias Nolan, the first of the new cops to go on duty, who started on Wednesday, is covering a night post in the Netherwood district.

All the rest of the policemen are wondering what assignment will fall to Plain-Clothes Man Florence McCarthy. McCarthy might be continued as fly cop, but it is pretty certain that he will not be. He was acting-roundsman last night, but that is a purely temporary job. It is believed that some niche of a character that will save his face, so to say, will be found for him. He is not without friends in high places. He has a trade and could get work at it without any trouble, but it is not believed he will resign, although his retirement from the force would not surprise anyone.

PRINCIPAL MESKILL TO ANSWER CHARGE TODAY.

Will Appear Before Justice VonMinden This Afternoon and Date for Hearing Will Be Set.

Constable Robert L. Pierce, of Dunellen, today served a summons on Principal Frank Meskill, of the South Plainfield school, to appear before Justice R. P. F. VonMinden this afternoon at 4 o'clock and answer the charge of assault preferred against him by Michael Saverd, the pupil he is accused of hitting with a hand-bell. After Meskill answers the complaint, a date for a hearing will be set. The case is the outcome of the struggle at the school Wednesday afternoon, as told exclusively in The Daily Press.

At the same time Meskill pleads, Constable Pierce will appear as complainant against Preston LaBau, who lives on Clinton avenue just over the city. He has preferred a charge of assault against him and also interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Pierce alleges in his complaint that he went to the LaBau home on February 28 to serve a summons on Nelson LaBau and that Preston sprang at him, struck him and called him vile names. He preferred the charge against him before Justice VonMinden and a warrant was served today by Constable C. W. Blaine, of Dunellen.

Colored Fireman a Composer.

Daniel Epps, colored, a fireman at the local electric light station of the Public Service Corporation, is the author and composer of a song, "The Undying Germ of Divorce," published by the Success Music Company, of Chicago. It is writen in waltz time and has literary and musical merit. Mr. Epps is a musician of no mean ability and has a large number of compositions to his credit but this is the first that has been given publication by an established house.

VAN AND CAR COME TOGETHER; HORSE DIES

P. S. C. OFFICIAL SAY DRIVER, ASLEEP, DROVE INTO CONVEYANCE.

A van owned by George Conover & Son, Jackson avenue, and an eastbound main line trolley car came together at Richmond and East Fourth streets at 12:25 o'clock this morning, and one of the van horses lost its life in consequence. According to a statement of the accident given out at the P. S. C. trolley office on Watchung avenue this morning, the driver of the van, John Cuff, colored, drove squarely into the car while asleep on his seat.

The trolley men say the car was absolutely motionless at the corner, when the accident occurred. The van, coming from the east, it was said, ran right into it. One of the horses was thrown, with a broken leg, a post on the car was damaged, and Cuff fell from his seat. He was only bruised. The motorman was not hurt.

Patrolman Nicholas Myers reached the scene soon after the crash, and shot the injured horse. The wagon was pulled from the track and the car went on. The trolley officials say the driver acknowledged that he was asleep.

There was no one at the office of Conover & Son, this morning, who knew the details of the accident.

SOMERSET CLUB WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO DIE

MEMBERS SAY IT IS FOLLY TO TALK OF DISBANDMENT.

The Somerset Club took a new and exceedingly firm grip on life last night. At a meeting that was called, as a result of dissatisfaction with the way things were going, to discuss the advisability of disbanding, it was decided to continue the organization and make it stronger than it ever has been.

There was nothing very serious the matter with the club management, but the men to whom the members looked for steady work as towers of strength, substantial pillars, and roles of that sort, didn't devote all their spare time to the club, and some pessimistic brethren thought everything was going to pot.

The meeting changed the hopeless feeling in rightabout fashion. There is over $1,000 invested in club furnishings, no debts are on the property, and it was agreed that no reason existed to doubt that the organization would be very successful under a new style of management.

"It was the feeling last night that it is folly to talk of disbanding the club, which is in a flourishing condition financially," said a prominent member this morning. "There is no doubt that the club will take on new life and prosper."

The work of reorganization will be completed at a meeting on March 11. The club rooms will be kept open nights, and borough residents may call freely.

OYSTERMAN'S TALE.

Judge Runyon Gets it from a Supposed Panhandler in Court.

James McCabe, arrested yesterday on West Seventh street by Chief Kiely, for selling court plaster like a panhandler, was released this morning under suspended sentence by Judge Runyon. McCabe told Judge Runyon that he had recently quit oystering on Chespeake Bay, and the magistrate became interested. He had read of the hardships suffered by oystermen, and he asked the prisoner to tell him of the life.

McCabe told a story of virtual slavery. The men on oyster smacks are held to the vessel from one end of the season to the other, forced to work from early in the morning until after nightfall. McCabe said he was trying to work his way to New York, where he expected to get work as a canal boatman. He was born, he said, on a canal boat on the Hudson.

BOROUGH COMMISSION RECOMMENDS A SEWER

Its Report Gives Result of Investigation and Suggests One of Two Plans.

COSTLY UNDERTAKINGS

Further Work to Be Done by Body Before North Plainfield Council Takes Action.

What promised to be one of the most interesting sessions the Borough Council has had in a long time, petered out suddenly last night and instead of an old-time typical North Plainfield argument, the big lobby on hand ended up with an impromptu love feast.

The gathering of the clans was brought about by the announcement that the sewerage commission of seven, the sub-body of the committee of fifty appointed by the Mayor and Council, had prepared its report on the question of installing sewers in North Plainfield and was ready to call for its acceptance. When the commission was instructed by the committee to investigate the proposition, the belief existing that the smaller body could work much faster than the larger, it was understood by the majorty that the report would be submitted to them before it was read to the Council. Naturally, when they heard that the commission had gone over their heads, some of the members were indignant and attended the meeting with the idea of protesting against it presentation. Some of them were induced to act in this way by the understanding that the commission intended calling on the Council to pin itself down to the selection of either one of two plans—the building of an independent disposal plant or connecting up with Plainfield's. However, no resolution of this kind was introduced.

When the Council had disposed of its routine business and Mayor Smalley called for the commissions' report, Charles W. McCutchen took the floor. He stated that the committee of fifty had appointed the commission of seven and the Council had approved the step by a resolution. The seven had promptly organized by electing Mr. McCutchen chairman and W. J. Buttfield secretary.

"The commission does not think it has completed its work entirely," said Mr. McCutchen, "as there are some negotiations that would have to be entered into and would have to be approved by the fifty and the Council. As Mr. Buttfield is secretary he will read the report."

The Mayor followed Mr. McCutchen by stating that letters had been received from Elston M. French and Charles B. Pope, both members of the committee of fifty, protesting against the reading of the resolution, and he instructed the clerk to read them. The objection in both instances was because they believed the seven should have conferred with the fifty before going to the Council. They were ordered filed.

Mr. Buttfield took the floor immediately afterward and referring to the protests said that the commission had believed it was acting exactly as it had been empowered and that no slight was meant in presenting the report to the Council; that that was why the fifty had been notified to appear and hear it read. In reply, Captain W. C. Smith declared the seven had insulted nearly all the members of the committee at the first meeting they had and also that he recalled no action that permitted them to go over their heads. There was some further argument along the lines as to whether or not the seven had the right to report direct to the Council and then Mayor Smalley finally took up the discussion.

"This question is altogether too important to get divided over," he said, "and we ought to have no differences at present. The commission has or had no intention of slighting the committee and everybody will have a chance to discuss the matter. The report must not necessarily be accepted and I want harmony to prevail."

The Mayor's words removed objection from the reading of the report and it was given in detail by Mr. Buttfied. When he had concluded Mr. French asked permission to withdraw his objection as he had been laboring under a misapprehension. Captain Smith announced, however, that he

CAREER OF T. A. EDISON

Something About Greatest Inventor Who Was 50 This Week.

BEGAN AS A NEWSBOY

The Amusing Story of the First Check He Received—Says Time Is Valuable.

When Thomas A. Edison said on celebrating his sixtieth birthday anniversary last week, "we do not know anything, probably in 500 years we shall have collected sufficient data to suspect," he showed that he was not afflicted with "exaggerated ego."

"All things come to him who hustles while he waits," Mr. Edison once wrote across a photograph of himself, sent to the Science Library of Columbia University, and he himself has always acted exactly on that principal. All the world knows he has had to wait; not once in those long years did he cease his hustling.

What are his patents today? In telegraphy only there is the automatic repeater, the machines for duplex, quadruplex and sextuplex transmission; the printing telegraph, and the carbon telegraph transmitter. In broaded fields of practical science he is to be thanked for the microtasimeter, for the detection of slight changes in temperature; the megaphone, the aerophone, the kinetoscope and the storage battery, to say nothing of the microphone transmitter for the telephone, which brought lips moving slightly as if computing time. "Yes—nineteen—no, twenty years ago, I had wireless system working for the freight lines of the Lehigh Valley road. I remember I once flashed a message to a kite two miles in the air. Then something else came up to interest men more, and lo! here's Marconi finding out lots more than I ever knew on the subject. That's all right. There's room for more than one man, or even two, to dig for truths in nature."

From Newsboy to "Wizard."

That he was born in Ohio (in Milan, Erie county, in 1847) may have helped a little toward the success which Edison has since achieved, but its real cause is to be found in the earnest young fellow's persistent efforts and the sound common sense which lay behond all he attempted. It is no new story that he began as a newsboy on the Grand Trunk lines, so branched off into railroad telegraphy, began to finger keys in Michigan when 17, began to experiment with borrowed sounders while employed in Indianapolis, and so at last drifted East to Boston and then to New York. The story of how he forced the Western Union seriously to consider his ideas, however, is not too old for retelling.

He had for months pestered the officials of that concern to take up his inventions, but all to no purpose other than to seem to them part bore, part crank. Then one day, as he entered the offices of Dr. Norvin Green, president of the system, where several of the "bigger fellows" had gathered in consultation, he was greeted with this: "Mr. Edison, you're timely. You seem to think you know more about telegraphy than all of us put together, so suppose you locate the trouble which is holding up our communication with Albany."

The tone was obviously sneering, but the newcomer seemed not to notice that as he replied: "All right. Give me two or three hours," and then he added: "If I straighten this out in that time will you seriously look into my proposals?"

"Surely," came the half-bantering rejoinder. "Even if you untangle us in two or three days," and as Edison left the room there was another laugh at his assurance. Yet in less than an hour he was back with this advice: "Send a repair crew up the road two miles north of Poughkeepsie. The wire is down there."

Wisely enough, he did not tell anyone how he had found out, but all he really had done was to go to the main Broadway offices, call up Pittsburg, get teh operator there to call up Albany and instruct him to wire southward as far as he could, and report back. Albany soon answered that he could not get Poughkeepsie, and guessed the trouble to be some two miles on his side of that town. Mr. Edison reported this—and it was right. It was simplicity itself—the wonder is no one else had thought of doing so obvious a thing—but it meant the first long step toward the immense financial success of the practical scientist who met a difficulty with good common sense.

The First Check.

When Dame Fortune once started to smile she did so generously, and she has smiled ever since. The first check from the Western Union (settling for Edison's patent on his stock indicator) was for $40,000, a sum that today would not seem staggering to him, though then, he has himself said, he so little realized all that it meant that he stood "willing to sell it to the first bidder who might have offered two crisp $1,000 bills for it." A workshop was soon set up in Newark, the Menlo Park laboratory followed that (1876), and then the present works at West Orange, and let it be chronicled in passing that the proprietor of those "shops" has from the first given a half-holiday to all his hundreds of assistants, not in summer only, but all the year 'round. "Wizard" on one side he may be, on the other he is most "human."

Himself he never thinks of saving, when work is in the question. On his very wedding day (his first marriage, that is), he was called to his laboratory soon after the ceremony and promptly became so wrapped up in the experiment then on his tables that he was still there at midnight, when a friend looked him up. The opening of the door brought him to himself, and hurrying into his coat and hat, he started homeward, saying "Excuse me, but I guess I'll have to be getting along. You know I was married today."

The present Mrs. Edison has undertaken the task of keeping her husband "sensible" (as she puts it), however, and does not permit him to forget his meals, as he used to do, nor to work excessively long periods without some relaxation—usally taken, by the way, in a little electric automobile on a circular track within the factory inclosure. It may be added, too, that Edison predicts for the auto car: "It's going to be the poor man's wagon yet, but its motive power is not going to be gasoline then: electricity is to prove the secret of its future usefulness.'

Mr. Edison is the best of friends and the most entertaining of talkers, but he is hard to reach, for the simple reason that he places so (properly) high a value on his time. To him time is too valuable to waste even by taking account of it. It means the chance to get things done; how long it takes to do this is a detail of no importance to him. In his safe there is carefully locked away a $2,700 Swiss watch, presented by some great European scientific society, but it is never used. Mr. Edison carries a dollar-and-a-half affair in his trousers pocket, and never looks at it.

The preoccupation which accompanies his intense and sustained concentration of attention to the work under hand is also to be seen in his habit of "dry-smoking." He is fond of tobacco, yet cigar after cigar goes out as he labors incessantly away, goes out, is slowly eaten up and then tossed aside. There is a story told by his tobacconist that bears on this point.

Mr. Edison had come to the conclusion that someone besides himself was making free wit his box of panatellas, and so ordered some "fakes;" they were to be filled with horsehair and hard rubber. These were duly made and delivered—yet' three weeks later the inventor asked when they were to be sent to him.

"Why, thy've been left at your office," exclaimed the maker.

"When?"

"Nearly a month ago. They were in a flat box and bore green labels."

"Oh!" drawled Mr. Edison, reflectively, adding slowly: "Do you know. I smoked every one of those myself."

Philosophy and Promise.

"The Wizard's" splendid health may be largely due to the watchful eye of Mrs. Edison, "Billy, the Nuisance," he sometimes calls her jokingly, but the man holds and follows a philosophy which has no little to do with his youthful spirit and activity. "I work a good many hours a day," he once told an interviewer, "but it is over things in which my whole heart is wrapped up, and then the rest of my life is very quiet. I don't worry. I'm fond of fun. 'I like good company as much as I dislike 'high society.' I avoid 'functions' and men who spend all their time chasing the dollar. I take a little outdoor exercise. And I don't play golf. I guess that's all."'

With work always before him, each completed task inspiring him to some other, what does Mr. Edison promise the world in the near future? In the first place, hating inaccuracy above all else, he promises nothing till he sees before him a reasonably clear road to its early fulfilment. We are to have, it is reported, a storage battery "without lead." This will be in the market by April, according to some brother scientists in touch with the plans of this master of their craft. Perhaps, too, all this story is nto wholly a joke. Perhaps there really is to be a "sound motor."

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Fredrick Thompson's production of 'Brewster's Millions," the dramatization by Winchell Smith and Byron Ongley of George McCutcheon's celebrated story of the same title, moved to the Hudson theatre last night from the New Amsterdam, where it has been breaking the records of that playhouse. Edward Abeles assisted by Mary Ryan, George Probert, Sumner Guard, Olive Murray, Emil Litton and others, seems likely to remain at the Hudson theatre for an indefinite period.

Rose Stahl, who has just begun her eighth month at the Hackett theatre in the James Forbes comedy, "The Chorus Lady," made an equal success the other day in the role of "Lady Bountiful." She sent to her father, Colonel E. C. Stahl, of Trenton, a certified check for $10,000 for a new home in Trenton, N. J. Last Wednesday Miss Stahl received the news that the old homestead was detroyed by fire and she at once set about replacing it. The sum expended by her represented a portion of the earnings of her first year in vaudeville in the one-act play, "The Chorus Lady."

There was little that was romantic in the first meeting of Kean, the great tragedian, and the woman who was to bear his name. It was on the stage of the Cheltenham theatre that Charles Kean and Miss Chambers, a pretty young actress, first saw each other. "Who is that shabby little man with the brilliant eyes?" Miss Chambers asked in the hearing of the king of the stage. "And who," Kean retorted by asking aloud, "is that odd little woman?" From this singularly inauspicious opening Kean's love drama proceeded so swiftly that before a month had gone the curtain was rung down at the altar.

The annual New York engagement of the Ben Greet Players in Shakespearian and classic plays will this year be played at the Garden theatre beginning Monday, March 4, and continuing for four weeks. The first week will be devcted to "The Merchant of Venice," the second week to "Macbeth," while later "Julius Vaesar" and one of the comedies will be given. During Holy Week, beginning Monday, March 25, Mr. Greet will give, as a special Lenten attraction, the fifteenth century morality play, "Everyman," the wonderful allegory in which his company was first seen in this country and which they have not acted in New York for three years. Mr. Greet's remarkable success in America has been a tremendous surprise to those theatrical wiseacres who assert that Shakespeare spells ruin—and who might assert that Shakespeare with only one set of scenery should spell suicide. Every leading university in England and America has endorsed his work by inviting the company to act before the students in the college auditoriums.

It did not take long for the lovers of all that is good and substantial in the drama to welcome the return to the old stock company policy at Keith and Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre. The inaugural week was marked by crowded and enthusiastic audiences, and the subscription list a pleasing innovation at this house was in creased most encouragingly. Early applicants were fortunate in having secured choice seats which will be held for them every week throughout the season. "Leah Kleschna," C. M. S. McLellan's remarkable four act drama, will be the attraction next week. This is the play in which Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske made the greatest triumph in her professional career and which brought Mr. McLellan to the front as one of America's foremost playwrights. Miss Henrietta Browne, a young and clever actress, will play "Leah," while Alphonz Ethier will be seen as "Paul Sylvaine," John Mason's original part. Others in the cast are: Wilson Melrose as Kleschna, Eugene Shakespeare as Valentin Favre; Fannie Marinoff as Sophie Chapponniere, Emelie Melville as Madame Burton, and James A. Bliss as General Burton. As is customary at all of Keith and Proctor's stock houses vaudeville novelties will be introduced between the acts.

Margaret Anglin and Henry Miller in "The Great Divide" at the Princess theatre, New York, are about to add another feature to their unique and ceord breaking career in that play. On Monday evening, March 4th, the two stars interrupt their all season New York run in William Vaughn Moody's famous drama for one night and go to Washington for a single performance of "The Great Divide" to be given at the Belasco theatre, in honor of President Roosevelt, the Cabinet, members of Congress and the Diplomatic Corps. This will be the first time a reigning New York success ever left the city for any purpose whatever until its run was ended. The occasion will have something of the nature of the "command performances" given before the King of England, being arranged upon desire of many of our most prominent executive officers and legislators. All the boxes at the Belasco have been reserved for use of the President, members of the Cabinet and foreign ambassadors. The orchestra floor promises to have the appearance of a joint session of the house of Congress. Every Senator and Congressman of note has accepted the invitation extended by Mr. Miller and Miss Anglin. "The Great Divide" company will go to and from Washington in a special train which will also carry a hundred New Yorkers anxious to share in the unusual occasion. The return trip will be made in ample time for the play to resume its run at the Princess on Tuesday evening, March 5th.

Theodore Kremer's latest masterpiece, "A Woman of Fire," will be seen in this city for the first time at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. There is plenty of action throughout four sizzling acts and nine big scenes. The story tells of an adventuress and her paramour assisted by a negro, who lure a young man into their clutches and then attempt to separate him from a loving wife. Some of the scenes that are particularly interesting are the East river by moonlight, the East Side pawn shop, Sing Sing prison, the sensational abduction and rescue under the sea and an explosion of a torpedo on a submarine boat under water, while going at terrific speed. Throughout the action of the play, many pleasing specialties have been interpolated. P. H. Sullivan, the producer, has given the play a fine scenic setting.

"His Last Dollar," under the management of Stair & Nicalai, with David Higgins and Eleanor Montell at the head of a large and efficient company, is now in its fourth successful season, and will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night with substantially the same meritorious players as last season. It is a comedy drama true to its particular type, for it abounds in mirthful incidents, the serious side of the play revealing the deep love of the breeder of thoroughbreds for his horse, which has resulted in the wonderful development of the race horse. It has a most delightful love atmosphere, and it also shows us a few of the nerve trying moments attendant upon the efforts of a rich, though ingenious Southerner to clean up everything of a financial nature in sight on Wall street. It is a play abounding in romance and heart interest.

"The patrons of the Columbus theatre were handed a pleasing appetizing repast yesterday through the excellent culinary qualities of 'The Hottest Coon in Dixie.' It is a bright musical comedy with rare assortment of good things and the large audience enjoyed the funniest which were given out. Snappiness and vivacity prevaded the entire performance. Numerous popular musical numbers and high class specialties were interspersed as effective side courses." Chicago Inter-Ocean. "The Hottest Coon in Dixie" appears at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night.

RECOMMENDS A SEWER

held the same opinion as he had before but that he believed in a proper system of sewage and that he withdrew his protest.

The Mayor expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the way affairs had turned and he remarked that the committee of fifty was by no means out of business, as it required that number of men to solve the problem.

"I want this committee to remain," he said, "and it is my idea for the seven to go further; the system we are to use is still a matter of conjecture and I want it to arrive at some decision. We ought to pass a resolution permitting the seven to follow up what it has already done and get the entire matter in shape for presentation to the people."

In a very few minutes, Borough Counsel Reed had prepared the necessary resolution and the Council passed it unanimously. It gave the sub-committee full power to keep at work but specified that it should report to the fifty before approaching the Council. The main object in view now is to decide on the independent plant or the acceptance of Plainfield's offer to use its beds.

The report as prepared by the commission and read by Mr. Buttfield was as follows:

Under the authority delegated to this Commission by the Committee of Fifty, and confirmed by resolution passed by the Council August 20th, 1906, we submit the result of our investigations to date, as follows:

It is superfluous for us to enlarge upon the work of this Commission, and will briefly state the conclusions reached and recommendations as to same.

The prime requisite to a successful determination of the problem before us, was the employment of a disinterested and unbiased engineer of unquestionable ability to advise a feasible system most efficient and economical under existent circumstances. With this in view, and after careful inquiry, we secured the services of Messrs. Hering & Fuller, and are confident that in so doing, we have served the best interests of the borough.

Under personal interview with the State Sewerage Commission, we were convinced that no new municipal sewerage system would be permitted to empty into any of the streams or rivers of this State, unless the effluent was first purified, and that the same degree of purification would be required, whether the effluent was discharged into a large river or one of our smaller streams. The trend of public opinion is strongly in favor of compelling the disuse of the rivers or even tide-waters for disposal of crude sewage. It is evident, therefore, that a tide-water trunk line would be a useless additional expense, unless such was built jointly with the aid of other thickly populated municipalities. This course is not open to North Plainfield.

Negotiations were entered into with the city of Plainfield for the joint use of their disposal works, and we received a prompt and business like proposition, which in effect offers to contract for the disposal of the borough's sewage for a term of 10 years at the rate of $25.00 per million gallons. This proposition was placed before Messrs. Hering & Fuller for their comparative opinion.

The following is a brief review of Messrs. Hering & Fuller's report:

The present population of the borough is about 6,000, and it is estimated that this may ultimately increase to 16,500. With this in view the collecting and outfall sewers are planned of ample capacity (insize) for this prospective growth.

The present residential section of the borough covers above 452 acres embracing about 16 miles of built up streets and 1,200 houses. The confines of the area proposed to be now sewered are shown as per map herewith, and may roughly be described as the Mountain line on the northwest—Belmont avenue on the northeast—Greenbrook on the southeast and Westend avenue on the southwest.

Messrs. Hering & Fuller have worked out a plan whereby the entire borough (with the exception of two small areas referred to later) can be sewered by gravity, either to the city's present works, or to the borough's own disposal plant.

The system proposed includes 16 miles of collecting sewers and 1,200 house connections to the curb line. It is estimated that the 1,200 house connections could be completed within four years, and that thereafter 25 houses would be annually added to the system. Outflow from each house is computed at 400 gallons per diem.

The two small areas referred to above include a strip along Greenbrook road west of Grove street, and a triangle section on the southern corner of the borough. These two sections can be readily sewered by aid of a small automatic and inexpensive pumping station, but not being required at present we have not included its cost.

On the assumption that the borough can borrow necessary funds at the rate of 4¼ per cent. per annum, and presuming that the property owners are assessed for the cost of house connections, as well as 60 cents per running foot of sewer (30 cents for owners on each side of the street) we can summarize in round figures Messrs. Hering & Fuller's estimates as follows:

The acceptance of the city's proposal, upon completion of the system, would entail a bonded indebtedness of $124,000, and for 10 years an average annual expense for interest, maintenance and rentals to Plainfield (but not including provision for sinking fund) of $12,000; to which annual expense must be added a dead loss of $9,000 for pipe line to city works, should the proposed ten year contract not be renewed. The installation of a system in connection with the borough's own disposal plant will call for a bonded indebtedness of $190,000, and an annual expense, including interest and maintenance, (but not including sinking fund) of $11,250. Under the above conditions there will be a saving of at least $15,000 to the borough in ten years by the installation of its own disposal works, and this saving would be augmented by any arrangement made by the borough of Dunellen for its joint use. (The Mayor and Council of Dunellen have intimated their willingness to co-operate with North Plainfield, and with this in view, have appointed a committee to confer with this Commission). A reduction on the city's rate from $25 to $20 would bring the two propositions much nearer a parity.

The disposal works proposed would take care of the sewage of a population of 8,000 to 10,000 people, and include a system of septic tanks, sprinkling filters and settling basins. They would be similar to those now under construction at Columbus, Ohio; Reading, Pa.; Washington, Pa.; and those recommended to Baltomore, Md. As compared with septic tanks and contact beds, the system is considerably cheaper both in first cost and maintenance.

It must be borne in mind that the above figures do not include any provision for sinking fund, and in this connection we would call attention to a grave defect or difficulty in the present State Borough Laws, under which not less than 3 per cent. of the par value of the bonds shall be annually raised and set aside to retire the bonds at their maturity. Under such provision bonds can be issued to run not longer than 22 years, where as it is customary in improvements of this character to use a 40 year bond. Apart from the burden of such unnecessarily heavy yearly tax, it is questionable whether a 20 or 22 year bond can be sold on as favorable basis as that obtainable for one of a longer term. We think that steps should be taken to amend this provision of the State Borough Laws, also to secure the right to use short time notes pending a more favorable money market.

From an economic standpoint, there are certain factors in connection with the installation of sewers at the present time less favorable than in previous years, viz: The ruling high cost of material and labor, together with the extreme rates for money.

The figures given seem large, but it must be borne in mind that the plan advised covers practically the entire borough, and in capacity of collecting sewers, provides amply for posterity, thus accomplishing as an immediate and permanent improvement, that which in most suburban towns is installed section by section over a long term of years. There are decided objections to so extending the time of making this improvement, as far as our borough is concerned. The main expense is that for a 24 inch outfall sewer from the center of the borough, and this charge must be incurred irrespective of the area connected. The cost of lateral sewers will be largely offset by direct assessment against property benefited, and on the other hand there would doubtless be much dissatisfaction if any particular section was discriminated against.

While wishing to adhere strictly to that which is germane to the scope of our work, we cannot ignore the fact that many will wish to know what, if any, change will be made in the system proposed if "Consolidation" was consummated in the near future. We are advised that to reach the city's present works, no plan other than that now presented would be practicable. If on the other hand, it is found more economical to establish our own disposal plant, it might reasonably be argued that the same saving would be obtained under "Consolidation." We cannot, therefore, recommend that the present merger agitation be considered a factor which might of itself call for the postponement of action in this sewer question.

In the installation of any system we cannot too strong urge the necessity of safe-guarding the borough's interests by ensuring that no contract shall be entered into, or payment made, or employment given, except upon the closest scrutiny by all charged with the responsibility of carrying out this work. It is imperative that the borough should secure the most competent engineering advice obtainable, and that extreme care be taken as to the terms and conditions of any construction contract which shall be made. We believe this will be assured by retaining the services and advice of Messrs. Hering & Fuller until the completion of the improvement.

The fact that Messrs. Hering & Fuller are acting as consulting engineers of the city of Plainfield, tends to facilitate a harmonious solution of this difficult question.

We are indebted to the City's Committee on Sewers and Streets for their courteous and prompt response, and also to Mayor Fisk, and to Mr. A. J. Gavett for much valuable information given.

The work of this Commission has been without expense to the borough, except that incurred for engineering fees, which in the case of Messrs. Hering & Fuller is limited to a sum not to exceed $1,000 for the preliminary plans, estimates and report herewith submitted.

Conclusion.

After carefully considering the whole subject, notwithstanding the present high cost involved, the Commission concludes that the sanitary needs of the borough, the safe-guarding of the health of our community, and the economic advantages to borough residents and owners of property, render necessary the installation of an adequate and thoroughly modern system of sewage, and is strongly in favor of immediately undertaking the improvement, believing that the cost will be largely offset by the more rapid growth and consequent enhanced values in the borough.

Believing that the Mayor and Council of the borough will agree with the Commission in its opinion, we have the honor to recommend as follows:

That the Borough Council authorize this Commission, in conjunction with the Mayor, subject to the necessary formal approval of the Council, and subject to the consent of the property owners, and legal voters.

To negotiate with the city of Plainfield for the disposal of the borough sewage on terms and conditions that will best conserve the borough's interest.

Or to take the necessary steps to provide an independent disposal plant, and to negotiate terms and conditions for its joint use with the borough of Dunellen, should it be so disposed.

To obtain from the property owners their necessary written consent.

To re-engage the services of Messrs. Hering & Fuller, engineers.

To prepare a contract for the construction of a sewerage system, to be submitted and approved by the Mayor and Council of the borough.

And to suggest and arrange a method of financing any accepted plan.

Respectfully submitted,
C. W. McCUTCHEN,
Chairman.

SHOULDER BRACES

For Men, Women, Boys and Girls.

Stooping Shoulders is one of the growing tendencies of the age. It's a great pity, especially to see children getting into the stooping shoulder habit, for, like other habits, it may become fixed and lasting, if not corrected in time.

Now is the time to brace up, and the best bracer is a pair of our Shoulder Braces, which we are selling for 75c and $1.00.

WOMAN TRAVELER TELLS ABOUT PERU

MRS. ADAMS' ILLUSTRATED STORY SHED MUCH LIGHT ON THAT COUNTRY.

The superb illustrated lecture on "Peru," given at the Y. M. C. A. last night by Harriet Chalmers Adams, of California, deserved a much larger audience than the one that greeted her, and those who failed to attend missed a treat. Aside from the thrilling story of dangers and hardships related by the brave woman in a fascinating manner, the views were perhaps the finest ever shown in this city. They gave a comprehensive and instructive idea of Peru, about which little is known by the average person.

There were views of the deserts, the highlands, the various large and small cities and villages, and depicted life and conditions in all classes. There was also a series of pictures showing a typical bull fight. Perhaps, the most thrilling part of the lecture were the views and description of the perilous ascent through the Andees.

The story also gave one an excellent idea of the customs and habits of the people of Peru, the great rubber industry, growing of coffee and coaco, from which cocaine is obtained. She said that some of the fleet-footed guides and messengers would travel all day through the intense heat with no other food than a supply of cocoa leaves. The lecture was listened to with deep interest and no doubt another opportunity will be given Plainfielders to hear it again.

S. B. Howe, Jr., as Judge.

Samuel B. Howe, Jr., instructor in history in the Plainfield High School, acted as judge last evening at the Newark High School Auditorium on the occasion of a debate between the Newark and Montclair High Schools. The debate was won by the High School who took the negative side of the question: "Resolved, That labor unions of the present day are conducive to the general welfare of the people of the United States."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Recent Fiction Added to the Public Library Since November, 1906,

Part 1.

Brown, Alice.—County road.

"Miss Brown has long been recognized as one of the most successful and entertaining writers of rural New England. She has a happy combination of sympathetic knowledge of New England character, with keen appreciation of the genuine humor that is one of the real New England traits."

Bowen, Marjorie.—Viper of Milan.

"For so young a writer, Miss Bowen shows a remarkable sense of style, which, taken in conjunction with her energy and imaginative power, make her a welcome recruit to the ranks of adventurous romaneers."

Conrad, Joseph.—Mirror of the sea.

"He knows the souls of the sea and ships, as he knows the souls of men, but that would be worth but little to us, did he not possess a still more wonderful faculty of interpretation and expression—a faculty that was never better shown than in these sketches." New York Times.

Couch, A. T. Quiller.—Sir John Constantine.

"As a tale of romantic adventure we have had hardly anything since Stevenson's time so good as Mr. Quiller-Couch's new story. The story as a whole, indeed, is so excellent of its kind that one wishes that the author had recast some parts of the book and subjected it to a severer test of his judgment as to construction, probability, and humor. The time is the seventeenth century, when Corsica was in arms against Genoa's occupation and oppression, and the people were rallying to Paoli." Outlook.

Craigie, Mrs. P. M. T. R., (John Oliver Hobbes.)—Dream and the business.

"Its chief charm, alike from the development of a double plot, which is so delicately conceived and carried out with so much artistic finish as to obscure the end before the end comes, lies in the vitality of its characters and their consistently preserved personalities." New York Times.

Crawford, F. Marion.—Lady of Rome.

The author "is one of the few novelists in the world who are actually cosmopolitan: the Italian characters in his novels are really Italians, and the French people are French. This new story from his pen is said to be notesworthy, even among Mr. Crawford's novels, for the beauty and attractiveness of its heroine."

De Morgan, W. F.—Joseph Vance: an ill-written autobiography.

"It is ill-written only in the sense of not being composed according to the present trim, abrupt fashion of novel-reading. We hardly know how to suggest the mellowness of this story, and therein lies its charm. We doubt if any reader who has a sense for true humor will find it tedious." Nation.

Donnell, Annie Hamilton.—Very small person.

"The stories here are about children but their lesson is entirely for grown ups who have in their trust the developing child. The little comedies as well as the heart tragedies of children grow pathetic when there is no one near with whom to share them. It is to such a lonely group of children that the author turns in her sketches. It is a book for every mother."

Eichendorff, Joseph K. B., freiherr von.—Happy-go-lucky; or, leaves from the life of a good for nothing, tr. from the German by Mrs. A. L. Wister.

"Mrs. A. L. Wister has made an excellent translation of this charming German story of irresponsibility and genius." New York Times.

Fenollosa, Mrs. E. F., (Sidney McCall, pseud.)—Dragon painter.

"One does not need to have had any personal experience in the land of which Mrs. Fenollosa writes in order to be perfectly certain that these pages give a truthful picture of Japanese domestic life and a faithful revelation of the inner depths of Japanese feeling—not one of those specious translations of Japan in terms of modern 'Westernism.'" New York Times.

Fogazzaro, Antnio.—The patriot, tr. from the Italian.

"Although brought out as the second volume in the author's trilogy, 'The patriot' was written bany years before 'The Saint,' and published with the Italian title Piccolo mondo antico. It has to do with the file of the father of 'The saint,' Don Franco Maieoni, and his patriotic endeavors to free northern Italy from the Austrian yoke in the middle of the last century."

Fowler, Ellen Thorneycroft.—Subjection of Isabel Carnaby.

"The reader's feeling of gratitude to the author is not due for any subtle analysis of character, but for the brilliant powers of repartee with which she invests here characters." Spectator.

Fox, John, Jr.—Knight of the Cumberland.

"A most attractive and delightful love story, told with all Mr. Fox's knowledge of the mountaineers, his humor and skillful character drawing. The tournament is a unique incident, described with the humor and dramatic force that no other writer of today can combine in the same way."

Fraser, Mrs. Mary Crawford.—In the shadow of the Lord: a romance of the Washingtons.

"The story is well arranged, the persons concerned are sufficiently lifelike and the general effect . . . is dignified and wholesome." Outlook.

Garland, Hamlin.—Witch's gold: a recast of "The spirit of Sweetwater."

"In its present form is a simple healthful love-tale of the West, adapted to beguile an idle hour." Literary digest.

Gilson, Roy Rolfe.—Katrina.

"He combines a sympathetic understanding of the young child's point of view with an equally rare understanding of the sorrows and disillusions of age." Bookman.

Gordon, Charles William, (Ralph Connor, pseud.)—The doctor: a tale of the Rockies.

"The best thing Ralph Connor has done since "The sky pilot," and perhaps the best thing he has ever done. Is a good book, both in the religious and literary sense of the word." New York Times.

LITERARY.

The March Century is a Garden Number, covering a wide and varied range of outdoor interests—Charleston gardens, Persian gardens, workingmen's gardens, flower arrangements in Japan, and a review by a Dutch expert of Luther Burbank's work in scientific horticulture. The Luther Burbank's review, from the pen of Hugo de Vries, Professor of Plant Anatomy and Physiology in the University of Amsterdam, is the article of most scientific value in the magazine. It brings to American readers a new, suggestive and authoritive presentation of Mr. Burbank's claims and achievements. All the charm of Charleston's gardens—probably the loveliest gardens in this country—is in Miss Frances Duncan's article, and there are delightful illustrations by Anna Whelan Betts, including two full pages in color.

March Lippincott's Magazine breathes a foretaste of summer in its leading feature, the complete novelette. "The Smuggler" is its title, and the author, Ella Middleton Tybout, has already to her credit several successful full-grown novels, notably "The Wife of the Secretary of State." This newest story does not deal with smugglers and pirates of the past, but with the modern manner of setting jewels into our fair land without asking Uncle Sam's consent. The characters are mightily convincing in their various roles; and her rapid-acting plot makes the most indifferent reader "sit up" until he has devoured the last word.

The National Child Labor Committee in its department officially conducted in the Woman's Home Companion, announces the receipt of a letter from William Jennings Bryan, in which the latter expresses his approval of the Beveridge bill and his plan to favor it editorially in the Commoner. Mr. Bryan said: "The plan which Beveridge adopts for the prevention of child labor is identical with the plan which I have urged for the suppression of the trusts. I believe the control which Congress has over interstate commerce enables it to apply a very simple and effective remedy."

The National Magazine for March has another article on the Jamestown Exposition, and also contains an appreciation by William Hemstreet, of Anthony Comstock, who is perhaps the least understood and most abused of any great reformer of the age. The "Homes of Longfellow," by Mary H. Northend, "Natural Beauties of Utah," by W. C. Jenkins, and "On the Site of the White City," are strong articles that appear in this number.

Philosophy is at once the most sublime and the most trivial of human pursuits. It both works in the minutest crannies and opens out the widest vistas. It "bakes no bread," as has been said, but it can inspire our souls with courage; and repugnant as its manners, its doubting and challenging, its quibbling and dialestics, often are too common people, no one of use can get along without the far-flashing beams of light it sends over the world's perspectives. These illuminations, at least, and the contrast-effects of darkness and mystery that accompany them, give to what it says an interest that is more than professional or technical.—Professor William James in The Popular Science Monthly.

The March number of Scribner's Magazine opens with a novel account of a journey during race-week "Down The Seine In A Motor Boat," by E. C. Peixotto, the artist, who furnishes a number of beautiful sketches of the scenes along the way and writes a pleasant account of this companion sport to automobiling. No journalist in this country ever had stronger opinions to express and expressed them with more frankness than E. L. Godkin. The vigor and clearheadedness of his judgments are embodied in "Some Letters" which have been chosen by Rollo Ogden, the present editor of the Evening Post. Many of these were written to Mr. Godkin's friend, Charles Eliot Norton, and they range from 1863, when he gives vivid pen-pictures of Greeley, Ripley, Seward and the important men of that day, down to 1886.

BELLEVIEW AVENUE NURSERY CO.

Off Park Avenue. near Hillside Avenue

Above, on the stair-landing, a deep-toned clock began to strike midnight and every one cried "Merry Christmas!" and "Olivia's won!" and there was more hand clapping, in which I joined with good will.

Some one behind me was explaining what had just occurred. Olivia, the youngest daughter of the house, had been denied a glimpse of the ball; Miss Devereux had made a wager with her host that Olivia would appear before midnight; and Olivia, defeating the plot against her, gained the main hall at the stroke of 12.

"Good night! Good night!" called Olivia—the real Olivia—in derision to the company, and turned and ran back through the applauding, laughing throng.

The spectacled gentleman was Olivia's father, and he mockingly rebuked Marian Devereux for having encouraged an infraction of parental discipline, while she was twitting him upon the loss of his wager. Then her eyes rested upon me for the first time. She lifted her brows slightly, but continued talking placidly to her host. The situation did not please me; I had not traveled so far and barglariously entered Doctor Armstrong's house in quest of a girl with blue eyes merely to stand by while she talked with another man.

I drew nearer, impatiently; and was conscious that four other young men in white waistcoats and gloves quite as irreproachable as my own stood ready to claim her the instant she was free. I did not propose to be thwarted by the beaux of Cincinnati and I addressed my host boldly.

"I beg your pardon, Doctor—," I said with an assurance for which I blush to this hour.

"All right, my boy; I, too, have been in Arcady!" he exclaimed in cheerful apology, and she put her hand on my arm and I led her away.

"He called me 'my boy,' so I must be passing muster," I remarked, not daring to look at her.

"He's afraid not to recognize you. His inability to remember faces is a town joke."

We reached a quiet corner of the great hall and I found a seat for her.

"You don't seem surprised to see me,—you knew I would come. I should have come across the world for this,—for just this."

Her eyes were grave at once.

"Why did you come? I did not think you were so foolish. This is all—so wretched. You didn't know that Mr. Pickering—Mr. Pickering—"

She was greatly distressed and this name came from her chokingly.

"Yes; what of him?" I laughed. "He is well on the way to California,—and without you!"

"No—you don't know—you don't understand—he's here! He abandoned his California trip at Chicago; he telegraphed me to expect him—here—tonight! You must go at once—at once!"

"Ah, but you can't frighten me," I said, trying to realize just what a meeting with Pickering in that house might mean.

"No,"—she looked anxiously about,—"they were to arrive late, he and the Taylors; they know the Armstrongs quite well. They may come at any moment now. Please go!"

"But I have only a few minutes myself,—you wouldn't have me sit them out in the station down town? There are some things I have come to say, and Arthur Pickering and I are not afraid of each other!"

"But you must not meet him here. Think what that would mean to me! You are very foolhardy, Mr. Glenarm. I had no idea you would come—"

"But you wished to try me,—you challenged me."

"That wasn't me,—it was Olivia," she laughed, more at ease, "I thought—"

"Yes, what did you think—that I was tied hand and foot by a dead man's money—"

"No, it wasn't that wretched fortune; but I enjoyed playing the child before you—I really love Olivia—and it seemed that the fairies were protecting me and that I could play being a child to the very end of the chapter without any real mischief coming of it. I wish I were Olivia!" she declared, her eyes away from me.

"That's rather idle. I'm not really sure yet what your name is, and I don't care. Let's imagine that we haven't any names,—I'm sure my name isn't of any use, and I'll be glad to go nameless all my days if only—"

"If only—" she repeated idly, opening and closing her fan. It was a frail blue trifle, painted in golden butterflies.

"There are so many 'if onlies' that I hesitate to choose; but I will venture one. If only you will come back to St. Agatha's! Not to-morrow, or the next day, but, say, with the first bluebirds. I believe they are the harbingers up there."

Her very ease was a balm to my spirits; she was now a veritable daughter of repose. One arm in its long, white sheath lay quiet in her lap; her right hand held the golden butterflies against the soft curve of her cheek. A collar of pearls clasped her throat and accented the clear girlish outlines of her profile. I felt the appeal of her youth and purity. It was like a cry in my heart, and the dreary house by the lake, and Pickering and the weeks within the stone walls of my prison were as though they had never been.

"The friends who know me best never expect me to promise to be anywhere at a given time. I can't tell; perhaps I shall follow the bluebirds to Indiana; but why should I, when I can't play being Olivia any more?"

"Why not? You have seen how dull I am; and that note of apology you wrote from the school really fooled me. But I have seen the real Olivia now. I don't want you to go too far—not where I can't follow—and this flight I shall hardly dare repeat."

Her lips closed—like a rose that had gone back to be a bud again—and she pondered a moment, slowly freeing and imprisoning the golden butterflies.

"You have risked a fortune, Mr. Glenarm, very, very foolishly,—if you are found here. Why, Olivia must have recognized you! She had seen you often across the wall."

"But I don't care—I'm not staying at that ruin up there for money. My grandfather meant more to me than that—"

"Yes; I believe that is so. He was a dear old gentleman; and he liked me because I thought his jokes adorable. My father and he had known each other. But there was—no expectation—no wish to profit by his friendship. My name in his will is a great embarrassment, a source of real annoyance. The newspapers printed dreadful pictures of me in connection with the will. I say to you, quite frankly, that I wouldn't accept a cent of Mr. Glenarm's money if it were offered me; and that is why,"—and her smile was a flash of spring,—"I want you to obey the terms of the will and earn your fortune."

She closed the fan sharply and lifted her eyes to mine.

"But there isn't any fortune; it's all a myth, a joke."

"Mr. Pickering doesn't seem to think so. He had every reason for believing that Mr. Glenarm was a very rich man."

"But assuming that there's money buried there by the lake like a pirate's treasure, it isn't Pickering's if he finds it. There are laws to protect even the dead from robbery!" I concluded hotly.

"How difficult you are! Suppose you should fall from a boat, or be shot—accidentally—then I might have to take the fortune after all; and Mr. Pickering might think of an easier way of getting it than by—"

"Stealing it! Yes; I know what you mean; but you wouldn't—!"

Half-past 12 struck on the stairway and I started to my feet.

"You wouldn't—" I repeated.

"I might, you know!"

"I must go,—but not with that, not with any hint of that,—please!"

"If you let him defeat you, if you fail to spend your year there,—we'll overlook this one lapse,"—she looked me steadily in the eyes, wholly guiltless of coquetry but infinitely kind,—"then,—"

She paused, opened the fan, held it up to the light and studied the golden butterflies.

"Yes—"

"Then—let me see—oh, I shall never chase another rabbit as long as I live! Now go—quickly—quickly!"

"But you haven't told me when and where it was we met the first time. Please!"

She laughed, but urged me away with her eyes.

"I shan't do it! It isn't proper for me to remember, if your memory is so poor. I wonder how it would seem for us to meet just once—and be introduced! Good night! You really came. You are a gentleman of your word, Squire Glenarm!"

She gave me the tips of her fingers without looking at me.

A servant came in hurriedly.

"Miss Devereux, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Pickering are in the drawing-room."

"Yes; very well; I will come at once."

Then to me:

"They must not see you—there, that way!" and she stood in the door, facing me, her hands lightly touching the frame as though to secure my way.

I turned for a last look and saw her waiting—her eyes bent gravely upon me, her arms still half-raised, barring the door; then she turned swiftly away and passed through the hall.

Outside I found my hat and coat, and wakened my sleeping driver. He drove like mad into the city and I swung myself upon the north-bound train just as it was drawing out of the station.

CHAPTER XVIII.

I Meet an Old Friend.

When I reached Glenarm House the next morning I found to my astonishment that the window I had left open as I scrambled out the night before was closed. I dropped my bag and crept to the front door, thinking that if Bates had discovered my absence it was useless to attempt any further deception. I was amazed to find the great doors of the main entrance flung wide, and in real alarm I ran through the hall and back to the library.

The nearest door stood open, and, as I peered in, a curious scene disclosed itself. A few of the large cathedral candles still burned brightly in several places, their flames rising strangely in the gray morning light. Books had been taken from the shelves and scattered everywhere, and sharp implements had cut ugly gashes in the shelving. The drawers containing sketches and photographs had been pulled out and their contents thrown about and trampled under foot.

The house was as silent as a tomb, but as I stood on the threshold trying to realize what had happened, something stirred by the fireplace and I crept forward, listening, until I stood by the long table beneath the great chandelier. Again I heard a sound as of some animal walking and stretching, followed by a moan that undoubtedly was human. Then the hands of a man clutched the farther edge of the table, and slowly and evidently with infinite difficulty a figure rose and the dark face of Bates, with eyes blurred and staring strangely, confronted me.

He drew his body to its height and leaned heavily upon the table. I snatched a candle and bent toward him to make sure my eyes were not tricking me.

"Mr. Glenarm; Mr. Glenarm;" he exclaimed in broken whispers. "It is Bates, sir."

"What have you done; what has happened?" I demanded.

He put his hand to his head uncertainly and gasped as though trying to gather his wits.

He was evidently dazed by whatever had occurred, and I sprang round and helped him to a couch. He would not lie down but sat up, staring and passing his hand over his head. It was rapidly growing lighter, and I saw a purple and black streak across his temple where a bludgeon of some sort had struck him.

"What does this mean, Bates? Who has been in the house?"

"It was early this morning," he faltered, "about two o'clock, I heard noises in the lower part of the house. I came down, thinking likely it was you, and remembering that you had been sick yesterday—"

"Yes, go on."

The thought of my truancy was no balm to my conscience just then.

"As I came into the hall, saw lights in the library. As you weren't down last night the room hadn't been lighted at all. I heard steps, and some one tapping with a hammer—"

"Yes; a hammer. Go on!"

It was, then, the same old story! The war had been carried openly into the house, but Bates,—just why should any one connected with the conspiracy injure Bates, who stood so near to Pickering, its leader? The fellow was undoubtedly hurt,—there was no mistaking the wound on his head. He spoke with a painful difficulty that was not assumed, I felt increasingly sure, as he went on.

There Will Be Less Sleeplessness When Plainfield People Learn This.

Can't rest at night with a bad back,

A lame, a weak or an aching one.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad backs.

They cure every form of kidney ills,

From common backache to diabetes.

They are endorsed by Plainfield people.

John W. Snedeker, of 244 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "While suffering with kidney troubles, I used to feel in the morning that my sleep had not done me a bit of good, and all during the day I would suffer with a dull backache. Matters ran along in this way for some time, and I began to be bothered more and more with that tired, languid feeling of weakness and depression. My mother advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I did so with very encouraging results, as I am now well and entirely free from backache and that feeling of weakness. I sleep well at night and feel that my rest is beneficial."

THE COMPANY TO DEAL WITH.

Last August, The Prudential made a great concession to its Industrial Policyholders. It increased the amounts payable where death occurs within one year of the date of the policy, in many cases 100 per cent. Furthermore, it reopened about fifteen hundred cases where the claims had been already settled, and paid the additional benefits as provided in the concession.

TWO TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD IN BOWLING TOURNEY

KIELY AND RUNYON NOW ABREAST OF GADDIS AND DILKS.

By taking three straight games from VanEmburgh and Blatz, Chief Kiely and Judge Runyon tied Gaddis and Dilks for first place in the tourney at McLaughlin's, last night. The "municipal team" put up a bunch of good scores, the only poor one of the lot being a 133 by Runyon. Chief Keily was in fine fettle and held an average of 219.2, his scores being 200, 203 and 256. Their apponents were also in good shape and hit the timbers like the vets that they are but luck was against them and splits cropped up at the wrong times. The series was witnessed by a large gallery and the rooting at times was the most vociferous that has been in evidence since the tourney started.

Kiely and Runyon and Gaddis and Dilks have each won tyenty-four games and lost nine. Both teams have good leads over the nearest competitors and the contest will undoubtedly go to one or the other. Five more series are to be rolled by each. Kiely and Runyon also hold the high team score.

Mullen and Conklin rolled Maltby and Thiers last night and beat them two out of three. In their last game, Maltby and Thiers made a total of 409, the best for the night.

The scores:

Blatz	200	183	173
VanEmburgh	184	161	184
	384	344	357

P. H. S. DEFEATS HASBROUCK.

Visiting Team Put Up a Tricky Game But Lose by 45 to 20.

The Plainfield High School basketball five defeated the Hasbrouck Institute team of Jersey City Heights yesterday on the Plainfield High School court by the score of 45 to 20. P. H. S. excelled in team work and goal shooting. The game was rough; one of the Hasbrouck men frequently overstepped the bounds of sportsman conduct and fouls were called on him. Mr. Hyde, of Hasbrouck, gave satisfaction as umpire, and Collier, of Plainfield, as referee. Twenty and fifteen minutes halves were played.

The line-up:

P. H. S.	Hasbrouck.
forwards
Caldwell	Erwin
Doane	Kilridge
centre
Gavett	Lendren guards
Snyder	Goffiny
Freeman	Andre
Morris

Umpire, Hyde; referee, Collier; timer, Mathewson; scorer, Leggett.

BALL AND BARLOW WIN FIRST GAMES IN SERIES.

Make an Average of 351,6 in Beginning of Contest with West and Howe.

The first of a series of bowling matches between F. O. Ball and William Barlow, of the Park Club; Robert West, of the Elizabeth Club, and Howe, of Roselle Casino, was rolled on the Park Club alleys last night. The local team won out by a score of 351.6 to 350.0. Barlow was high man for the Parks with a score of 213, while Barlow was a close second with 211. West rolled the highest score for the opposing side, 216 in the first game, while Howe reached 201 in the fourth. The scores throughout were very close and at times neither one side or the other had any advantage to speak of. The scores follow:

GOOD JUMPING.

Lawrence, of Leal's, Equals Y. M. C. A. Record Up Since 1898.

The third event in the all-around championship competition of Leal's school boys, three standing broad jumps was held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Lawrence equalled the association record, 29 feet 6 inches, made by F. O. Bristol in 1898. His style of jumping indicates that he will smash records as a broad jumper before long.

Averill was second, jumping 23 feet 10 inches. Brown was third, 23 feet 6 inches. Averill leads the contestants, with 166 points; Rushmore is second, 11 points; and Campbell third, 89 points.

DIAMOND DUST.

Willy Deegan's reason for signing with Jersey City, instead of Toronto was one of cash. Joe Kelley, the new manager of Toronto, refused to give Willy what Barrows promised him last year, when Willy agreed to go on the Canuck team. Willy never signed a Toronto contract, so he promptly gave Joe Bean the call on his arm when the Jersey City manager offered him his figure. Willy will report at West Side Park, Jersey City, with the rest of the team, on April 1.

To Bowl in New Brunswick.

The P. B. A. bowling team will play a return match with the Keystone five, of New Brunswick, at New Brunswick, next Wednesday night.

—The Y. M. C. A. athletes will practice tonight for the coming duel meets.

Joy, of the borough, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Yellowstone National Park," at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Thursday night, March 7, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society. No admission fee will be charged, but a silver offering will be received.

"An Old Fashioned Album," an original offering, was the most entertaining feature of the affair at Warren chapel Thursday night. Those taking part were the Misses Kampman, Jewitt, Brown, Honeyman, Alice and Ella Osborne, Caroline Slauson, Miriam Masters, Ferry and Pope and Messrs. William and Lester Glenney, J. Whitney Baker, LeRoy Long, Joseph Gavett, Charles Monfort and Robert Gavett.

HARD MAN TO KILL.

With Skull Crushed and Zrain Pierced, Anderson Still Lives.

Perth Amboy, March 2.—With his skull fractured and the front of his head crushed by being hit by an elevator at the United Lead Company's works Thursday, Christian Anderson walked down four flights of stairs and sat in the office, awaiting the arrival of the ambulance, into which he stepped without help.

He was taken to the City Hospital, where it was found that an iron rod pierced the brain. Dr. W. E. Ramsay performed an operation at once, removing four inches of bone and some of the brain tissue.

The man has a slight chance of recovery. In speaking of the accident, Dr. Ramsay says it was the most remarkable exhibition of vitality he had ever seen. He declared the wounds Anderson received were sufficient to kill an ordinary man instantly. Anderson was painting when he was struck and had reached into the elevator shaft, not noticing the car descending.

TILLMAN KILLS HIS BOOM

Assemblyman Says He is Not a Candidate for the Gubernatorial Nominatoin.

SITUATION IN UNION

Fisk Likely to Get County's Delegates If He Wants Them—Boom For Fort.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, has killed the boom launched for him for the Republican gubernatorial nomination by declaring that he is no sense a candidate for the honor and the use of his name in such connection is entirely without his authority and against his wishes. The boom was launched at Trenton and from a reliable source it has been learned that it was never intended to be taken seriously.

While County Chairman Frank H. Smith declares that it is not the province of the chairman of the Union county committee to state any preference for a particular candidate, one of the other members of the committee, County Clerk James C. Calvert, is actively at work in the interest of Justice J. Franklin Fort. The name of the honored jurist it appears was originally mentioned by the Newark Evening News. That excellent paper in discussing the situation said Saturday regarding Mr. Fort:

"There are many reasons why the people of Union county have a strong liking for Justice Fort. Before his appointment to the bench he went over to Elizabeth and spoke at the great mass-meeting that had gathered to fight the race tracks. Later he presided over the circuit of which Union county formed a part, and every recollection of him is pleasant to the people of that county. It is not at all surprising, as the time is rapidly approaching when a new Governor must be elected, that one Union county Republican leader—probably with the concurrence of the rest—should strongly favor Justice Fort's nomination. Essex county is under obligations to Union for thus seconding a suggestion that has been heard here several times."

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, whose name has been mentioned during the last few days, will get the Union county delegates, it is reported, if he announces his candidacy, but he has not taken that step as yet. In speaking of him today, the Trenton correspondent of the New York Tribune says:

"If it be true that Charles J. Fisk, the Mayor of Plainfield, is to be pushed to the front as the Republican candidate for Governor there will be lots of fun ahead. There are several kinds of stories afloat. One is that Mr. Fisk will be the candidate of the Kean, Fowler and other Union county Republicans. Another story is that Fisk is being urged in opposition to Senator Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, who does not hesitate to express a desire to succeed Governor Stokes. So far as Fisk is concerned, he is not announcing his candidacy for anything. He rarely does. He was elected Mayor now and then because the people, regardless of party, insist upon it. If he should stand as the choice of his city and county it will be because this city and county insist upon it. His friends contend that if Mr. Fisk could be induced to make the fight he would keep all the other candidates busy."

There are many others being boomed for the nomination. Among the number are Justice Mahlon Pitney, of Morris county; State Senator Everett Colby and Chandler Riker, both of Essex county, as well as former First Assistant Postmaster General William Johnson, of Bergen county. Ane one of these, it is understood, would make an ideal candidate. But it is a long way off before convention time and there is apt to be much doing before any candidate is decided upon.

Ice Wagon and Cart Collide.

A horse belonging to and driven by George Cathers, the liveryman, and attached to a two-wheeled exercise cart, collided with one of John Morton's ice wagons on Somerset street, Saturday afternoon. For a few seconds it looked as if one of the three animals involved would be seriously injured but all escaped without a scratch though the pole of the ice wagon was broken off. The accident was caused, it is said, by Cathers driving on the wrong side of the street at a fast pace.

Stopped Embryo Auctioneer.

George Cathers, proprietor of the Park stables, conducted an auction sale of horses, Saturday afternoon and attempted to act the part of auctioneer after the man engaged for the purpose had gone. He was stopped by Chief Marshal Weiss on the ground that he had no license to perform the duties of auctioneer. As a result the sale was abruptly ended.

SCHOOL BOILER DISABLED BY BURSTING OF TUBE

JANITOR MISTAKES STEAM FOR SMOKE AND CALLS FIRE DEPARTMENT.

While Janitor Thomas Clarkson was in the Stillman building across the yard, at 7 o'clock this morning, a tube burst in the boiler at the Franklin school. It sent a cloud of steam all through the structure and as Clarkson was returning he mistook it for smoke. He promptly turned in an alarm from box 35 at Arlington avenue and Fifth street.

The gong gave the correct number of blows but the house tappers sounded 34 and the firemen went to the wrong box. A delay was occasioned in consequence and by the time they reached the school Clarkson had located the trouble. Captain James Daley and several of the men made their way through the blinding cloud and stopped the trouble. Clarkson was with them and in locating the valves, he stepped into the boiler pit which contained a couple of feet of water almost boiling hot. He was pretty severely burned before he scrambled out. It is not known what caused the tube to burst.

The damage to the boiler naturally prevented the building from being properly heated and the pupils gained an unlooked-for holiday. Workmen were promptly started repairing the damage and it is hoped to have everything in shape by tomorrow. It is considered fortunate that the accident occurred while the children were not in the building as the quickness with which the steam penetrated every room would undoubtedly have made trouble in getting them out.

MISS WHITNEY'S PUPILS GIVE A PIANO RECITAL.

Programme Delightfully Rendered at Newark Home On Saturday.

Several pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney gave a delightful piano recital Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Georgia Lane Hedden, 226 Roseville avenue, Newark. They were assisted by Miss Helen Meeker Whitney, mezzo-soprano. There was a very large audience of music-lovers from New York, Newark, Montclair, Orange and Plainfield, and all praised the meritorious work of the young artists, whose rendition of the many difficult numbers was remarkable.

Special mention is due the work of Miss Marguerite Barkalew, of this city, and Miss Elizabeth Burr, of East Orange, who have had only five months' instruction. Their interpretation of several numbers was quite marvelous. The audience was an enthusiastic one and generous in its applause. Miss Whitney, as the soloist, was also well received. Her excellent voice was truly appreciated, while Miss May Vincent Whitney was highly complimented for her part as instructor. The programme follows:

Part I.—A Little Study in G, Valse in F, Gurlitt; Sleepy Time, Mrs. Orth, Miss Marguerite Barkalew; The Doll's Dance, Mrs. Krogmann; My Son John, Mrs. Orth; Playtime, Hannah Smith, Miss Elizabeth Burr; vocal selections, Hills O'Skye, Victor Harris; Mighty Lak a Rose, E. Nevin, Miss Helen Meeker Whitney; Barcarole, Scharwenka; Elfin Dance, Jensen, Miss Martine Weeks; Berceuse, Thome; Mazurka in C minor, Borowski, Miss Inez Hedden; Soaring, Schumann; Nocturne in G flat, Meyer-Helmund; The Chase, Rheinberger, Miss Frances Rittenhouse.

Part II.—The Doll's Funeral, Tschaikowski; Gavotte in D, Von Wilm, Miss Elizabeth Martin; In Slumberland, Mrs. Krogmann; The Chase Gurlitt, Miss Mary Clarke; Lied, Bendel; Papillion, Lavallee, Miss Edith Hamilton; Valse in D flat, S. Jackson; Impromptu in E flat, Schubert, Miss Helen George; vocal selections, To My First Love, You'd Better Ask Me, Hermann, Lohr, Miss Helen Meeker Whitney; Kammenoi-Ostrow No. 22, Rubinstein; Hope, Kuhe; Polonaise, Paderewski, Miss Muriel Collins; I Love Thee, Grieg; Valse de Concert, Wienowski, Miss Myra Emmons.

Quietly Wedded.

Miss Ray Bowers, daughter of Ira C. Bowers, of East Third street, and Albert Fritz, of Prospect place, were quietly married at the home of the bride yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, and was witnessed only by a few relatives. Miss Madge Fritz, sister of the groom, and Frank Dentz, were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Fritz will make their home with the bride's father for the present but will go to housekeeping in the spring.

TRUSTEES WILL PROBE

To Consider Meskill Case at a Meeting Next Week.

HEARING WAS DELAYED

Postponed Saturday to Next Monday Afternoon—Board Meeting To Precede Court.

Frank Meskill, the South Plainfield school principal who is charged with assaulting Michael Savery, one of his pupils, was arraigned before Justice Von Minden in the borough hall at Dunellen Saturday afternoon. As had been arranged before court convened, the hearing was laid over until next Monday afternoon. It will be held in the New Market schoolhouse.

Before the hearing, the school trustees will hold a meeting to probe the case as a school matter. It is expected that the trustees will find formally for one or the other of the principals. Either the Saverd boy will be found guilty of insubordination and misconduct, and expelled from school, or the principal will be condemned for exceeding his authority and lose his position. The latter event would leave him in a disadvantageous position under the law; he would be open to a civil suit for damages.

It was said this morning that the school trustees are inclined to support Meskill, and had practically arranged to retain a lawyer in his defense. It was hinted that the principal will seek to show that the Saverd boy is incorrigibly bad, that his father, who makes the complaint on his behalf, has encouraged him in his alleged toughness, and, further, that the lad had boasted of what he intended to do to Meskill if the latter spoke to him of the clash on the road.

Opinion in South Plainfield regarding the case is divided. Those who oppose the principal are bitter in their feeling, and say nothing could justify a teacher in striking a pupil as he is alleged to have done. Meskill's friends are as numerous as his opponent's, and they are as decided in their support as the others are in their opposition. The hearing will draw a crowded house and demonstrations are likely to occur whichever way the trial tends. The court will open at 4 o'clock. The school trustees are to meet at 2:30 o'clock.

COMBINED CHOIRS RENDER WEST'S "FAITH AND PRAISE."

Westfield Presbyterian and Plainfield First M. E. Choirs Give Cantata Twice.

The rendition of John A. West's beautiful cantata, "Faith and Praise," by the combined choirs of the Presbyterian church, Westfield, and the First M. E. church, at the latter church, last night, was listened to by a large congregation. The programme opened with an organ voluntary, "In the Morning," Grieg; a prayer by the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, and an anthem, "King All Glorious," Barnby; an offertory selection, "Save Me O God," Randagger, Miss Bertha vanNuise Willis.

The rest of the evening was then devoted to the cantata. J. Edmund Skiff was the director and Mrs. Harry N. Taylor presided at the organ. The soloists were Miss Bertha vanNuise Willis, soprano; Miss Susanne Zimmerman, contralto; Carlos C. Gallup, bass; Frederick Kreidler, baritone, and H. P. Annen, tenor. The chorus work was uniform and harmonious, while the work of the soloists was particularly fine. Miss Willis and Mr. Gallup had the great part of the solo numbers and their interpretation was superb, as was also that of Miss Zimmerman, Mr. Kreidler and Mr. Annen.

In the afternoon the two choirs rendered the same cantata at the Presbyterian church, Westfield, before a large congregation.

Congregational Church Conference.

The semi-annnual conference of the Congregational church of New Jersey will be held at the Congregational church, Westfield, Thursday, with morning and afternoon sessions. Several fine speakers have been secured for the occasion, including Prof. Kent, of Yale, and Rev. Dr. H. H. Herring, the new secretary of the National Home Missionary Society of the Congregational church. A large number of delegates from the local Congregational church will attend.

Why Block Streets?

Will the Common Council allow the misuse of a street for another year by granting a license for a lunch wagon to block East Second street between Park and Watchung avenues? Just what excuse there may be for giving such a privilege, particularly when it interferes with traffic and is a constant menace to the fire department apparatus, is not clear to the average citizen.

REV. HOWARD CONDEMNS USE OF BAD LANGUAGE

"PROFANITY AND OBSCENITY" THE SECOND OF HIS SERIES OF SERMONS.

At Hope Memorial chapel, last night, Rev. L. R. Howard continued his series of special Lenten sermons on "Things To Be Avoided" and Spoke of "Profanity and Obscenity." His test was taken from Matthew xv:11—"That which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man."

At the beginning of his sermon, Mr. Howard referred to his subject of a week before, "Gambling—Betting," and said that profanity and obscenity were much wore than these. Of the two, he asserted profanity to be the more vile as the practice defiled the name of sacred things. Obscenity, he declared, to be all too prevalent and asserted that Christian parents should make it their duty to talk with their children regarding it, laying aside all false modesty and making them understand how low and degrading it is.

In referring to obscenity, Pastor Howard touched upon the reports of a sensational trial that is occupying the New York courts today and declared there is no excuse for the transcripts of conversations brought about in the examining of witnesses. The testimony is obscene to the last degree, he said, and the community would be better off if they were not printed. Papers containing the accounts, he continued, should be kept out of the hands of boys and girls.

In conclusion the speaker told by what manner users of profane and indecent language could overcome the practice and related several stories to show how men had done it.

WEATHER BELOW FREEZING 27 DAYS IN FEBRUARY.

Lowest on February 7, When Thermometer Dropped to 5 Degrees Below Zero.

While the weather cranks know that February was a remarkable month, the statistics furnished by Weather Prophet John Neagle, show some interesting facts. The minimum temperature was below 32 degrees on twenty-seven days of the month. The maximum temperature was 45 degrees on Feb. 14, the minimum temperature 5 degrees below zero on Feb. 7; mean maximum temperature, 32.2; mean minimum temperature, 13.4; mean temperature, 22.8; normal temparture, 28.5.

The total precipitation was 2.81 inches; greatest in 24 hours, 1.00 on the 5th; normal precipitation, 4.04 inches; total snowfall, 24 inches; average snowfall, 11.4 inches; snow on the ground, 15, eight inches; 28th, 7.5 inches. The mean temperature was 5.7 degrees below the normal and the precipitation was 1.13 inches below the normal. The snowfall was 12.6 inches above the normal. Below zero weather occurred on the 7th, 5 below, and on the 12th, when it was 2 below. The ground was covered with snow the entire month and it was clearly the coldest month of the winter. The previous heavy snowfall occurred in 1899, when it measured 32.9 inches the entire month of February. In that year rain was recorded, the total precipitation being 5.79 inches. In 1902 the snow fall was 23.2 inches. Total precipitation, including rain, was 7.65 inches. In February of this year it was mostly snow, with very little rain.

10,000 PLAINFIELDERS NON-CHURCH MEMBERS.

So Declares Minister In Telling of Alleged Great Change in the Church.

In a sermon at the Christian church yesterday, Rev. Phil A. Parsons declared that the Christ of fifty years ago was God but that today He is Man. Then, he declared, He was head of the church, but that if He were on earth today He would not identify himself with any church.

There are 10,000 people in Plainfield, the dominie declared, who are not identified with any church and these are the people, he said, that Christ would labor with were He here at the present time.

Sewage Maps at Collector's Office.

The detailed plans, maps and specifications of the two methods of sewage disposal for the borough, as prepared by Messrs. Hering & Fuller, have been placed in Collector George F. MR. ARNOLD ASKS ADVICE

City Treasurer Requests Corporation Counsel's Opinion as to Publishing Statements.

UNDER ACT OF 1893

Mr. Marsh Seen Regarding the Law Which Puts It Up to Common Council to Make Known Monthly Expenses.

City Treasurer William A. Arnold has requested Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to advise him as the application of the Act of the Legislature of 1893 providing for the monthly publication in a newspaper by the Common Council of all expenditures. Although this statute was made thirteen years ago, so far as is known it has never been enforced by the city fathers, and the city treasurer desires to know whether it is incumbent upon him to see that anything is done. When Mr. Marsh was asked this morning concerning his opinion of the law he replied that he had nothing to say at this time.

"I have asked Mr. Marsh about the law," said Mr. Arnold today. "I don't know whether it has been repealed or not. It seems to me that there is some later ordinance regarding the matter. It has always been my custom to make monthly reports to the Common Council of detailed itemized expenses and the finance committee also acts upon my report. In addition, I make an annual report, which goes into every detail of the city's finances for the year.

Mr. Arnold, it appears, has done his full duty under the provisions of the law by filing his monthly report as he always has done and if there is any oversight it is said to be with the Common Council.

Following is the Act, Chapter CCLXXVII, Pamphlet Lawe 1893, page 487:

"One, Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the common council or other governing body in cities of the second class, monthly, to publish in a newspaper printed and published in said city a detailed itemized statement of the expenditures of the public moneys by said board for the preceding month; and it shall be the duty of the treasurer of every such city to prepare the statements of such expenditures for publication.

"Two. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the common council or other governing body in said cities of the second class, at their first regular meeting held after the passage of this act, to designate a newspaper in said city to publish the said expenditures of the public moneys as herein provided for, and which newspaper so designated shall publish the same for the period of one year, at the expiration of which year it shall be the duty of said common council or other governing body to again designate a newspaper for that purpose; and in like manner shall a newspaper be designated each succeeding year.

"Three. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

"Four. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately."

SAMUEL TOWNSEND CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF NEW BANK.

People's Bank Directors of Westfield Elect Plainfielder As Head of Institution.

Samuel Townsend, of the borough, a director of The Plainfield Trust Company, was chosen president of the People's National Bank, at a meeting of the board of directors of that institution, Saturday afternoon. Joseph E. Gallagher, of Westfield, was elected vice president and it was decided to allow the appointment of a cashier to remain open for the present.

A meeting for effecting an organization of the new bank was held last week at the Westfield Club, and at that time Samuel Townsend, William L. Saunders, Charles W. McCutchen and J. Herbert Case, of this city, were the Plainfielders elected to membership on the board of directors. The other members are from Westfield. The new bank will be opened in the Abbott building on Broad street, Westfield, within a few weeks. Eventually the institution will plan to have a home of its own.

On Their New Jobs.

Chief of Police Kiely announced this morning that the newly promoted officers were on the assignments decided for them. Captain Frederickson will keep at his old work at the desk in the night shift. Detective Sergeant Flynn will sleuth around mostly on special details, at all hours, and Sergeant Overbaugh wil act as general utility man among the superior officers. He will work on the street a good bit of the time.

BROKEN BONE THREATENS LOSS OF DAIRYMAN'S LEG

GOOD AND ILL FORTUNE VISIT ABRAM GULICK AT THE SAME TIME.

Blood poisoning, following the breaking of his leg, threatens Abram Gulick, a prominent dairyman and stockman of Lincoln, with the loss of his limb. It is feared that the leg will have to come off in order to save the man's life.

Gulick fell and broke his leg two weeks ago, right after he had experienced a piece of good fortune in securing a comparatively heavy verdict in a suit against the P. S. C. for damages to his wagon in a collision with a car. The company was ordered to pay $200 by the jury, and although District Judge Newcorn reduced the verdict as excessive, it was cut down only by $75 and the costs. Gulick was considering the choice given by the court, to accept the reduced verdict or submit to a new trial of the action, when the accident occurred. Then he decided to take the $125.

When Dr. W. J. Nelson, of New Market, took charge of Gulick after the accident the break was supposed to be a simple one, but a day or two later the leg began to swell and discolor, and the dangerous symptoms increased. Dr. G. W. Endicott, of this city, was called into consultation, and there is a faint hope that the leg will be saved.

TWO MINISTERS OFFICIATE AT MR. PANGBORN'S FUNERAL.

Services Held at Late Contractor's Home and Interment In Presbyterian Cemetery.

The funeral services of William Pangborn took place at his late home in Chatham street, Saturday afternoon. For several hours prior to the service an opportunity wis given to view the body. Rev. John F. Dobbs, of New York, a nephew of Mr. Pangborn, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, who offered prayer. The interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery. The pall bearers were James Manning, L. B. Woolston, W. C. Krausse, J. D. Loizeaux, Elias H. Bird and Henry Nischwitz. There were a great many floral tributes, including set pieces from Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum; Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. F.; Bricklayers and Masons' International Union, and from his employes as well as from members of the family.

Mr. Pangborn had been engaged in the contracting business in Plainfield for a great many years and had erected many of the finest dwellings and business houses. At the time he was stricken he had under contract the Plainfield Savings Bank, extensive alterations to H. G. Runkle's house on West Eighth street and seven new houses on Evergreen avenue. During the past few months Mr. Pangborn's son, Albert Pangborn, was associated with his father in the management of the business and he will continue it.

CHARGED BY CONSTABLE.

Eugene La Baw Arrested For Alleged Trouncing of Officer.

Alleging that he had been assaulted and showered with profane and indecent language, Constable Robert L. Pierce, of New Market, haled Eugene La Baw, of Clinton avenue, just over the city line, to Justice Von Minden's court in Dunellen Saturday afternoon. Pierce asserts that La Baw feloniously threw him off his place last Wednesday, when he was seeking to serve a summons in a civil suit on George La Baw. Lawyer Harry C. Runyon, for the defense, secured an adjournment of the hearing to Wednesday afternoon. La Baw was released under his own recognizance.

La Baw says he merely collared the constable, and chased him from his grounds. He alleges that Pierce had bothered him several times with summonses for his brother, who does not live at his house, and had been warned to keep off the place.

Clark—Gardiner.

Miss Mabel F. Gardiner was married Saturday evening to Harrison Clark, Jr., at the home of the bride's brother, Alfred Paul Gardiner, No. 7 West Seventy-Fifth street, New York. Her only attendant was Mrs. Alfred Paul Gardiner, who served as matron of honor. Mr. Gardiner and family were residents of this city two years ago, when they occupied their country home, corner of Grove street and Park place.

Will Repeat Old Fashioned Concert.

Because of the numerous requests made by people who were unable to hear it, Judge Runyon has decided to repeat the old-fashioned concert given at Hope chapel on Washington's Birthday. It will be presented Wednesday night, March 13, and a number of new selections will be introduced. The first rehearsal will be held Wednesday night of this week.

HOLY CROSS DEBT PAID

Gift to Discharge Incumberance and Another Towards New Building Fund.

IN MR. BROOKS' MEMORY

One Present of $1,500; the Other $2,000—Church to Be Built During Coming Year.

Announcement bringing surprise and pleasure to the members of the Church of the Holy Cross was made at the morning service yesterday by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, when he stated that through the generosity of a member of the parish the total indebtedness, amounting to about $1,500, was about to be liquidated, thus clearing the church property of all incumberance. He also announced that it gave him added pleasure to inform the parishioners that $2,000 have been given to the building fund in memory of the late Herbert Brentnall Brooks for the new church, which it is proposed to erect within the next year.

The rector made the announcement just before the sermon. He said that he hoped to see a handsome stone church, a larger and more commodious one than the present one, rise up on the present site within twelve months. He spoke of the present to the church which will be of lasting benefit.

It is proposed to build the new edifice as speedily as a goodly sum towards the cost is in hand. Mayor Newton B. Smalley expressed his purpose sometime ago to the rector to give all the stone necessary in the work of construction. It is also reported that several wealthy parishioners will step forward shortly and contribute liberally to the building fund.

PRESIDENT CALKINS APPOINTS EXECUTIVE COMMITTE FOR 1907.

Representative Golfers Selected by the Head of New Jersey State Golf Association.

Leighton Calkins, president of the New Jersey State Golf Association, has appointed the following to serve, with him, as the Executive Committee of the association for the coming season: Secretary and treasurer, J. Whitney Baker, Plainfield; chairman Tournament Committee, E. N. Todd, Baltusrol; chairman Handicap Committee, M. D. W. Thurston, Roseville; committeeman, Hon. John W. Griggs, Jersey; committeeman, Percy Jackson, Younntakah.

This is a strong committee of representative enthusiastic New Jersey golfers. The annual championship will be held at the Baltusrol Golf Club, June 6, 7 and 8. A big entry is assured, owing to the popular regard for Baltusrol by New Jersey players, and owing to that club's central location. The prizes will include eleven gold medals, and prizes besides for the handicap and for the team match. This tournament should be the best in the history of the association. Archie Graham, who won last year at Morristown, will be called upon to defend his title on one of, if not the most difficult links in the country.

MISS LILLIAN DUCKWORTH BRIDE OF PHILADELPHIAN.

Quietly Wedded to Adolph J. Kohler at Her Home Saturday Afternoon.

In the presence of only immediate relatives, Miss Lillian Duckworth, of this city, and Adolph J. Kohler, of Plainfield, but formerly of Philadelphia, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. L. R. Howard. The ceremony was performed at the home of Tom Chamberlain, of West Third street, foster-father of the bride, who gave her away in marriage. Miss Duckworth was attended by her sister, Mrs. Walter Emmons, and Edwin J. Howes acted as best man.

Following the ceremony the bridal party and guests partook of a wedding supper, during which Mr. and Mrs. Kohler received congratulations. They will make their home in this city, the groom being employed in one of the local shops. Mrs. Kohler has been pianist at Hope chapel and has a host of local friends. Both young people were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts.

"The Majestic theatre was ablaze with fashion last evening when the musical comedy melange, "The Hottest Coon in Dixie," was the attraction. The play was a novelty throughout and presented many new ideas which have not been seen here before. Not a dull moment was allowed to pass. The players received a big ovation. The comedy situations were all presented with a dash that could not fail to please."—Erie Daily Times, Dec. 20, 1906. "The Hotest Coon in Dixie" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

David Higgins, supported by Miss Eleanor Montell and a strong and capable company, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night in the fourth edition of his beautiful drama, "His Last Dollar." The play is an American character comedy, written by Mr. Higgins and Dr. Baldwin G. Cooke, and tells the experience of a rich Kentuckian, who has come East to try his hand at the New York Stock Exchange. The story is told in five acts and the play will be presented by a large and efficient company. Mr. Higgins will appear as Joe Braxton, the Southerner, and Miss Eleanor Montell as Eleanor Downs, a young Kentucky girl, who has brought her horse East to race in the Great Futurity. The incident of a horse race is used as an element to develop the story, and the romantic interest involved is said to be of sufficient originality and strength to serve as the groundwork of a strong and virile drama.

The popular young actor, Joseph Santley, has a great big success in his new play, "Billy the Kid," if the verdict of the recent engagement in New York can be relied upon. Play and actor were not only well remembered by the critics, but the theatres at which the play was presented were packed at each performance. The play is a wholesome one, yet at the same time it is as full of dramatic climaxes as a nut is full of meat. The scenes are all laid in the great southwest, New Mexico, and are presented in four acts. The first shows the exterior of the big house on the "home ranch," the second, the interior of the "broken heart" saloon; the third, the dining room of a hospitable colonel's home, and the last is placed in the same locality as the first. Mr. Santley is supported by what is said to be one of the strongest companies that has been got together this season and the production to be a most elaborate one. Star and play will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night.

BRIDE FOR VICTOR.

Trenton Young Men Play Pool for Sweetheart and She Accepts Winner.

Trenton, March 4.—William Britton and Edward Hill, Trenton electrical workers, have just concluded a pool tournament in which a sweetheart, Fannie Meyer, was the prize contested for. Three games of twenty-five points each were played and Britton was the winner. J. Howard Johnson was the referee.

The girl was a party to the contest, although she refrained from witnessing any of the games. She will take the word of the referee as to the result and become the bride of Britton as soon as wedding arrangements can be completed. Hill is accepting his defeat philosophically. He has promised to act as best man at the wedding of his successful rival.

The first game in the tournament was won by Britton, the score being 25 to 23. The next game was won by Hill, with a score of 25 to 21, and the contest then became excitingly interesting. The next game was attended by some spectacular playing by both young men, but Britton finally won out with a score of 25 to 19. All of the games were played in public parlors, but at the time none of the spectators knew how vital was the issue at stake.

The two young men and the girl have been friendly for several years. The girl could not decide between the two rival lovers, and neither of the latter was willing to give way to the other. Both were devotees of the pool table, and it was finally decided to settle the contest of love in this way.

—The regular rehearsal of "Pinafore" will be held at the Casino tomorrow night. The chorus has been enlarged to seventy.

—The work of construction at the new telephone building on East Fourth street is progressing rapidly. It is expected that this week the workmen will begin to equip the operating room. Then will follow the important work of connecting the cables.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Joe Perretta, the village tonsorial artist, who has been allowed to conduct his business unmolested for two months, was again made the victim of the gang Saturday night. A large plate glass in his shop window was broken, entrance was made and his tobacco stock confiscated. What could not be used was thrown about the streets. This makes the fourth time within six months this has been done and it is about time some action was taken, or effort made to arrest the guilty ones.

Mrs. Sarah Parse-Hart, a former old resident of this place, celebrated her 91st birthday at her home at Bound Brook, Friday. Several from here called and spent the afternoon with their old neighbor who has nearly reached the century mark and is still hale and hearty.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith has recovered from his recent severe illness, and was able to again occupy his pulpit at the Baptist church yesterday at both services. At the close of the morning sermon the regular monthly communion was held.

"Willie" Deegan will wear a Jersey City uniform this season instead of a Toronto. Manager "Joe" Bean made the local twirler a better offer than Manager Murray, so "Willie" affixed his signature to a contract for 1907.

The quarterly conference meeting of the Methodist church was held yesterday morning at the Methodist church. Presiding Elder Rev. Dr. Halloran, of Elizabeth, had charge of the service.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lowry Van Dyke and children, of Westfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Van Dyke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Nichol, of Mountain avenue.

William C. Stanberry, who has been ill for several months, does not improve as rapidly as his friends would like, his condition remaining about the same.

George Harper and family have taken possession of the Marsh house on Front street, removing their household goods from Brooklyn on Saturday.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. held an interesting meeting in the parlors of the church last night.

Charles Reick, of Elizabethport, spent Sunday with relatives and friends in town.

Robert Jahn has returned from a stay with friends at Syracuse, New York.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Bob Fitzsimmons, who is still champion light middle-weight, filled a dramatic engagement in Marion, Ind., three weeks ago, the first since he was initiated in the local lodge of Elks, which resulted in the lodge losing its charter and caused the expulsion of two presiding officers. Fitzsimmons was hoisting highballs yesterday with a party of friends at the bar of the hotel, at which he was stopping, when a porter, who was sweeping the floor, jostled against him. Fitz said: "Brush by; don't be bumping into me!" This offended the porter, who did not know the lanky customer was a famous prize fighter. The porter was angry and declared that he would not stand for any bluff. Lanky Bob told him that he would fight provided he trained down to weight. Fitz then walked out and the porter was told that the man whom he had challenged to fight was the man who had whipped Corbet. The porter was so frightened that he hid in the basement of the hotel until Fitzsimmons retired for the night.

The Borough Council will meet tonight. The matter of receiving bids for stone to be used on the streets during the year will come up.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band of the Presbyterian church will meet this afternoon with Miss Emma Craig.

Walter G. Runyon is building a house on South avenue. Rimmer, Apgar & Cuzen have the contract.

The organizers of a Brotherhood branch at the Presbyterian church will meet Thursday night.

Stephen Kennedy has entered on a position with the American Engine Co., of Bound Brook.

Walter Nelson will captain the Rutgers College nine this year. He is a catcher.

The Township Committee will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Nelson.

H. J. Piddington is entertaining Miss Grace Wilson, of Long Branch.

Harry Snyder has entered the employ of Levering & Garrigues.

Rev. Frank Fletcher preached in Scranton, Pa., yesterday.

Kerro Knox, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday at his home on Rockview avenue.

Misses Nora Noonan and Margaret Egenton are the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien, of Elizabeth.

George Hooley, a student at Swarthmore College, is spending a few days at his home in the borough.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who has been detained at home several days by a cold, is much improved and expects to be out soon.

—For the best results try a Press Want ad.

—The Common Council will hold its regular March meeting tonight. It is expected that matters of considerable importance will be considered.

—Edward Lynch, of North avenue, has resigned his position with Scheuer & Co., in order to become a member of the staff of "The Monitor," the well known Catholic publication.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held tomorrow night at the home of Miss Cora Brokaw, 821 Webster place.

The women of the Park Avenue Baptist church having foreign mission mite boxes are requested to return them as soon as possible to Mrs. John H. Doane, of East Seventh street.

Elston Leonard and Henry Brose will give a Victor talking machine concert at the entertainment to be given by the Boys' Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, on Friday night, March 15.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church has arranged to have Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, the former pastor, deliver an address at the church on Friday night, March 22.

The Christian Endeavorers of the city are urged to attend a mass meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Seventh-Day Baptist church to consider a plan to continue the mission work at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle.

There will be an all-day session of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church in Vincent chapel tomorrow, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. There will be sewing, basket-lunch and election of officers.

Beginning with the March number of The Messenger, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church monthly magazine of church events, will pass into the management of a committee from the Men's Club. In the past W. D. Murray has been the sole editor.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has extended an invitation to the Men's Club of the church to spend an evening at his home in the near future. The date will be announced later. The annual meeting of the club will be held the first week in April, when officers will be elected and committees appointed.

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church hopes to have James G. Phelps Stokes, the former well known settlement worker, speak before the club in the near future, at which time he will take up certain phases of the problem of the distribution of wealth, which he was unable to cover in the lecture he gave here in January.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold an all-day sewing meeting tomorrow, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. A box luncheon will be served. The Women's Foreign Missionary Society will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, presenting an interesting programme. All the women of the church are invited to both meetings.

WANT MORE FOR MILK.

Dairy Farmers May Organize to Force Higher Prices.

Franklin Park, March 4.—To endeavor to get for their milk half the price paid by consumers, the dairy farmers of this vicinity are attempting to form an organization of owners of the various herds that supply New Brunswick and adjacent towns.

Several informal meetings have been held and altogether from forty to fifty farmers have taken part and discussed the question of milk prices. The result has been that John L. Totten, one of the best known farmers of Somerset county, has been selected chairman of the movement and directed as a committee of one to look into the matter and see if it is not possible for the farmers to get a better price for their milk without raising the cos to the consumer. Mr. Hotten is endeavoring to interest all dairymen of Middlesex and Somerset counties and get them to attend a public meeting on the subject.

At present, the herd owners declare, they get an average price for the year of three cents a quart for their milk. In summer it runs from two to two and a half cents, and in winter from three to three and a half. The retailer, however, sells milk in New Brunswick and its neighbor communities for six cents in summer and eight cents in winter.

Mrs. John Manley, of Park avenue, is detained at home with the grip.

Stephen Belinder, of Albany, N. Y., has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

William Mack, of West Front street, has recovered from a tedious illness with rheumatism.

Miss Nellie Arnold, of Manning avenue, has gone to New York to spend two weeks with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth and daughter, Miss Matie Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, will sail for Europe in April.

D. F. Stewart, of John street, who has recently returned home from Muhlenberg Hospital, is doing nicely and his complete recovery is looked for within a short time.

EXTRAVAGANCE COSTS HEIR $300,000 SUIT.

Federal Court Sustains Executors in Withholding Cash From Philadelphian.

Trenton, March 4.—United States Judge Joseph Cross Saturday threw out of court the suit of George A. Ballantine, of Philadelphia, one of the heirs under the will of Peter H. Ballantine, the multi-millionaire brewer, of Newark. Young Ballantine sued to recover three-fifths interest, which was conditionally bequeathed, but held up by the executors on the ground that young Ballantine had been extravagant.

Judge Cross in his opinion says: "If payment to George had been made by the trustees, the entire fund would long ago have been spent. He was inattentive to business, grossly extravagant and expended within a comparatively short time not only a large income, but the principal which he received from his sisters for the one-fifth of the share assigned to them, as well as a far larger sum received from his grandfather's estate, not withstanding which, he was, during much of the time, as he is now, heavily in debt."

The suit loses Ballantine about $300,000.

ORDINARY SIZED GRAVE HOLDS UP HER FUNERAL.

Digger Fails to Follow Instructions To Make Excavation Wider.

Atlantic City, March 4.—A grave digger who failed to follow instructions to dig an extra large grave for the corpse of Mrs. Jennie Faunce, of Port Norris, held up the funeral of the woman scheduled for Sunday at Pleasantville. Incidentally the delay gave opportunity for the arrival of the son of the dead woman, who is a sailor aboard the battleships Rhode Island, now at Hampton Roads.

A Milleville undertaker, who had the funeral in charge, telephoned to the grave digger to make the excavation two inches wider than usual, but when the funeral cortege arrived the directions had not been followed and the coffin could not be lowered into the grave. The funeral was then postponed for a day to allow of the change being made.

Her son had been summoned on his mother's death and arrived late Sunday night in time to follow the mother's corpse to the grave.

DRUNK SAW CHICKENS INSTEAD OF SNAKES.

His Cell in Camden Jail Was Filled With Struting, Cackling Fowl.

Instead of seeing snakes as the result of his drunken debauch, John Clark, a prisoner in the Camden city jail, early yesterday morning saw hens and roosters walking about his cell. His terrified yells brought Hall Sergeant Tatem to the scene.

Their loud crowing and cackling had awakened him before daybreak. In his befuddled condition and in the dim light the chickens assumed unusual size to Clark. He was shaking with terror when Sergeant Tatem drove the fowls out.

The chickens, to the number of ten, had been found in possession of John Kocpack, who was arrested on a charge of stealing them from Henry Hubbs. They strayed from Kocpack's cell into that of Clark. Kocpack was held in $500 bail, and Clark took an oath never to taste intoxicants again.

The Gentle Third Degree.

Chicago, Ill., March 4.—Gruelling cross examination of George W. Fitzgerald, accounting teller of the United States Sub-Treasury who fainted under the cruel fire of questions, came to a sensational and dramatic close Saturday hwen the suspected teller jumped from a secret closet, where he had been hidden by the secret service men, and assaulted one of the investigators, drawing a "billy" from his pocket and threatening to kill him. Fitzgerald had been hidden in a small closet in Captain Porter's office after the close of the sweat box ordeal under which he had collapsed. Captain Porter conducted several newspaper representatives and investigators through all the rooms of his office. He had failed sufficiently to conceal the secret place where Fitfigerald was hidden, however, and Fitzgerald's presence was discovered. This fact so angered Fitzgerald that he sprang from his hiding place, and, striking one of the men in the face, felled him to the floor. "I'll kill you," he said, "and I want to tell you now that if I am followed as I have been somebody will get killed before I am through." What admissions, if any, were obtained from Fitzgerald could not be learned. The government operatives are n ow seeking to locate the money and to obtain the necessary chain of evidence in what is believed to have been a conspiracy to rob the United States coffers.

Dies of Broken Heart.

New York, arcMh 4.—Dr. Philip O'Hanlon, Coroner's Physician, made an autopsy on the body of James Wilson, sixty-five years old, a shoemaker, who was found dead in bed yesterday at No. 335 Ninth avenue. Dr. O'Hanlon found that Wilson's death was due to a rupture of an artery near the heart. A rupture of that charter is known to scientists as a "broken heart." The rupture was not due to grief, but to deterioration of the walls of the artery.

BRISBANE BUYS VILLAGE

Becomes Owner of Deserted Allaire and Will Make It a Model Farm.

PRICE PUT AT $125,000

Place Famous Once as an Iron Foundry Centre and Gives Best Crops in Jersey—Price Put at $125,000.

Arthur Brisbane has bought the deserted village of Allaire, N. J., from the Allaire Water Supply and Land Company. The place takes in some 600 acres, and Mr. Brisbane is understood to have paid $125,000 for it.

For years Mr. Brisbane has been deeply interested in experimental and scientific agriculture, and he intends to make Allaire one of the finest model farms in the East. Several streams and some small lakes in the vicinity furnish an abundant water supply for farm purposes. Mr. Brisbane has had the scheme of developing property under consideration for some time, and has frequently been seen at Allaire.

He intends to begin developing according to his ideas at once. In the spring a large orchard is to be laid out and the ground will be cleared for the crops. William Fosdick will have charge of the farm, assisted by a graduate of the Agricultural Department of Cornell University.

Monmouth county, N. J., has always had a fine reputation for its crops, and in recent years it is said to have yielded more per acre than any farm place in the United States or, for that matter, in the world. Allaire was the site of one of its most prosperous farms.

The place is on the Freehold and Jamesburg Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, about six miles from Lakewood and about twenty from Asbury Park. A collision between a Pennsylvania train and an automobile brought it into public notice last August, but it was famous once as an iron manufacturing centre.

That was in the long ago. John Allaire built a great iron works there and the village was named after him. The iron-work used in the construction of Robert Fulton's steamboat was made at Allaire. Steamboat screws were first manufactured there. John Roach, the shipbuilder, learned his trade under Allaire and lived near the works.

The company store, now a feature of all large manufacturing concerns, had its inception in Allaire. In fact, the works were so prosperous for a time that the Howell Iron Company, as the corporation operating the works was known, issued its own currency to the 500 or more workmen it employed.

But the remoteness of Allaire from any of the mining centres led to its downfall. Its ore had to be shipped from Pennsylvania, and the company, soon after Mr. Allaire's death, found itself unable to compete with the Pennsylvania iron manufacturers, who were then just getting a real start in business. For a time it kept going, but it was wiped out as soon as the Pennsylvania foundries began active operations.

Now it is only a deserted village. The foundries, the old office building, and several of the smaller buildings used in the manufacture of stoves and marine castings, the principal output of the works, are still standing together with some of the cottages in which the workmen lived, but they are empty.

One of the cottages was made over and called the Delisle Inn. That alone is inhabited, but it is one of the principal roadhouses in that section of New Jersey. It is open summer and winter, and gains much of its prosperity from the sightseers who flock to the place from Asbury Park, and the seaside resorts in the summer months, and from Lakewood in the winter. The church also is still used for worship by the farmers in Allaire and the near-by towns, but the workshops are simply picturesque ruins.

There are no direct descendtnts of Allaire, the original manufacturer, still living. His son, "Prince Hall" Allaire, a graduate of Columbia University, died about seven years ago. He developed the farm idea on the site of the old works, but he lived more or less the life of a recluse. After his death the farm was run by a stock company, in which several New Jersey politicians, including Senator O. H. Brown, were interested.

Since its decay as an iron town, however, Allaire has been one of the sight-seeing spots of New Jersey. In the summer stage lines have done a prosperous business by running there from Asbury Park and the near-by resorts, and sight-seeing automobilies have been utilized to similar purpose.

Messenger Girls in Hoboken.

Hoboken, March 4.—Tiring of the task of keeping boys up to the scratch, the manager of the local office of the Postal Telegraph Company decided to put uniformed girls on the force of messengers. The first girl went on duty yesterday. She is sixteen-year-old Marion Ott, and as soon as the news of the innovation spread over the city, the office call bells were kept on the jingle. Never had Hoboken needed so many messengers in one day.

SAY THEY PAID FOR STAGE JOBS

Girls Accuse "Theatre Agent" of Taking Their Money.

Walter B. Hoyt, forty-five years old, posing as a theatre agent, was a prisoner in the Newark Police Headquarters yesterday on a charge of swindling young girls who say they paid him money for places in a chorus. He was arrested Saturday night with his wife. They lived in a furnished room at No. 5 Elm street, Newark.

Hoyt advertised for chorus girls between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, and several responded. Three of them, Miss Lulu Blair, of No. 127 New York avenue; Miss Margaret Keegan, of No. 325 Walnut street, and Miss Georgiana Campbell, of Mulberry and Green streets, all of Newark, appealed to the police and were responsible for the arrests.

Mrs. Hoyt was not detained, because the girls said that all she had to do with the transactions was to measure them for the costumes they were supposed to wear while singing in the chorus.

According to the complainants, Hoyt told them they would have to pay $5 to join the supposed company, and more if they wanted speaking parts. One of them deposited a gold watch as security. When arrested Hoyt had several pawn tickets, one of which, he admitted, was for the watch.

Winding Up Congress.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—So far as Congress is concerned yesterday was Saturday, March 2, because both houses were at work winding up the session, and the record will show that there has been a continuous day, beginning at 11 o'clock yesterday. The Fifty-ninth Congress comes to an end today and it will be found that its path is strewn with the grinning skulls of good intentions and of Presidential projects and extravagance. The President too has been working on a fictitious Saturday and has spent many hours at the White House, assisted by Secretary Root and other members of his Cabinet, scrutinizing bills, signing some, rejecting others and keeping as closely up to the lawmakers as possible. The most notable achievement of the session of Congress just closing has been the expenditue of about as much money as was authorized by the session of Congress held in 1899, when the Spanish War was being paid for. The totals will be about $930,000,000, and this does not take into account sums with which the Treasury will be saddled next year and the year following, such as $47,000,000 continuing appropriations in the River and Harbor bill.

At Bay, Kills Himself.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 4.—Driven to bay by a crowd of men who pursued him after he had shot and wounded seventeen-year-old Edna McKnight, of whom he was enamored, Malcolm H. Pool, aged twenty-one years, shot and killed himself here yesterday. Pool had boarded at the McKnight home until recently, when he was ordered to leave because he insisted upon forcing his attentions upon Miss McKnight. Yesterday afternoon he went to a church where Miss McKnight was in attendance and followed her as she left. The girl fled and Pool fired two shots at her, one of which took effect in the arm. Pool then ran, with a large crowd in pursuit and, finding himself cornered, sent a bullet into his heart.

Dillon Wallace to Lecture.

Instead of Dr. Grenfell, who was to have addressed the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Monday, March 11, D. Wallace, the author of "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," has been secured to speak at that time. Dr. Grenfell found it impossible to keep the engagement. Mr. Wallace has twice penetrated the depths of that unexplored land, and he will use many of Dr. Grenfell's lantern slides together with his own.

MAY GET MUSTER ROLLS

New Jersey May Receive Military Data From Massachusetts.

BELONGED TO JERSEY

Part of the Third New Jersey Regiment in the Revolutionary War.

Boston, Mass., March 4.—That the muster rolls of Captain John Mott's company of the Third New Jersey Regiment of the Revolutionary War, now in the custody of the Secretary of State of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, are to be returned to the proper State officials seems likely to become a fact. The General Court of the Bay State has at last taken action on the matter with the result that the documents, five in number, are likely to be soon forwarded to the Governor at Trenton.

The matter came up for a hearing some time ago before the Massachusetts committee on federal relations. The Secretary of State explained the difficulties of the situation, saying he was under oath to protect the property of the State as required by the Constitution, which was a matter that the Legislature had no power to change. It might be possible, however, that these documents were not the property of the State, that they might belong to New Jersey, and were in Massachusetts by mistake. If that was so there would be no difficulty. He suggested, however, that the Attorney-General be consulted about the matter.

This was done, with the result that the committee has reported the following resolution, which will be the Secretary's authority for taking the documents from his archives and sending them here:

"Resolved, To authorize the return of certain muster rolls to the State of New Jersey.

"Resolved, That the Secretary of the commonwealth is hereby authorized to comply with the request of the Governor of New Jersey for the return to the State of New Jersey of the muster rolls of Captain Mott's company, Third New Jersey Regiment, Revolutionary War (five in number), now in the archives collection of this commonwealth."

The resolution is now before the Legislature.

These rolls are in the same handwriting as a number of others of Massachusetts troops. Apparently they were all made out by the same clerk at some camp where troops from several of the companies were gathered. There is nothing to show from what part of New Jersey they were mustered, and it is a very small company, so far as numbers go. The names on the rolls are as follows:

Captain, John Mott; lieutenants, Joseph Anderson, William Norcross; ensign, Mahlon Ford; corporals, Edward Russell, John Brown; fifer, Joseph Garrison.

Privates—Peter Birney, Abraham Hazelton, John Burroughs, Samuel Dondney, John Major, Wm. Haines, Elnathan Langley, Uriah Maule, John Hinds, Alexander Jones, Geo. Bruce, Philip Goggin, Samuel Greatwood, Daniel Brewster, Michael Surdam, Thomas Bradshaw, John Osborn, John Harding, Daniel Davis, Nathan Kemble, Thomas Bleakman, Bennett Garrison, Davis Langley, James Ray.

Foot notes on the roll say that Davis Langley is absent on account of small-pox, that John Harding, Daniel Davis, Nathan Kemble, Abraham Southard, Alexander Jones are sick, but the disease is not specified; that John Major has died and Uriah Maule has edserted.

MOTHER SEES SON KILLED.

Six-Year-Old Lad Sent to Church, but Played Instead.

Trenton, March 4.—Within sight of his mother, Andrew Mras, 6 years old, 716 South Broad street, was decapitated by a trolley car yesterday morning in front of his home.

The lad was sent to church by his mother, but instead of going he started to play. Directly opposite the Mras home is a fire engine house. The apparatus was just coming in when little Andrew made a dash across the street to see the engine. A swiftly moving Yardvill e car struck the lad and he was thrown beneath the trucks. Death was instantaneous.

Dr. Oronhyatekha Dead.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, of Toronto, Canadian Consul in Liberia, former chief of the Mohawk Indians and supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, which he organized, died at Savannah, Ga., from heart disease and diabetes Saturday evening. Dr. Oronhyatekha, who was sixty-six years old, was a full blooded Mohawk Indian. He was graduated from Oxford University, England, where he was sent by Edward VII, then Prince of Wales. The Indian name of the dead man meant "Morning Cloud."

Mrs. Williams, of Philadelphia, mother of Mrs. Gornelius Schenck, of West Front street, is visiting her daughter.

Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church, has been called to South Amboy by the serious illness of his father, Henry Miller.

VOTERS WILL DECLARE CHOICE FOR SENATORS

BOTH PARTIES COMMITTED TO PASSAGE OF PROPOSED LAW.

Whatever the New Jersey Legislature may or may not do at the present session, it is certain to provide a means for the v oters to register their choice for United States Senators at the party primary elections. Senator-elect Frank O. Briggs is the last to gain the office by individual legislative favor.

Governor Stokes in his annual message, started the ball rolling for a popular vote on United States Senatorships by a strong recommendation, and the first administration bill introduced in the State Senate was one for that purpose, presented by Mr. Hillery, of Morris county, the Republican floor leader.

The Democrats in the House, who control that body, are committed by caucus action to the proposed change of system, and have a similar measure of their own, introduced by Assemblyman Hendrickson, of Hudson. Supported by the Legislators of both parties and by the Governor, such a measure cannot fail to become a law.

The temper of the lawmakers in the matter was shown last week when Assemblyman Barber, Republican leader in the House, urged unanimous support for a concurrent resolution offered by Mr. Alexander, Democrat, requesting the New Jersey delegation in Congress to go on record for a constitutional amendment to provide for the direct election of United States Senators by the people. This put the resolution through the House.

Governor Stokes regards the naming of United States Senators by popular selection as one of the most desirable of reforms, and with the adoption of his ideas on the subject in this State assured, he is watching with interest the favorable reception the same proposition has received in the Pennsylvania Legislature.

In his message, Governor Stokes said:

"United States Senators are elected under the provisions of the United States Constitution and United States statutes. The members of the Legislature are merely the agents of the United States Government in choosing these officials. The manner of voting and all details are regulated by national, and not by State laws.

"Whatever may have been the theory of our forefathers in vesting the election of United States Senators in the Legislatures of the several States, the presumption today is that the members of the Legislature, in performing their duty, voice the sentiment of their respective constituencies. * * *

"So long as the members of the Legislature are directly responsible to the voters of their own county, any provision for the selection of a United States Senator by popular choice must be based upon the county as the unit of representation.

"Such a law could easily be added to our present elective machinery. The primary act could be so amended so that at the primaries for the nomination of members of a Legislature, who would at the next Legislative session vote for a United States Senator, every voter could indicate his choice for Senator upon the primary ticket. This would be a direct mandate from the voters of each county to their representatives in the Legislature.

"This provision is simple, requires little legislation, and gives the voters an opportunity to express their wishes—all that they can do under the present provisions of the United States Constitution."

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

It is expected that a number of the South Plainfield Bible school workers will attend the Sabbath-school Institute at New Market on Saturday. The programme, which begins at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and continues till 9:20, is full of good things.

The topic for the prayer meeting tomorrow evening will be the twenty-eighth Psalm. The interest in the exposition of the Psalms does not diminish and even on these winter nights quite a large number gather together.

Miss Margaret Randolph's condition is serious. She passed a bad night, fainting once during the night.

A delegation went to Thenton this afternoon to attend a hearing on the borough question.

Miss Emma Manning is entertaining Mrs. Armstrong, of Asbury Park.

Supper at the Oak Tree parsonage tomorrow—they'll have chicken.

Tom Linaberry goes to Trenton tonight on borough business.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

An important meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. will be held at 8 o'clock tonight. Athletics and other matters will be discussed.

At the communion service in the First M. E. church yesterday morning one new member was received on probation and one into full membership from probation.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a sociable in the primary department room Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Women's Missionary Societies of the First Presbyterian church will hold an all-day meeting in the chapel on Wednesday and a box-luncheon will be served at noon.

An all-day sewing meeting will be held at Warren chapel Wednesday and all the women are urged to be present and bring their lunch. Hot coffee will be served. The women are also asked to bring rags for making carpet for the missionary box.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel will meet at the home of Mrs. Mowinkle, 320 West Second street, Wednesday afternoon. On Friday night of this week the society will conduct a dime social at the home of Mrs. Ruckman, of Plainfield avenue.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's German Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. Reinhard Eckner, 223 Grove street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Young People's Society will meet in the evening at the parsonage, No. 2 Stone street.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, received four new members on confession and two by letter. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, received two new members on confession and three by letter.

Eleven members were received at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning, at the communion service by Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, the acting pastor. Nine were on confession and two by letter. The accession was a gratifying one to all interested, and an impressive feature was the manner in which Dr. Johnson received those on confession of faith. With both his hands resting tenderly on the head of the convert, he pronounced a benediction. Eight of the new members were from the Sunday-school, and it was rather an unusual sight to see five sisters uniting with the church at one time.

Accident Makes a Baptist.

Meriden, Conn., March 4.—Amos Lee Well, known in Old Lime as a Presbyterian, surprised the Baptists of that town yesterday by attending their church. Following a heated argument on baptism with his wife last week, in which Mrs. Lee contended that "immersion" was the only proper method and he insisted that "sprinkling" was just as effective, he became enraged, left the house, and it was nearly twenty-four hours later that Mrs. Lee found him where he had accidentlly fallen between the side of the barn and hay mow. "Get help quick. I'm cold and hungry!" he shouted. "Before I stir a step," announced the determined woman, "I want to know whether immersion or sprinkling is right." "Immersion is good enough for me, and if you'll get me out I'll join the Baptists," declared the imprisoned man. Mrs. Lee and neighbors attacked the hay mow with forks and after a half hour's work Mr. Lee was freed.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Shot for a Rubberneck.

J. A. Boughman was seen this week watering his horses at the trough near the postoffice in Wichita. The fellow who saw him would have done well to have minded his own business and not been watching his fellow citizens.—Wichita (Kan.) Star.

A Repeater in the Sanctum.

We wonder if we printed this item once before? There is a man in this town who says of another well-known man, "He is not hump-backed from carrying around the gray matter in his head." We would just as soon have him say we did not know anything. If you read this squib once before, excuse us.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

Office Holding in the West.

Judge Cy Dodge says: "I don't know why they made me a judge. Of course I appreciate the honor. To be called 'judge' makes one feel good, but so far Greenwater shows an exemplary record for peace, quietness, good will, and high-class citizenship. No litigation at all. Our situation is splendid; no civil strife nor criminal tendencies here. It looks as if I would not even make enough out of the office to pay for the stationery that the Times printed for me with my coat of arms so finely embellished, the first judge of the Death Valley region." And Constable Billy Sutherland says "Me too," and therefore looks sad and further says: "Confound these fellers that dwell day by day in thoughts of peace. I will be looking for a ham sandwish soon."—Greenwater (Cal.) Times.

Schurz's Picture of Prest. Buchanan.

In the March McClure's appears a striking description of President Buchanan by Carl Schurz: "He was a portly old gentleman with a white head, always slightly inclined to one side, and a cunning twinkle in his eye which seemed to say that although he might occasionally not appear to be of your opinion, yet there was a secret understanding between him and you, and that you might trust him for it. He always wore a white neckerchief like a divine. His moral weakness was of the wise-looking kind. He could pronounce the commonplace sophistries of the pro-slavery Democracy with all the impressiveness of unctuous ponderosity. He had rendered the slave power abject service in the Kansas affair, again and again putting forth statements of facts which he could not possibly believe to be true, and constitutional doctrines that could be supported only by the most audacious shifts of logic. He was mindful of the fact that he owed the presidency to the trust of the slave power in his fidelity to its behests. So far he had justified that trust to the full of his ability and of his opportunities. No southern pro-slavery fanatic could have served the slave holding interest with more zeal and—considering his position as a northern man—with more self-denial. By forfeiting the good opinion of his neighbors, he had really made himself a martyr to the cause of slavery. But when his southern masters now went so far as to strike out for the dissolution of the Union, the destruction of the republic itself, his situation became truly desperate. Thus he satisfied neither side, but won the contempt of both."

FACTS ABOUT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, with one-sixtieth of the population of the United States, produces one-twentieth of its manufactures. Its output equals the total product of New Jersey and is twice that of California.

Philadelphia's 15,887 manufacturing establishments represent a capital investment of $476,529,407; employ 246,445 persons; pay annually $111,847,076 in salaries; consume annually raw material worth $226,877,441, and have a total annual output valued at $603,446,526.

Philadelphia, with over 1,000 wholesale houses, has a wholesale trade estimated at $500,000,000 a year.

Three leading railroad systems—the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Philadelphia and Reading—have their main offices in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia leads the world in manufacturing carpets and rugs with 150 mills employing 16,500 persons and having an output worth $23,000,000 a year.

Ninety-three establishments manufacture woolen cloths worth $18,340,012 annually, 32 firms make worsted cloths valued at $16,242,250 annually and 150 knit goods mills produce $15,000,000 in goods each year.

Eighty-four hat and cap factories, 397 clothing manufacturers and 66 shirt houses produce goods to the total value of $33,000,000 a year.

A Bond of Sympathy.

While the new maid tided the room the busy woman kept on writing.

"Do you make that all out of your own head?" asked Jane.

"Yes," said the busy woman.

"My," said Jane admiringly, "you must have brains!"

"Brains!" sighed the woman despondently. "Oh, Jane, I haven't an ounce of brains!"

For a moment Jane regarded her with sincere commiseration.

"Oh, well," she said presently, "don't mind what I say. I ain't very smart myself."—New York Press.

Ecclesiastical Embroidery.

Ecclesiastical embroidery differs from other in being to a large extent symbolical. Moreover, all designs must be strictly conventional. It is almost needless to say that work destined for such use must of necessity be of the finest materials and the most exquisite workmanship. Altar linen is usually embroidered in satin stitch varied with seed stitch, with overcast stitch for outlines. Threads should be drawn before the pieces are cut and the hems turned with greatest accuracy. Indeed, in no other work is accuracy and neatness so imperative. The linen should be fine and firm, and for colored hangings there is an admirable material, flaxen silk, that can be obtained in a soft tone of green which is beautiful for an altar frontal, worked with golden flax thread with touches of gold thread.—Nanette Dejanire, in The Home Magazine for February.

The Popular Guimpe.

"It is no exaggeration to say that two-thirds of the dresses worn during the passing social season by fashionable leaders have been made with guimpes," says Harper's Bazar, which "sets the fashion," while the other third has compromised on vests of varying widths, made of some light, modifying material. Both guimpes and vests have been schemes of clever dressmakers, who have had to get over the difficulty presented by a patron who is determined to wear a popular shade, however unbecoming it is. Fortunately the spring is showing a relief from the numerous hard reds which have dominated at every fashionable gathering during the winter months. Their only rival has been the dull gray, known as London smoke."

Similarity of Writing.

"From my pile of autographs I take one of a statesman well known and lay it side by side with the autographs of a great author and a great ecclesiastic," writes a British publicist. "All three are very small, exquisitely neat, very little slanted, absolutely legible. Well as I knew the three writers, I doubt if I could tell which wrote which. They were Cardinal Manning, Mr. Froude and Lord Rosebery. Will the experts tell me if in this case similarity of writing bodied forth similarity of gifts or qualities?"

Your Money's Worth
in the Beautiful style "B" Hallet & Davis Piano.
You are entitled to your money's worth in any article you buy. How many get it in their piano purchase nowadays? There are so many "get all you can dealers" that the chances are two to one you pay a big price for an inferior instrument.
True economy is exemplified in the purchase of the No. B Hallet & Davis (Boston's famous make). There is a reason. The absolute reliability of our dealings throughout 70 years of piano-forte construction assures you of this; also our right fixed price, $350, which not only safeguards your pocketbook, but gives you your money's worth in full measure. You'll be interested if you make comparison.

"I saw a man pulling out the books and tapping the inside of the shelves. He was working very fast. And the next thing I knew he let in another man through one of the casements,—the one there that still stands a littl open."

He flinched as he turned slightly to indicate it, and his face twitched with pain.

"Never mind that; tell the rest of your story."

"Then I ran in, grabbed one of the big candelabra from the table, and went for the nearest man. They were about to begin on the chimney-breast—it was Mr. Glenarm's pride in all the house,—and that accounts for my being there in front of the fireplace. They rather got the best of me, sir."

"Clearly; I see they did. You had a hand-to-hand fight with them, and being two to one—"

"No; there were two of us,—don't you understand, two of us! There was another man who came running in from somewhere, and he took sides with me. I thought at first it was you, sir. The robbers thought so, too, for one of them yelled, 'Great God; Glenarm's come back!' just like that. But it wasn't you, sir, but quite another person."

"That's a good story so far; and then what happened?"

"I don't remember much more, except that some one soused me with water that helped my head considerably, and the next thing I knew I was staring across the table, there at you."

"Who were these men, Bates? Speak up quickly!"

My tone was peremptory. Here was, I felt, a crucial moment in our relations.

"Well," he began, deliberately, "I dislike to make charges against a fellow man, but I strongly suspect one of the men of being—"

"Yes! Tell the whole truth or it will be the worse for you."

"I very much fear one of them was Ferguson, the gardener over the way. I'm disappointed in him, sir."

"Very good; and now for the other one."

"I didn't get my eyes on him. I had closed with Ferguson and we were having quite a lively time of it when the other one came in; then the man who came to my help mixed us all up,—he was a very lively person,—and what became of Ferguson and the rest of it I don't know."

There was food for thought in what he said. He had taken punishment in defense of my property,—the crack on his head was undeniable,—and I could not abuse him or question his veracity with any grace; not, at least, without time for investigation and study. However, I ventured to ask him one question:

"If you were guessing, shouldn't you think it quite likely that Morgan was the other man?"

He met my gaze squarely.

"I think it wholly possible, Mr. Glenarm," he replied at once.

"And the man who helped you—who in the devil was he?"

"Bless me, I don't know, sir! He disappeared. I'd like mightily to see him again."

"Humph! Now you'd better do something for your head. I'll summon the village doctor if you say so."

"No; thank you, sir. I'll take care of it myself."

"Very well. Now we'll keep quiet about this. Don't mention it or discuss it with any one."

"Certainly not, sir." He rose, staggering a little from weakness, but crossed to the broad mantel shelf in the great chimney-breast, rested his arm upon it for a moment, passed his hand over the dark wood with a sort of caress, then bent his eyes upon the floor littered with books, drawings and papers torn from cabinets and all splashed with tallow and wax from the candles. The daylight had increased until the havoc wrought by the night's visitors was fully apparent. The marauders had made a sorry mess of the room, and I thought Bates' lip quivered as he viewed the wreck.

"It would have been a blow to Mr. Glanarm; the room was his pride—his pride, sir."

He went out toward the kitchen, and I ran upstairs to my own room. I cursed the folly that had led me to leave my window open, for undoubtedly Morgan and his new ally, St. Agatha's gardener, had taken advantage of it to enter the house. Quite likely, too, they had observed my departure for Cincinnati, and this would undoubtedly be communicated to Pickering. I threw open my door and started back with an exclamation of amazement.

A stranger stood at my chiffonier, between two windows, calmly shaving himself. He was clad in a bath gown—my own, I saw with fury—and he hummed softly to himself as he seized the brush and applied lather deftly to his upper lip.

Without turning he addressd me, quite coolly and casually, as though his being there was the most natural thing in the world.

"Good morning Mr. Glenarm! Rather damaging evidence, that costume. I suppose it's the custom in the country for gentlemen in evening clothes to go out by the window and return by the door. You might think the other way round preferable."

"Larry!" I shouted.

"Jack!"

"Kick that door shut and lock it," he commanded, in a sharp, severe tone that I remembered well, and just now welcomed—in him.

"How, why and when—?"

"Never mind about me. I'm here—thrown the enemy off for a few days; and you may confess your own sins first, while I climb into my armor. Pray pardon the informality—"

He seized a broom and began work upon a pair of trousers to which mud and briers clung tenaciously. His coat and hat lay on a chair, they, too, much the worse for rough usage.

There was never any use in refusing to obey Larry's orders, and as he got into his clothes I gave him in as few words as possible the chief incidents that had marked my stay at Glenarm Houese. He continued dressing with care, helping himself to a shirt and collar from my chiffonier and choosing with unfailing eye the best tie in my collection. Now and then he asked a question tersely, or, again he laughed or swore direly in Gaelic. When I had concluded the story of Pickering's visit, and of the conversation I overheard between the executor and Bates in the church porch, Larry wheeled round with the scarf half tied in his fingers and surveyed me commiseratingly.

"And you didn't rush them both on the spot and have it out?"

"No. I was too much taken aback for one thing—"

"I dare say you were!"

"And for another I didn't think the time ripe. I'm going to beat that fellow, Larry, but I want him to show his hand fully before we come to a smash-up. I know as much about the house and its secrets as he does—that's one consolation. Sometimes I don't believe there's a shilling here, and again I'm sure there's a big stake in it. The fact that Pickering is risking so much to find what's supposed to be hidden here is pretty fair evidence that something's buried on the place."

"Possibly, but they're giving you a lively boycott. Now where in the devil have you been?"

"Well,—" I began and hesitated. I had not mentioned Marian Devereux and this did not seem the time for confidences of that sort.

He took a cigarette from his pocket and lighted it deliberately.

"Bah! these women! Under the terms of your excellent grandfather's will you have thrown away all your rights. It looks to me, as a member of the Irish bar in bad standing, as though you had delivered yourself up to the enemy, so far as the legal situation is concerned. How does it strike you?"

"If it's known that I ran away for a night, of course—"

"My lad, don't deceive yourself. Everybody round here will know it before night. You ran off, left your window open invitingly, and two gentlemen who meditated breaking in found that they needn't take the trouble. One came in through your own room, noting, of course, your absence, let in his friend below, and tore up the place regrettably."

"Yes, but how did you get here?—if you don't mind telling."

"It's a short story. That little chap from Scotland Yard, who annoyed me so much in New York and drove me to Mexico,—for which may he dwell forever in fiery torment,—has never given up. I shook him off, though, at Indianapolis three days ago. I bought a ticket for Pittsburg with him at my elbow. I suppose he thought the chase was growing tame and that the farther east he could arrest me the nearer I should be to a British consul and tidewater. I went ahead of him into the station and out to the Pittsburg sleeper. I dropped my bag into my section,—if that's what they call it in your atrocious American language,—looked out and saw him coming along the platform. Just then the car began to move—they were shunting it about to attach a sleeper that had been brought in from Louisville, and my carriage, or whatever you call it, went skimming out of the sheds into a yard where everything seemed to be most noisy and complex. I dropped off in the dark just before they began to haul the carriage back. A long train of empty goods wagons,—freight cars?—was just pulling out and I threw my bag into a wagon and climbed after it. We kept going for several hours, until I was thoroughly lost, then I took advantage of a stop at a place that seemed to be the end of terrestrial things, got out and started across country. I expressed my bag to you the other day from a place that rejoiced in the cheering name of Kokomo, just to get rid of it. I walked into Annandale late last night, found this medieval marvel through the kindness of the station master and was reconnoitering with my usual caution when I saw a gentleman romantically entering through the open window."

Larry paused to light a fresh cigarette.

"You always did have a way of arriving opportunely. Go on!"

"It pleased my fancy to follow him; and by the time I had studied your diggings here a trifle, things began to happen below. It sounded like a St. Patrick's day celebration in an Irish village, and I went down at a gallop to see if there was any chance of breaking in. Have you seen the room? Well,"—he gave several turns to his right wrist, as though to test it,—"we all had a jolly time there by the fireplace. Another chap had got in somewhere, so there were two of them. Your man—I suppose it's your man—was defending himself gallantly with a large thing of brass that looked like the pipes of a grand organ—and I sailed in with a chair. My presence seemed to surprise the attacking party, who evidently thought I was you,—flattering I must say, to me!"

"You undoubtedly saved Bates' life and prevented the rifling of the house. And after you had poured water on Bates, he's the servant,—you came up here—"

"That's the way of it."

"You're a brick, Larry Donovan. There's only one of you; and now—"

"And now, John Glenarm, we've got to get down to business,—or you must. As for me, after a few hours of your enlivening society—"

"You don't go a step until we go together,—no, by the beard of the prophet! I've a fight on here and I'm going to win if I die in the struggle, and you've got to stay with me to the end."

"But under the will you dare not take a boarder."

"Of course I dare! That will's as though it had never been as far as I'm concerned. My grandfather never expected me to sit here alone and be murdered. John Marshall Glenarm wasn't a fool exactly!"

"No, but a trifle queer, I should say. I don't have to tell you, old man, that this situation appeals to me. It's my kind of a job. If it weren't that the hounds are at my heels I'd like to stay with you, but you have enough trouble on hands without opening the house to an attack by my enemies."

"Stop talking about it. I don't propose to be deserted by the only friend I have in the world when I'm up to my eyes in trouble. Let's go down and get some coffee."

We found Bates trying to remove the evidences of the night's struggle. He had fastened a cold pack about his head and limped slightly; otherwise he was the same—silent and inexplicable.

Daylight had not improved the appearance of the room. Several hundred books lay scattered over the floor and the shelves that had held them were hacked and broken.

"Bates, if you can give us coffee—? Let the room go for the present."

"Yes, sir."

"And Bates—"

He paused and Larry's keen eyes were bent sharply upon him.

"Mr. Donovan is a friend who will be with me for some time. We'll fix up his room later in the day."

He limped out, Larry's eyes following him.

"What do you think of that fellow?" I asked.

Larry's face wore a puzzled look.

"What do you call him,—Bates? He's a plucky fellow."

Larry picked up from the hearth the big candelabrum with which Bates had defended himself. It was badly bent and twisted, and Larry grinned.

"The fellow who went out through the front door probably isn't feeling very well to-day. Your man was swinging this thing like a windmill."

"I can't understand it;" I muttered. "I can't, for the life of me, see why he should have given battle to the enemy. They all belong to Pickering, and Bates is the biggest rascal of the bunch."

As we ate breakfast I filled in gaps I had left in my hurried narrative, with relief that I can not describe filling my heart as I leaned again upon the sympathy of an old and trusted friend. I dismissed Bates as soon as possible that we might talk freely.

"Take it up and down and all around, what do you think of all this?" I asked.

Larry was silent for a moment; he was not given to careless speech in personal matters.

"There's more to it than frightening you off or getting your grandfather's money. It's my guess there's something in this house that somebody—Pickering supposedly—is very anxious to find."

"Yes; I begin to think so. He could come in here legally if it were merely a matter of searching for lost assets."

"Yes; and whatever it is it must be well hidden. As I remember, your grandfather died in June. You got a letter calling you home in October."

"It was sent out blindly, with not one chance in a hundred that it would ever reach me."

"Certainly. You were a wanderer on the face of the earth, and there was nobody in America to look after your interests. You may be sure that the place was thoroughly ransacked while you were sailing home. I'll wager you the best dinner you ever ate that there's more at stake than your grandfather's money. The situation is inspiring. I grow interested. I'm almost persuaded to linger."

VALUE OF GIRL'S ARM.

Paterson Judge Fixes It at Thirty-six Cents a Day.

Paterson, March 4.—Judge William Lewis decided Thursday that a girl's arm is worth 36 cents a day to her parents and awarded Anna Lookhoff $2.50 because she was unable to use the member for seven days after a collision which wrecked the carriage in which she was driving.

Miss Lookhoff was awarded $129 for damages to her turnout, in which she and a Miss Ross were driving near here when the rig collided with the carriage of Edward Ryan, a retired liquor merchant. The damage was not questioned, but the case was brought into court to fix the amount.

M'CARDELL'S BOWLERS DEFEAT ELIZABETHANS

POLISHERS' AGGREGATION, HEADED BY M'CARTHY, GETS THE RAZZLE-DAZZLE.

The Polishers' bowling team from the Singer factory at Elizabeth, headed by Factory Inspector Neil A. McCarthy, came to Plainfield Saturday with the intention of applying the "wallop" to a team picked by Factory Inspector McCardell. The county seat aggregation failed to make good, however, as the local men proved to be quite some pin-hitters and laid it on to them for two games out of three on the Saengerbund alleys. The Polishers brought a big crowd of rooters with them and not to be outdone the Plainfielders had a bunch of their friends on hand to help things along. The result was a terrific racket when both sides got working but it never phased McCardell's men a particle.

In the first game, the Plainfielders failed to warm up properly and they were defeated by 52 pins, but that's the only look-in the Polishers had. In the second clash, the local men refused to be sociable and forged ahead from the start and in the last they won out again. McCarthy used every effort to urge his men to the lead but all to no purpose, simply because McCardell's team had it on them and the Elizabeth leader had to acknowledge the fact. It is said that he brought a newspaper reporter and a camera artist with him to give the series a fine write-up in the event of his aggregation winning but that he sent them him home in a hurry when he saw how things were going.

Following the games, both teams dropped hostilities to enjoy a lunch and listen to an informal programme of songs and addresses. A return match will be rolled at Elizabeth next Saturday and McCardell has given warning that his men will not have a grain of charity and that the Polishers won't have the satisfaction of getting even one game. He says Plainfield can lick Elizabeth out of its boots in bowling, baseball and politics.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Amos Blazier.

Mrs. Annie E. Blazier, wife of Amos Blazier, of West Fourth street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday night at 7:30. She had been at the institution nearly a month, suffering from acute indigestion and complications. Mrs. Blazier was in her forty-seventh year and was a native of Brooklyn but had lived in this city for a long time. Beside her husband, she is survived by one son, Wilbur Blazier. Mrs. Samuel Montross, of East Sixth street, is a sister and the funeral will be held at her home tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Interment will be at Cypress Hills, L. I.

A Surprise Tea.

A "surprise" tea was tendered Mrs. James Johnson, of Albany, N. Y., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Mayhew, of West Fourth street, on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. The affair also marked the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew, and was a complete surprise and an enjoyable occasion. About fifty friends were present. The tea was arranged by Mrs. Albert Atkins and K. Kingslow. The pretty decorations of red and white being arranged while the hostess was detained by a friend under a pretext of visiting some friends in Dunellen.

Dr. Lewis at Funeral.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, returned yesterday from Lost Creek, Va., where he conducted the funeral services on Thursday night of S. B. Davis, father of President B. C. Davis, of Alfred University. Mr. Davis, who was 92 years old, died early in the week at Alfred, N. Y., and the remains were taken to Lost Creek for the funeral and interment. On Saturday Dr. Lewis stopped at Salem, W. Va., and preached at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Permit for Building Granted.

The Fire and Buildings Committee of the Common Council met yesterday and granted the application of F. Furber to erect a one-story cement block building at 415 Park avenue to be used as an automobile garage. The permit was applied for at the meeting of the Council last Monday night but was held over. The location is on the former Dr. Long property which was recently purchased by Sigmund Frucht.

PROF. HENRY VAN DYKE TO QUIT PRINCETON?

EMINENT SCHOLAR TENDERS RESIGNATION SO IT IS REPORTED.

Princeton, March 4.—Not for a long time has there been as much surprise expressed in Princeton as at the rumor that Dr. Henry Van Dyke, the noted author, is going to resign his professorship in the university. Nothing official has been announced, but it is practically certain, too, on good authority, that Dr. Van Dyke has already handed in his resignation. Inasmuch as the board of trustees of Princeton will not get together until March 14, the matter cannot be finally decided at present. There has been much speculation as to why Dr. Van Dyke has taken this step. He is now at Harvard for ten days, during which time he will deliver a course of lectures.

President Woodrow Wilson refused to confirm or deny the rumor last night. It is understood, however, that Dr. Van Dyke has resigned to devote his future to pursuit of literature. He will not identify himself with any other university than Princeton, and will reside at his home, "Avalon," in this place.

Dr. Van Dyke has been professor of English at Princeton for the past eight years. He is extremely popular with the students, and his course in English literature is a great favorite here. His writings on nature, his poetry and his treatise on religion have caused Dr. Van Dyke to be considered one of the greatest literary men in America. He was graduated from Princeton with the class of 1873.

The loss of Dr. Van Dyke will be keenly felt by the undergraduates and alumni. Last night the general opinion was that there is little hope of his remaining a member of the faculty.

Dr. Van Dyke will sail from this country March 16 to be gone two months. He will make a journey on horseback through the Holy Land during this time. Whether he will return to Princeton immediately is not known.

LACKAWANNA LEAGUE PLAYERS BEING SELECTED.

Line On Make-Up of Aggregations Composing Combination In Which Plainfield Is a Member.

Lackawanna League plans for 1907 are beginning to take on a tangible form, and while the schedule is not completed the make-up of the different teams in the League is practically decided upon. The two new nines, admitted to the League at the last meeting, Plainfield and Elizabeth, which will take the place of Morristown and the Orange-Clifton teams of last year, will be dark horses in the pennant race this season, and from the efforts their managers are making to obtain first-class players, they ought to prove important factors in the championship toss up.

Dave Driscoll, the old Hoboken first baseman, who is manager of the Elizabeth nine, has this coterie of players picked out: Lamar, Summit, catcher; McKenna, Orange, pitcher; Driscoll, Hoboken, first base; Curley, Chatham, second; Skelley, from Elizabeth Invaders, third; Harter, Elizabeth Stars, short stop; Cosgrove, Ridgewood, center field; Rogers, Chatham, right; Lynch, Red Bank, left; Middleton, from the Stars, also left.

"Billy" Gilbert, of the New York Nationals, will be Dover's trump this year. The team make-up will be Plunkitt or Crutchell, catcher; Stroud, Kelly and "Doc" Newton, pitchers; Adams or Wolfe, alternating at first and third; Boutellier and Gilbert, second; Wasmer, short; Acker, centre field; Rodgers, of last year's team, right, and Connelly, of Hoboken, left.

Chatham will make few changes in its roster, the only ones planned so far being one or two additions to the infield.

There will be several changes in Summit's line-up, both in the infield and outfield positions. Linderman will be the star of the pitching staff again, and Kurfess will fill second, Reinacher at short.

With one exception, nothing can be said definitely in regard to the composition of the new Plainfield nine, as none of the players have been signed yet. It is known that Phil Smith will be in the box.

Manager Hopper, of Irvington, has not made any statement yet as to the makeup of that nine.

GREAT OLD ENGLISH MANSION.

Raby Castle Has Figured In History Since Fourteenth Century.

Raby is one of the finest castellated mansions in England, and except that a part of the south front is an addition by Inigo Jones, the edifice retains most of its ancient character. It was built by John de Neville at the end of the fourteenth century and was the home of the Nevilles until their undoing came with the "rising of the north."

Several hundred followers of the house of Neville used to gather in the great hall at Raby, and in the same hall the gentlemen of the north met in council and laid plans for reinstating the old religion. Charles I. twice visited Raby on his way to Scotland, and when Sir Harry Vane on one occasion disparagingly alluded to the castle as a hillock of stone the king retorted that he had not such another hillock in his realm.

A noticeable feature at Raby is the unique carriage way, which passes through the lower hall. It was a quaint idea on the part of the former owner of Raby to wish to drive his coach and four right through the castle and alight in the middle of the hall, but it is a pity that in order to gratify it he should have destroyed the barbacan and several fine windows. Some of the tenants on the estate have from father to son held their farms from the time of the Nevilles, and one family possesses an original lease in Latin dating from the reight of Edward VI.

KNEW HIM AT LAST.

Gen. Butler's Identity Made Known by His Own Quotation.

Gen. B. F. Butler built a house in Washington on the same plan as his home in Lowell, and his studies were furnished in exactly the same way. The general and his secretary, Mr. Clancy, afterward city clerk of Washington for many years, were constantly traveling between the two places.

One day a senator called upon Ben Butler in Lowell and the next day in Washington, only to find him and his secretary engaged upon the same work on both occasions.

"Heavens, Clancy, don't you ever stop?" exclaimed the senator.

"No," interposed Gen. Butler, "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

Clancy arose and bowed, saying: "General, I never was sure until now just who my employer was. I had heard the rumor, but I always discredited it."

To Say and to Mean.

"I don't know how it happens, but the harder I try, the worse luck I have with my friends," a pretty Baltimore girl remarked not long ago.

"Who is it now?" her intimate friend, who is sometimes able to smooth things over, asked.

"Charlie Maxwell. You know he writes really charming verse, but it is only verse, and he knows it. He wants to do something really fine, you know.

"Well a short while ago he was around here and showed me a pretty little poem. He called again last night, and I asked him if he had sent it to a magazine.

"'No, I tore it up,' he said. I thought that was foolish, and I said:

"'Tore it up, Charlie? Why that was the cleverest thing I ever knew you to do,' and do you know, he seemed to get offended, and I can't to save my life, see why. Can you?"

Pleads for Homes for Waifs.

Pleading for homes for some of the parentless young ones now in charge of the State, Rev. Eben Brewer, of the New Jersey Children's Home at Trenton, spoke at the Baptist church, New Market, and the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, yesterday morning and last night, respectively. He collected funds for the home at both churches, and at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, where he spoke Saturday. He brought a small boy from the home with him to New Market, Saturday and placed him in a home in the village.

Tuberculosis Exhibit.

The State tuberculosis exhibit will open in the vacant store in the Stirling building this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will also be open this evening. Miss Olive DeLany, the city nurse, will be in charge all week and will explain the exhibits. Tomorrow night Dr. Frederick Bailey, of Elizabeth, will give an illustrated lecture on "Tuberculosis."

B. M. Manchester Dead.

Mrs. W. S. Corey, of Scotch Plains, was called to Berlin, Rensalaer county, New York, last week, by the death of her brother, B. M. Manchester. He died on February 26 of heart failure. Mr. Manchester frequently visited in this vicinity and had many local friends.

—Neuman Brothers make a specialty of fancy fruits and fresh vegetables. New consignments reach the store every day.

—Neils Neilson has sold his property at 5 Rockview avenue to David T. Kenney and will remove to Dunellen. The sale was conducted through the agency of George F. Brown.

Mrs. Mary Baldwin, of J. J. Blatz's clerical staff, returned to work this morning after several days of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, of the borough, returned home late last night in a special car from their pleasure trip south.

THE DARING DYNAMITE MAN.

Death May Come Any Time, but He Doesn't Fear It.

"Some day I guess 'twill get me. We never know."

J. B. Boone, professional powder man, dynamite and nitroglycerin handler, moved cautiously about a fire as he talked. At his feet lay 50 pounds of dynamite—frozen. Three feet away was a roaring fire. He was at a stone quarry at Courtney, Mo., where the night before 500 pounds of his materials had exploded. And he had built the fire to thaw out more.

"This is the dangerous part of the work," he said. "The jar of a cinder popping from the fire, striking this dynamite, would make it explode. A twig snapped against it or some object dropped upon it, would bring the end. Dynamite is not exploded by heat. It requires some jar—some friction. When it is frozen—and it freezes sooner than water—it is fairly safe to handle. But in thawing the warmer it becomes the more sensitive it is. When these sticks are warm a dime dropped upon them will make them explode. It's a dangerous business."

No screen was between the dynamite and the fire where "the powder man" worked. If he feared that fatal cinder popping from the dry sticks in the fire he did not show it. In a methodical, careful way, this grave, quiet man worked swiftly and silently by the fire.

"I began it with my father when I was 15 years old," he said. "More than 20 years now I've been a powder man, and—well, I'm here to-day, anyhow."

But he would venture no prediction for the morrow.

CUSTOM OF YUMA INDIANS.

Burning the Dead One of Their Interesting Ceremonies.

Burning the dead as observed among the Yumas is interesting. The body is first thoroughly wrapped and then placed in logs and brush over a hole in the ground. A bed of logs is built up at each side and at the head of the bier, which is next covered over and strewn about with dry fagots. The flames are applied and, while they burn, the clothing, blankets, etc., of the deceased are added to the fire. The horse of the dead man, however, is not burned among the Yumas, as is the custom with some Indians. A day or two after death the wigwam of the deceased, if an adult, is burned, the rest of the family then going to live with some relative. The Yumas make a great show of sorrow over their dead. Later they are never mentioned at all. The medicine men are still largely in control among the Yumas, and the government makes no attempt to interfere. Usually their patients grow sicker, so that they proclaim them doomed to die and their prophecy will almost always come true.

When Love Is Young.

They had reached that stage of the engagement when there is usually more or less speculation as to the future on the part of the bride-to-be.

"It doesn't seem, Tom, dear, that we could ever speak a cross word to each other, does it, dearest?" she murmured from his coat lapel.

"Never, sweetheart!" declared Tom stoutly.

"But, dear," she persisted, "if—mind I say if—if some morning the steak should be burned and the coffee cold, and you were tempted to be just a bit—just a teeny wee bit cross, what would you do?"

She looked up into his face anxiously, and he felt that his reply must be one that would fully reassure her. After a moment's thought he exclaimed, triumphantly: "I'd go down town and get my breakfastt."—Puck.

A Sausage Secret.

Dr. John L. Morse of Boston, an authority on pure foods, said recently that the public could not expect pure food at a low price.

"Take milk, for instance," he said. "Milk absolutely pure cannot be sold to-day under 15 cents a quart.

"And so, till we are willing to pay for a genuine article, imitation articles, adulterated articles, will be sold to us.

"And the morality of the dealers will grow worse and worse, till, finally, I can imagine a sausage maker saying on his deathbed to his son:

"'Always bear in mind, my lad, that sausage can be made out of anything—even out of meat.'"

The Crowning Blow.

"Mothers and nurses have devised and invented many ways of procuring obedience and correct behavior from their little charges," said a park policeman. "The familiar 'bogy man' is still employed, but the times change and the people with them.

"The last fine day, when the park was filled with mothers and nurses, I heard a new way of appealing to the love or fear of a child. A stylishly dressed young woman leading an irrepressible youngster, after making all sorts of threats and promises without effect, said: 'Child! Child! you give me wrinkles under my eyes.'"

Not Enough Style.

TO CONSECRATE CHURCH

All Saints' Parish Mortgage Liquidated and Edifice Will Be Made Sacred.

BY BP. SCARBOROUGH

Ceremony to Take Place in May—Dr. Rodman Conducted First Services at the 'Plains.

The mortgage on All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, has been paid off at last and it is expected that the edifice will be consecrated in May. Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, bishop of the diocese of New Jersey, will have charge of the ceremony and will be assisted by a large number of the clergy.

Rev. Arthur S. Peck, the rector, is now at work making plans for the celebration and it is believed that the observance will mark a red letter day in the history of the parish.

An historical sketch of the parish shows that services were first held in the old schoolhouse at Scotch Plains by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, now rector-emeritus of Grace church, in the year 1873. Later services were held in Excelsior Hall and from these services originated All Saints' Mission and the Rev. Charles L. Sykes took regular charge in December, 1873, or January, 1874. For several months prior to that time, and through the kindness of Rev. Mr. Rodman and others among the neighboring clergy and by means of lay-readers engaged occasionally from the General Theological Seminary, services were maintained every Sunday. Rev. Mr. Sykes continued as rector for nearly sixteen years.

On April 21, 1882, the cornerstone of the present church edifice was laid and the building was opened for worship on October 31 of the same year. Bishop Walker preached the sermon and Mr. Arthur, organist of St. Ann's church, Brooklyn, with the choir from that church, furnished the music.

The church building is of brown stone with terra cotta trimmings. The ground was given by the late Christopher Bell, M. D., of New York. The chancel rail was given by St. Peter's church, Brooklyn, with which some of the founders of All Saints' church was connected. The building is an attractive one and well furnished.

Among those first identified with the parish were Charles Kyte, B. R. Duykinck, George Moore, Augustus Frentz and Edward Pattinson and their families; and the Rev. Earl and Rush, of Westfield, frequently officiated. Rev. William M. Reilly succeeded the Rev. Mr. Sykes and resigned in 1892. Under his administration new carpets were purchased and laid and other additions to the interior of the building were made.

In 1892 the mission was organized as a parish under the laws of the State and the canons, of the Episcopal church. Rev. Edward H. True became the first rector and resigned in 1898. Rev. R. E. Pendleton then took charge for a period of seven months, rendering effectual service. On December 17, 1899, Rev. William R. Mulford, the present rector, commenced his work in the parish. The following are now members of the vestry, J. H. Thompson, senior warden; Charles Battell Loomis, junior warden; Augustus Frentz, Henry S. Fullerton, Wright Babcock, H. Proal Robinson and Charles Kyte, vestrymen.

TO SELL A FIRE TRUCK AND HORSE BEFORE MAY 1.

According to a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, at the March meeting of the Common Council last night, that committee is authorized to sell the old hook and ladder truck, now at No. 3 house, "Billy," the chief's horse, and "Jerry," a horse stationed at No. 3 house, as well as all the old hose unfit for use and the manure at the various department houses.

The hook and ladder is of the old type and has not been used for a long time. The horses are twenty years old and considered no longer fit for duty, while the hose also is said to be unfit for service. According to the ordinance, the proceeds from the sale will go into the fire department pension fund. The committee is instructed to get the best possible prices for the apparatus, horses, hose and manure, and the sales must be made by May 1.

District Court.

In the District Court, this morning, Reed & Coddington secured a judgment of $170 against F. A. Sisson, on assigned claims, and Cadmus & Co. were granted a non-suit in an action brought against them by the Vio Chemical Company, the plaintiffs failing to appear; W. A. Coddington was the defendant's lawyer. There were no contested cases.

CLERYGYMAN TO WED ON SATURDAY, APRIL 13

MARRIAGE OF REV. MR. WARNER AND MISS LOHRKE AT ORANGE.

Announcement is made that the wedding of Miss Ottalie H. Lohrke, a young society woman of Orange, and Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, will take place at Grace church, Orange, on Saturday, April 13. Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity church, Boston, and formerly rector of the Orange church, will officiate. The maid of honor will be Miss Gertrude Yohrke, a sister of the bride, and the best man, Rev. Dr. Frank K. Staples, rector of St. Paul's church, Baltimore, Md., a classmate of Mr. Warner.

Rev. Mr. Warner was assistant rector of Grace church, Orange, until he took charge of the local parish a year and a half ago. He is one of the most popular divines in Plainfield and has built up his church to a remarkable degree since coming here. Miss Lohrke is a daughter of Otto Lohrke, of Orange, and is well known in society and church circles in that place.

MR. RUSHMORE LOSES IN COURT OF ERRORS

HIGHER COURT AFFIRMS DECISION AND HE MUST PAY $500.

The judgment of William Addis against S. W. Rushmore was yesterday affirmed in the Court of Errors. Mr. Addis was injured in a collision between his bicycle and Mr. Rushmore's automobile in May, 1904. He obtained from a Union county jury a verdict for $500 damages and Mr. Rushmore applied for a rule for a new trial on the ground that the weight of evidence was in his favor.

The Supreme Court refused to grant the rule, and on exceptions to the court's charge the case was carried to the Court of Errors. That court decided yesterday that the exceptions were not well taken and the judgment must stand. The opinion was filed by Justice Pitney.

Reed & Coddington were the counsel for Mr. Addis, and Craig A. Marsh for Mr. Rushmore.

Mr. Marsh said today that he would advise payment of the judgment and that he had advised against carrying the case to the Court of Errors, but was overruled. Former Judge William A. Coddington, of counsel for William Addis, said today that he had offered to settle the case before it went to trial for $200.

N. CARMAN DUNN PASSES AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Was Formerly a Prominent Plainfielder and Leaves Several Local Relatives.

N. Carman Dunn, who was a prominent resident of Plainfield until his removal about 18 years ago, died at 12:30 yesterday morning at his home, 3436 North Eighteenth street, Tioga, Philadelphia. He had been ill for a long time with an incurable growth but had been a patient sufferer.

Mr. Dunn was sixty years old and in his younger days was identified with Plainfield and its growth. His boyhood was spent in the city and when he left to engage in the manufacture of brass furnishings at Philadephia there was hardly another man who had more local acquaintances. He was a member of the Plainfield volunteer fire department for twelve years and at one time was assistant foreman of Gazelle Engine Company.

He leaves a wife and family of four, the Misses Carrie and Addie Dunn and Messrs. Rae and Earl Dunn. Mrs. Dunn was formerly Miss Carrie Laing, a sister of Mrs. Julia L. Force, of Westervelt avenue. He is also survived by three sisters, all of whom live in this city. They are Mrs. W. H. VanWinkle, of Park place; Mrs. Jacob R. VanWinkle, of Elm place, and Mrs. Hettie Phillips, of Somerset street.

The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and will be conducted by Rev. Charles Dunn, who is also a former Plainfielder. He is pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Dunn was a member.

City to Get Another Cow.

Chairman William L. Gloak, of the alms committee, reported to the Common Council, last night, that the cow at the Industrial Home had gone dry and that another one was necessary if the inmates of the home are to be supplied with fresh, pure milk. A resolution was passed authorizing the committee to purchase a cow at a price not to exceed $75.

FIGHTING EXCISE CHANGE

Former Moderator Says Christians Doubt Expediency of Submitting God's Will.

LOCAL PASTORS THERE

House Committee Closed the Hearing and Reported Blohm Bill Last Night.

"We people of the Church do not want to submit the will of God to the majority vote of the people," was the answer made by the Rev. Henry Collin Minton, former moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, to the question propounded him yesterday why he opposed the Blohm House bill, which allows the voters to determine on an open Sunday for selling liquor. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, were among the ministers in the gathering.

Thunders of applause from the immense throng crowding the House chamber at the meeting late yesterday afternoon greeted this sally against pending excise legislation. Bishops, priests, deacons, educators and saloon men were in the throng at what was a more remarkable hearing at Trenton than the one on the Bishops' law last year.

Temperance people are seeking to force the Local Option bill on the Legislature, whereas the Germans are fighting for a legal open Sunday for liquor selling after 1 p. m. The liquor people are determined that the Bishops' law shall be repealed. Between the three propositions the Legislators are much embarrassed.

At the end of the hearing the committee arose without agreeing, but it is believed that both bills will be reported out of committee this week and the fight be shifted to the floor of the House.

Urging for a retention of the Bishops' act, the Rev. Mr. English denied the contention of the liquor men's orators that the Bishops' bill had caused the loss of the county of Essex to the Republicans. He said the loss of the county to the party was caused by the effort to unload an unpopular Republican boss, and then, looking at Major Carl Lentz, one of the liquor speakers, he said: "And Major Lentz knows it, too." This created a laugh even among the friends of the major.

Counselor Peter Baches, of Trenton, legal representative of the Interdominational Alliance, which secured the enactment of the Bishops' bill, spoke for a retention of the measure, and presented figures showing the moral and material gains that have been made during the six months the law has been in operation. He also presented a letter from the Rev. Edward S. Lines, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark, in favor of the present legislation. Bishop Lines declared that if any effort was made to repeal the Bishops' act the temperance people should insist on a local option law that would enable them to vote the saloons entirely out of existence.

Liquor men offered no direct argument against the local option bill, but instead advocated the enactment of the Blohm bill, allowing Sunday selling. The first speaker was Prosecutor William H. Speer, of Hudson county. He declared that the Blohm bill was just and right and honest with every one. He concluded by suggesting that the committee repect both of the measures under consideration and present a substitute providing for all kinds of local option, the right to sell at all and the right to sell on Sunday.

Walter Bender, of Bergen county, declared that if the Bishops' act was not repealed the "whole Legislature should be boosted out."

MAYOR TO GRANT LICENSES.

Ordinance Amended Giving His Honor This Authority.

Hereafter the Mayor will grant the usual batch of licenses to cabmen, truckers, peddlers, hucksters, etc., that before have been passed upon by the Common Council. The ordinance relating to these licenses was amended giving the Mayor this power and was adopted on final reading at the March meeting last night.

The ordinance now provides that all persons holding such licenses shall have them renewed March 15. Thus the city loses the revenue for fifteen days, this year.

Young Men's Worthy Effort.

Fred Harding and Peter McDonough, operators for the Western Union, have been at work raising funds to secure an artificial foot for George Minery, the Western Union messenger boy whose limb was crushed beneath a freight train two weeks ago. They have already collected $50 and have hopes of securing the necessary amount before Minerd leaves Muhlenberg Hospital.

MAY NAME TILLMAN FOR UNION TAX BOARD

POLITICIANS WANT HIM APPOINTED IN MR. ANDREWS' PLACE.

Under the law creating the present county boards of taxation the Governor will have to send to the Senate, before the adjournment of the present session, nominees for members of the entire twenty-one boards. The act provides that those who were appointed last year after the adjournment of the Legislature should hold office only until the next session of the Legislature, which is the present, when the Governor should send to the Senate for confirmation nominees for all the boards.

It has so generally been taken for granted that the Governor would reappoint those whom he took so much trouble and care to select last year that there has been very little noticeable effort on the part of those not members of the present boards to secure the places.

An exception to this, however, is found in the case of Union, where, it is said on good authority, a determined fight is being made to have Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, appointed to the tax board of this county in place of Frederick A. Andrews, of this city.

Mr. Andrews was one of the men recommended to the Governor last year by Senator Ackerman. He is not a politician, as that term is generally accepted. Assemblyman Randolph Perkins and other "regular organization" men are after his official scalp.

ACTION ON BOROUGH BILL IN HOUSE TODAY

DRAKE BILL FOR INCORPORATION OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD IS REPORTED.

Two delegations of South Plainfielders went to Trenton last night to use their efforts to secure the passage of measures proposed for the incorporation of that village as a borough. As a result one bill is now on the calendar and will be voted on at today's session of the House. The other bill is likely to die in committee; neither is apt to become a law at the present session.

The measure having general support at South Plainfield is the one placed on the calendar for action today. It was introduced by Assemblyman Drake, of Middlesex county. Those who urged its passage at a hearing last night were Peter McDonough, R. B. Manning, John Lindaberry, Archie Steengraff and P. K. Kaine. The other measure was introduced Assemblyman Baker, of Hudson county. Its sponsers are Thomas Brantingham and John Geory. The Baker bill is No. 311 and the Drake bill No. 19.

As neither measure contains a referedum, even should the House and Senate act one of them favorably it is not apt to become a law. At least it will not unless an amendment is made. Governor Stokes has followed the precedent of Governor Murphy and has said that he will not sign a bill of this nature unless such a clause is attached. The main difference between the Drake and Baker bills is the boundary line and therein is the bone of contention.

MARTINE HELPS SMOOTH THE BRIGADE ELECTION.

Attends Conference at Trenton—Collins Likely to Get Office.

Following a conference of the men interested, at Trenton, last night, it was said by those in a position to know that the difficulty existing in the election of a brigadier general by the Second and Third regiments would be settled by next Monday in such a way as to clear the path of Col. Collins, of the Second regiment, to the position. James E. Martine attended the conference in the interest of Col. Collins, and figure prominently in the discussion.

The brigadier is elected by the ten field officers of the two regiments. The five officers of the Second regiment have been steadfast for Col. Collins, and the five of the Third regimena have insisted on the election of Col. John Cather, their colonel. The deadlock tightened to an apparently hopeless degree, and the conference was called to devise some means of working out of it. Mr. Martine was called into it to play his usual part of compromiser and dispenser of soothing syrup.

Governor Stokes is interested in the election, and kept in touch with the conferees. He favors Col. Collins for the office.

Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, who has resigned as a professor at Princeton, intends to go abroad.

IS RE-ARRESTED IN JAIL

Larder Thief is Now Charged With Stealing Two Bicycles.

WARDEN IS ANNOYED

He Is Upset Because Local Police Took Treat from County Jail for Examination in This City.

Charged with the theft of two bicycles, Ernest L. Treat, colored, was arrested at the county jail by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, this morning, as he was getting ready to leave the jail at the expiration of a sixty-day sentence. Treat is the man who broke into the home of W. T. Kaufman, of West Seventh street, three months ago, stole twelve pounds of roast beef, two hams and thirty-six pats of butter in the manner of a cracksman going after jewels of great worth, and topped off that exploit by escaping from Policeman John Payne despite a stream of shots fired at him by the officer. He was run down by Payne and arrested several weeks later, and was sentenced to two months in jail on a disorderly charge.

A few days after Treat went to jail Chief Kiely learned that there were two bicycles in the cellar of his home. The chief had the wheels brought to headquarters and discovered that one of them, a woman's mount, bore the number of a bicycle stolen from Mrs. C. Francis Foster, of East Seventh street. Mrs. Foster identified that wheel and said the other one looked like a bike that disappeared with the other one. She swore out a complaint, and arrangements were made to take Treat into custody when his sentence expired. His time was up at noon today, and he was gathering his things together when Detective-Sergeant Flynn called for him.

Warden Dodd, of the c ounty jail, was put out over what he called the foolishness of the authorities here. He was annoyed over the fact that the police wanted Treat brought here for a hearing. He said Judge Runyon could have come to Elizabeth and examined the prisoner at the jail just as well as not, and saved what he called the bother. He said the witnesses could be brought to Elizabeth easily enough. The police and Judge Runyon laughed at him.

Treat will be arraigned tomorrow morning. He is said to have a mania for petty thefts. He has had opportunities to take jewelry and silverware but confined himself to articles of small value.

COMPANY K'S ELECTION OF OFFICERS DEFERRED

NO ORDERS PERMITTING VOTE ISSUED, CONFERENCE ON BRIGADIER ELECTION

Company K held its monthly meeting last night, but no vote was taken on the officers to be elected. It was expected that balloting would be done, but there were no orders for an election, and without orders an election could not be held.

The reasons for the withholding of the election order was not known to the rank and file, and speculation regarding it was rife. The commissioned officers and some of the older men may know what is back of the delay, but they are not making statements for public consumption.

The company members are rather more interested in the deadlock over the election of a brigandier general than in their own election. The brigadier is elected by the votes of the ten field officers of the Second and Third regiments, whicr compose the brigade; each regiment has five field officers — colonel, lieutenant-colonel and three majors. The votes of the Second regiment are for Col. Dennis Collins, and those of the Third regiment for Col. John Mather, of that regiment.

A conference of those interested in the election was called at Trenton last night, and James E. Martine appeared in his old role of pacificator and breaker of deadlocks. He was asked to come into it by friends of Col. Collins, who hope that his influence will be such as to effect some satisfactory smoothing of the difficulty.

Boards of Education to Meet.

The Somerset County Boards of Education will be held at the court room, Somerville, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. An address will be given by T. D. Sensor, of the State Department of Education. Other matters of importance will be discussed and business transacted, including election of officers. L. H. Schenck is president of the association and John F. Reger, secretary.

BOROUGH HEALTH BOARD TO ASK APPROPRIATION

FIRST TIME IN THREE YEARS IT WILL HAVE CALLED FOR MONEY.

For the first time in nearly three years, the borough Board of Health, at its annual meeting last night, decided to ask the Borough Council for an appropriation to carry on its work. The amount was fixed at $1,000 and the Council will be asked at its next meeting to grant it. Hitherto the board has been meeting expenses with a surplus from regular appropriations granted but it recently was compelled to make a number of heavy expenditures and its treasury was exhausted.

The annnual reports of the secretary and inspector were read and showed the borough residents to be enjoying generally good health. The number of deaths in the past year, in comparison with other years, was very low and there have been very few cases of contagious disease.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Joseph O. Osgood; secretary and treasurer, Dr. A. H. Dundon; inspector, Frank Dencklau; counsel, Francis J. Blatz. Dr. Dundon was also reappointed register of vital statistics.

STREET SPRINKLING AWARDED TO KEELY

CONTRACT PRICE PER MONTH $850; LAST YEAR $667.

The question of giving out the contract for street sprinkling during the coming year, called forth considerable discussion at the March meeting of the Common Council last night. Mr. Ginna, chairman of the street committee, presented a proposed contract with John E. Keely, who did the work last year.

The contract price per month has been $667, but this year it is raised to $850. A stipulation is made that the men working for Keely are to receive at least $2 per day.

The contract extends from May 1 to October 31, 1907. Sixteen horses and eight drivers, together with all equipment, are to be furnished. During the months of April and November and December, of this year, and February and March of 1908, sprinkling is to be done as designated by the street commissioner, at the rate of $4 per day for each wagon. As usual the work is to be under Mr. Gavett's personal supervision. Mr. Keely is to furnish an extra horse and wagon for his own supervision of the work at no expense to the city.

If at any time it is considered that the work is not performed satisfactorily other arrangements may be made and the proportionate amount deducted from Mr. Keely's contract price. A fine of fifty cents is to be imposed for every failure to close hydrants so as to prevent flooding the streets. Mr. Keely is to take care of the wagons, and for each wagon not operated there is to be a proportionate deduction.

After the presentation of the contract by Mr. Ginna, which he said he would move be adopted, Councilman Charles C. Randolph wanted to know whether the street committee had attempted to secure bids for the work. He thought that with the increase in the price to be paid that other taxpayers should be given an opportunity to procure the work, and that the fact should be advertised. Mr. Ginna said that he had heard nothing about other people being anxious to bid for the work and he didn't suppose that anyone else could be found who would want to take it. He had no objection to securing bids, but he thought the price named in the contract was very low.

Mr. Hibbard made a motion at this time that the matter be referred back to the committee and that bids be advertised for before April 1. This motion was subsequently lost, all the members excepting Councilman C. C. Randolph, H. D. Hibbard and President Daniel, voting against it. Mr. Ginna's motion that the contract be executed in the usual way was adopted, all the members but the three named voting in the affirmative.

Early Indian Races Discussed.

"The Pueblos and Aztecs" was the subject of a charming paper presented by Mrs. J. Lawrence Watson at the Monday Afternoon Club yesterday in the study of "Primitive Man in America." Mrs. Watson dwelt on the personal characteristics, home life and religion of the early races of Indians rather on their political and geographical conditions. The subject elicited an interesting discussion following the paper.

CONSOLIDATION ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL?

Mr. Angleman So Arguing Before Bi-Municipal Commission, Also Holds Plan Impracticable.

MR. REED DIFFERS

No Citizen of City Present to Speak In Favor of Scheme Though Several From Borough Do.

Although the meeting had been given wide publicity, there was not a single citizen of Plainfield present to speak in behalf of the proposed scheme at the open session of the bimunicipal consolidation commission at Mayor Fisk's offices yesterday. There was, however, one to voice his belief that the proposition in its present state was impracticable. For nearly half an hour, Winfield S. Angleman held the attention of the commission while he argued from a legal standpoint that there were serious defects which would prevent consolidation without change of the county lines.

The consolidation scheme, Mr. Angleman argued, was a business and legal one and not a purely sentimental question. Legal obstacle would prevent a Consolidation unless annexation be first accomplished and as that Act had been repealed further legislation was needed before anything else was done. The Consolidation Act, he declared, was unconstitutional and further in its present state impracticable. Invariably the city's policy had been opposed to experiments and to carry out the present plan would be against all its settled principles.

Why Unconstitutional.

Mr. Angleman held that the Consolidation law passed in 1902 was unconstitutional on the ground that the body of the act was not the same as the title. This, he said, was a fatal defect in itself. The title says that it is an act to "unite and consolidate," while the body of the law makes it an act to "annex" North Plainfield to Plainfield. In the eyes of the law, he said, these meant two distinct and different things. The Consolidation Act, he further argued, was never intended to be put in effect unless the law providing for a change of the county lines be first acted upon favorably. The one presupposed the other. The Act to annex North Plainfield's territory, "in the county of Somerset, to the county of Union," was first enacted and intended to be voted on affirmatively by the inhabitants of both places following the fixed policy in other similar cases in the past in order to allow the consolidation of communities situated in different counties. The very wording of the latter act, for Consolidation, showed that it had been the plain intent of the Legislature and the framers of the bill not to consolidate unless annexation to Union county was first brought about. The title of the Consolidation Act mentions Plainfield as being in Union county but it does not mention where North Plainfield is, but the body of the Act shows where it is supposed to be for it states that North Plainfield is to be annexed and made a part of Plainfield, "in the county of Union."

City Charter Useless.

Another point made by Mr. Angleman was that the present city charter is not broad enough for any such purpose. The charter of Plainfield says that the city is "in the county of Union" and therefore would not apply to that territory beyond Green brook, the county dividing line if consolidation were effected. A new charter would have to be obtained before any official act was done when the two places were merged. A city in two counties would conflict with the authority of the boards of freeholders and would upset the entire election machinery for in the territory now embraced in what is North Plainfield they would be using one set of ballots and carrying on the election under a set of election officers who had nothing to do with the sets of ballots or the election officers on this side of the brook. In addition, he alleged, that the whole theory of State legislation would have to be changed if a merger be made without change of county lines for the State laws were made according to common law the-

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The sidewalks on Park avenue are in bad condition, pedestrians being compelled to walk in puddles of water from one to three inches deep. This is only partly due to the recent snow storm, the real season being the fact that the sidewalk appropriation raised by the taxpayers does not give the Township Committee the necessary money to do the repair work needed.

Mrs. L. D. H. Gilmour, who recently underwent a serious operation at one of the Newark hospitals, is convalescent, being able now to be about her room for a while each day.

May Drop Eddy Suit.

Concord, N. H., March 5.—Hint was given yesterday by persons intimately associated with Mary Baker G. Eddy that the sensational suit instituted against the managers of her estate, charging conspiracy to control her fortune for their own advantage, may be discontinued before the date set for its trial. On statements volunteered by bankers and other distinguished citizens of Concord, the lawyers for Mrs. Eddy feel that they already have sufficient material to defeat the action. Two of the leading bankers of the city, who, during all the other storms that have burst about the head of the aged leader of Christian Science Church, have remained silent, yesterday came out with emphatic statements to the effect that Mrs. Eddy to their personal knowledge is not only competent to manage her own affairs, but is one of the most remarkable business women they have ever known. One of them declared that she is an expert on bonds, and that during all her business career she has never made a single losing investment. Corroborating the declarations of the bankers, her cousin, Henry M. Baker, former Representative and now one of the leading Republicans of the State, declared positively that Mrs. Eddy is mentally alert and physically able to roam about her house as nimbly as a woman of fifty.

Rutgers Glee Club Coming.

The Evening News has the following account of a programme of the Rutgers Glee Club given at Wallace Hall, Newark: "A large audience attended the concert of the Rutgers Glee Club at Wallace Hall last evening, and so mightily pleased was it with the vocal efforts of the boys from New Brunswick that insistant demands for encores and gracious compliance with the requests resulted in many additions to the published programme. The club showed itself to be so admirably qualified to entertain an audience that it can count on receiving a hearty reception whenever it cares to return here." The Glee Club, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., will visit Plainfield Friday evening, March 8.

Miss Freda Gray, of Yonkers, N. Y., has been visiting her parents on West Front street.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., met last night and worked the first degree on one candidate.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., Thursday night.

The Union Veteran Union, Antietam Command, will hold a social and entertainment in its rooms on East Front street, tomorrow night.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold its annual conclave for the election of officers on Monday night, March 18. Ascension Day falls on Thursday, May 9, this year, and the Commandery, following its usual custom, will probably arrange to attend divine services.

It is more than likely that bathing suits will be worn by the Elks' band, which will head the lodge from Atlantic City in the big parade in Philadelphia in July. At a meeting of the local lodge Mr. McDaniels, the bandmaster, suggested the novel idea of having his musicians wear bathing suits, and the matter was referred to the committee of arrangements, which is expected to take favorable action on the idea at the next meeting. Mr. McDaniels suggests that the musicians appear in worsted jerseys with red and white stripes and bright blue trunks, red stockings and white bathing shoes. Instead of caps it is probable that the members of the band will wear straw bathing hats.

Would Raise French Morality.

New York, March 5.—Miss Louise H. Leclere, who gave French lessons to many well known New York residents, left the greater part of her fortune to charitable and benevolent institutions, with the announcement that her special object was to raise France "from her present low moral state." Miss Leclere was a native of France, but she had lived in New York long enough to teach the grandchildren of many of her early pupils. Her will was filed in the Surrogate's office yesterday by the law firm of Miller, Kings, Lane and Trafford. Her executors have not yet had an opportunity to estimate the value of her estate, but they say she was wealthy.

Matrimonial.

Three Germans were sitting at luncheon recently and were overheard discussing the second marriage of a mutual friends when one of them remarked:

"I'll tell you vhat. A man vhat marries de second time don't deserve to have lost his first vhife."—Life.

Mrs. William Slape, of Liberty, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Newell, of Westervelt avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Runyon and George F. Odiorne have taken rooms on West Sixth street, between Madison and Central avenues.

David Angerbauer, of East Third street, who has been ill for several weeks with an attack of rheumatism was able to be out yesterday for the first time.

—Miss Mary Cleaves, of Dunellen, is now cashier and bookkeeper for Druggist C. M. Nagle, of West Front street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Schenck, of West Front street, have leased the house on West End avenue, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Van Winkle.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Hottest Coon in Dixie," a bright, up-to-date musical comedy, replete with wholesome fun, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

That beautiful play of Kentucky romance and the turf, "His Last Dollar," under the management of E. D. Stair and George H. Nicholai, with David Higgins and Eleanor Montell at its head, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. This is the Fourth season of this beautiful and romantic southern play and the fact has been augmented by its past success that it has won its way into the hearts of theatre-goers and has stored there a spark of deep interest. The play is from the pen of David Higgins and Baldwin G. Cooke and concerns a young Kentuckian, Joe Braxton, who left alone in life while a mere lad starts in life as a jockey for Col. Downs, of Kentucky. Not finding this life all desired the ambitious lad goes West, becomes a cowboy and finally a ranch owner. He then decides to enter the mecca of Wall street, but through the efforts of some conspiring and trusted friends and the designing of a woman his downfall seems unavoidable. At the last moment there comes a guardian angel in the nature of a young Southern girl, Eleanor Downs, the daughter of his old employer. She has brought her horse, Mongrel, to race in the Great Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, and succeeds in getting Joe to put his few remaining dollars at a 50 to 1 shot on her horse. At the last moment Braxton throws aside his coat, dons the jockey's colors and rushes forward to the post at her entreaty, her jockey having been disabled by malicious schemers, and rides for fortune, love and revenge. For this exciting and heart pulsing scene genuine race horses are carried and the reproduction of the paddock at Sheepshead Bay is claimed to be one of the most realistic ever shown. Among the players may be mentioned W. Burt Cartwright, Thomas Reynolds, William Belfort, Page Spencer, Allen Bailey, C. P. Eggleston, Guy F. Evans, W. F. Petrie, C. E. Rathburn, Charles LaVally, William ~~Mullen, Emma Salvators,~~ Alma MacLaren, Bliss Millford, Molly Malcolm and others.

One of the biggest successes of the present season in melodramatic plays is "Billy the Kid," which is being presented by what is reported to be an exceptionally strong company with the popular young actor, Joseph Santley, in the stellar role. "Billy the Kid" is reported to tell a powerful story of certain phases of the freer life of the great southwest, for the scenes of the play are all laid in New Mexico. That of the second act represents a locale which is absolutely unknown in the east for it is a faithful reproduction of a typical New Mexican saloon with a dance hall in the rear. Here are forced to work a number of white women who are little better than slaves, but it is the turning of one of them upon the man who is her master that saves, at the immediate risk of her own life, that of the hero and the honor of the heroine. "Billy the Kid" is understood to have been given a very handsome production by its management and Mr. Santley is supported by an excellent company. Star and play will come to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night.

The famous comedy, "A Message from Mars," one of the most successful plays which has been brought out for many years, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. Local theatregoers are familiar with the humor and beauty of this comedy and were remarkably well pleased with it when it was seen here before.

UNIFORM DIVORCE REPORT NOW READY FOR APPROVAL.

The Delegates Tell Governor Stokes of Results.

Trenton, March 5.—The three New Jersey delegates who attended the uniform divorce law congress, met with Governor Stokes last week and agreed upon the report to be made to the Legislature, which will include a bill designed to regulate the granting of divorces in accordance with the suggestions of the congress. The bill proposes that grounds for absolute divorce, namely, adultery or desertion for a period of two years, shall continue to be the only causes for which such divorces shall be granted. These two grounds, however, are added to the causes for limited divorce, which is now granted only for extreme cruelty.

The proposed act also provides for giving full force to divorce decrees granted by other States which join in the movement. An exception is to be in the case of inhabitants of a State who shall go into the jurisdiction of another and obtain a divorce for a cause which occurred while the parties lived in one State and which is not a cause for divorce in the other. Another feature of the act is to give publicity to all divorce proceedings and records. The New Jersey delegates were Judge William M. Lanning, of the United States District Court; Vice-Chancellor John R. Emery and Dr. Henry Collin Minton, formerly moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church.

Captain and Mrs. A. J. McDougall, who have been visiting Mrs. Guinn, of East Sixth street, sailed for Australia on Saturday.

Plainfield, N. J., March 5, 1907.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

Although the Gubernatorial election is a long way off, there are no end of boomlets for the Republican nomination. Up to the present time no less than half a score of prominent men in various quarters of the State have been "suggested" but it is altogether too early to get any line on their relative strength. Naturally the State machine will pick a man not unfriendly to it, but at the same time there is a general understanding that no matter who is picked he must be a relatively strong candidate before the people.

Should the candidate agreed upon by the leaders not come up to the standards of the new idea in politics, it may be said without fear of contradiction that the independent Republicans of New Jersey will bitterly oppose his nomination. If they fail in their effort, one may look for a Democrat to be Governor Stokes' successor. Included among the number "mentioned" for the nomination are such men as Justice Mahlon Pitney, Judge J. Franklin Fort, State Senator Everett Colby, former Justice Skinner, State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, former First Assistant Postmaster General William Johnson, Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Chandler Riker. That anyone of these will be the lucky individual is far from certain. The great majority of these "possibilities" represent the best type of citizenship and would make excellent chief executives.

Now that the Common Council has invested in the Mayor the power to grant licenses other than those for the right to sell liquor, may we ask Mr. Fisk if he intends to renew the license for a restaurant on wheels to block a street in order to do business? The wagon in Second street near Park avenue is an unsightly obstruction which should be removed without delay.

In the language of the famous Mr. Cobb, after hearing from one lawyer that the Consolidation Act is unconstitutional and the scheme impracticable and from another exactly the opposite, it may be asked, where are we at?

It has been decided that a woman cannot act as a special police officer. Of course she is still free to rule in her own home.

Congress has gone out of business but the "big stick" is still on its job.

Drastic Corporation Bill.

Albany, March 5.—Gov. Hughes has put the finishing touches to the bill creating a Public Utility Commission, and the measure is said to be so drastic in its provisions that agents of the corporations affected have sent word to their employers that the "worst has happened." There will be two commissions, one with authority in the State and one to have control of the public utilities in New York city. This last will supplant the Rapid Transit Commission, and in addition control gas, electric, telephone and telegraph companies. It is promised that the enforcement machinery will provide a quick and summary way to make the corporations obey the mandate of the State. This machinery will be the same for both the State Utilities Commission and for the commission for New York city. It will apply with equal force to the transit companies, the gas companies and the electric companies. It is said this machinery is a marvel of legal ingenuity, and yet is wonderfully simple in its application. It will compel the public service corporations to do what the State ordains. That there will be a tremendous fight against the bill by the corporations is sure. The Assembly is inclined to pass the bill just as it has been draughted, but it is in the Senate that the big battle will be fought. Every means known to the trained campaigners will be brought into play there to delay the measure.

ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL ?

ories which recognized counties as the distinct line of separation. Almost all the laws of the State, he alleged, would conflict with a condition that would be presented by the plan proposed. The county division line, moreover, he said, would still be in use and would lead to all sorts of difficulties. One that he mentioned regarded the committment of prisoners. A man arrested on Manning avenue, for instance, could not be sent to the Union county court or jail while a man arrested on North avenue could not be sent to Somerville. Arrests for State offenses would also lead to complications because of the lack of authority of an officer in Union county to act in a part of the city in Somerset county. The apportionment of county school funds moneys would likewise present an obstacle. This money is apportioned by counties and therefore what was sent to that part of Somerset county, now North Plainfield, but what would be a part of Plainfield, could not be lumped with the fund coming to what is now Plainfield for it would be used contrary to law inasmuch as it would be spent in Union county. The election of county officials, justices and the like were also alleged to seriously effect the situation.

After Mr. Angleman had concluded his remarks, Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed was asked by President Gilbert, of the commission, to tell what he thought of the legal aspect of the proposed merger without change of county lines. He reiterated what he had stated at a previous meeting that there were no insurmountable legal obstacles and that he did not believe that the consolidation act in its present form was unconstitutional. Neither did he believe, he added, that the scheme as proposed was impracticable.

Boroughites Make Petition.

Next to Counsellor Angleman the principal speaker was Samuel Townsend, who, as a resident of the borough, expressed the belief that consolidation should be brought about and that it would be a good thing for North Plainfield. With a brief preface to his remarks to this effect, he read a communication from thirty-seven property owners in the Washington Park district addressed to the commission as follows:

"As we have reason to believe the arguments in its favor have already been placed before you, we do not think it necessary to go over the same ground. We would, however, respectfully urge that irrespective of your report as to the desirability of the proposed consolidation that you meet the views of the subscribers and many others by recommending that the question be submitted to our voters."

Following the reading, Mr. Townsend spoke of the difference in settlement between the city and borough and specified certain sections to show that it has not been in proportion.

"Take the borough west of Giraud avenue," said Mr. Townsend; "with the exception of the settled portion on lower Myrtle and Willow avenues, it is all open country. On the city side of the brook the streets are built up so that vacant ground is the exception rather than the rule. It's the same thing at the east end of town. Beyond Westervelt avenue in the borough there are very few houses and no sign of especial growth except where the Hyde property is being developed. On the city side the land is well built up and lots more in prospect.

Townsend Voices Sentiment.

"As the natural conditions are the same it must be the artificial conditions that are responsible," continued Mr. Townsend. "From our point of view it would be an advantage to consolidate with the city; looking at it from the Plainfield point of view the city would benefit by the move through enhanced values. It is certainly going to be done some time and if you make up your mind it can be brought about if you want it to come about. The majority of the residents in our section have always believed in consolidation and the remaining portions of the borough are looking at it in the same light."

"In your opinion, Mr. Townsend," said Mr. Gilbert, "what influence has caused this growth in Plainfield?"

"There are a number of reasons," was the reply; "Plainfield has always set the standard and we are in the position of a competitor. When a man comes here to locate we try to get him; we aim to give as good as the city offers—sewers alone are lacking but Plainfield had the growth before it had that advantage. There has never been any attempt to locate industries in the borough because it has no railroad and it is only small concerns that can engage in manufacturing away from them. There is not what could be called a factory class in Plainfield but it has secured the great advantage in this respect."

Woolston's Ideas.

L. B. Woolston, of the borough, who is persident of the Board of Trade, was another speaker who argued in favor of consolidation. He declared himself at the outset as preferring annexation but that if the one were secured first the other might be brought about later.

"One of the things that leads me to believe that something should be done," said Mr. Woolston, "is the fact that the borough schools are not as good as Plainfield's. The North Plainfielders may think they are but it is only false pride because it is not so. When the High School department was established I was opposed to it because it would be cheaper for us to send the pupils to Plainfield. The number in the upper grades has never been over thirty and they could receive the education in Plainfield for $1,500 a year while it is costing us about $5,000. There is a large attendance of small children brought about in a measure from the fact that laboring men who work in Plainfield, live in North Plainfield because it is cheaper. I firmly believe that if the question is put to the Plainfield people, they would vote for consolidation.

Hegeman Speaks.

Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman took the floor long enough to reply directly to the questions raised by Counsellor Angleman.

"We don't want legal questions to impede our way," said he with emphasis; "get the views of the people on the question at the polls—then consider the legal aspect. If the former could be done we could get counsel to pave the way afterward."

David T. Kenney was the only other citizen present to express his views in favor of consolidation and afterward there was an informal discussion of several minutes. The public hearing was then declared at an end by Mr. Gilbert and the commission went into executive session.

School Roll of Honor.

The following pupils of St. Mary's school have received an average of ninety and over in punctuality, attendance, deportment, application, lessons and exercises for the month of February, and, therefore, merit a place on the school's roll of honor: Commercial—Paul Mercier, Catherine Powers; eighth grade—Nora McCarthy, Mary Donnelly, John Casey, Charles Schuck, Josephine Rock, Regina Brady, Thomas Bebout, Frank Hand, Mary Powers, Elizabeth Mara, William Sullivan; grade seventh A—Cornelius Regan, Francis Cullen, Francis Donnelly, Florence McDonald, Mary Hepner, Bessie Parent, Teresa Murray; grade sixth A—Catherine Nolan, Annie Kenny, Mary Nugent, Margaret McCarthy, Mary Frawley, Walter Johnson; grade fifth B—Joseph Murray, John Guinee, William Conway, John Henry, John Powelson, Joseph Smith, John McCarthy, Agnes Heffren, Josephine Quinn, Alicia O'Loughlin, Margaret Russ, Marion Greene, Catherine Newell, Mary Jaeger, Nora Walsh.

STATE EXHIBIT POPULAR

Hundreds Visited Tuberculosis Display at the Stirling Building Yesterday.

A NURSE IN CHARGE

Dr. Farrand and Dr. Bailey to Deliver Lectures Tonight—C. W. McCutchen to Preside.

Judging by the interest shown yesterday at the opening of the State tuberculosis exhibit, being held in the Stirling building on Park avenue, all previous records of attendance will be surpassed during the week. While the exhibit was in Elizabeth the largest attendance any one day was forty, while yesterday afternoon and evening over 400 people visited the exhibit and evidenced great interest in it. Miss Olive DeLany, the city nurse, is in charge and explains the various appliances and models.

The exhibit comprises models of tents used in various parts of the country, among them being the model of the tent used on the Casino grounds for the care of Michael Muldowney. This attracts unusual interest. There are different styles of beds, which may be used in the home treatment of tuberculosis; photographs, charts, statistics, showing what a stronghold the disease has in the United States, in New Jersey and in Plainfield. A striking fact displayed is that in 1904 there were nine deaths in Plainfield from scarlet fever, diphtheria and typhoid fever, the most dreaded diseases, while during the same period there were twenty-six deaths from tuberculosis.

Many other things are exhibited demonstrating the modern methods of prevention and cure of tuberculosis. One of the most interesting features is a model of a dark, tenement-house room and then by comparison a model room. In the former room there is not a particle of light and the surroundings are the very worst. In the model room there is plenty of light and everything is clean and tidy in appearance. The tenement-house room represents exactly conditions found in many cities. Photographs of children and adults being cared and treated for tuberculosis are shown, indicating the improvement in condition under proper restrictions.

Tonight there will be a lecture on tuberculosis by Dr. Livingston Farrand, of New York; also an illustrated lecture by stereopticon by Dr. Frederick Bailey, of Elizabeth. Chas. W. McCutchen will preside. On account of the large interest manifested in the exhibit, arrangements have been made to hold tonight's lectures in the Sunday-school room of Trinity Reformed church, on West Second street, at 8:15 o'clock, the room in the Stirling building too small for the purpose.

CITY BORROWS $20,000

Common Council Orders Issuance of Bonds to Meet Expense.

ORDINANCES OFFERED

Building Inspector and District Court Clerk Make Reports—Other Routine Business.

The adjourned February meeting of the Common Council was so productive of important business that but little outside of routine matters was left for the March session, held last night. A public hearing was granted in the matter of establishing the grade on certain streets, but no one was present to speak for or against the proposed action, and the ordinance was adopted on final reading.

Residents of West Third street, between Monroe and Clinton avenues, petitioned to have that street macadamized, and a similar petition was received from J. D. Loizeaux and others asking that Hillside avenue, between Evergreen and Martine avenues, be macadamized, and both petitions were referred to the street committee. The Public Service Corporation informed the Common Council that an electric light had been located on Leland avenue, as directed. The bond of H. G. Adams, district court clerk, was received and will be referred to the corporation counsel for approval. Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, who has the new sewer contract, communicated with the Common Council informing the members of his action in giving Thomas Cussack power of attorney. The communication was referred to the corporation counsel.

Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twelve building permits during February, and the report of Clerk H. G. Adams, of the district court, for February showed the receipts to be $96.57 and the disbursements $39.25. The report was filed.

The bond of Collector John W. Murray, Jr., was ordered approved and filed when the acknowledgement of a New York County notary public is secured, to one of the bondsmen.

Borrow $20,000.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution providing for the borrowing of $20,000 for sewer improvements, the same to be obtained through the issuance of bonds. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Ginna, chairman of the street committee, reported back the petition of the Greenbrook Improvement Company, relative to the establishment of sanitary sewers in the east end of the city, with instructions that before any sewer contract is made with North Plainfield, due consideration will be given its request.

Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, moved that the petition of Sigmund Frucht for permission to erect a one-story building on Park avenue, adjoining the building of L. E. Hart, be granted. The motion was adopted. Mr. Hibbard stated that the committee met Sunday afternoon and a unanimous vote in favor of the petition was taken.

Another motion offered by Mr. Hibbard and adopted, provided for the location of one two-way hydrant on Martine avenue and one two-way hydrant at Jackson avenue and East Second street. His motion granting the petition for a fire alarm box at Denmark road and Belvidere avenue was also adopted.

Bids and Ordinances.

Mr. Ginna offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing the street and sewer committee to advertise for bids for securing crushed stone, material for culverts and crosswalks for the coming year, the bids to be opened at a meeting of the committee on Thursday night, March 21, at 8 o'clock in the office of Street Commissioner Gavett.

The same member offered two ordinances, the first one providing for the opening and widening of Arlington avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, as petitioned for by the property-owners. It was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. The second ordinance provided for the establishment of the side-lines on West Front street, between Grove street and Central avenue and West End and Grant avenues. It establishes the building line fourteen feet from the curb line and allows for the ten foot sidewalk, a four foot area, with 32½ feet on each side from the center line of the street. This was also adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. Both ordinances will be acted upon third reading at the April meeting.

A third ordinance offered by Mr. Ginna called for the laying out and opening of Orange place, between Elm place and Westervelt avenue, but as there was some doubt as to whether this action was not already a matter of record, the matter was referred back to the street committee for investigation.

Another $1,000 Bond.

Mr. Ginna also introduced a supplement to an ordinance calling for the issuance of an additional $1,000 street improvement bond to complete the work of permanent pavement contracted for. The bond is to be issued for three years, at 5 per cent., and can be retired at any period within that time. The ordinance was adopted and ordered advertised.

It was voted that when an adjournment was taken it be to meet on Thursday night, March 14.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Recent Fiction Added to the Public Library Since November, 1906, Part 2.

Harben, William Nathaniel.—Ann Boyd.

"The story has a certain elemental vigor which is characteristic of all Mr. Harben's work. In some portions of the book the writer has succeeded in imparting a suggestion of the rude pathos and unaffected sentiment that we associate with the peasant pictures of Millet."

Hawkins, Anthony Hope.—Sophy of Kravonia.

"The conspiracy which thickens the plot is capitally developed, and long before the matter is solved the reader has quite forgotten that at the outset here was a certain sense of oppressiveness in the very serious marshalling of documentary evidence, as if for the history of a nation or the biography of a nation's hero."

Hichens, Robert Smythe.—Call of the blood.

"Mr. Hichens' style harmonizes excellently with his subject. Its colour is at times rather hectic, but in the main it seems to heighten the effect of a remarkably interesting and dramatic study of the survival of pagan and primitive instincts."

Howells, William Dean, and Alden, H. M., eds.—Under the sunset: Harper's nevolettes.

"Many of the stories are exceedingly good, and the variety, within the broad limits of the western localization and inspiration, is strikingly wide."

Lucas, Edward Verrall.—Listener's lure: a Kensington comedy.

"Attractive as are the characters in the book, the main interest lies in the delightful things that are said by the way. Mr. Lucas is essentially an essayist."

McCutchen, George Barr.—Jane Cable.

"As a good melodrama should, the story takes hold in the first pages with a grip that releases the interest only when the problems are all solved."

Mears, Mary Martha.—Breath of the runners.

"There is much knowledge of the art world, much keen insight into the hearts of men and women, and no small amount of healthful philosophy of life in this unpretentious story." Bookman.

Murfree, Mary Noailles.—("Charles Egbert Craddock").—The amulet.

"The scene is laid in a stockade fort in Tennessee in the year 1763, where a little band of English soldiers maintains this outpost of civilization among the Cherokee Indians."

Parrish, Randall.—Bob Hampton of Placer.

"Its theme, indeed, is so like that of Harte's 'Protege of Jack Hamlin's' as to make it seem rather more reminiscent than original. A certain racy quality of its own, however, it preserves." N. Y. Times.

Reed, Myrtle.—Spinner in the sun.

"There is a mystery in Miss Reed's new story. 'It is a tale of village tragedy working out the purification and redemption of its actors.' 'Nothing but humor, could redeem the extravagant, sentimental presentment offered as a reading of life. But humor is nowhere present.'" Literary digest.

Roach, Abby Meguire.—Some successful marriages.

"Its limitation is a lack of humor, which results in a self-conscious style from time to time, and leads one to suspect that the characters are not quite average—as they are intended to be—but ultra-introspective, thinking their way through difficulties that over and over should dissolve in fun." Outlook.

Viaud, Louis Marie Julien, (Pierre Loti, pseud).—Disenchanted.

"This situation M. Loti has developed in a story of rare delicacy and beauty, full of refinement and feeling, and sketched in those sensitive colors, with that extreme sensibility of feeling, which have made him perhaps the foremost of impressionist writers." Outlook.

Warner, Anne.—Seeing France with Uncle John.

"It is quite impossible to read this little satire by Anne Warner without laughter." Outlook.

Weyman, Stanley John.—Chippinge Borough.

"Mr. Weyman's latest romance has for its background the passing of the reform bill of 1832. No novelist is more conscientious in his treatment of historical events, and the picture he presents of the fierce struggle between the old governing class and the advocates of the 'People's bil' is singularly faithful and vivid. .... Into this political struggle he has successfully woven a romantic story." Athenaeum.

White, Stewart Edward, and Adams, Samuel Hopkins.—The mystery.

"The story is well told in a lively style, and the characters are strongly portrayed. Perhaps there is in the dialogue a dash too much of smartness. The credibility of the reader is at times overstrained. But the novel has real merit and is a notable contribution to the 'thrillers' of the sea." Literary digest.

Wilkins, Mary E.—By the light of her soul.

Williamson, Charles Norris, and Mrs. Alice M. L.—Lady Betty across the water.

"The intent is to present a friendly picture of real American life, to hold up the mirror to 'society,' and to provide a sort of guide book of America's typical institutions: but it's all done upon such meagre knowledge of the facts that British visitors must be warned not to take it seriously." N. Y. Times.

Luther D. Morris, of West Front street, who has been ill with pleurisy, is much improved.

Mrs. Whitney Frazee, of South avenue, is seriously ill at the home of her sister on Randolph road.

Horsely Barker, formerly engaged in the drug business here, has been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

—Thomas Buckley, of the Potter Press Works, is in Springfield, Ill., erecting presses.

—James Patterson, of the Potter Press Works, has gone to Chicago to put up a printing press.

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

CHAPTER XIX.

A Triple Alliance.

Larry refused to share my quarters and chose a room for himself, which Bates fitted up out of the house stores. I did not know what Bates might surmise about Larry, but he accepted my friend in good part, as a guest who would remain indefinitely. He seemed to interest Larry, whose eyes followed the man inquiringly.

When we went down Bates was limping about the library, endeavoring to restore order.

"Bates," I said to him, "you are a very curious person. I have had a thousand and one opinions about you since I came here, and still I don't make you out."

He turned from the shelves, a defaced volume in his hands.

"Yes, sir. It was a good deal that way with your lamented grandfather. He always said I puzzled him."

Larry, safe behind the fellow's back, made no attempt to conceal a smile.

"I want to thank you for your heroic efforts to protect the house last night. You acted nobly, and I must confess, Bates, that I didn't think it was in you. I'm only sorry that there are black pages in your record that I can't reconcile with your manly conduct of last night. But we've got to come to an understanding."

"Yes, sir."

"The most outrageous attacks have been made on me since I came here. You know what I mean well enough. Mr. Glenarm never intended that I should sit down in his house and be killed or robbed. He was the gentlest being that ever lived, and I'm going to fight for his memory and to protect his property from the scoundrels who have plotted against me. I hope you follow me."

"By God, I Will Stand by You, John Glenarm!"

"Yes, Mr. Glenarm." He was regarding me attentively. His lips quavered, perhaps from weakness, and he seemed distressed and ill.

"Now I offer you your choice,—either to stand loyally by me and my grandfather's house or to join these scoundrels Arthur Pickering has hired to drive me out. I'm not going to bribe you,—I don't offer you a cent for your help, but I won't have a traitor in the house, and if you don't like me or my terms I want you to go and go now."

He straightened quickly,—his eyes lighted and the color crept into his face. I had never before seen him appear so like a human being.

"Mr. Glenarm, you have been hard on me; there have been times when you have been most unjust—"

"Unjust, unfair—my God, what do you expect me to take from you! Haven't I known that you were in league with Pickering? I'm not as dull as I look, and after your interview with Pickering in the chapel porch you can't convice me that you were faithful to my interests at that time."

He started and gazed at me wonderingly. I had had no intention of using the chapel porch interview at this time, but it leaped out of me uncontrollably.

"I suppose, sir," he began brokenly, "that I can hardly persuade you that I meant no wrong on that occasion."

"You certainly can not,—and it's safer for you not to try. But I'm willing to let all that go as a reward for your work last night. Make your choice now; stay here and stop your spying or clear out within an hour."

He took a step toward me; the table was between us and he drew quite near but stood clear of it, erect until there was something soldierly and commanding in his tall figure.

"By God, I will stand by you, John Glenarm!" he said, and struck the table smartly with his clinched hand.

He flushed instantly, and I felt the blood mounting into my own face as we gazed at each other,—he, Bates, the servant, and I, his master! He had always addressed me so punctiliously with the "sir" of respect that his declaration of fealty, spoken with so sincere and vigorous an air of independence, and with the bold emphasis of the oath, that I stood spellbound, staring at him. The silence was broken by Larry, who sprang forward and grasped Bates' hand.

"I, too, Bates," I said, feeling my heart leap with liking, even with admiration for the real manhood that seemed to transfigure this hireling,—this fellow whom I had charged with infamous conduct, this servant who had cared for my needs in so humble a spirit of subjection.

The knocker on the front door sounded peremptorily, and Bates turned without another word, and admitted Stoddard, who came in hurriedly.

"Merry Christmas!" he called heartily, in tones hardly consonant with the troubled look on his face. I introduced him to Larry and asked him to sit down.

"Pray excuse our disorder,—we didn't do it for fun; it was one of Santa Claus' tricks.

He stared about wonderingly.

"So you caught it, too, did you?"

"To be sure. You don't mean to say that they raided the chapel?"

"That's exactly what I mean to say. When I went into the church for my early service I found that some one had ripped off the wainscoting in a half a dozen places and even pried up the altar. It's the most outrageous thing I ever knew. You've heard of the proverbial poverty of the church mouse,—what do you suppose anybody could want to raid a simple little country chapel for? And more curious yet, the church plate was untouched, though the closet where it's kept was upset, as though the miscreants had looked there for something they didn't find."

Stoddard was greatly disturbed, and gazed about the topsy-turvy library with growing indignation.

We drew together for a council of war. Here was an opportunity to enlist a new recruit on my side; and after I had told my story fully and conducted Larry and Stoddard through the tunnel, the better to prove that I was not romancing, they declared their purpose to stand by me to the end, no matter what that conclusion might be.

The next morning Bates placed a letter postmarked Cincinnati at my plate. I opened and read it aloud to Larry:

On Board the Heloise.
December 25, 1901.

John Glenarm, Esq.,
Glenarm House,
Annandale, Wabana Co., Indiana:

Dear Sir—I have just learned from what I believe to be a trustworthy source that you have already violated the terms of the agreement under which you entered into residence on the property near Annandale, known as Glenarm House. The provisions of the will of John Marshall Glenarm are plain and unequivocal, as you undoubtedly understood when you accepted them, and your absence, not only from the estate itself, but from Wabana county, violates beyond question your right to inherit.

I, as executor, therefore demand that you at once vacate said property, leaving it in as good condition as when received by you. Very truly yours,

Arthur Pickering,
Executor of the Estate of John Marshall Glenarm.

"Very truly the devil's," growled Larry, snapping his cigarette case viciously.

"How did he find out?" I asked lamely, but my heart sank like lead. Had Marian Devereux told him! How else could he know?

"Probably from the stars,—the whole universe undoubtedly saw you skipping off to meet your lady love. Bah, these women!"

"Tut! They don't all marry the sons of brewers," I retorted. "You assured me once, while your affair with that Irish girl was on, that the short upper lip made Heaven seem possible, but unnecessary; then the next thing I knew she had shaken you for the bloated maltster. Take that for your impertinence. But perhaps it was Bates?"

I did not wait for an answer. I was not in a mood for reflection or nice distinctions. The man came in just then with a fresh plate of toast.

"Bates, Mr. Pickering has learned that I was away from the house on the night of the attack, and I'm ordered off for having broken my agreement to stay here. How do you suppose he heard of it so promptly?"

"From Morgan, quite possibly. I have a letter from Mr. Pickering myself this morning. Just a moment, sir."

He placed before me a note bearing the same date as my own. It was a sharp rebuke of Bates for his failure to report my absence promptly by wire, and he was ordered to prepare to leave on the first of February. "Close your accounts at the shopkeepers' and I will audit your bills on my arrival."

The tone was peremptory and contemptuous. Bates had failed to satisfy Pickering and was flung off like a smoked-out cigar.

"How much had he allowed you for expenses, Bates?"

He met my gaze imperturably.

"He pays me $50 a month as wages, sir, and I am allowed $75 for other expenses."

"But you didn't buy English pheasants and champagne on that allowance!"

He was carrying away the coffee tray and his eyes wandered to the windows.

"Not quite, sir. You see—"

"But I don't see!"

"It had occurred to me that as Mr. Pickering's allowance wasn't what you might call generous it was better to augment it— Well, sir, I took the liberty of advancing a trifle, as you might say, to the estate. Your grandfather would not have had you starve, sir."

He left hurriedly, as though to escape from the consequences of his words, [illegible]

gloomily invoking his strange Irish gods.

"Larry Donovan, I've been tempted to kill that fellow a dozen times! This thing is too damned complicated for me. I wish my lamented grandfather had left me something easy. To think of it—that all the time I've been cursing and abusing Bates since I came here I've been enjoying his bounty,—and he's been giving me the fat of the land, just because of his devotion to my grandfather's memory. Lord, I can't face the fellow again!"

"As I have said before, you're rather lacking at times in perspicacity. Your intelligence is marred by large opaque spots. Now that there seems to be a woman in the case you're less sane than ever. Bah, these women! And now we've got to go to work."

Bah, these women! My own heart caught the words. I was enraged and bitter. No wonder she had been anxious for me to avoid Pickering in Cincinnati, after daring me to follow her there!

We called a council of war for that night that we might view matters in the light of Pickering's letter. His assuredness in ordering me to leave made prompt and decisive action necessary on my part. I summoned Stoddard to our conference, feeling confident of his friendliness.

"Of course," said the broad-shouldered chaplain, "if you could show that your absence was on business of very grave importance, the courts might construe in your favor."

Larry looked at the ceiling and blew rings of smoke languidly. I had not disclosed to either of them the cause of my absence. On such a matter I knew I should get precious little sympathy from Larry, and I had, moreover, a feeling that I could not discuss Marian Devereux with any one; I even shrank from mentioning her name, though it rang like the call of bugles in my blood.

She was always before me,—the charmed spirit of youth, linked to every foot of the earth, every gleam of the sun upon the ice-bound lake, every glory of the winter sunset. All the good impulses I had ever stifled were quickened to life by the thought of her. Amid the day's perplexities I started sometimes, thinking I heard her voice, her girlish laughter, or saw her again coming toward me down the stairs, or holding against the light her fan with its golden butterflies. I really knew so little of her; I could associate her with no home, only with that last fling of the autumn upon the lake, the snow-driven woodland, that twilight hour at the organ in the chapel, those stolen moments at the Armstrongs'. I resented the pressure of the hour's affairs, and chafed at the necessity for talking of my perplexities with the good friends who were there to help. I wished to be alone, to yield to the sweet mood that the thought of her brought me. The doubt that crept through my mind as to any possibility of connivance between her and Pickering was as vague and fleeting as the shadow of a swallow's wing on a sunny meadow.

"You don't intend fighting the fact of your absence, do you?" demanded Larry, after a long silence.

"Of course not!" I replied fiercely. "Pickering was right on my heels, and my absence was known to his men here. And it would not be square to my grandfather,—who never harmed a flea, may his blessed soul rest in peace!—to lie about it. They might nail me for perjury besides."

"Then the quicker we get ready for a siege the better. As I understand your attitude, you don't intend to move out until you've found where the siller's hidden. Being a gallant gentleman and of a forgiving nature, you want to be sure that the lady who is now entitled to it gets all there is coming to her, and as you don't trust the executor any further than a true Irishman trusts a British prime minister's promise, you're going to stand by to watch the bullion counted. Is that a correct analysis of your intentions?"

"That's as near one of my ideas as you're likely to get."

"Spoken like a man of spirit. And now we'd better stock up at once, in case we should be shut off from our source of supplies. This is a lonely place here; even the school is a remote neighbor. Better let Bates raid the village shops to-morrow. I've tried being hungry, and I don't care to repeat the experience."

"I can't imagine, I really can't believe," began the chaplain, "that Miss Devereux will want to be brought into this estate matter in any way. In fact, I have heard Sister Theresa say as much. I suppose there's no way of preventing a man from leaving his property to a young woman who has no claim on him,—who doesn't want anything from him."

"Bah, these women! People don't throw legacies to the birds these days. Of course she'll take it," observed Larry.

Then his eyes widened and met mine in a gaze that reflected the mystification and wonder that struck both of us. Stoddard turned suddenly from the fire, into which he had been gazing, exclaiming:

"What's that? There's some one up stairs!"

Larry was already running toward the hall, and I heard him springing up the steps like a cat, while Stoddard and I followed.

"Where's Bates?" demanded the chaplain.

"I'll thank you for the answer," I replied.

Larry stood at the top of the staircase, holding a candle at arm's length in front of him, staring about.

We could hear quite distinctly some one walking down a stairway; the sounds were unmistakable, just as I had heard them on two previous occasions, without ever being able to trace their source.

Bowling and General Sports

ENDURANCE CONTEST TAKES PLACE TOMORROW

TEN TEAMS AWAITING THE WORD FOR TWELVE-HOUR STRUGGLE.

With ten two-men teams entered for the struggle, the twelve-hour endurance contest will start at McLaughlin's bowling alleys tomorrow afternoon. The field includes some of the best pin hitters in the city and the gallery is looking for record timber smashing. The word to commence will be given at 1 o'clock and the balls will be kept gliding down the alleys continually until 1 o'clock Thursday morning. The highest aggregate number of pins is to count for first prize, which is $15, and the second highest number for the next prize, $8. The bowler making the highest individual score will be awarded $5.

The tourney has been arranged and will be conducted by G. E. Firstbrook and T. M. Muir. It will be the second of its kind to take place in the State, the first having been held at Madison, and in the event of its proving as successful as anticipated, another that will tax the competitors still more will be arranged later. In tomorrow's contest, the members of the teams may relieve each other when they see fit and in this way thumbs will be kept from "going bad" and a chance is given to get "second wind."

The teams entered for the struggle are the following: William Skinner and Harry Ackor, Edward Britton and Joseph Farlee; Warren McLaughlin and Dr. F. C. Herbert, Jack Williams and Louis Skelly, "Willie" Mullen and Jack Connors, Chauncey B. Koons and Sam Dent, G. E. Firstbrook and T. M. Muir, P. L. Gaddis and "Bill" Dilks, Roy Day and O. B. Johanson and Frank Burke and Thos. F. O'Donnell, the last named of Elizabeth.

BOWLING.

The only tourney games at McLaughlin's tonight will be between Woolston and Cunningham and Radin and Ackor.

The P. B. A. bowling team will hike it to New Brunswick tomorrow night and take another try at Greenwald's five. The two aggregations met in this city last Wednesday night and the Plainfielders lost two out of three. They are confident they can turn the tables, however, and have given one best bet that they will make it three straight.

A team made up of local newspapermen will measure strength with the Newark News Invincibles Friday night, the match to be rolled on the Tuxedo alleys at Newark. "Colonel" A. P. Hacquer will head the local contingent and has contracted to do all the rooting. After the game, the Plainfielders will be the guests of the Newark boys at dinner.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the golf expert at the Country Club, has shown that he is every bit as good a pin hitter as he is demonstrator of the ancient and honorable gutta percha chasing act. In his second game at McLaughlin's a few nights ago he smashed the timber for 202 and since then has made a double century every time he has taken a try-out. The enthusiasts say "that's bowling some" and are expecting to hear "Marty" calling on Wizard Voorhees to defend his title.

Dave Driscoll In Town.

Dave Driscoll, captain and first baseman of Plainfield's team, under the management of Philip Daab, was in town last night, looking after some matters in reference to Plainfield's new team which will be a member of the Lackawanna League. He called on "Phil." Smith and discussed the proposition of having the Plainfielder pitch for the local aggregation. Smith will probably be the boxman, and "Pete" Lamar will likely be at the receiving end.

PEARY TELLS AGAIN HIS HUNT FOR POLE

SCIENCE NOW KNOWS MORE OF ARTIC CIRCLE EXPLORER DECLARES.

Commander Robert E. Peary, the arctic explorer, entertained another large audience, last night, with his tale of the hunt for the pole. Appearing at the theatre, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., he drew a crowd that all but filled the playhouse.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis introduced the explorer. Mr. Peary made the location of the pole, and the position of the country surrounding it plain by means of maps before going into the trip itself. On July 16, 1905, Commander Peary left America in the ship "Roosevelt," a vessel built especially for this trip, and a thoroughly American ship, having been built in an American shipyard, of American material, and officered by an American citizen.

He remained on the vessel until February, 1906, when he found it impossible to proceed further north in her on account of the density of the ice. Provisions had run somewhat low, and in order to provide an additional supply for the sledge journeys about to commence, hunting parties were sent out and a supply of musk oxen and Arctic hares secured, which meat was a most welcome addition to their larder, as fresh meat was very much of a delicacy.

The dog teams, which had been secured and taken north in the vessel, were now brought into service, and the real "dash" begun. On April 21, 1906, Commander Peary reached his "farthest north" for this trip, his observations showing 87 degrees, 6 minutes, a point 174 miles from the pole and about 35 miles farther north than his best previous record. At this point he built a cairn and flung to the breeze an American flag.

As a result of his trip, the lecturer said, scientists knew more of the Arctic circle than they had before. He had established the existence of a hitherto undiscovered stretch of land, and other data had been gathered. He dwelt on the long Arctic night, which, he said, was the one great obstacle to the discovery of the pole. Other difficulties could be overcome with comparative ease, but the six-months-long darkness was a foe that made the duel between man and the ice-locked north so one-sided. At that, he was convinced that it had been demonstrated that an explorer could, by depending on dog teams, benefitting by the knowledge of the country brought out by his last trip, and using the American route (so-called), reach the pole in one season.

HE IS THROUGH WITH PLAINFIELD FOREVER.

Cyrus Austin, colored, came over from Rahway yesterday afternoon, to talk with his wife about an insurance policy on her life. She has her son down as the beneficiary and Cyrus thinks she ought to name him. Mrs. Austin works as a domestic in a house on Hobart avenue, and Cyrus went there to see her.

The talk became a scrap, and Cyrus raised such a fuss that Mrs. Cyrus' mistress sent for the police. In the city court this morning, where Cyrus faced a charge of disorderly conduct, Mrs. Cyrus said she didn't want her husband punished, but she did want it understood that he wasn't to come bothering around any more. Cyrus was a subdued and chastened creature, and he hastened to foreswear all fussing.

He clapped his hat hurriedly on his head and shot for the door when Judge Runyon told his he might go.

"Good-bye forever," he said as he sped toward the portals. "I ain't ever coming back to Plainfield." He paused on the threshold. "I have had a sufficiency of this here town. I wouldn't come here if the old woman died; they'd have to send her body to me. No more Plainfield for me, ever."

Cyrus went swiftly to the trolley station and lost no more time in putting Plainfield behind him.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christian Endeavor Union will hold a mass meeting at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight to take action on the proposition to assume control of the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle. If the Union does not desire to assume the management, it is said that there is a church that will.

At the suggestion of Dr. Grenfell, who found it impossible to come to Plainfield this season on account of his many engagements to speak elsewhere, Dillon Wallace, the author of "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," has been engaged to deliver his lecture, "What I Saw in the Labador," on Monday evening, March 11.—Crescent Avenue Messenger.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. LeGrande Fulton.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Fulton, wife of LeGrande Fulton, died at her home on Grant avenue, yesterday morning, after a brief illness from pneumonia. She was first taken last Thursday night and from the outset sank rapidly. Mrs. Fulton was sixty years old and had lived in Plainfield a long time. Beside her husband, she leaves a son, Frank Fulton, who is an apothecary in the U. S. Navy, and a married daughter, who was formerly Miss Estelle Fulton. The funeral will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will be at Rhinebeck, N. Y.

Postmaster and Mrs. Elias H. Bird and Mr. Bird's brother-in-law, Edward T. VanWinkle and Mrs. Van Winkle, of Elm place, will move April 1 into their new home on Sandford avenue.

VOTING MACHINES TO GO

The Lower House Passes Bill Abolishing Devices Which Cost State a Big Sum.

AFTER A HOT DEBATE

Ayes, 38; Noes, 20—Civil War Veteran Creates Uproar.

The anti-voting machine bill passed the House at Trenton yesterday. After Speaker Edgar E. Lethbridge had called for order, Majority Leader Abram Klenert moved that the House be placed under call, and Sergeant-at-arms Frank Hague secured the doors.

The Assembly bill No. 1, abolishing the purchase of voting machines, was at once taken up. Mr. Holcombe, the sponsor of the bill, made a few remarks, asking that the bill be passed.

"What will become of the money the State has paid for the machines, and what will become of the machines?" was asked. "I would suggest that they be thrown into the junk heap," replied the member from Hunterdon. Minority Leader Alfred N. Barber said that was very good, but he did not think that money of the State should be wasted.

Assemblyman Randolph E. Perkins said he was not in favor of repealing the law unless those opposing could show some reason why the voting machine is not the proper method of voting.

Assemblyman Levi H. Morris then entered the debate. He said:

"I do not call that money wasted. There are paid men in the corridors to show how the machines operates. People are deprived of the secrecy of the vote. Many voters refuse to go to the polls to vote because they are afraid that they cannot vote the proper ticket. The officers know what men 'split' tickets. Let us return to the simple method of the ballot."

Mr. Barber tried to get a question to Mr. Morris, but the latter continued:

"I hope that you do not put politics in it and pass the measure."

Assemblyman Frank Crowther, of Middlesex, spoke in favor of the retention of the voting machines. He said:

"The machine gives an actual and honest result, and is absolutely the best method. It will abolish the practise of driving men like a gang of sheep, to the voting place, to have them receive their ballots in envelopes in which there is $2, for which they sell their American right. We should have some universal system of voting in this up-to-date State."

Mr. Klenert took up the discussion then. He said:

"I am very glad to know the price of votes in Middlesex county. In Passaic however, no such thing exists. I agree with the member for Middlesex that there should be a universal system of voting—the ballot."

Just then the voice of an old man in the gallery rang out:

"I carried the flag in the Civil War and I can't vote now."

The House was in an uproar in an instant, and the gavel of Speaker Lethbridge beat a rapid tattoo on the marble to restore order. He ordered the sergeant-at-arms to eject the old man. Mr. Klenert then continued, saying that he thought the machine ought to be abolished.

Mr. Crowther continued his defense of the machine and made reference to the rhetorical effort that Assemblyman James Baker had just made regarding Mr. Crowther's stand.

Assemblyman Daniel J. Brady did some plain talking in opposition to the voting machines. He said:

"I am in favor of the bill because I think the founders of the country never intended that citizens should vote by any other agent than the citizen himself."

He referred to the expense Newark incurs in storing the machines, and continued:

"Newark pays $1,200 a year to store them. If that be true in Newark, it is proportionately true in every other place. To make a careful survey of that cost, if presented, might stagger them."

Assemblyman Archibald Alexander, of Hudson, cited instances of how the machine had been tampered with, in his explanation of why the bill should be passed. Mr. Barber suggested that if a man had not manhoodenough to split the ticket he should not have the right to vote.

Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson, asserted that no man was sure of his vote and could make no affidavit to that effect. The matter was then put to a vote and the bill passed by a vote of 38 to 20.

The Republicans who voted with the Democrats to pass the bill were Messrs. Drake, Cattell, Irick, Stille, Elvins, Moxon and Perkins.

CAST COMPLETE FOR PRODUCTION OF "PINAFORE"

MRS. F. M. WARD AND A PROFESSIONAL DANCER WILL BE FEATURES.

The cast for the production of "Pinafore," to be given at the Casino, on Thursday, May 2, is now complete and was announced at the rehearsal last night. Several changes have been made, three being of special interest. William Holmes, who has previously directed the productions from in front of the footlights, will take one of the leading parts, that of Sir Joseph Porter, and his place will be taken as director by Anton Kloeckner, of Elizabeth, who will supply the orchestra.

Another important announcement is that Mrs. Ferdinand M. Ward, formerly of this city, who scored a success in previous operas, will take the part of Little Buttercup, and Arthur Chamberlain, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church choir, has been secured to take the part of Captain Corcoran. William N. Runyon has an important part in Dick Deadeye, while W. J. Tallamy and J. C. Martin have parts that are well adapted to their ability. Miss Hortense Sheldon will impersonate the part of Josephine and Miss Elizabeth V. Day that of Hebe, William Holmes will have charge of the rehearsals as usual. There will be a chorus of seventy people and a feature will be the appearance of a professional woman dancer. She will do the Sailor's Hornpipe.

The complete cast follows:

Sir Joseph Porter, William Holmes; Captain Corcoran, Arthur Chamberlain; Ralph Rackstraw, William J. Tallamy; Dick Deadeye, William N. Runyon; Bill Bobstay, Joseph C. Martin; Tom Tucker, Carlton Dunham; Josephine, Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon; Hebe, Miss Elizabeth V. Day; Little Buttercup, Mrs. Ferdinand M. Ward.

MRS. PIKE PRESIDENT OF A MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Women's Home Association of First M. E. Church Holds Annual Election.

The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel, yesterday, was combined with an all-day sewing meeting. The early part of the day was devoted to sewing and quilting and making various articles for the missionary barrel to be sent away soon. At noon luncheon was served and in the afternoon the annual meeting was held.

The various reports showed a year of much work for the cause of home missions. The society previously having partly furnished the dining room in the Alberquerque Home, New Mexico, decided yesterday to purchase new silverware for the home.

These officers were chosen for the year: President, Mrs. Noah W. Pike; first vice president, Mrs. George H. Whitney; second vice president, Mrs. George M. Rittenhouse; third vice president, Mrs. S. Edgar; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Jackson; mite box secretary, Mrs. Samuel Bingaman; secretary mothers' juniors, Mrs. David S. Dunavan; librarian, Miss Susie Jackson; secretary sewing meeting, Mrs. I. L. McVoy. It was decided to hold a sewing meeting on the first Tuesday in each month.

The society was favored in having present Mrs. Mary Leonard Woodruff, of Flemington, conference president of the Women's Home Missionary Society, and bureau secretary of the Porto Rican work. Mrs. Woodruff has just returned from a missionary trip to Porto Rico and she related much about her experience there. An incident that touched the hearts of the women was that in reference to the efforts being made to save a nine-year-old girl from being sold. Her father has already sold two of his daughters and threatened to sell the third. It is necessary to raise $40 to prevent this and the local society decided to assist in this worthy enterprise.

Mrs. Wooruff's account of the work being accomplished in Porto Rico aroused the interest and enthusiasm of the women and they will strive to do more in the future than heretofore.

Sang Gounod's "Gallia."

Gounod's sacred cantata, "Gallia," was rendered by the choir of Grace Protestant Episcopal church last night. The work is short, but very effective, and the choral work was excellent. Mrs. Theodore Mantz sang the solo parts. The congregation was of good size.

WANT DOCTOR'S STORY IN DUNN DIVORCE CASE

ALIMONY WILL NOT BE GRANTED UNTIL AFTER COURT GETS HIS AFFIDAVIT.

Vice Chancellor Emery, at Newark, yesterday issued an order to take the deposition of a Plainfield physician in the divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Olive B. Dunn against her husband, Wesley J. Dunn, a grocery clerk. An application was made by former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, on behalf of Mrs. Dunn, for counsel fees and alimony, but after an argument the court laid the matter over until the physician's deposition is taken.

The Vice Chancellor appointed John H. VanWinkle special master to take testimony in the case and also set Tuesday, March 19, as the date for the argument on the application for alimony and counsel fees. William G. DeMeza, lawyer for the defense, has associated with him Winfield S. Angleman. It is reported that the case will be bitterly fought and that there will be some sensational testimony. Mrs. Dunn alleges that her husband treated her cruelly and this alleged conduct is made the basis of the suit.

MANY ENJOY MUSICAL AT HUNTER AVE. TABERNACLE.

Prof. Korff's Orchestra and Other Local Talent Present the Programme.

Under the direction of Prof. Martin A. Korff and his orchestra a musical was held at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle, last night. The orchestra was assisted by other local talent. There were vocal duets by the Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott; recitations by Miss Helen Louise Woolley. Edson C. Martin entertained with a bass solo and William F. Richards gave several harmonica solos. The tabernacle was prettily decorated for the occasion with American flags and flowers. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

On Friday night the Ladies' Aid Society will give an entertainment for the boys and girls. There will be mandolin solos by John Richards, selections on the phonograph by W. D. Williams and harmonica solos by William F. Richards.

CITY PRACTICALLY FREE FROM CONTAGIOUS DISEASE.

Thirty-six Births; Twenty-seven Deaths and Eight Marriages In February.

Reports were read at the regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health held yesterday afternoon, showing the sanitary condition of the city for the past month. The city has continued to be practically free from contagious disease. During the month there were but six cases of scarlet fever and two of diphtheria. There were two deaths during the month from tuberculosis.

The following permits were granted: To sell milk, W. W. Wilson; to collect garbage, Sylvester Cuff; to locate temporary privy vault, N. W. Forney.

The following returns were made during the month: Marriages, 8; births, 36; still-births, 2; deaths, 27.

Annual Reports In Book Form.

For the first time in the history of Plainfield the annual reports of the various departments in the municipal government for 1906 is published this year in book form. The book, which was issued this week, contains the reports of the city treasurer, Board of Health, chief of police, chief of the fire department, inspector of buildings, streets and sewer committee, lights and trees committee, city physician, city judge, public library, alms committee; also Mayor Charles J. Fisk's annual message this year, together with the officers of the city government, chairman of the Common Council committees, Board of Assessors, members of the Board of Health, Board of Education and Public Library and Reading Room.

Library Wants Appropriation.

The Board of Directors of the Public Library at the regular meeting last night determined upon the amount necessary for the maintenance of the library for 1907, and a resolution naming the sum will be sent to the Common Council before the next meeting. Miss Emma L. Adams, librarian, was authorized to represent the library at the annual meeting of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Library Association, to be held at Atlantic City on Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16.

DOCTORS WARN PEOPLE

Physicians Explain Dangers of Contracting Tuberculosis and Tell How to Prevent It.

FRESH AIR NECCESSARY

Drs. Farrand, Hedges and Bailey Speak at Big Meeting—C. W. McCutchen Presides.

Charles W. McCutchen presided at the meeting in the interest of an educational movement against the spread of tuberculosis, held last night in the Sunday-school room of Trinity Reformed church. In opening the meeting he spoke of the work of the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis and made a very strong pleas for every one to become a member. There were 250 people present.

Dr. B. vanD. Hedges spoke of the work that had been done in Plainfield toward the prevention and relief of tuberculosis and called particular attention to the purpose of the new organization, which is the spreading of information among the citizens concerning the simple facts in regard to the prevention and care of the dreaded disease. He also told of the hope of the society to start a small camp on the mountain for caring for persons in the early stages of the disease.

Dr. Farrand, of New York, the executive secretary of the National Association for the Study and Relief of Tuberculosis, referred to the work that has been done throughout the United States by the association which he represents and what could be accomplished by a local society. Dr. Farrand said tuberculosis is a preventable and, in its early stages, a curable disease. Formerly a diagnosis of consumption meant a sentence of death; today it means permission to live. The cure of consumption, he said, consists of three things: fresh air, proper food and rest. A consumptive, he declared, should have fresh air, if possible, twenty-four hours out of the twenty-four. He should live out of doors day and night and breathe all the fresh air into his lungs that is possible. He should have proper food; in the most general terms proper food for a consumptive means plenty of good, fresh milk and fresh eggs. These should be taken only under the direction of a physician. And lastly, he said, the consumptive should have rest. These three, fresh air, proper food and rest, are the principals of the cure of tuberculosis.

It has been absolutely proved, Dr. Farrand declares, that tuberculosis is a preventable disease. It is known how it is transmitted from one person to another and it is known how it can be prevented. The most common method of transmission of the disease is through the sputum. In certain cities in the west there is a maxim, "No spit, no consumption." If a consumptive is allowed to expectorate in the street the sputum will dry and the germs will be blown about in the dust and breathed into the lungs by people passing. It is in this way that people become infected with tuberculosis. In speaking of the local society Dr. Farrand said that if this society received the endorsement of all the citizens that in less than seventy-five years tuberculosis could be wiped out of Plainfield.

Dr. Frederick Bailey, of Elizabeth, was the last speaker. His lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views which showed the growth of the tubercle bacillus in the lungs.

Continued interest was shown in the State tuberculosis exhibit yesterday afternoon and evening when fully 450 people visited the store in the Stirling building on Park avenue, making nearly 900 for the two afternoons and evenings. Many inquiries were made of Miss Olive De Lany, the trained nurse in charge, and cheerfuly answered.

It has been arranged to have Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow, the city physician, take charge of the exhibit tonight and he will answer all questions relative to tuberculosis and explain the various models shown. The exhibit will be open every afternoon and evening the rest of the week, including Sunday afternoon and night, at which time it will close.

NERVY SNEAKTHIEF GETS WOMAN'S JEWELS

ROBS DR. GUY H. HILLMAN'S FLAT IN MIDDLE OF THE DAY.

Exhibiting colossal nerve, a sneak-thief snooped into the reception hall of Dr. Guy S. Hillman's flat in the Stillman house on West Front street, shortly after noon yesterday, and got away with a jewel box containing a gold watch and several pieces of jewelry.

The thief worked quickly. He slid into the reception hall swiftly, jumped the chiffonier standing at one side, snatched the jewel box from it and ran out. Mrs. Hillman heard the noise of him going, and got to the hall just in time to see the crook leave the building. The man disappeared down the street. Dr. Hillman, at work in his office across the hall, did not see or hear the thief.

The robbery was reported to the police, but no clues have been secured that would lead to an arrest. The police believe the work was that of a person well acquainted with the surroundings and one who knew just where to find the jewel box. Mrs. Hillman says she did not see the thief closely enough to give a good description of him and she does not know whether he was white or black.

DATES AND ZEMZEM.

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine Will Enjoy Them Tomorrow.

There will be doings for the illustrious nobles of the Mystic Shrine in Newark tomorrow night. Salaam Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of which Harry W. Marshall is chief rabban and a number of other Plainfielders are members, will meet at the Krueger Auditorium, at 7:30 o'clock, to enffioy, according to the official call from the Temple, a Mournful Solemnization, Martyrdom of Hussein (in red ink) Sorrowful Mysteries, Grand Processions, Dervish Ordeals, Realistic Representations, Solemn Chantings, Glorious Apotheosis and Zikers on the Son of Ali.

After that stupendous round the nobles will recuperate on date and zemzem.

The session is called in honor of the Imperial Potentate, Alvah P. Clayton, of Missouri. The illustrious potentate and officers of Crescent Temple will also be guests.

C. E. UNION DECIDE ADVERSELY ON MISSION.

Work at Hunter Avenue Tabernacle Will Continue Under Present Management.

There was not a sufficiently large eonugh representation at the Christian Endeavor mass meeting in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, to definitely settle the question of continuing the work at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle under the auspices of the union. It was the opinion of those present that the union should not undertake the work, there being a question of previous expense that served to defeat the purpose in view. Those who have been conducting the work at the tabernacle have been obliged to incur an expense of $200, which the union does not feel like assuming, and this must be done before the Endeavors can acquire the property under the proposed plan.

The work will be continued for the present as in the past, but it is still an open question as to whether the union will take it up. One thing is certain, it will remain an interdenominational mission. It is possible that later on another mass meeting of the Endeavorers will be held and the question voted upon again.

The mission is now sufficiently established to continue it. There is not only growing interest in the gospel meetings, but a large Sunday-school has been established.

HOPE MEN'S CLUB INSTALLS.

Organization Also Plans For An Actice Spring and Summer.

The Men's Club of Hope chapel held an important meeting, last night, at which the following officers were installed: President, John Slorah; vice president, Ralph Eckert; treasurer, John Vogel; chaplain, Rev. L. R. Howard. The president named these committees: Lookout, Thomas Hendry Ralph Eckert and James Penny; entertainment, Ralph Eckert, Wallace Morton and David Bowden.

The club discussed plans for a series of entertainments to be held in the near future and an active spring and summer campaign was arranged for. By-resolution, the club became affiliated with the Presbyterian Brotherhood of America, recently organzed. G. Herbert Condict, who is superintendent of Hope chapel Sunday-school, was elected to membership.

COMPETITION FOR NEW SCHOOL PLANS

FOUR PROMINENT FIRMS WILL TAKE—MANUAL TRAINING ROOM.

Competition among four firms of architects for the plans of the proposed new school at Darrow avenue was decided upon by the Board of Education at its meeting last night. The four firms from whom bids will be received are Marsh & Gatty, Tracy & Swartout, Hale & Rogers, and H. V. B. Magonigal, all of New York. Several firms submitted figures. The competition will be confined to the four named.

The general scheme of construction was discussed by the board members. It was agreed that the building have twelve rooms, with an auditorium, and probably, a manual training room. It will be the first structure of the primary grades to be fitted with a manual training room in this city, if that feature is finally decided upon.

The custodian of school moneys reported a balance of $22,540 on hand February 28. The collector reported the collection of $1,901 in February.

MRS. J. A. CHAMBLISS HEAD OF BAPTIST SOCIETY.

Officers Chosen By Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

The election of officers in the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church took place at their quarterly meeting held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, with the following result: President, Mrs. J. A. Chambliss; vice-presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. Robert Lowry; secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Miss Ida Yerkes; executive committee, Mrs. David J. Boice, Mrs. I. Manning Runyon, Mrs. F. H. Biglow, Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. William White, Mrs. J. A. Powlison, Mrs. O. B. Leonard, Mrs. J. D. Runyon; collectors, Mrs. Alexander Thorn, Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Mrs. Isabel Milne, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. Firman Coon, Mrs. Charles Conover, Miss Jennie Whitney, Mrs. A. D. Mallinson, Miss Annie Boice, Miss Laura Runyon; honorary collector, Mrs. A. W. Johnson.

Mrs. Robert Lowry presented a paper full of absorbing interest on "New Zealand, New Guinea and Malaysia." The first mentioned island is called the gem of the Pacific and Mrs. Lowry read from a personal friend's letter a description of the beautiful harbor of Aukland and the charms of Honolulu. In her account of New Guinea, she spoke with great praise of the missionary chalmers, with whom Robert Louis Stevenson had an intimate friendship and who met with a tragic death at the hands of the people he was trying to save. The paper concluded with the history of mission work in the islands of Malaysia and the testimony of observers who declared that civilization could not be attained except through the ministry of the gospel.

Current events were given by Mrs. D. J. Yerkes.

In connection with the meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society there was an all-day sewing meetinng under the auspices of the Women's Home Missionary Society. They spent the morning and early part of the afternoon preparing articles and making rag carpet for the missionary barrel. At noon a box luncheon was served unnder the direction of Mrs. S. W. Dunning and Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins.

SENATOR BRIGGS HONORED.

Associates in State House Present Loving Cup.

Trenton, March 6.—United States Senator Briggs received yesterday afternoon a handsome loving cup from his associates in the State House. The presentation speech was made by Governor Stokes. Among those in attendance were Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Riker and Colonel Bryant.

Senator Frelinghuysen offered concurrent resolutions, which were at once adopted, expressing the regret of the Senate over the retirement of State Treasurer Briggs and extending the thanks of the Senate for his services. The approval of the joint meeting that went over the State treasurer's accounts was expressed.

—The contract case of Dr. Ambrose Brennan against Lawrence Kerwin, for services, which was to have been tried before Justice Warden at Dunellen on Monday, was adjourned for two weeks on motion of William G. DeMeza, Esq., counsel for the plaintiff.

QUARTER MAY COST LIFE

Colored Waiter Seriously Shot in Quarrel Over Twenty-Five Cents.

SHOOTER MAKES ESCAPE

He Is Thaddeus Payne, Driver for A. M. Griffen—Victim, Lee Johnson—Latter Shows Remarkable Vitality.

In a quarrel over twenty-five cents, Lee Johnson, colored, 35 years old, a waiter employed at Truell Inn, was shot seriously, perhaps fatally, last night, by Thaddeus Payne, also colored, 28 years old, a driver in the employ of A. M. Griffin, hardware merchant. The shooting occurred in a poolroom frequented by negroes, at 148 East Front street, at 9:20 o'clock. Payne escaped, and the police are still hunting for him.

From a statement made by Johnson and by friends of both men, the police know that bad feeling had existed between the two over a quarter-dollar borrowed from Payne for several days. They had quarrelled two or three times over the debt, and when they met in the poolroom last night the bickering was resumed. Payne seemed to be roused to a white heat, and drew a forty-four calibre revolver. He fired at least two shots, and one of them struck Johnson in the stomach. Payne jammed the revolver back into his pocket and ran out through the front door. Johnson started to run as the shooting began, and kept on in spite of the ball in his body, going out the back way. Both men left their hats behind.

Payne ran down Front street to Watchung avenue, and was seen to turn there in the direction of North Plainfield. That was the only clue to his trail that the police had secured up to this afternoon.

Johnson exhibited a remarkable degree of vitality. The bullet passed through his liver, travelled up through his lung and went on almost through his body, but he kept on his feet and walked through the yards to Second street. He went into a stable there, got a hat from one of the hostlers and went out into the street again. There he met Patrolman John Payne and told him he had been shot. He walked with the officer to police headquarters. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, was summoned and he ordered the negro to the hospital. Johnson retained consciousness, and told Chief Kiely who had shot him and what led up to the shooting. The ball was located in his back and removed last night. It was said at the hospital this morning that his condition was serious, but that he was resting easily.

Chief Kiely ordered all the available men out in search of Payne as soon as he learned of the shooting. Negro colonies on both sides of the brook were raked with fine toothed combs in vain, and every avenue of escape from the city was guarded without result. Chief Kiely was confident this morning, however, that the shooter would be run down within a day or two.

The witnesses to the shooting are known. Elijah Harris, who was left in charge of the poolroom while John Bimber, the proprietor, and Henry Wilkes, the manager, were at the theatre, is locked up as a witness, and Walker Hamler, who is known to have been in the place when the shooting occurred, has been located.

Payne has been employed by Mr. Griffin for over a year, and the police have no occasion before this to go after him. Johnson is said to have a reputation among his companions as a "fast fighter," and there is a tendency among the colored men to justify Payne on the ground that he probably had to shoot quick to keep himself from being hurt. Johnson had no weapon on him when he was brought to headquarters. The police learned this morning that Payne bought the revolver with which he shot Johnson from his employer two weeks ago. That was before he quarrelled with Johnson. Another revolver was found at his home on Plainfield avenue.

Drunk at the Theatre.

Glinton Hofler, colored, took a bundle with him to the theatre, last night, and made an alcoholic nuisance of himself. He was bounced by Patrolman George Dobson, and made the mistake of starting a fuss with the policeman. He was given his choice between paying fifteen dollars or going to jail for twenty days, in the city court this morning.

Board and Lodging for Vag.

Charged with vagrancy, G. W. Frazee was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He was sent to jail for sixty days.

Miss Anna Boice, of Park avenue, is spending some time at Atlantic City.

HERE'S A GOOD CURE FOR INSOMNIA, SURE.

Yesterday a friend who had heard that I sometimes suffer from insomnia told me of a sure cure. "Eat a pint of peanuts and drink two or three glasses of milk before going to bed," said he, "and I'll warrant you'll be asleep within half an hour." I did as he suggested, and now for the benefit of others who may be afflicted with insomnia, I feel it to be my duty to report what happened, so far as I am able this morning to recall the details, says a writer in The Good Health Clinic. First let me say, my friend was right. I did go to sleep very soon after my retirement. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and asked me if I wanted to buy his feet. I was negotiating with him when the dragon on which I was riding slipped out of his skin and left me floating in midair.

When I was considering how I should get down, a bull with two heads peered over the edge of the well and said he would haul me up if I would first climb up an rig a windlass for him. So as I was sliding down the mountainside the brakeman came in, and I asked him when the train would reach my station. "We passed your station 400 years ago," he said, calmly folding the train up and slipping it into his vest pocket.

At this juncture the clown bounded into the ring and pulled the centre pole out of the ground, lifting the tent and all the people it in up, up, while I stood on the earth below watching myself go out of sight among the clouds above.

Then I awoke and found that I had been asleep almost ten minutes.

GAS TALK No. 2

Gas in the home means good light.
It also makes cooking easy.
Why?
First, because Gas light gives a clear, steady glow that illuminates the room and does not hurt the eyes.
Second, because a gas range does away with coal and ashes—two terrors to a housewife.
With Gas, these are replaced by cleanliness and easy regulation without unnecessary work. Install a gas range and save both time and labor.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held in the town room Friday night.

Fanwood B. & E. Co. holds its monthly meeting tonight in the company rooms.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Martine's Chance.

The Newark Sunday Call takes a guess as to the future by saying that the nomination of James E. Martine, the "farmer orator," for United States Senator by the Democratic caucus recently, is supposed to indicate his candidacy for Governor next fall. Mr. Martine seems to be one of those plain people who often succeed very well in politics and who do very fair service to the public as well. His chances of success would certainly be better than those of any Democratic nominee for the last dozen years. The Republicans have worked pretty hard to throw away their big majority in this State, and they will have to present a candidate who will have support more than local to retain their control. The machine has been a failure. It is bad enough to be wrong, but even the machineist in politics despises a blunderer.—Warren Journal.

Proposals For Furnishing Crushed Stone and Material for Culverts and Crosswalks.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular meeting held March 4, 1907, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the office of the Committee, No. 151 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, March 21, at eight o'clock, p. m., at which time and place said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1907, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing the following sizes, viz.:

Fine screenings, ½ inch stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such places in the city as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The above must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, equal in every respect to samples in Street Commissioner's office, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best quality hard blue stone from the Hudson River quarries, equal in quality to sample in Street Commissioner's office.

No Erie, Pennsylvania or similar stone will be accepted.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets and Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved.

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets and Sewers.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

GERMS CAUSE DYSPEPSIA

IF YOU DON'T KILL THE DISEASE GERMS THEY WILL KILL YOU. PEPSOIDS DRIVE THE GERMS OUT OF THE STOMACH AND REBUILDS IT. WRITE FOR A FULL SIZED BOTTLE—FREE.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle.

You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. 9

THE CIVIL SERVICE BILL IS ADVANCED.

G. O. P. Senators Consent to Favorable Report of It With An Amendment.

Trenton, March 6.—At a conference yesterday morning the Republican Senators decided to consent to the favorable report of the Colby civil service bill, with an amendment making it applicable only to State officers other than laborers and heads of departments, and to all officials of a similar class in first-class cities and counties.

The bill, which is known as Senate 23 and was introduced on January 21, was prepared during the recess of the Legislature by a committee consisting of Senators Colby and Hillery and former Senator, now Judge Horner.

The committee devoted several months to the consideration of the measure and enlisted the services of the United States Civil Service Commission in its preparation.

On February 18 the bill was reported, without amendment, and, much to the surprise of its sponsor, recommitted the following day for amendment. It then developed that certain State leaders opposed the bill, which deprived the machine of its principal asset, the distribution of patronage, and at a conference held one week ago it looked as if the passage of the bill was extremely doubtful.

A change came over the situation last night, and after Mr. Colby had made a determined effort to have the bill favorably acted upon in its original form, he accepted the proposed limitation as a move in the direction of a general application of the provisions of the civil service law to all minor employees.

As soon as the contemplated amendments are made the bill will be reported and, it is expected, passed by both houses and approved by the Governor, who has made the subject one of the features of his message. Its enactment would prevent a recurrence of the squabble over municipal patronage, such as was recently witnessed in Newark and Essex county.

It was after noon when the morning session of the Senate opened with prayer by Rev. Edmund A. Wasson, of Newark. Many of the Senators were late because of last night's conference and as a result several of the twenty-four bills on the calendar for final passage went over. Senator Colby presided at the early part of the session, after consenting to have his direct primary bill, which was made a special order for today, lay over until there was a full attendance of the Senate.

The Gebhardt bill appropriating $500,000 for the construction of stone roads to connect county seats was, at the request of the introducer, recommitted, and Senate 43, the only Colby bill, authorizing ten voters of a ward or township to nominate candidates by petition, took a similar course.

OPENING OF NEW TERM OF COURT OF ERRORS.

List Contains 167 Cases, and Is the Biggest in the History of Court.

The March term of the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals was opened at Trenton yesterday. On the list of cases for the term there are 167 cases, and about nine-tenths of them are marked ready for oral argument. The remaining tenth will be either submitted on briefs or they have been settled out of court.

This is the largest list the court has ever had, and at the opening of the session the chambers were crowded with lawyers. It required more than an hour to call the list, and after that formality had been disposed of another hour was consumed in the hearing of minor motions for arrangement of certain cases on this list.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Manager Counihan has announced the following high class attractions for the New Plainfield theatre during March: 12, "A Message from Mars," with David Proctor in the leading role; 13, "What Happened to Jones;" 15, "In Old Kentucky;" 16, return of Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle;" 19, return of "The Mayor of Tokio;" 20, Al W. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin;" 21, "Zaza;" 23, "In the Bishop's Carriage," with Miss Jessie Busley in the leading role; 29, return of Charles Klein's successful drama, "The Lion and the Mouse."

The last time May Irwin was at the New Plainfield theatre she promised Manager Counihan a large framed photograph of herself for his collection of celebrities in the lobby. It came last Saturday and with it was the following note: "My dear Mr. Counihan—Here is the picture I promised. It is my favorite and is the one that has been hanging in the office at my Bijou theatre for several years. Accept it in behalf of Mrs Wilson-Andrews and grateful acknowledgement for the reception accorded me by the Plainfield people on New Year's eve. Yours, etc." The frame is a very costly affair and the picture entire is the most artistic that Manager Counihan has yet secured.

The members of Gus Hill's "Vanity Fair" company, which was managed at the beginning of the present season by John Rafferty, of this city, were caught in a hotel fire at Chester, Pa., Saturday night, resulting in the death of one actor and the injury of four others. The hostelry was owned by Thomas Hargraves, proprietor of the Hargraves Shows, which exhibit in this city every summer. By doing a lot of hustling, Mr. Hill managed to get his company in shape so that it could appear in Newark this week as booked.

Providing the weather has moderated sufficiently, ground will be broken next week for Manager Counihan's New Majestic theatre at Perth Amboy. All the contracts have been let and the work will be rushed so that the house can be opened the latter part of August.

Heinrich Conried, manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, made the interesting announcement yesterday that he was to retire from the management of the Metropolitan at the end of his lease, and that millions of dollars would not attempt him to longer remain with the company. Mr. Conried added that his retirement would be from choice, and not because of differences with the directors. "I have a plan on foot which I expect to announce in the next few days, which will make it possible to give the greatest grand opera in the world," he said.

"The Girl Patsy" company, which held the boards at Taylor opera house, Trenton, on Saturday last, has gone to pieces, and the scenery is held at the theatre to satisfy an alleged claim of Ira J. LaMotte, of New York, "advance man," for $96.08. La Motte took out an attachment in the Trenton district court.

SENATOR DRYDEN OFF TO ATLANTIC CITY.

Former Senator From New Jersey Will Rest There For a Few Weeks.

Washington, March 6.—Rutherford is to have a cannon and a quantity of shell, as a gift from the government, for use in connection with the monument to be erected in commemoration of the departed soldiers and sailors of the Civil and Spanish Wars, as a result of efforts made by William H. Mackay, the recently appointed postmaster of that city. While Mr. Mackay was at the capital looking after his prospective appointment, he got in his work on the War Department officials, which work was seconded by Senator Dryden. The latter has just received a letter from General Crozier, chief of ordnance, stating that orders have been issued to the commandant at Fort Schuyler, N. Y., to turn over to Mr. Macka, one eight-inch Rodman gun, for the purpose named, and orders have also been issued to the commandant at Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia, directing him to turn over to the same party and for the same purpose forty eight-inch shells. It is added that the donations are made under an act that provides that such donations may be made, provided that no expense in connection therewith shall be incurred by the United States.

Senator Dryden, whose term expired a noon yesterday, expects to leave at once with his wife and Colonel and Mrs. Kuser for a stay of some weeks at Atlantic City. His private secretary, George W. Rouzer, and assistant secretary, Mr. Sheik, will, after a few days, return to Newark, where they will both be connected with the Prudential Insurance Company, Secretary Rouzer continuing to occupy the position of confidential secretary to the president of the company, as he has for the last five years.

Of the other members of the House delegation from New Jersey, Congressman Parker and ex-Congressman Allen expect to join a large party of Senators and Representatives and ex-Senators and ex-Representatives in a twenty-day trip to Panama, which will leave New York today. Congressman Loudenslager was to leave yesterday with still another party of Representatives, for Venezuela, Jamaica, Panama and several other foreign points, the trip to occupy a month or more! while Congressman Howell has been invited to take, and has under consideration, a trip to Hawaii, which will last for several weeks.

HEARING ON FISH BILL.

Fishermen Think Pound Net Act Would Not Break Trust.

Trenton, March 6.—The Fish and Game Committee of the House gave a hearing last night on the measure prohibiting the use of the pound net at the seashore. The line fishermen are for the measure, and the fishermen from Monmouth county came here in scores to stamp it out. They denied that the measure would break the Fish Trust, but said that it would raise the price of fish.

The fishermen, in reply to questions from the hand line men, admitted that frequently they were forced to sell to the Fish Trust, but said that they could in no way prevent the Trust from charging the retailer 25 cents a pound. The hearing will be continued next Tuesday morning.

—Dr. Charles R. Thiers, of Grove street, has purchased Mrs. M. Weinberger's residence on Craig place, near Somerset street, and will take possession of the property April 1.

LETS THE PRESS PUBLISH THE LAWS

PROVISION OF THE FRELINGHUYSEN MEASURE JUST INTRODUCED

Trenton, March 6.—Another effort to disseminate the laws of the State as enacted through the medium of the press instead of waiting several months after the adjournment of the Legislature, is provided for in a bill, introduced by Senator Frelinghuysen, which reads as follows:

"One. Hereafter the public laws of this State, passed at each session of the Legislature, shall be published in the newspapers in the several counties, which papers shall be selected and designated as hereinafter provided, and the number of papers authorized to make such publication in each county shall be all daily or weekly newspapers having been continuously published for at least ten years, and have a bona-fide circulation of not less than 900 copies each week, for fifty-two weeks each year for a weekly newspaper, and a circulation of not less than 1,000 copies each day for at least 300 days each year for a daily newspaper; provided, that no publisher or publishing company, publishing two or more newspapers, shall have authority to publish the laws in more than one of such newspapers.

"Two. It shall be the duty of the Governor and comptroller of the State, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, and annually thereafter, within thirty days after the commencement of the annual session of the Legislature, to select and designate the papers to publish the laws for the then current year, such papers as shall fulfill the requirements of this act, and they shall have power to establish such rules and regulations as they may deem proper for their guidance in making the selection, and they may require from each publisher an affidavit or other evidence in such form and manner as they may prescribe as to the circulation or establishing of such newspaper.

"Three. The newspapers designated in accordance with the foregoing sections shall be deemed the legal newspapers of the State for that year, and shall be authorized to publish all the general public acts, and such other public acts only as may be applicable exclusively to the respective counties in which the said papers are published, and no publisher shall be entitled to receive compensation for publishing any act unless such publication shall be made within ninety days after the said act shall have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State; the compensation for publishing the laws published in pursuance of this act shall be at the rate of sixty cents per folio of one hundred words, which shall be paid from the State treasury upon the warrant of the comptroller, and it shall be the duty of the secretary of State to furnish to the said newspapers copies of the laws herein required to be published; provided, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to render illegal any public notices or advertisements whatever, and shall only apply to the publication of the laws.

"Four. The expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this act shall be paid by the comptroller from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

"Five. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with or in any way conflicting with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately."

The promoters of this plan of publicity claim that the cost to the State would be considerably less than under the system abandoned in 1894, when a certain number of designated papers always published all the laws.

A BIGGER SENATE IS NOW PROPOSED

CONSTITUTION AMENDMENT TO DIVIDE STATE IN 32 DISTRICTS IMTRODUCED.

Trenton, March 6.—In the House Monday night Mr. Tumulty introduced a bill to carry out the recommendations made last year by the commission headed by former Governor John W. Griggs, which was appointed to investigate the judicial system of the State and suggest changes. The bill was introduced by request and provides that the jurisdiction exercised by the Supreme Court and Circuit courts shall be exercised by the law division of the Supreme Court to be established by this act. The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery and the Prerogative Court shall be exercised by the Chancery division of the Supreme Court. The Appeals division is established and rules fixed for its government. The jurisdiction of the courts of Common Pleas, Orphans' courts, courts of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions shall be exercised by the county courts holding separate sessions for civil and criminal business. One county judge is provided in each county, who shall reside therein, with the salary now fixed for the judge of Common Pleas. The secretary of State shall be clerk of the Appeals division, and the clerk of the Supreme Court clerk of the law division. The clerk of the Court of Chancery shall be clerk of the Chancery division and also clerk of the Prerogative Court. Act to take effect when the constitutional amendment relating to the judiciary shall take effect.

At the same time Mr. Klenert introduced the amendments to the Constitution to make the act effective.

In the Senate, a concurrent resolution on the same subject was introduced by Mr. Hillery.

A constitutional amendment was introduced in the House to divide the State into thirty-two Senatorial districts.

HOME WEEK PLANS ELABORATE

Should plans now being discussed culminate successfully, the Old Home week celebration, which will be held in Elizabeth in October, will provide the greatest week of entertainment Elizabeth has ever enjoyed.

The executive committee has under consideration a historical pageant, representing allegorically various phases of the history of Elizabeth and New Jersey at large, which will in itself constitute a great spectacle. It will require more than 500 persons to fill the parts.

Another feature, which will be a novelty to Elizabeth, will be the selection of a queen of the carnival, to be chosen by popular vote. She will be crowned with elaborate and impressive ceremonies, and will lead the procession, which will be the event of the week.

$5,000 for a Patrick Juror.

New York, March 6.—"When Albert T. Patrick was on trial for his life a firm of well known lawyers who still have a high standing at the Bar in this city approached John T. Milliken, brother-in-law of the convicted murderer, with the assertion that for $5,000 an assurance could be given that at least one juror would refuse to vote for conviction." This announcement was made in the Gotham Hotel last night by a close personal friend of Mr. Milliken, who is interested in an attempt that is to be made in the course of a year to obtain a pardon for Patrick. The man who made the assertion refused to permit the use of his name. He also refused to give the names of the lawyers who suggested jury bribing.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"His Last Dollar," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, is now in its third prosperous year and is so prolific in the elements of heart and comedy interest that it has taken rank in the class of plays that are endowed with universal popular approval. Mr. Higgins heads the cast ably seconded by Miss Eleanor Montell. "His Last Dollar" is a play of exciting incidents as is evidenced by the tumultuous applause that follows the racing scene, for which action thoroughbred running horses are carried. It is a comedy-drama with a well and tersely told plot, a most effective counter-plot, and the whole charmingly leavened with good, mirth provoking situations.

Of the many successes in dramatic plays which have been produced the past three seasons these with their scenes laid in the western country have appeared to have appealed more strongly to the fancy of the theatregoers. A play with its scenes placed in the great southwest near the Mexican border, is now being presented by the popular young actor, Joseph Santley. It is called "Billy the Kid" and is said to tell a story that appeals to all classes of amusement lovers. The plot is well conceived, there are innumerable strong dramatic situations and there is plenty of comedy. Some of the scenes are said to be especially realistic and the production a very elaborate one. "Billy the Kid," with Mr. Santley in the leading role, will come to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night.

Local theatregoers well remember the beautiful comedy, "A Message from Mars," which was presented here sometime ago when it made probably the most lasting impression of any comedy that had up to that time been seen in this city for several years. It will also be remembered that it was one of the most humorous comedies, likewise the brightest and most wholesome, together with its serious side in dealing with a great moral problem—a kind of a cure—against the crime of extreme selfishness. This play will again be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, March 12. There are in the company that is soon to appear some of the same players who were here before, all of whom had been in the original London and New York productions. Many of them are English players and all recognized as competent and thorough.

While there is very little that hasn't been said before in speaking of "In Old Kentucky," soon to be given here again, yet the fact that the play is again coming clearly demonstrates the wonderful hold this drama has on the hearts of playgoers. If the demand for the play was not as great as ever, it would not go out. It has been playing now for over thirteen years and it draws the masses just the same as it did in the heydey of its youth. This season's company is said to be in many respects the best of them all. A new and charming actress, Miss Marie Quinn, will play Madge. Bert G.

Scene from Joseph Santley's Successful Thriller, "Billy, the Kid," at New Plainfield Theatre Saturday Afternoon and Night.

Clarke will give his inimitable characterization of the Colonel. Charles K. French will play Uncle Neb, J. J. Sullivan is a newcomer as Joe Lorey, Frank Dayton is again with the company, playing his old part of the hero. Then there is Julia Morton as Barbara, Miss Louise Reming as Aunt Lethe and George Mitchell as Holton. The pickaninnies will be strongly in evidence as usual. An entirely brand new scenic production is promised and it will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next week.

CARDINAL BESTOWS BLESSING ON DIOCESE.

Replying to Cablegram Sent From Mass Meeting Denouncing France

He Expresses Pleasure.

This cablegram has been received by Bishop McFaul from Rome: "His holiness received your cablegram presenting the sentiments of the mass meeting held in Trenton to denounce French spoliation with deep satisfaction and as a sign of the filiage homage of yourself united with your clergy and laity, his holiness lovingly bestows on you and all under your charge the apostoltic benediction. Cardinal Merry del Val."

This was an answer to the cablegram sent to the papal secretary of state at Rome by William L. Doyle, chairman of the mass meeting, which took place Sunday night to denounce the action of the French government.

The cablegram read as follows:

"To Cardinal Merry del Val, Rome:

"Joining with American Catholics everywhere, clergy and laity of Trenton diocese, in mass meeting assembled, denounce French spoliation and renew allegiance to the holy see.

"McFAUL, Bishop."

Miss Nellie Brown, of Dunellen, who has been spending several days in town with relatives, has returned home.

Mrs. John Valiant, of Myrtle avenue, who has been visiting her daughter at Baltimore, has gone South for an indefinite stay. Her health is much improved.

"The Hallet & Davis Payment Plan saves you money, saves your nerves and saves your patience." m t w

The noise ceased suddenly, leaving us with no hint of its whereabouts.

I went directly to the rear of the house and found Bates putting the dishes away in the pantry.

"Where have you been?" I demanded.

"Here, sir; I have been clearing up the dinner things, Mr. Glenarm. Is there anything the matter, sir?"

"Nothing."

I joined the others in the library.

"Why didn't you tell me this feudal imitation was haunted?" asked Larry in a grieved tone. "I'm increasingly glad I came. How often does it walk?"

"This is the third time," I admitted. "It's the wind in the tower probably; the wind plays queer pranks sometimes."

"You'll have to do better than that, Glenarm," laughed Stoddard. "It's as still outside as a country graveyard."

"Only the slaugh sidhe, the people of the faery hills, the cheerfulest ghosts in the world," said Larry. "You literal Saxons can't grasp the idea, of course."

But there was substance enough in our dangers without pursuing shadows. Certain things were planned that night. We determined to exercise every precaution to prevent a surprise from without, and we resolved upon a new and systematic sounding of walls and floors, taking our clue from the efforts made by Morgan and his ally to find hiding places by this process. Pickering would undoubtedly arrive shortly, and we wished to anticipate his movements as far as possible.

CHAPTER XX.

The Return of Marian Devereux.

"Sister Theresa has left, sir."

Bates had been into Annandale to mail some letters, and I was staring out upon the park from the library window when he entered. Stoddard, having kept watch the night before, was at home asleep, and Larry was off somewhere in the house treasure-hunting. I was feeling decidedly discouraged over our failure to make any progress with our investigations, and Bates' news did not interest me.

"Well, what of it?" I demanded, without turning round.

"Nothing, sir; but Miss Devereux has come back!"

"The devil!"

I turned and took a step toward the door.

"I said Miss Devereux," he repeated in dignified rebuke. "She came up this morning, and the Sister left at once for Chicago. Sister Theresa depends particularly upon Miss Devereux,—so I've heard, sir. Miss Devereux quite takes charge when the Sister goes away."

"You seem full of information," I remarked, taking another step toward my hat and coat.

"And I've learned something else, sir."

"Well?"

"They all came together, sir."

"Who came; will you tell me that?"

"Why, the people who've been traveling with Mr. Pickering came back with him, and Miss Devereux came with them from Cincinnati. That's what I learned in the village. And Mr. Pickering is going to stay—"

"Pickering stay!"

"At a cottage across the lake for a while. The reason is that he's worn out with his work, and wishes quiet. The other people went back to New York in the car."

"He's opened his summer cottage for January, has he?"

"It does seem the least bit odd, sir," replied Bates, moving away.

I had been blue enough without this news. Marian Devereux had come back to Annandale with Arthur Pickering; my faith in her snapped like a reed at this astounding news. Being now entitled to my grandfather's property she was losing no time in returning. She and Pickering had discussed together at the Armstrongs' my flight from Annandale, and her return could have no other meaning than that there was a strong tie between them, and that he was now to stay on the ground until I should be dispossessed and her rights established. She had dared me to follow her, and my forfeiture had been sealed by that stolen interview at the Armstrongs'. It was a black record, and the thought of it angered me against myself and the world.

"Tell Mr. Donovan that I've gone to St. Agatha's," I said, and I was soon striding toward the school.

A Sister admitted me. Somewhere in the building a music lesson was in progress, and I consigned the inventor of pianos to hideous torment as scales were pursued endlessly up and down the keys. Two girls passing through the hall made a pretext of looking for a book and came in and exclaimed over their inability to find it with much suppressed giggling that added further to my rage.

The piano pounding continued and I waited for what seemed an interminable time. It was growing dark and a maid brought lamps. I took a book from the table. It was "The Life of Benvenuto Cellini" and Marian Devereux was written on the fly leaf, by unmistakably the same hand that had penned the apology for Olivia's performances. I saw in the clear, flowing lines of the signature, in their lack of superfluity, her own ease, grace and charm; and, in the deeper stroke with which the "x" was crossed, I felt a challenge, a recklessness to which he was sequences once her word was given. Then my own inclination to think well of her angered me, and I dropped the book impatiently as she crossed the threshold.

"I am sorry to have kept you waiting, Mr. Glenarm. But this is my busy hour."

"I shall not detain you long. I came,"—I hesitated, not knowing why I had come.

She took a chair near the open door and bent forward with an air of attention that was disquieting. She wore black—perhaps to fit her the better into the house of a somber Sisterhood. I seemed suddenly to remember her from a time long gone, and the effort of memory threw me off guard. Stoddard had said there were several Olivia Armstrongs; there were certainly many Marian Devereuxs. The silence grew intolerable; she was waiting for me to speak, and I blurted:

"I suppose you have come to take charge of the property."

"Do you?" she asked.

"And you came back with the executor to facilitate matters. I'm glad to see that you lose no time."

"Oh!" she said lingeringly, as though she were finding with difficulty the note in which I wished to pitch the conversation. Her calmness was maddening.

"I suppose you thought it unwise to wait for the bluebird when you had beguiled me into breaking a promise, when I was trapped, defeated,—"

Her elbow on the arm of the chair, her hand resting against her cheek, the light rippling goldenly in her hair, her eyes bent upon me inquiringly, mournfully,—mournfully, as I had seen them—where?—once before! My heart leaped in that moment, with that thought.

"I remember now the first time," I said, more angry than I had ever been before in my life.

"That is quite remarkable," she said, and nodded her head ironically.

"It was at Sherry's; you were with Pickering—you dropped your fan and he picked it up, and you turned toward me for a moment. You were in black that night; it was the unhappiness in your face, in your eyes, that made me remember."

I was intent upon the recollection, eager to fix and establish it.

"You are quite right. It was at Sherry's. I was wearing black then; many things made me unhappy that night."

Her forehead contracted slightly and she pressed her lips together.

"I suppose that even then the conspiracy was thoroughly arranged," I said tauntingly, laughing a little perhaps, in my brutal impulse to wound her, to take vengeance upon her.

She rose and stood by her chair, one hand resting upon it. I faced her; her eyes were like violet seas. She spoke very quietly.

"Mr. Glenarm, has it occurred to you that when I talked to you there in the park, when I risked unpleasant gossip in receiving you in a house where you had no possible right to be, that I was counting upon something,—foolishly and stupidly,—yet counting upon it?"

"You probably thought I was a fool," I retorted.

MUST BELIEVE IT.

When Well Known Plainfield People Tell It So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Plainfield the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kindney trouble will find profit in the reading.

Andrew Mattis, carpenter, of 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have been troubled for years with dull backache and pain in the back of my head, caused by kidney complaint. I was hurt severely some time ago by falling from a scaffold and the physicians thought my spine was injured. I think that fall injured my kidneys. As nothing else that I tried seemed to help my back or kidneys, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Randolph's pharmacy. I have now taken nearly three boxes, and find that the backache and headaches have disappeared."

THE FORUM.

Letter from Mrs. DeForest.

Editor, The Daily Press:

So many comments have been made because of the few protests against the licensing of the city barrooms that the question arises, is it possible that out of so many churches and other religious organizations, several temperance societies and a Y. M. C. A., but two of them had backbone enough to remonstrate against permitting this curse to continue another year. All honor to the Society of Friends and to the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

It is said that the Plainfield barrooms are orderly places. If that is so, where do all the disorderlies come from? The poor inebriates provide the lion's share of trouble for the police and city judge. The Bible says: "By their fruits ye shall know them." Did anybody ever hear of order producing disorder?

MRS. DE FOREST.

NEWARK GETS ANNUAL DIOCESAN RECEPTION.

Catholic Societies Vote to Hold Affair in the New Auditorium Sunday, April 9.

Elizabeth, March 6.—It was decided at the meeting of the Young Men's Diocesan Union of the Catholic diocese of Newark, held here Sunday afternoon, that the annual reception of the union be held at the New Auditorium in Orange street, Newark, on April 9. A committee is at the present time making arrangements for the reception, which promises to be one of the largest and most successful in the history of the organization.

President of the union, P. E. Flynn, of this city, appointed Bernard J. Owens, of Newark, a member of the national executive committee. There were seventeen different Catholic societies representd. The committees arranging for the annual field day exercises, which will be held in Newark next August, and the national convention of the Y. M. C. D. U. reported progress. A feature of the meeting was an interesting talk on "Catholic Young Men" by Rev. Father Kane, of the Redemptorist Order of the Missionary Fathers, who are conducting a mission at St. Patrick's church. Rev. Justin Corcoran, of St. Patrick's parish, also spoke.

David C. Fiterer, of Newark, started a discussion as to whether or not the diocesan union should conduct a public meeting similar to the one held under the German Federation in Newark recently for the purpose of pledging the sympathy and support of the union to the Catholic church in its present trouble with the French Government. The question was earnestly debated and it was contended by some of the members that in view of the fact that the diocesan union had adopted resolutionns expressing sympathy and pledging support to the Catholics in Frence, they did not deem it essential that a meeting be held at this time. The matter was referred to a committee for consideration.

NOVEL POSTOFFICE CONTEST.

South Amboy Candidate Starts an Endless Chain of Letters.

South Amboy, March 6.—Edwin C. Roddy, a grandson of the late Bernard Roddy, who was postmaster here for several years, has a novel scheme to get the postmastership. He has started an "endless chain" of indorsements by mail, and Congressman Benjamin F. Howell, at Washington, is getting lots of letters signed by persons in and outside of this borough.

Bernard Roddy died here two weeks ago, at the age of seventy-four years. He was a prominent figure in the life of the borough. Upon his death several candidates came forward for the place. These included former Freeholder Frank E. DeGraw, who is also a justice of the peace; former Assemblyman Andrew H. Selover, Borough Clerk J. Frank Fulton, Edwin Williams, a machinist; Edward Roddy, the grandson of the deceased postmaster, who is also a hotel keeper and game warden, and Freeholder John E. Montgomery.

Pleased With State Sanitarium.

Glen Gardner, March 6.—Assemblyman Firth, of Phillipsburg, chairman of the joint committee on appropriations, visited the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium with A. L. Beavers, one of the commissioners. Mr. Firth expressed himself as pleased with the institution and the progress being made. George Miller, of Somerville, has been engaged to look after the engines and the electric light plant. A test of the plant will be made Friday, when a number of the officials are expected to be present.

PLAN STATE TOURNEY FOR BALTUSROL LINKS

NEW JERSEY GOLFERS TO MEET JUNE 6-8 FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE.

Baltusrol has been chosen by the New Jersey Association for the annual championship and June 6, 7 and 8 have been selected as the dates. The Montclair and Atlantic City clubs had made formal application for the tournament, and the selection of Baltusrol was somewhat of a surprise, as the club had merely stated its willingness to hold the championship if requested to do so.

"We had a successful tournament at Baltusrol in 1903," said one of the New Jersey officers Friday, "and we expect a repetition of that meeting, especially as the new railroad station has made it easier to reach the course. It was up to us, too, to be loyal to Baltusrol, for although it has been the scene of three national championships, the course has been recently assailed by a prominent golfer in print as a poor testing course. We regard Baltusrol as one of the best inland links in the United States."

Leighton Calkins, elected president of the New Jersey State Golf Association, at the annual meeting, had, under the rule, to name the executive committee. His selections were given out Friday. J. Whitney Baker, of the Plainfield Country Club, will be secretary-treasurer; E. N. Todd, Baltusrol Golf Club, chairman of the tournament committee, and M. D. W. Thurston, Roseville Golf Club, chairman of the handicap committee. To complete the executive committee, those named are: The Hon. J. W. Griggs, North Jersey Country Club, and Percy Jackson, Yountakah Country Club. Each member selected is active on the links and in the affairs of his club, with a sound knowledge of the objects of the State league.

The coming championship will be the eighth in the series. The places and respective winners have been: 1900, Essex county, Archibald Graham; 1901, Englewood, Allan Kennaday; 1902, Montclair, Allan Kennaday; 1903, Baltusrol, M. M. Michael; 1904, Englewood, F. Murray Olyphant; 1905, North Jersey, John M. Ward; 1906, Archibald Graham.

DIAMOND DUST.

The candidates at the Plainfield High School for the baseball team are beginning to get busy. They are anxiously awaiting the time when outdoor practice can be started. This year's nine promises to be exceptionally strong in all departments. The North Plainfield High School boys are also preparing for a successful season in the national game.

BASKETBALL.

The P. H. S. basketball team has two fast games on. They will meet the Y. M. C. A. first five Friday night, and the East Orange High School team on March 26. Both games will be played at the High School gymnasium.

Divorce Bill Ready.

Some very radical changes in New Jersey divorce laws, among them the abolition of star chamber proceedings before masters and the making public all divorce matters, are contained in the report made by United States Judge William M. Lanning, Vice-Chancellor John R. Emery and Rev. Henry Collin Minton, D. D., the New Jersey delegates to the national divorce congress.

NO WOMEN SUFFRAGE IN LOCAL OPTION ELECTION.

"Open Sunday" Bill Advanced in the House at Trenton.

When the Blohm bill, which legalizes Sunday opening of saloons in New Jersey, came up in the House at Trenton on second reading yesterday afternoon the Democrats, its sponsors, received a shock when Assemblyman Barber, the Republican minority leader of the House, sought to amend the act by giving women the right to vote on Sunday saloons, the women to register for this purpose the same as the men and to vote with the men at a special liquor election.

He declared that the issue was a moral, and not a political, one, and the women, being the most directly interested, should have a voice. He asserted that his idea was a radical departure, but no more radical than the idea of an "open Sunday."

Assemblyman Blohm, the father of the bill, spoke against the amendment, declaring that in his opinion the women did not want to vote on such questions and were not educated up to it. He also questioned the sincerity of the Republican leader's action.

The amendment was lost by a vote of 31 to 27, all of the Democrats voting against it. Leader Klenert then amended the measure to eliminate the possibility of selling liquor in back rooms and Assemblyman Sullivan secured an amendment raising the age limit from 18 to 21 years for the selling of intoxicants to minors.

Three Assemblymen, Morris, Holcomb, and Firth, refused to vote with the majority on second reading last night, and the bill will lie over for a week or more to permit the Democrats to get together.

GOVERNOR WILL NAME ANDREWS; NOT TILLMAN.

Fact That Plainfield is Entitled to Representation Bars Rahway Man.

Notwithstanding the story that Assemblyman Peter Tillman is booked to take Frederick H. Andrews' place on the Union County Board of Taxes, it is reliably reported that the Rahway man will not get the berth if for no other reason because of the fact that he lives in Rahway. Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, is making the fight for his colleague, but it is stated that he has not received any support from Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, whose wishes are likely to be followed by Governor Stokes. Mr. Andrews is a personal friend of the Senator and it is more than likely that he will be reappointed. In no sense of the word is the Plainfielder a politician and that fact is said to stand in good stead with both the Governor and the Senator.

Plainfield, the second largest taxable community in the county, it is argued by local politicians, is entitled to representation on the Board. The assessed valuation in this city is over $20,000,000. Westfield is represented on the board by Mr. Pollock and Elizabeth by Mr. Scudder.

40 Hurt in Explosion.

Pottsville, Pa., March 6.—By the explosion of one thousand pounds of dynamite in the dynamite storehouse of the Richards Colliery of the Susquehanna Coal Company, near Mount Carmel yesterday, two score of persons were injured, four of whom may die. The dynamite house was about 125 feet from the offices of the company. No one is known to have been in the house at the time and the cause of the explosion is a mystery. The office building, in which the clerks were at work, the supply house and thec arpenter shops, all filled with workmen, were wrecked. The explosion made a hole in the ground fifty feet in diameter and fifteen feet deep. Seven hundred men and boys will be thrown out of employment for at least a month.

Mrs. Alice A. Hall, of West Second street, is quite ill at her home.

M'ALL AUXILIARY ANNUAL MEETING

MRS. FREDERICK G. MEAD IS AGAIN CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

Encouraging reports of the work and officers elected at the annual meeting of the McAll Auxiliary held during the past year and indicating substantial progress were presented this morning at the Public Library. Considering the weather there was a large attendance. The reports showed a gain in members and funds, there being raised during the year over $1,100 and the present membership being about 350. The annual report of Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, secretary, was of much interest. A number of letters were read from field workers showing the progress made in the Limoges, France, where the local branch supports a missionary and his wife.

The officers elected were as follows:

President, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead; first vice-president, Mrs. Lawrence Myers; church vice-presidents, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Mrs. J. S. Zelie; Park Avenue Baptist, Mrs. Walter Freeman; First Baptist, Miss Ida Yerkes; Grace Episcopal, Mrs. F. O. Herring; Trinity Reformed, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; Seventh-Day Baptist, Mrs. I. N. VanSickel; First Presbyterian, Miss Addie Dietrich; Congregational, Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth; secretary, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely; treasurer, Mrs. John Gray Foster; secretary literature, Mrs. I. N. Field.

Sun Spot Storms.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 6.—From out of an apparently cloudless sky, and without an instant's warning, this city was suddenly enveloped in a snowstorm that resembled a blizzard, just before darkness fell last night, and for an hour all street car service was crippled, many lines being tied up because of the inability of motormen to see further than a few feet ahead of their cars. During the fury of the storm thunder and lightning were prevalent, telegraph and telephone lines were seriously affected, shutters and chimneys were blown down, pedestrians were obliged to seek shelter from a fifty-two mile northwest wind and persons all over the city were frightened by the weird and marvelous storm. Professor John A. Brashear, of the Allegheny Observatory, last week predicted through the newspapers that this vicinity would again experience phenomenal atmospheric conditions about the middle of this week. Professor Brashear said the marvellous disturbance would be caused by the huge sun spots which he recently discovered.

Mysterous Death.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 6.—Mrs. Minnie Sherman, a wealthy widow, residing in the exclusive village of Euclid, on Euclid avenue, was found dead in her home last night under circumstances pointing to murder. The police are working on the theory that the woman was drugged with poison and robbed early yesterday. An autopsy will be performed by the coroner. Mrs. Sherman was negotiating for the disposal of part of her property, and the deal, it is understood, was to have been closed Monday. During the night the woman tried to summon her neighbors and Dr. F. Stark by telephone, but her message was suddenly interrupted and the doctor did not respond. The authorities last night found the house rifled and the dead woman's body lying on the floor, her eyes dilated as if from the effects of poison, the doctors declare. Jewelry was gone and her strong box was emptied.

State Sewerage Board's Powers.

Trenton, March 6.—A supplement to the State sewerage commission act was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Frelinghuysen. It alters the present in two or three details. It provides for action on the part of the commission against pollution of waters of the State without awaiting formal complaint; authorizes proceedings in Chancery to compel obedience to orders of the commission where they meet with the approval of the court, and defines "waters of this State" so as to include the established plants along the seashore in the jurisdiction of the commission, and allow action to prevent injury to bathing beaches and shellfish beds. The bill is in accordance with the message of Governor Stokes.

WAS FIRST MAN TO HAVE GRIP; NOW HAS IT AGAIN.

Rahway Councilman Suffered from it in 1882—First Case Diagnosed.

The fact that Henry Kip Woodruff, a member of the Common Council at Rahway, is ill at his home with the grip, recalls the claim of the patient that an ailment he had in 1882 was the first of its kind in the United States to be diagnosed by the doctors as the grip. At teh time of Mr. Woodruff's illness in 1882 the grip was spreading in an extraordinary way through Russia. Mr. Woodruff was a fireman in New York at that time, a member of the Eagle Engine Company. Seven physicians were in attendance on him, and they combined in designating the trouble as the grip. It was duly announced, too, at that time that Mr. Woodruff would not live a week, and if he did, it was further asserted, he would be a raving manaic. Poultices of hot onions were ordered to be applied to his wrists and ankles to increase circulation. Of the seven doctors, two were from the Board of Health, two from the police and two from the fire boards, while the other was Mr. Woodruff's own physician, and the only one of the medical men now living. Five died of grip, and another from mental derangement.

OPPOSE AMENDMENTS.

Men's Club Adopt Resolution Against Bishops' Law Tinkering.

A resolution protesting against amendments to the Bishops' bill of a nature to "liberalize" the law was adopted by the Men's Club of the Congregational church last night. Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Union County Senator and Assemblymen.

After the meeting the members enjoyed an entertainment. Judge Green, of Brooklyn, a humoist, delivered a monologue, and Philip Van Arsdale sang baritone solos. Refreshments were served.

Against Pure Food Bill.

Trenton, March 6.—The Dairy Pure Food bill was reported adversely yesterday by the Senate Committee on Public Health. The bill permits creameries to be in homes, provided that partitions be erected between the residence parts and the creamery. Senator Colby said the adverse report was on the recommendation of the State Board of Health. The report of the committee was sustained. The Senate passed the bill empowering the State Sewerage Commission to inspect streams suspected of being polluted and to compel the discontinuance of such pollution.

Senate To Investigate Voting.

Trenton, March 6.—Senator Wakelee offered a resolution yesterday providing for a commission of three Senators to investigate the system of voting and to report at the next Legislature. It provides for an investigation of the merits of paper ballots and voting machines. Senator Colby opposed the resolution because it would tend to smother legislation at this session. Senator Minturn and Senator Hinchliffe spoke in favor of it. The resolution was carried by a vote of 11 to 10.

CONTRADICTS WOOLSTON

Borough Board Member Takes Exception to Remarks Made at Hearing.

HIS FIGURES WRONG

Cites Facts To Show That North Plainfielders Highly Regard Their Schools.

Objection has been made by a member of the North Plainfield Board of Education to the alleged misleading remarks concerning the borough's schools made by L. B. Woolston at the public hearing of the bi-municipal consolidation commission on Monday afternon. During the course of his talk, Mr. Woolston stated:

"One of the things that leads me to believe that something should be done," said Mr. Woolston, "is the fact that the borough schools are not as good as Plainfield's. The North Plainfielders may think they are but it is only false pride because it is not so. When the High School department was established I was opposed to it because it would be cheaper for us to send the pupils to Plainfield. The number in the upper grades has never been over thirty and they could receive the education in Plainfield for $1,500 a year while it is costing us about $5,000. There is a large attendance of small children brought about in a measure from the fact that laboring men who work in Plainfield, live in North Plainfield because it is cheaper. I firmly believe that if the question is put to the Plainfield people, they would vote for consolidation."

In reply to this, a member of the Borough Board said today:

"He is credited with stating that the borough High School costs $5,000 per year, and that there have never been more than 30 pupils in the upper grades. The impression a casual reader would form is that the borough is paying $5,000 for the education of 30 pupils; whereas the fact is that the $5,000 cover the expense of the entire High School, which enrolls 120 pupils, or nearly one-half of the enrollment of the city High School.

"Furthermore, of these $5,000 the State will pay $2,800 next year, leaving a balance for the borough to pay of $2,200, or $18.34 per pupil. The tuition rates in the city High School are $48 per pupil per year. To send the borough High School pupils to the city High School would therefore mean to the borough an increased expenditure of $30 per pupil, or about $3,600 per year.

"Not one pupil has, during the past two years, left the borough High School to enter the city High School while residing in the borough, in spite of the erection by the city of a splendid new High School building. This fact speaks for itself in regard to the opinion the borough residents have of the merits of the borough High School."

DOCTORS GIVE TALKS AT TUBERCULOSIS SHOW

ATTENDANCE FOR FIRST THREE DAYS WAS 1,200.

Increased attendance and interest continues to mark the State tuberculosis exhibit being held in the Stirling building on Park avenue, every afternoon and evening this week. The attendance for the first three afternoons and evenings was more than 1,200 and the people calling are more than mere curiosity seekers. Miss Olive DeLany, the trained nurse in charge, has been kept busy answering the thousand and one questions asked.

Last night Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, explained to the visitors the most common remedies and precautions for the prevention and care of the disease. Dr. F. W. Cornwall will be on duty tonight and Dr. DuBois will assist tomorrow night. Dr. A. F. VanHorn will give his service Saturday afternoon and Dr. Fred Hughes Saturday night. The last two sessions of the exhibit will be on Sunday afternoon and evening. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan will be on duty in the afternoon and Dr. Harold Corbusier in the evening.

Tonight there will be a miscrocopic demonstration of bacillus of tuberculosis and a lecture on the subject by Dr. Cornwell. Other special features will be introduced during the rest of the week.

REV. MR. O'DONNELL TO GO TO NEWARK CHURCH

FORMER PLAINFIELD PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL TO TO ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Officers of the West Side Methodist Episcopal church in Jersey City heard unpleasant news at last night's fourth and last quarterly conference of the year, it being announced that their pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, formerly of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, of Plainfield, had decided to accept a call extended him this week by St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church in Newark. He has been in charge of the Jersey City church for the last five years and had been unanimously invited to return for another year.

The call is flattering, and one that the minister felt unwilling to decline. It is a larger field, where the capacity for good work is unlimited. The Rev. Mr. O'Donnell, who is thirty-seven years old, has already made a name for himself in the Newark conference. He has been a student at Drew Seminary and at Syracuse University. He is also one of the conference trustees of the latter institution. A fluent and interesting preacher, he has won a large congregation. The membership in the Jersey City church in the five years he has been there has nearly doubled.

The West Side church is one of the best known in the city, as it was built when the west slope of Bergen Hill was only partly settled, and since the first service the church has had a part in the life of the community. The Rev. Mr. O'Donnell has worked successfully, and his congregation are loath to have him leave.

The change will be made the first week in April, when the Newark conference meets in Morristown, unless the presiding officer of that body fails to confirm the action of the Newark church and the decision of the Jersey City pastor.

Gets Magazine For Blind.

Percy Cannon, of East Second street, who has been blind practically all his life, has received a copy of the new magazine for the sightless, printed in raised characters. His copy is done in "New York point," a series of characters he has been able to read for twenty years. The magazine is a big publication, and costs a lot to issue. It was designed to furnish it free to all sightless Americans, but to save $8,000 a year, the difference between second class and third class mail matter, the publishers have made a subscription price of ten cents a year. Without a subscription list the magazine would have to be rated as third class matter.

Plainfielder to Wed New York Girl.

Mrs. Harry Warrick, of New York, has issued invitations for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Ethel Frances Warrick, to Frederick Squires, son of Mrs. Henry C. Squires, of Watchung avenue. The ceremony will be performed at the Church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street, Wednesday afternoon, March 20, at 4 o'clock. After a wedding trip the young couple will make their home at 326 Central avenue, this city.

Mrs. Nancy Wheeler, of East Fifth street, who has been seriously ill, has passed the crisis and is now improving.

PLANS FOR LOCAL Y.W.A.C. PROGRESSING FAVORABLY

CHAIRMAN OF PROVISIONAL COMMITTEE APPOINTS HER ASSISTANTS.

Those who are in charge of the movement to organize a Young Women's Christian Association in Plainfield report progress and the prospects are encouraging for the organization of a branch in this city. Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, who is chairman of the provisional committee of the prospective association, has appointed the following provisional committees who will now busy themselves in completing the work assigned to them Nothing can be done definitely until these committees report the result of their work:

MR. AND MRS. HENRY CONNETT CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. Connett, formerly of Plainfield. Now a Resident of San Jose, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Connett, the former a native of Plainfield, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home in San Jose, Ill., last week. The San Jose Metropolitan contains this account of the observance:

"Mr. and Mrs. Connett are among our most congenial residents, (especially is this so of 'Hank'). True hospitality always has abounded in their home, and on this day, this same genuine hospitality was paramount and the guests departed, thankful for the privilege of being present, delighted with the treatment accorded them and ringing praises for the pleasant hours passed at their home. Seated at this anniversary were three persons, Mrs. Frazee Connett, Miss Mattie and John L. Eyrse, who had taken dinner with the subjects of this write-up on their wedding day, a quarter of a century ago. Every arrangement of this affair was carried out in the minutest details.

"Henry Connett is a native of Plainfield, New Jersey, and was born in 1851. As a young man he came East and on February 26, 1882, he was united in marriage with Miss Mollie Eyrse, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Eyrse, the marriage occurring at the Eyrse homestead in this city. Mr. Connett has always followed the vocation of a farmer and has been successful and prosperous. He is a good nieghbor and holds the respect and confidence of a large circle of friends and acquaintances, he having served as school director for years of his district and at different times held other offices of trust in his vicinity. To Mr. and Mrs. Connett have been born four children, two sons and two daughters."

Mrs. Fulton's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Le Grande Fulton, who died Monday after a brief illness, was held at her late home on Grant avenue, last night. It was in charge of Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of Monroe Avenue church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. During the service two hymns were sung, "What a Friend We Have In Jesus" and "Go Bury Thy Sorrow." The body was sent to Rhinebeck, N. Y., today for interment.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U A. M., will meet tonight. It is expected that several applications for membership will be received.

WOMAN GUARDED BARN

Miss Sadie Hand Kept a Chilly Vigil For Three Hours.

HER MISTAKEN IDEA

She Thought She Was Keeping "Squatters" Out, But the "Squatters" Had a Regular Lease.

Under the impression that she was protecting her father's property from aggression, Miss Sadie Hand prevented a lessee of a barn owned by Mr. Hand from entering it for three hours yesterday afternoon. The misunderstanding was finally adjusted, and the barn ceased to be a prize of war.

The barn is located back of the old office of Dewitt C. Ivins & Co. on Watchung avenue, near Mr. Hand's real estate office. Mr. Lindsay, Jr., manager of Lindsay's dairy, started negotiating with Mr. Hand for its rental early in the week, to use it as an ice house. He learned that D. C. Smalley, of Smalley Bros., the butchers, who had used it to store ice, held the lease, and he transferred negotiations to Mr. Smalley.

Miss Hand, who assists her father at his office, hailed Mr. Lindsay as he went by.

"When are you going to rent the barn?" she asked.

"I have rented it," answered Mr. Lindsay. "I rented from Mr. Smalley."

"You can't rent that barn from anybody but my father," said Miss Hand.

She learned that the dairyman had put two loads of ice in the barn, and was preparing to put in more. She hurried to the barn, put a padlock on the door, and defied Mr. Lindsay to use it. Mr. Lindsay consulted Counsellor W. S. Angleman and was told that Miss Hand had no right to stop him as she had, and could be removed by force if necessary.

Mr. Lindsay didn't want to use force and waited for the cold to fight his battle. Miss Hand stood her chilly vigil for three hours, and then gave in. She went back into the office, and called up Mr. Angleman. The lawyer told her she had no right to keep Mr. Lindsay from the barn, and she surrendered unconditionally. The trouble has ended, and Mr. Lindsay is in undisputed possession of the place.

BURGLARS USE CHLOROFORM WHILE RANSACKING HOUSE.

Put Morecraft Family to Sleep and Take Roll from Grocer's Pocket.

Making the members of the family unconscious while they slept by using generous doses of chloroform, thieves ransacked the home of John Morecraft, the grocer, on Main street, South Bound Brook, Monday night, and made a haul of $40 from Mr. Morecraft's clothes which were hanging in a closet.

It was about midnight when the thieves entered the house and Mr. Morecraft and four other members of the family were first put under the influence of the drug. They remained in an unconscious condition for nearly five hours. Mrs. Morecraft was the first to awaken and it was fully an hour later before she fully recovered her senses. In the meantime other members of the family regained consciousness and an investigation led to the discovery that the $40 was missing. Nothing else about the house was disturbed, indicating that the thieves were well acquainted with the surroundings and knew just where to find the money.

Entrance was effected the same night into James Shay's saloon and the proprietor chloroformed, but nothing was taken. An attempt was made to burglarize Patrick Karno's grocery store, but the thieves were frightened away.

The matter was reported to the police and they are conducting an investigation. It is their belief that the robberies were committed by local people. The thieves worked at will during Monday night and so far as known were not seen by anyone.

Month to Settle Brain Storm.

Cyrus Austin, colored, was arraigned before Judge Runyon, in the city court this morning, for rowing with his wife at the home of her brother, James Hill, on West Second street, last night. He found her there with a man he didn't like and made a crack at her. She fell down stairs in running away from him and sprained her ankle so badly she had to be carried into court this morning. Judge Runyon, after an hour's examination, decided that Austin wasn't such a bad man, and suspended sentence with the understanding that the prisoner, who lives in Rahway, stay away from his wife and Plainfield for a month, to give his temper a chance to smooth out. Austin was arrested Monday night, at the home of his wife's employer, on a similar charge.

STILL HUNTING FOR COLORED GUNFIGHTER

FALSE TRAIL DRAWS SEARCHERS TO GREENBROOK.

Reports that Thaddeus Payne, the negro who shot Lee Johnson in a colored poolroom on East Front street Tuesday night, was hiding in the vicinity of Greenbrook road and Watchung avenue, drew a detachment of five cops to that neighborhood yesterday afternoon. They found no trace of him there, and the rest of the force did no better anywhere else. So far as the searchers know, Payne dissolved into thin air and blew away when he turned the corner of Watchung avenue after the shooting.

The condition of Johnson remains the same. It was said at the hospital this afternoon that he was resting comfortably, and that his chances were no better and no worse than they were at any time since the bullet was cut out.

Elijah Harris, colored, is still held as a witness. He has made no satisfactory statement, and seems disinclined to tell anything. Chief Kiely was taken ill with grip yesterday afternoon, and he hasn't had a chance to examine Harris properly; the witness may change his wind about talking when he goes on the grill.

Walker Hamler, the other negro in the place at the time of the row, asserts he didn't see the shots fired. He was seen by Chief Kiely yesterday before the latter went home ill. Hamler is ill, too.

MISS AUGUSTA MAC QUOID BRIDE OF MR. CLOUSTON.

Ceremony Performed In New York—Couple to Reside in Plainfield.

Miss Augusta MacQuoid, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth D. MacQuoid, of 304 East Fifth street, and Samuel Alexander Clouston, of 304 East Front street, were quietly married yesterday afternoon at Grace church, New York. Those who accompanied the couple and witnessed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacQuoid, Miss Minnie MacQuoid and John Mantz, the last two named of this city.

After the ceremony the bridal party and a number of friends had dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, and later the couple left on a wedding tour. They will reside at 212 East Fifth street, where the groom has furnished a home.

The bride wore a handsome tailor-made gown of black material with hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. She has been a resident of this city for several years and has a host of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Clouston has also resided in Plainfield many years. He is employed by one of the local press works.

A Lucky Runaway.

A team of horses attached to one of the New Jersey Tobacco Company's Somerville wagons, took fright at 11 o'clock this morning, shortly after they had been left standing on Park avenue at Second street. They were facing Front street at the time but swung directly around and ran down Park avenue at full speed. The street happened to be fairly free from vehicles at the time and the runaways passed everything safely, at one time turning out for a rig that was going in the same direction and whose occupant did not know they were coming. The animals were caught at Randolph road after they had become slightly winded from the hard and fast pull. There was no damage.

Franklin School Re-opens Monday.

Because of teh accident to the boiler Monday, no sessions have since been held at the Franklin school and the classes will not reassemble until Monday. The Board of Education has ordered the heating apparatus thoroughly overhauled to guard against a recurrence of the trouble. The boiler was inspected last January and the man who did it reported everything to be in first class shape.

Acquires More Property.

Albert Lederer, real estate broker, has sold to Solomon Mann, of the West End, the two stores and four apartment building at West Third street and Stebbins place, and a double dwelling on the opposite corner, the latter property being owned by Mrs. Eleanor Stelle. This makes a total of $32,000 worth of property Mr. Lederer has sold in that vicinity during the past year.

Funeral of Former Plainfielder.

A number of local relatives and friends attended the funeral of N. Carman Dunn, formerly of this city, held at his late home in Tioga, Philadelphia, yesterday. It was conducted by Rev. Charles Dunn, also a former Plainfielder, who is pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian church. Interment was made in Laurel Hill cemetery, Philadelphia.

PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE

HER APRON AFIRE SHE TOSSES IT ON OIL CAN—HOUSE DESTROYED.

Herman Weber's farm-house, on the Clinton avenue road in Piscataway township, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. Weber, who was alone engaged in cleaning the place preparatory to moving there, narrowly escaped being seriously burned. Mrs. Weber was working about the kitchen range when her apron caught fire. Quickly tearing the apron from her, she gave it a toss and it landed on top of a five gallon can of kerosene. Instantly, there was an explosion and before Mrs. Weber could prevent it, the whole kitchen was enveloped in flames and she was driven from the house.

The dwelling being in an isolated place, Mrs. Weber was helpless in securing assistance and her husband was away from home. The house was a total loss but it was partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Weber, who for nearly twenty years, was engaged in the grocery business on Liberty street, recently sold out, and was planning to remove to his farm April 1. During the past few weeks he was busy making extensive improvements on the place and about the house, and the fire will compell him to change his plans. He will probably arrange to rebuild as soon as possible.

DEMOCRATS URGING NEW CONSTITUTION

TO SUBSTITUTE PLAN FOR AMENDMENTS IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Indications are that the Democratic majority in the House and the minority in the State Senate at Trenton will at an ealy date take a determined stand to substitute a constitution convention proposition for the several proposed constitutional amendments now pending in both houses.

It is not known just when this move will be made, but it is c onsidered likely that it may be inaugurated next week and it is just as possible that enough of the Republican Senators may be found willing to support the plan to insure its success if the proposed change in senatorial representation is made less radical than is contemplated by Assemblyman Alexander.

Senator Minturn is strongly in favor of the idea and believes it to be the only logical solution of the problem. Speaking of the movment after the Senate adjourned yesterday, Senator Minturn said:

"I am opposed to the proposed constitutional amendments. Without entering into a discussion of the merits of the amendments, I take the ground that until a constitutional convention be called there should be no patchwork amendments adopted.

"The bench and bar are no greater sufferers under the existing order than the people generally are for other needs.

"For instance, assembly districts should be created. The salaries of the legislators should be increased not only to keep pace with the demands of modern living but, if possible, to place them above the temptations of the lobbyist.

"The constitutional inhibition against the State spending more than $100,000 in any year upon a public work militates against public improvements, like the Hudson river bridge. If there must be a limitation it should be increased to be consistent with modern conditions. There are other improvements which a properly constituted convention would suggest that will bring our constitution up to the requirements of modern progress an dpopular necessities.

"The bar should arise in a popular movement for a general reformation of the constitution and not content themselves with a demand for isolated reformations that they cannot agree upon themselves, and that the people at large know nothing and care less about."

Supper a Great Success.

Under the auspices and for the benefit of Marconnier chapel a supper was given at the home of the pastor, Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, on Park avenue, Tuesday night. The affair was largely attended, there being more than 150 suppers served during the evening. There was an abundance of good things to eat, generous contributions being made by members and friends of the chapel. Aside from the supper, the social features were enjoyed. It is believed that $75 will be realized as profit for the chapel.

L. C. VanNest and family, of Duer street, will remove on April 1 to Newark.

BOARD OF TRADE AWAKE; READY FOR NEW LIFE

Lemuel B. Woolston Retires as President and Harry W. Marshall Succeeds Him.

E. FEICKERT SECRETARY

President Marshall's Policy is Concentration—To Try for Concessions from the Railroad the First Thing—Advertising Campaign Planned.

Something like a meeting was held by the Board of Trade last night. To begin with, there were twenty-five members present—about twice the usual attendance. The spirit of the session was that of energetic maturity instead of moribund senility, and a new president, with a new policy of concentration, was given the reins of government.

President Lemuel B. Woolston, who has served for seven years, refused to entertain the idea of a re-election, and intimated that all the old officers should retire with him. The two others who were present tried to follow out the suggestion, but they were held in office by unanimous vote. Harry W. Marshall, proprietor of the American Steam Laundry and an officer of the Mono-Investing Co., was elected president. Judge W. R. Codington was elected first vice president, and B. F. Coriell was re-elected second vice president. Edward C. Feickert, assistant secretary of the Plainfield Trust Company, was elected secretary. E. M. Laing was re-elected treasurer. Guillermo Thorn was continued as collector. The election was the regular annual one.

President Marshall's policy is energetic concentration. "I am in favor of going after one thing at a time," he said last night, "and in bending all our energies to getting it. When we have secured that one thing, we can turn undivided attention to something else, and keep up the good work in swift succession."

"I agree with Mr. Marshall in that policy," said Mr. Woolston, "and there are several matters I hope to see the Board tug it on during the new organization year." He suggested that the Central Railroad be requested to put the word "Plainfield" after the names of the Netherwood, Grant Avenue and Clinton Avenue stations on their tickets, to show the extent of the city to casual patrons of the road, and that the company be urged with particular emphasis to make a flat rate from all the stations in the city, instead of charging different fares from all four.

Mr. Marshall said the suggestions were ones that should be carried out at once; they were good things upon which to start the policy of cocentration. A motion to appoint a committee to wait on the railroad was carried promptly, and Mr. Marshall, C. W. Runyon and Postmaster E. M. Bird were named.

On Mr. Feickert's suggestion a campaign of advertising was decided upon. Pamphlets descriptive of the city, its beauties, advantages and size, are to be printed and given to the banks and business houses for distribution. The business men are to send the pamphlets out with all their mail. Mr. Feickert, M. F. Elderton and B. Frank Coriell were appointed a committee to prepare the pamphlets and distribute the copies. Mr. Marshall said it would be a good thing to hire advertising space in New York papers.

Mr. Woolston suggested the city convert the vacant fields near the industrial home into a play ground, where the boys might go for their baseball and other sports; the field might be rented to a town team, he said. Mr. Coriell disagreed with Mr. Woolston. He didn't think it was the part of the Board to fuss with playgrounds; the Board of Education might take it up. Mr. Coriell said he didn't believe in making places for boys to congregate anyway, unless the police made arrangements to keep order on them. He cited the failure of the swimming hole experiment. Mr. Woolston said he didn't believe the swimming hole made conditions any worse than they had been at the brook, and they might have been better if the police had been on their job.

Mr. Woolston brought up the old subject of more arc lights. The

CRANFORD.

The Board of Education met Tuesday night and fixed the budget for the coming year, to be voted at the annual school election. The appropriation for the three schools is $22,800. The board has been notified that the Union Township School trustees propose to submit to the voters at the annual school election the proposition to build a new schoolhouse, at an expense of $12,000, to provide for pupils in the Kenilworth section of Union Township. Children in this section attend the Cranford schools, and the township pays to the Cranford board $900 a year for tuition charges. Fifty-seven per cent. of the attendance at the McKinley school is from Union Township.

The Progress Club will give a concert for the benefit of the Cranford Library building fund at the Golf Club this afternoon. Papers will be read by Miss Edith Newcomb and Mrs. D. LaMont. Miss Grace Frost will render violin solos.

The Township Committee met last night, and the specifications and form of bids for the making of a new assessment map were submitted for adoption. The appropriation is $1,000.

YOUR BEDROOM.

A Rule That Will Help to Keep It Always In Order.

"How do you ever do it, Beatty? Your room always looks as if it had just been cleaned and arranged for my arrival, no matter when I come, while as for mine—well, a cyclone would refuse to strike it!"

"Nonsense, Laura! My neatness is nothing compared with Mabel's, for instance. Why, when she wants to remember an engagement in the morning she puts something a trifle out of place the night before."

"Well, it's too much for me. How do you both manage?"

"I'm sure I don't know about her, but if I have any rules at all it is, 'Put everything back as soon as you're through with it.' That is to say, when I go to bed I don't leave my things hanging around to be put away in the morning, but I do it at once. Then, when I'm through writing at my desk, too, I see that everything is in order before I leave it. That's all there is to it—simply the old adage, 'A place for everything, and everything in its place."—Philadelphia North American.

Veils.

Black veils do not look well with a very light hat or gown, unless blac is introduced elsewhere in the costume.

The white veil is a thing of beauty, but not meant for every one.

Sallow, dark haired women should never attempt to put one on.

The small woman should never wear very large spots on her veil, whereas a large woman should eschew tiny, pin dotted veils.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Fred V. L. Goodwin will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon and studied the subject of "Africa."

Rev. E. Atherton Lyon, of Christ church, Yonkers, N. Y., will be the special Lenten preacher at Grace church, Wednesday night, March 13.

The Wesleyan University Glee Club will appear at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, under the auspices of the Men's Club, on Tuesday night, April 2.

The choir of Grace church will sing "The Crucifixion" on Monday night in Holy Week, under the direction of W. E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster.

The Boys' Athletic Club of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in the lecture room to complete the organization of the baseball team.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will be held in Vincent chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when officers will be elected.

The Young People's Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow night and continue the study in "The Life of Christ," begun in February.

A large delegation of members from the Congregational church are today attending the semi-annual conference of New Jersey Congregationalists being held at Westfield.

"The Fact of Divine Guidance and the Diversity of It" was the subject of the prayer meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, was in charge.

The weekly free Lenten recital will be given at the Church of the Holy Cross Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Lee, the organist, will be assisted by well known talent. Last week the numbers by Dr. Waldo, 'cellist, were greatly enjoyed.

Under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, James R. Joy will give his illustrated lecture on "The Yellowstone National Park," in the church, tonight. No admission fee will be charged.

The catalogues for the new library books at Trinity Reformed church have been printed and will be ready for distribution on Sunday afternoon. Members of the school desiring a copy before Sunday can get one by calling at The Daily Press office.

The next meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church will be on Tuesday night, April 2, when Frank G. Reynolds, of Boston, will appear as the entertainer. The last meeting of the club for the season will be on Tuesday night, May 7. This will be "ladies' night," and the entertainer will be announced later.

WON'T GIVE IN TO UNION.

Elizabeth Builders Refuse Even to Consider Request.

The master builders of Elizabeth has flatly refused to give the request made by the journeymen carpenters for an increase in compensation even serious consideration, stating that the proposition is entirely out of the question.

The carpenters asked for a 50-cent rate, as against 45 cents at present. There is little likelihood of there being any fight made against the builders to effect a reversal of the decision, a precedent to the contrary having been set by the journeymen masons, who have consented to continue work at the same rates as during 1906.

Prominent builders declare that should the local unions endeavor to make trouble an open shop will be established immediately. They point to the success which attended the move in this direction made by the master builders in Jersey City, Passaic and other Northern New Jersey towns.

—There will be the usual dance at the Park Club on Easter Monday night, with the usual features.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A play of the South, dealing with characters true to that soil, with a sprinkling of Western atmosphere, is promised in "His Last Dollar," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The story of the play is one of love and intrigue, Wall street speculation and the staking of a last "chance" on a horse race, which is actually run on the stage in the fourth act. The chief characters are those typical of the blue grass region, whom we have learned to love through their association with romance.

Lovers of the strong meat of melodrama have something to look forward to, if all reports are not wrong, in the coming engagement of Joseph Santley, who at the head of his own company is to present his new play, "Billy the Kid," at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. As the star is part author of the play it can be supposed that he has put in situations and lines which fit him, and this he is reported to have done with a master hand. "Billy the Kid" is stated to be logical in its story as well as extremely interesting and there are moments when there is strength enough in the situations sufficient to please the most captious lover of melodrama. Mr. Santley's supporting company is reported as being a strong and well balanced organization.

As the curtain rises upon the first act of Mr. Gantony's comedy, "A Message from Mars," which will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, one sees the luxuriously furnished apartment in a London house. The first sensation is that of complete mystification. "What message can possibly be sent from the far off planet Mars to dwellers in this conventional English home?" This is the question that the average auditor asks himself. From the very starting point of this comedy the interest in the beautiful development of the play is so intense that it rivets the attention of those who see it from the rise of the first to the fall of the final curtain. The play having been seen here once before its beauties are well known to our theatregoers There is a delightful live story running through the play from beginning to end and one of the most important features of the play is where the young girl, the fiancee of the hero of the play, breaks her marriage engagement because the gentleman is afflicted with the sin of selfishness to such a degree she believes that he is incapable of loving her. In the presentation of this play on the occasion of the forthcoming engagement local theatregoers are promised a cast and scenic appointments of the same high standard as characterized its original production in this city.

"In Old Kentucky" will be along at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, March 15. Marie Quinn, a young and charming actress yet in her teens in the role of "Madge," and a big fine company including some of the old favorites, such as Charles K. French as Uncle Neb, Bert G. Clarke as the Colonel, Frank Dayton as the hero, George Mitchell as the villain, a newcomer to this play; J. J. Sullivan as Joe Lorey, and several other new faces. The pickaninnies will be along also, and there is said to be some wonderful Ethiopian talent developed in this aggregation of young darkies since their last visit here.

BILL TO ELECTROCUTE MURDERERS AT TRENTON.

Wakelee Measure Provides for Death House and Apparatus.

Believing that sentiment has abated in Trenton against placing the death house for the electrocution of murderers at the State prison, Senator Wakelee, of Bergen, who piloted the electrocution bill through the Legislature last year, introduced in the Senate late Tuesday afternoon a bill providing for the infliction of the death penalty by this means at the prison. It also directs the board of State Prison inspectors to construct a death house at the institution and to equip it wih apparatus suitable for carrying out the intention of the act.

The Legislature of last winter failed to make provision for the erection of a suitable building, but during the early part of the present session, the Senate passed a bill appropriating $10,000 for the purpose.

It has developed that this amount is wholly inadequate for the purpose as it is pointed out that not only would a building have to be erected with cells, laundry, etc., but that also an expensive electrical plant. Since the question has come up again this year Commissioner George B. Wight of the State department of charities and corrections and the Rev. Aloysius Fish, the Roman Catholic chaplain at the State Prison, have investigated the subject thoroughly and have strongly urged that the "death house" be placed at the prison, where there are already many facilities for it and which would be a great saving to the State. They also maintain that the prison is the logical place for this purpose and it was in view of these arguments that Senator Wakelee decided to introduce the bill yesterday. Should the Senate refuse to pass the measure, Mr. Wakelee will introduce a bill to substitute for the death penalty life imprisonment with no hope of pardon except in case of discovery of absolute evidence of innocence.

Plainfield, N. J., March 7, 1907.

PEOPLE APATHETIC.

Excepting among a few enthusiastic and public spirited citizens little or no interest is being taken in the proposition to merge North Plainfield into Plainfield. In fact the boroughites are lukewarm and the people of Plainfield appear to be absolutely cold on the subject. This situation is in marked contrast to the condition five years ago when the annexation campaign was at fever heat.

Just why this state of affairs exists it is difficult to say, though several causes have been assigned by those in a position to know whereof they speak. One delcares that the rule adopted by the bi-municipal commission to prevent publicity regarding the proceedings of its meetings has had a bad effect, while another is equally sanguine that the taxpayers of the city do not see what is to be gained by the suggested merger. That North Plainfield has everything to win and nothing to lose, and that the reverse is the case so far as Plainfield is concerned, is frequently stated.

The membership of the commission is composed of the most intelligent class of men to be found on either side of "the brook." The investigation therefore is being made in a most conscientious and thoroughgoing manner. Consequently it is reasonable to suppose that the report will be an able presentation of the results of the work combined with recommendations that may be safely followed.

It is to be hoped that when that report is issued, public interest will be aroused and the question speedily settled for all time.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

In disregard of the recommendation made by Mayor Fisk in his annual message, the Common Council on Monday night awarded a $5,000 contract without first receiving competitive bids. No public notice was given that there was any intention to make the award at the time, and the solitary bid was presented. The excuse given by the chairman of the Councilmanic street committee when asked by a fellow member of that body whether any attempt had been made to get any other bids was that he had heard nothing about anyone else wanting to get the contract and he did not suppose that another person could be found who would take the job. Attention was called to the fact that no public notice had been given, but notwithstanding the contract was awarded on the spot. Councilmen Leslie M. Daniel, Charles C. Randolph and H. D. Hibbard alone respected the wishes of Mayor Fisk

Woman's Jewels Seized.

New York, March 7.—Diamonds, pearls and emeralds valued at $10,000 were discovered last night in the baggage of Miss Florence Koehler, of Chicago, a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., which reached her dock in Hoboken late in the evening. As the gems had not been declared by Miss Koehler, they were seized and she was instructed to appear before the Collector of Customs this morning. Through its Secret Service agents abroad the Treasury Department was advised several days ago that Miss Koehler was bringing into the United States a large quantity of valuables jewels. When she sailed on the North German-Lloyd steamship that fact was communicated to the Customs House officials here.

Against City Owned Water Plant.

Orange, March 7.—By a vote of 137 to 16, West Orange taxpayers last night decided not to establish a municipally owned water supply system. Several women voted by proxy. There was little interest in the election. The voters authorized the Town Council to make a ten years' contract with the West Orange Water Company for a supply.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES IN ANNUAL SESSIONS

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARIES ELECT OFFICERS.

The annual meetings of the Women's Foreign and Home Missionary Societies of the First Presbyterian church were held in the chapel, yesterday, there being a large attendance of members at each session. Encouraging reports were presented by the secretaries and treasurers, showing an increase in the membership and funds of both organizations.

The foreign society met at 11 o'clock in the morning and enjoyed an address by Miss Alway, of Brooklyn, who has been a missionary in India for several years. She recently returned and had much to tell of her work and experiences abroad. She impressed upon all the fact the importance of mission work in India, describing the progress along the various lines undertaken by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

After the address these officers of the society were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Julia Noll; vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Hamilton; treasurer, Miss Addie Dietrich; secretary, Miss Jennie Abbott; secretary of literature, Mrs. Elmer W. Poinier.

Luncheon was served during the noon hour by Mrs. Elmer W. Poinier, Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Mrs. James Petrie, Mrs. W. B. Clark and Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland.

The Home Missionary Society convened at 2 o'clock for its annual session. The women were greatly interested in an address by Miss Josephine Petrie, of this city, who is secretary for the Young People's Department of the Board of Home Missions. She travels considerably through the west and only recently returned from a trip to the mission stations. Her story was full of interesting incidents, which aroused much enthusiasm and promises for greater efforts.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Howard A. Pope; vice-president, Mrs. T. C. Bodine; secretary, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland; treasurer, pro tem., Mrs. Freeman Shotwell; secretary of literature, Mrs. John S. Johnston; secretary industrial department, Miss Fanny Kendall.

BIGAMY IS CHARGED.

The Arrest of a Man in Dance Hall Causes a Commotion.

Princeton, March 7.—Harry Horton, known here, was arrested last night at the Alhambra on the charge of bigamy. At the time he was dancing with Mary Green, whom he recently married here. The charge is preferred by a woman who lives in Bordentown, N. J. She says she married Horton in 1901 and that they have two children. She also says Horton deserted her last November.

The Alhambra is on Witherspoon street, Princeton's Bowery. At the time of his arrest the place was crowded and the appearance of a policeman and the subsequent arrest of Horton caused an uproar. He was taken away with difficulty.

He denies any former marriage and says the charge is made on account of jealousy.

GOOD NEWS FOR ANGLERS.

Morris County Ponds and Brooks Stocked With Fish.

Morristown, March 7.—Morris county streams and lakes have been liberally stocked by the State Fish and Game Commission. Six varieties have been used. The list, outside of trout, is as follows: Budd's Lake, 300 black bass, 300 perch, 250 pickerel, 1,500 bait; Green Pond, 300 black bass, 400 perch, 1,000 bait; Lake Hopatcong, 500 black bass, 800 perch, 500 pickerel, 1,000 bait; Lake Denmark, 150 black bass, 1,000 perch, 200 catfish, 25 pickerel, 2,500 bait.

Trout consignments have been placed in brooks as follows: Green Pond Brook, 500; Hibernia Brook, 200; Misconetcong Brook, 1,200; Rockaway Brook, 200; Slabtown Brook, 400.

MEAN JOKE ON BRIDAL PAIR.

Friends Visited Him and Carried Furniture to the Cellar.

When Mr. and Mrs. George G. Burkhardt, of Orange, who were married Tuesday night, arrived at their new home after midnight yesterday, they found some of their friends had been there before them and planned a surprise.

During the evening several of the guests disappeared, but the couple thought little of this. The missing ones meanwhile went to the home of the couple at No. 15 Hawthorne street. They moved furniture from the bedroom and other apartments and carried it to the cellar. After a few encouraging mottoes had been placed on the walls, the gas, electric light and water were shut off.

Reading Saves Stock Market.

New York, March 7.—By a remarkable Wall street coup in Reading common shares yesterday a condition in the stock market rapidly ripening into demoralization was changed as if by magic into one where stocks became strong and a rout of the powerful bear clique followed. To H. C. Fick, who returned from Florida yesterday, the credit for the coup was given. Precisely what was the nature of the Reading coup no one pretended to know, so great was the confusion which attended the phenomenal advance in the stock and the extraordinary volume of business transacted in the last two and one-half hours of business. Wall street had a report, however, that the control of the road had passed to a coterie headed by E. H. Harriman, H. C. Frick and other members of what is generally known Pacific-Standard Oil syndicate. While this report was afterward discredited in banking circles, it is believed that there has been a large accumulation of the floating supply of Reading common stock by the interests mentioned, even if the supply is not sufficient to give control. Not in many years has there been such a spectacular stock market as that of yesterday. The total's day's business in the financial district as the Union was the largest of the year, more than 2,348,000 shares being traded in. Of this amount 701,070 shares were in Reading common.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Depew, who have been spending sometime at Ormond Beach, Florida, have returned to their home in Hillside avenue.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Notwithstanding the fact that there has been a number of houses built during the past year, the prosprospects are that houses will be just as scarce the first of April as in years gone by.

Joseph Clark, who has been detained at home for several months on account of illness, has fully recovered and is able to be around again, attending to the judicial duties of his office.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Flannery, who have been visiting Mr. Flannery's sister, Mrs. George H. Johnston, of Westfield avenue, have returned to their home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith, who have been visiting Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Coddington, of Park avenue, have returned to their home in Plainfield.

The small blizzard of yesterday morning made another half-day's sleighing, but it was only a feeble attempt and was gone by early afternoon.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company held its regular monthly session last night. Only the regular monthly company business was transacted.

Irving W. Quereau has returned from a two weeks' business trip through the New England States.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Farmers and other residents of Piscataway Township held a conference in Friendship Hall, New Market, Tuesday night to discuss informally the borough bill which is now in the Assembly. The concensus of opinion was that the bill should be passed and become a law and all agreed to lend their earnest support to the movement. It was reported that action would probably be taken on the bill on Monday and a number of those present at the conference promised to attend and help to secure its passage.

The steam crane which has been used at the coaling station was put out of commission several days ago by the breaking of the boom beam. It was repaired yesterday and is again in action.

While walking about the hay-mow in his barn, yesterday, Morris Higgins, stepped on a pitch-fork, inflicting a deep and painful wound.

Miss Katharine Smith, who has been critically ill, remains about the same. A trained nurse and two physicians are in attendance.

Miss Sarah Giles is suffering with a scalded hand, and is unable to attend to her school duties.

Washington Camp, Patriotic Order Sons of America, will meet tonight in Washington Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horn have moved into the house recently vacated by Samuel Riddle.

board has been asking for more arcs for years. Everybody agreed that the city should be lighted better, but no action was taken. Mr. Runyon said the lights could be strung without changing the present current, as the P. S. C. declared was necessary.

Mr. Woolston, in his swan way as president, explained the obstacles the Board had met with in seeking for the trolley extensions. One man's piggishness had blocked the Watchung Valley addition and the trustees of the Baptist cemetery had stood immovably in the way of the tracks to South Plainfield along Plainfield avenue. Mr. Woolston said the people who were giving pessimistic and knock interviews on the Board of Trade to a local paper didn't understand conditions and what the Board had been up against in its work.

He admitted that new blood and more money was needed by the Board. He said he hoped the reorganization that would ensue under the new management would include the boosting of dues from $2 to $5 yearly; the $2 rate, tried for a year, had failed to bring about increased membership, the only thing hoped for when it was made. It was up to the business men of the city to join the board, pay their dues cheerfully and promptly, and support the organization.

Mr. Woolston suggested a 10-trip ticket for 80 cents a trip as another concession to be sought from the railroad. It was decided to work for that in the near future.

The dinner committee reported a surplus of $33. The total expenses were $419 and something like $453 was taken in. The committee reported that the surplus was made possible by generous donations from C. J. Fisk and Alexander Gilbert. It is the first time a dinner has shown a balance in favor of the board, and Messrs. Fisk and Gilbert were thanked by resolution. The dinner committee was composed of Mr. Fisk, Mr. Gilbert, L. B. Woolston, H. W. Marshall and B. F. Coriell.

Secretary Feickert announced that he wouldn't accept any salary. Great applause.

President Marshall called a meeting of the newely elected officers and the two new committees for tomorrow afternoon.

Collector Thorn reported that he had taken in $203 in dues during the year. There are about 120 active members on the rolls. Two members were elected last night.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Henry H. Apgar.

Following a brief illness with pneumonia, Mrs. Jeanne M. Apgar, wife of Henry H. Apgar, died yesterday at her home on West Eighth street. She was first affected a few days ago and from the outset sank rapidly. Mrs. Apgar was the daughter of Newton H. and Margaret Saxton and had always lived in Plainfield. She was a member of the First Baptist church and by an unselfish life had endeared herself to a large circle of friends. Beside her husband and parents, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harold Clark, of this city, and an infant son, less than two months old. The funeral will be held at her late residence, Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

Stephen Coleman.

Stephen Coleman, colored, died this morning at his home on Cottage place after a lingering illness. He was in his fifty-fifth year and leaves a wife and two children. The funeral will be private.

Robert Walsh.

Robert Walsh, the seven-months-old son of Thomas and Mary E. Walsh, died yesterday noon at the parents' home in Scotch Plains. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

BIG PRODUCTIONS COMING.

Manager Counihan Arranges for Rogers Brothers and Other Fine Attractions.

Manager Counihan received word by wire this morning that his overtures for the appearance of the Rogers Brothers in this city had been accepted and they will be at the New Plainfield theatre Monday, March 18. They will present their latest production, "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland," a musical comedy that requires the services of eighty people.

Another big attraction booked today is "The College Widow," which will be presented on Saturday, matinee and night, March 23, by the original company. This is the George Ade comedy that ran at the Garden theatre, New York, for a year and half. "The Lion and the Mouse" returns to Plainfield on March 29, and other big productions coming are the following: "In Old Kentucky," March 15; Thomas Jefferson, March 16; "Mayor of Tokio," March 19; Mabel Montgomery in "Zaza," March 21; "The Sultan of Sulu," March 30; United States Marine Band, Easter Monday night, April 1.

Miss Moorehouse Quietly Wedded.

Miss Flora Moorehouse and William Welsh, both residents of McKinley place, were quietly married last night at the home of the bride by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. Owing to the illness of the bride only the two families witnessed the ceremony and attended the informal reception afterward. The couple are both members of Warren chapel. They will reside at the home of the groom.

To Build Bridge.

The Board of Freeholders, after a conference with the Council committee on docks and wharves, has begun active preparations looking toward the erection of a bridge over the Elizabeth River at First street, Elizabeth, as a way of settling the extension problem which has been agitated for many years.

Respect YOUR Stomach

GIVE it food that will not irritate or retard the performance of its natural functions, and it will reciprocate in a way agreeable and comforting.

No single ingredient contributes so largely toward wholesome, nourishing, agreeable food as Royal Baking Powder.

Royal Baking Powder's active ingredient, Grape Cream of Tartar, is the most healthful of the fruit products.

This is why Royal Baking Powder makes the food finer, lighter, more appetizing and anti-dyspeptic, a friend to the stomach and good health.

Imitation Baking Powders Contain Alum

"The use of alum and salts of alumina in food should be PROHIBITED. The constant use of alum compounds exerts a deleterious effect upon the digestive organs and an irritation of the internal organs after absorption.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 10.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Lessons from the patriarchs. II. Abraham.—Heb. xi, 8, 9.

The patriarch Abraham was the son of Terah, a descendant of Shem. He was born in Ur of the Chaldees, beyond the Euphrates. From Ur he was called of God "to go out into a place which he should afterward receive as an inheritance." The place referred to was the land of Canaan, and God called him to leave his own home and go to a new land that he might make him the founder of a people peculiarly His own and through whom the Saviour of the world was to come. His life is most interesting and instructive, and every Christian Endeavorer should make himself familiar with it in all its details. It will thus best have a blessed influence upon our lives.

1. The life of Abraham teaches us a lesson on faith. This is the most conspicuous characteristic of his life. Abraham lived in an age of the grossest idolatry, and yet his faith in the one living and true God has never been surpassed. His faith in God was put to the severest tests, and yet it never wavered. "By faith Abraham when he was called to go out to a place which he should after receive for an inheritance obeyed, and he went out not knowing whither he went." In this call God no doubt desired to test the faith of Abraham, as he did afterward in calling upon him to sacrifice Isaac, his only son and the child of promise. And Abraham stood this as well as all other tests. He did not know where he was to go, yet he went, believing implicitly in the God who called him. "By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country." Where God told him to go he went; where God told him to remain he remained.

Abraham's faith should be an example to us. God calls us to duties and to trials, yet how often our faith is weak! We want to know where we are being led and why we should stay. Abraham never questioned God. He never asked God to explain His dealings with him, but his faith was whole hearted and unquestioning. Let us aspire to this kind of faith. It is the faith that brings real joy and peace to the heart and success in our religious lives.

2. The life of Abraham teaches us a lesson on obedience. Faith and obedience should go hand in hand. They are not antagonistic. Some are not saved by faith, and others by obedience. The true child of God possesses both. Faith inspires obedience, and obedience is the proof of faith. "By faith Abraham * * * obeyed." Obedience is always the test of faith. "By their fruits ye shall know them." "Faith without works is dead, being alone." Works without faith are just as dead as faith without works. Morality not based on saving faith can never save a human soul. If we believe in God, we must show it by our obedience. And God is well pleased with obedience. "Obedience is better than sacrifice."

3. The life of Abraham teaches us a lesson on God's faithfulness to His promises. God made covenants with Abraham. Great promises were given to him, and all have been kept. The land of promise became the possession of his descendants. According to the promise of God, his seed is like the stars for multitude, and through him all the nations of the world have been blessed, for through his race came the Redeemer of the world. "God is faithful, who has promised." "All His promises are yea and amen in Christ Jesus." And He is just as faithful to us as He was to Abraham. Let us more and more strive to be as faithful to Him as Abraham was.

Fanny Crosby to Dr. Clark.

One interesting feature of the recent meeting of the Bridgeport (Conn.) local union at Stratford was the presentation to Dr. Francis E. Clark, who made the address of the evening, of a beautiful album containing the photographs of the churches to which the societies of the union belong. The album is a rich and tasteful souvenir. On the front page is an original poem by Fanny J. Crosby, the beloved blind hymn writer, known to all the world, who lives in Bridgeport and is an honorary member of the Bridgeport union. Below we append the poem, which was signed by her own hand:

A TRIBUTE TO DR. CLARK.

Another gospel message
Of hope to those that mourn
Across the mighty ocean
Thy faithful heart has borne,
And, while that heart was pleading
With souls in climes afar,
Thy memory was our watchword,
Thy name our guiding star.

Thou art the noble founder
Of our Endeavor band,
And now like happy children
We clasp our father's hand.
Our ranks are marching onward,
Our standard wide unfurled,
And thou art loved and honored
By all the Christian world.

Thy perfect consecration
To Christ, our Lord and King,
Thy sacrificing spirit,
A bright reward will bring.
Thy life of true devotion,
Its pure, unselfish love,
Will be thy glorious welcome
To yonder home above.

It Happened.

It was in a boarding house parlor.

Young Lady—And I have done so much church work!

Old Lady—Do you belong to the Christian Endeavor society?

Young Lady (sharply)—No. I never go to that church. I'm a Methodist.

Old Lady (with a smile)—Sure?

March 10: "Life Through Christ."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

John x, 10, 28; Ps. xxxvi, 9; John xx, 31; II Cor. iv, 10; Gal. ii, 20; Col. iii, 3.

What a hard world this is for one who has a sensitive nature! Life becomes one succession of pains and sorrows. The more earnest hearted and conscientious a young man or woman is and the more determined to live a life true to the highest ideals the more dissatisfied will both be with the ordinary lives which they see lived around them and the less willing to have their own life course like those of their ordinary acquaintances and friends.

So many are in business occupations and expect to see in the daily transactions of those they know to be professing Christians some evidence of their life in Christ and are shocked to find that the daily work and the Sunday talk of these people have little or no connection. Has Christ any power to transform the life? Must we sink to the level of these who seem to be business princes and leaders in church circles? Are integrity and righteousness to be banished if we wish success in business? Is it impossible to get a living and still be an honest man? Must self respect be forfeited and all the moral baseness and impurity of the ungodly be indulged in and practiced if one wishes to get ahead in life?

All this and much more of the same kind strike the young man and woman squarely between the eyes as soon as they enter upon a business career. The more the Bible standard of right is known the more startling does the contrast seem between what one has come to consider right and that which prevails in the code of the street and shop.

The same holds also in social life. The surface has a conventional courtesy, but beneath the thinnest sort of a veneer the real life is found to be a mass of envy, strife, pride, prejudice shameless falsities and sham. The words drop honey, but under the tongue is the venom of asps.

Must we become like all that to get on in the world? Or, if we do get up in society, will it transform us into that kind of person?

Life has so much of promise, and we have such abounding desires. We never tell any one all we hope, all we dream, all we plan to do and be. It is not best that we should. But if we are good for anything we have a high ideal of what we would be and do. The fashion of the world is absolutely different. What shall we do about it? Shall we alter to conform to the world's demands or hold steady and be singular and perhaps fail to get the large place in the world we desire?

Hold steady at all costs. Hide your life in Christ. Be absolutely, uncompromisingly true to Him and His commands, whatever it costs. Honor is more than cash. Life is not in the abundance of things. Get into your soul the great truths of Christ as he lived them and make them the forces which make and guide all your actions. If the thing is wrong, don't do it, though the heavens fall. Let them come down; if they are no more firmly based than that they should fail. Live the Christ life! Be true to your convictions and ideals.

If you will do this, you shall find your living secure and your place in society firm and your soul not ashamed of itself, able to face the world and look up into the face of your God. Life will be full of conflict, but also full of victory. Pain and sharp disappointment will come, but also the shout of triumph will be on your lips. It is a glorious thing to live if one lives nobly.

Express Your Sympathy.

Sympathy does not lighten a burden of sorrow, but it does help the burdened one to bear his load. If, therefore, you know of a sorrow which presses another's heart give expression to your sympathy with him, even though you understand that he alone must struggle under the weight of his burden. In one sense your words cannot help him. In another sense they can. Speak them out, therefore, for what they may be worth. He will be the better for their speaking.—T. T. Munger.

The Life That Lasts.

An enduring life is one that meets the requirements of worthy living, that is really alive and does not simply exist, that acquires more life and power as it ages, so that the owner of it can respond as did Edward Beecher when some one told him he ought to live forever, "I expect to."—Rev. H. A. Bridgman.

The Master's Touch.

My hands were filled with many things
Which I did precious hold
As any treasure of a king's,
Silver or gems or gold.
The Master came and touched my hands—
The scars were in His own—
And at His feet my treasures sweet
Fell shattered one by one.
"I must have empty hands," said He,
"Wherewith to work My works through thee."

My hands were stained with marks of toil,
Defiled with dust of earth,
And I my work did oftimes soil
And render little worth.
The Master came and touched my hands,
And crimson were His own,
And when, amazed, on mine I gazed,
Lo, every stain was gone!
"I must have cleansed hands," said He.
"Wherewith to work My works through thee."

* * * * * * *

My hands were strong in fancied strength,
But not in power divine,
And bold to take up tasks at length
That were not His, but mine.
The Master came and touched my hands
And might was in His own.
But mine since then have powerless been
Save His were laid thereon.
"And it is only thus," said he,
"That I can work My works through thee."

"No,"—she smiled slightly. "I thought—I believe I have said this to you before!—that you were a gentleman. I really did, Mr. Glenarm. I must say it to justify myself. I relied upon your chivalry,—I even thought, when I played being Olivia,—that you had a sense of humor. But you are not the one and you haven't the other. I even went so far, after you knew perfectly well who I was, to try to help you—to encourage you to prove yourself the man your grandfather wished you to be. And now you come to me in a shocking bad humor,—I really think you would like to be insulting, Mr. Glenarm, if you could."

"But Pickering,—you came back with him; he is here and he is going to stay! And now that the property belongs to you, there is not the slightest reason why we should make any pretense of anything but enmity. When you and Arthur Pickering stand together I take the other side of the barricade! I suppose chivalry would require me to vacate, so that you may enjoy at once the spoils of war," I stormed with growing heat.

"I fancy it would not be very difficult to eliminate you as a factor in the situation," she remarked icily.

"And I suppose, after the unsuccessful efforts of Mr. Pickering's allies to assassinate me, as a mild form of elimination, one would naturally expect me to sit calmly down and wait to be shot in the back. But you may tell Mr. Pickering that I throw myself upon your mercy. I have no other home than this shell over the way, and I beg to be allowed to remain until—at least—the bluebirds come."

"I quite sympathize with your re-

"I Quite Sympathize with Your Reluctance to Deliver the Message Yourself," She Said.

luctanee to deliver the message yourself," she said. "Is this all you came to say?"

"I came to tell you that you could have the house, and everything in its hideous walls," I snapped; "to tell you that my chivalry is enough for some situations and that I don't intend to fight a woman. I had accepted your own renouncement of the legacy in good part, but now, please believe me, it shall be yours to-morrow. I'll yield possession to you whenever you ask it,—but never to Arthur Pickering! As against him and his treasure-hunters and assassins I will hold out for a dozen years!"

"Nobly spoken, Mr. Glenarm! Yours is really an admirable, though somewhat complex character."

"My character is my own, whatever it is," I blurted.

"I shouldn't call that a debatable proposition," she replied, and I was angry to find how the mirth I had loved in her could suddenly become so hateful. She half-turned away so that I might not see her face. The thought that she should countenance Pickering in any way tore me with jealous rage.

"Mr. Glenarm, you are what I have heard called a quitter, defined in common Americanese as one who quits! Your blustering can hardly conceal the fact of your failures. I had hoped you would really be of some help to Sister Theresa, and incidentally to me, but we both sadly misjudged you."

Her tone, changing from amused indifference to severest disdain, stung me into self-pity for my stupidity in having sought her. My anger was not against her, but against Pickering, who had, I persuaded myself, always blocked my path. She went on.

"Mr. Pickering is decidedly more than a match for wou, Mr. Glenarm,—even in humor."

She drew herself up with tragic scorn in every line of her figure, then relaxed, laughed and was Olivia again; and as I watched her,—wondering, perplexed, chagrined,—she turned swiftly away and ran—I am sure she ran—from the room.

She left me so quickly, so softly, that I stood staring like a fool at the spot where she had been, and then I went gloomily back to Glenarm House, angry, ashamed and crestfallen.

While we were waiting for dinner I made a clean breast of my acquaintance with her to Larry, omitting nothing,—rejoicing even to paint my own conduct as black as possible.

"You may remember her," I concluded,—"she was the girl we saw at Sherry's that night we dined there. She was with Pickering, and you noticed her,—spoke of her, as she went out?"

"That little girl who seemed so bored, or tired or sick? Bless me, why her eyes haunted me for days. Lord, man, do you mean to say—"

A look of utter scorn came into his face, and he eyed me contemptuously.

"Of course I mean it!" I thundered at him.

He took the pipe from his mouth, pressed the tobacco viciously into the bowl, and swore steadily in Gaelic until I was ready to choke him.

"Stop!" I bawled. "Do you think that's helping me? And to have you curse in your blackguardly Irish dialect! I wanted a little Anglo-Saxon sympathy, you fool! I didn't mean for you to invoke your infamous gods against the girl!"

"Don't be violent, lad. Violence is reprehensible," he admonished with maddening sweetness and patience. "What I was trying to intimate very mildly was the fact, borne in upon me through years of acquaintance, that you are,—to be bold, my, lad, to be bold,—a good deal of a damned fool."

The trilling of his r's was like the whirring rise of a covey of quail.

"Dinner is served," announced Bates, and Larry led the way, mockingly chanting an Irish love-song.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Door of Bewilderment.

We had established the practice of barring all the gates and doors at nightfall. There was no way of guarding against an attack from the lake, whose frozen surface increased the danger from without; but we counted on our night patrol to prevent a surprise from that quarter. I was well aware that I must prepare to resist the militant arm of the law, which Pickering would no doubt invoke to aid him, but I intended to exhaust the possibilities in searching for the lost treasure before I yielded. Pickering might, if he would, transfer the estate of John Marshall Glenarm to Marian Devereux and make the most he could of that service, but he should not drive me forth until I had satisfied myself of the exact character of my grandfather's fortune. If it had vanished, if Pickering had stolen it and outwitted me in making off with it, that was another matter.

The phrase, "The Door of Bewilderment," had never ceased to reiterate itself in my mind; there was a certain fascination and charm in it. We discussed a thousand explanations of it as we pondered over the scrap of paper I had found in the library, and every book in the house was examined in the search for further clews.

The passage between the house and the chapel seemed to fascinate Larry. He held that it must have some particular use and he devoted his time to exploring it.

He came up at noon—it was the 29th of December—with grimy face and hands and a grin on his face. I had spent my morning in the towers to no purpose and was in no mood for the ready acceptance of new theories.

"I've found something," he said, filling his pipe.

"Not soap, evidently!"

"No, but I'm going to say the last word on the tunnel, and within an hour. Give me a glass of beer and a piece of bread, and we'll go back and see whether we're sold again or not."

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Ethel Barrymore is drawing crowded houses to see her in "Captain Jinks" at the Empire theatre, New York. The first fortnight of her engagement has passed, and it has been a record of enthusiastic capacity audiences, every one of which found the comedy and humor of "Captain Jinks" delicious and the acting of Miss Barrymore in the role of Mme. Trentoni, as exquisitely artistic as anything the American stage has had to offer. If it were not that the number of performances is limited, because Miss Barrymore has other plays in which she will appear during her stay at the Empire, there is no telling where the present "Jinks" popularity might end. The play is a jolly one, with an excellent love story, and several highly interesting romantic moments. Nearly all the delicious humor of the work falls to Miss Barrymore, who does not fail to give it exquisite expression. The love scenes between herself, and Bruce McRae are charmingly simple and natural, and they are acted in that spirit. The next play in which Miss Barrymore will be seen is "The Silver Box," in which she will have an unusually strong acting character.

William Collier is still playing to big audiences at the Garrick theatre, New York. He has been doing this since his first night there in "Caught in the Rain," the 100th performance of which will be reached on March 25. The comedian's popularity in the role of Dick Crawford, and the popularity of his jolly and lively farce, rest a splendid foundation, and for that reason they are bound to endure. There are several hundred good hearty laughs, in these Collier performances and there is no better evening's enjoyment to be had in the metropolis, than that which is furnished at the Garrick. Matinees of "Caught in the Rain" on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Sam Bernard's popularity as laugh-maker extraordinary to New York theatregoers, is as great as it ever was at Wallack's theatre. He is still drawing crowded houses to see him in "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer," the 150th performance of which was celebrated last Friday. Mr. Bernard in his capacity of laugh-maker, certainly delivers the goods, and he is very generous in the way he hands them out. There are three hours of the liveliest laughter this town ever enjoyed in the "Hoggenheimer" performances at Wallack's. There are handsome girls, and gorgeous gowns, and of the two score tuneful song hits, there are at least three that may be classed as the best songs New York has heard this season. These are, "The Bagpipe Serenade," "Don't You Want a Paper" and "Poker Love."

The thousands of people who witness the performances of "Neptune's Daughter" and "Pioneer Days" at the great number of people employed at this big institution, do not realize that the best of medical attention is given the 600 employees. Te Hippodrome maintains a private hospital of its own, especially to care for chorus girls who may need assistance; Indians or cowboys who may be injured in the realistic battle scene of "Pioneer Days," or a mermaid who becomes exhausted while swimming under water in the great tank scene. The wisdom of having a private hospital handy was illustrated only last week, when Miss Beryl Clifton, one of the mermaids, received a painful electric shock while under water and was unconscious for a few minutes. The mechanical contrivance by which air is furnished to the mermaids is fitted with electric lights, and as Miss Clifton made her descent into her submarine compartment, she touched an exposed electric wire. The shock in itself would not have been serious, but it was so unexpected under water that Miss Clifton fainted. The attendant who is always on hand in case of emergency while the mermaids are under water, supported her with his arms, so that her head would remain above water, and signalled to the wings. As soon as the scene was over, the hospital corps was on hand, waiting with restoratives, and Dr. O. W. Lesser, who is in attendance at the Hippodrome, speedily brought the young woman around. The electric shock was by no means serious, and Miss Clifton was more frightened than hurt. The hospital of the Hippodrome is located in the Forty-third street corner of the building, in the basement. It is a large room, comfortably furnished and fitted up with every modern medical convenience. Mrs. Hawley, the nurse in charge, is a graduate of a training school of Montreal, Canada, and served two years in Montreal at a private hospital. Afterwards she was in a private hospital in New York. During the war in Cuba, she was one of the volunteer Red Cross nurses sent to the front and served at Santiago. Afterwards she was sent to the fever camp at Montauk Point. Mrs. Hawley has been the nurse at the Hippodrome since the big playhouse opened. She has attended many patients in the Hippidrome chorus, and has also treated people who have been unexpectedly taken sick while in the audience. She is a great favorite with all the Hippodrome chorus girls, and is usually referred to as "the ministering angel."

Mrs. Sylvester F. Randolph, formerly of West Eighth street, is building a new home on West Seventh street, which she will occupy about July 1.

Rutgers College Glee Club.

Rutgers College Glee Club.

During the past quarter of a century this club has attained a record of unrivalled successes in the singing of college songs, giving to its listeners a glimpe of true college life. The entire satisfaction which the club always gives is attested by the fact that in several instances, during the past season especially the Rutgers College Glee Club has been given preference over the glee clubs of certain other well known colleges and universities. With a revised programme, every number of which is new, the club enters upon its twenty-sixth year, and will be heard in this city at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Friday evening, March 8.

BRITTON AND FARLEE WIN

Took First Money in Twelve-Hour Bowling Contest with Aggregate of 2,294 Pins.

HAD LEAD OF NINETY

Nash and Skelly Finish Second—Britton Also Makes High Individual Score.

Scores of 200 and Over:
Britton,	255, 205, 200
Toense,	201
Skelly,	211, 204, 202, 223
Skinner,	204, 207
Dilks,	209, 201
Nash	231

By taking the lead in the fourth game and holding it by hard fighting until the finish, Joseph Farlee and Edward Britton won the twelve-hour bowling contest at McLaughlin's, yesterday. They made a grand total of 3,294 pins, ninety more than the second prize winners, V. W. Nash, Jr., and Louis Skelly. In addition, Britton knocked out high individual score, a 255. A total of eighteen games was rolled, the men being allowed to relieve each other at their own dictation.

The contest from every point of view was a big success and during the greater part of the time it was in progress the building was crowded with enthusiasts. At 9 o'clock last night the rail-birds extended three deep from the front to the alley pits and the spectators' benches back of the runaway were a solid mass of rooters. Every team had a bunch of supporters and any kind of a good play was greeted by cheers that almost raised the roof. Even at 1 o'clock this morning when the contest was being wound up, the crowd was still there, urging the men on and anxiously watching the totals on the blackboard.

When word was given to start at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon there were nine teams ready, the tenth, Frank Burke and Thomas O'Donnell, of Elizabeth, having dropped out at the last minute. O'Donnell was taken sick and it was impossible for him to stay in. "Fozzy" Firstbrook had a bunch of strikes up his sleeve for the first three games and during that time he held the lead. In the fourth game, Joe Farlee passed over him and for the remainder of the contest, Farlee and Britton stood at the head. During the early part of the afternoon, Will Skinner climbed into second place and remained there until relieved by his partner, Harry Ackor, at 6:30. The latter is ordinarily a good man but he seemed to be in bad form and in a very short time the team had dropped to fourth, Nash and Skelley taking second and Gaddis and Dilks third. All remained in this position until the finish although there were times when it seemed as if Dilks would get to second. He made one of the greatest uphill fights in the contest but the nearest he got to Nash and Skelley was fifty pins. Gaddis had rolled in the afternoon with a split thumb and when Dilks came on he was holding down fourth. The newcomer went at the timber with hammer-and-tongs effect and by smashing out good scores he advanced to third and made Nash and Skelly look worried.

Late last night a large part of the interest centered about the struggle for fifth place, three teams being bunched for it, Chauncey Koons and Ed Laing held it down until the last game but only a few pins stood between them and Mullen and Connors, while Muir and Firstbrook were casting eyes at itfrom seventh position. In the eighteenth "round," Muir made a 179 and passed over Mullen and Connors by thirty-five and crowded Koons and Laing out of fifth place by a margin of two pins.

Britton's performance during the contest shows without the shadow of a doubt that he is one of the best amateur bowlers that ever rolled in the city. He put up eleven games for his team and his average was 189.8. Beside making the 255 high score he got a 200 and 205 and seemed to be better when he finished than when he started. In the endurance contest held at Madison a short time ago, the first of its kind in the State, the winners had an average of 183.4. In sixteen games they made an aggregate of 2821, while Britton and Farlee in the same number made 2948.

While the manner in which the contest was conducted could not be called in the strictest sense of the word a test of "endurance," the long grind told heavily on some of the bowlers. From a little before midnight until the close more than one of the men had a groggy appearance and when a ball shot 'way off from where it was intended to go, the crowd yelled out, "'give him the dope," "he's got brain fag," or "bring in his partner."

Messengers were kept busy bringing in coffee and sandwiches and the general appearance of things made the bicycle enthusiasts think of the six-day stunt at Madison Square Garden.

The contest was arraigned and conducted by G. E. Firstbrook and T. M. Muir and because of the manner in which it was received they will arrange another and more difficult one later on. The winning team got $15 as its prize and the second men $8. For making high score Britton got an additional $5.

Following is the result of the contest in detail:

	No. of Games.	Total.	Team Total.
Britton	11	2088
Farlee	7	1206	3294

P. B. A. DEFEATED AGAIN.

Greenwald's Five Beats Them Two Out of Three at New Brunswick.

The P. B. A. bowling team journeyed over to New Brunswick, last night, and took another try at Grenwald's five but lost two out of three games. S-p-l-i-t seemed to be written all over the alleys when the Plainfielders sighted the pins and they got the biggest batch of them that has ever fallen to the lot of an aggregation of timber smashers. They got fifty in all and with such luck it was remarkable that they beat out in one game.

Following the series, the Plainfielders dined as the New Brunswickers' guests and an informal programme of vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed. The B. P. A.'s were defeated in this city two out of three by Greenwald's five but they will take another try at them later on.

EAST ORANGE DEFEATED.

P. H. S. Wins Game, Score Being 39 to 17.

The Plainfield High School basketball team defeated the five from the East Orange High School, yesterday, on the Plainfield High School court by a score of 39 to 17. The East Orange boys were a heavier team and had many chances at the baskets but were not as accurate in their shooting as Plainfield High School, who also excelled in team work. In the latter part of the first half, Creede, East Orange's heavyweight forward, was laid out with a sever sprain in his right ankle. Whitney filled his place for the remainder of the game. Twenty and fifteen minute halves were played. Collier gave satisfaction as referee. The line-up:

PERSONAL.

Albert Serrell, of Mercer avenue, has purchased Nelson A. Miller's residence property on Myrtle avenue, and will take possession about April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lederer, formerly of the New Madison, are now living at the home of Mrs. M. E. Lindsey, at West Sixth street and Central avenue.

Charles Weeks, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Henry VanName, of Madison avenue, during a two months vacation, will return to his home in Oswego, N. Y., this week.

Walter Sampson, of East Fifth street, was taken suddenly with appendicitis on Tuesday, and yesterday he was operated upon at the hospital by Dr. G. W. Endicott. Today he is reported as doing well.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has received word of the death of his fiancee's greats grandmother, which occurred at her home in Orange this morning. The announcement for the date of the wedding of Mr. Warner and Miss Ottalie H. Lohrke, was made on Tuesday, it being Saturday, April 13. While the death in Miss Lohrke's family may interfere with the large reception as planned, the wedding will take place on the date set.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Judge Henry A. Melvin, of Oakland, Cal., Grand Exalted Ruler of the B. P. O. Elks, was in Philadelphia recently and noted with pleasure the progress made in preparing for the convention and reunion of the order which is to be held in that city during the week beginning July 15.

State a Machinery Producer.

"If New Jersey does not lead the United States in the manufacture of machinery before long," says one of the largest machinery purchasers in the country, "it will be only because of the size of the State. More and more frequently in my travels incident to installing plants do I run across the New Jersey product, and if matters keep on as they are going the State certainly ought to lead all others. From locomotives to sewing machines—bridges, ironwork, what you will—they are everywhere. At times it seems surprising that so much could come out of so small a State. Last year alone 118 plants in New Jersey were engaged in the production of various kinds of machinery, and the increased value of the stock used over the preceding year exceeded 25 per cent."

Robert Davis Honored.

Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, received from the members of the Robert Davis Association last night a silver loving cup. It was his fifty-ninth birthday. The presentation was made by Congressman-elect James A. Hamill, in the Davis Association clubhouse, in Jersey City. Mr. Davis predicted Democratic victory next fall.

Rev. E. E. Roberson will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue. Good singing will be a feature. Everybody welcome.

REAFFIRMS STATEMENTS

Lemuel B. Woolston Wasn't "Righted" Correctly by Borough School Authority.

MEANT WHAT HE SAID

Borough High School Costs Too Much, and the Borough Schooling Cannot Compete With That of Plainfield.

Answering a reply to his statements regarding the relative inferiority and disproportionate expense of the borough high school, made before the consolidation commission Monday afternoon, Lemuel B. Woolston today reaffirmed his contentions. The education of the borough high school pupils costs more than it could be obtained for on this side of the brook, he reiterates, and the schooling is not as good, because the borough can not afford the advantages that the city can.

Mr. Woolston said on Monday that North Plainfielders might think their schools were as good as those of Plainfield, but that was only false pride, and not founded on fact. He said the attendance at the high school had never been over thirty pupils, and that their education cost the borough $5,000; the same number of pupils could be educated on this side of the brook for $1,500 a year.

A borough school authority gave out a statement yesterday in which he assumed, on his own responsibility, that Mr. Woolston's views had not been correctly presented. He intimated that Mr. Woolston didn't desire to contend what he had contended. Continuing, the authority kindly set out to render to "correct" the impression obtained by readers from Mr. Woolston's statements. He said the $5,000 a year paid the expenses of the entire enrollment of the high school, which numbered 120, "or nearly one-half of the enrollment of the city high school."

Mr. Woolston said this morning that the impression that the borough high school tuition was too high for North Plainfield consumption was exactly the impression he desired to produce. He said the high school cost, in round figures, $6,000, an average of $50 per pupil for tuition alone; figuring in the cost of maintaining the building would bring the average cost to a higher figure. As for the sense of maintaining an expensive separate organization for secondary education, he pointed out that there were six seniors in the high school at present, and only fourteen pupils in the second class.

The contention that the borough schools were as good as the city institutions was pretty nearly nonsense. North Plainfield could not hope to compete with Plainfield in perfecting the school organization; as an instance of the difference in conditions, the recent raise in salaries voted by the Plainfield board of education was cited; North Plainfield could not think of doing anything like that, and must trail in all such lines of school development. That there were numbers of people who recognized the superiority of the Plainfield schools he knew. He knew of several families who had moved over the line from the borough simply to give their children the benefit of better schooling.

The borough school authority had this to say in correction of statements made in writing by him yesterday:

"In the interview in yesterday's Press, in regard to the cost of educating the borough high school pupils in the city high school, no account was taken of a recent law that goes into effect this year for the first time, whereby a district that pays the tution of its pupils to attend a high school in another district receives an apportionment from the State of $25 per pupil. This would amount in the local case to $3,000, and would make the additional cost to the borough only $600 instead of $3,600."

Lecturer to Preach.

Rev. George Wharton James, whose lecture on "Primitive Arts and Crafts" delighted the Monday Afternoon Club last month, will preach in the First M. E. church on Sunday evening. Mr. James is a native of England, a resident of California and an adopted member of an Indian tribe. He is one of the best known writers upon Arizona, Southern California and life in the great Southwest.

Ushers' Benefit Performance.

The ushers of the New Plainfield theatre will have a benefit performance on Monday night, April 15, when the laughable production, "Tom, Dick and Harry," will be presented.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Garret Drake, of Arlington avenue, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Minnie Clare Drake, to Martin Hingle, of Plainfield avenue.

REAL JUICY LEMON FOR EACH GUEST

AND THE REFRESHMENTS CONSISTED OF LEMONS, TOO.

All kinds of parties have been given in Plainfield, but it remained for the saleswomen in the employ of the Woodhull & Martin Company to plan something new, a "Lemon Party." It was given last night in honor of two of their number, Miss Ella Mullen and Miss Squier, who resign this week to enter business for themselves.

The young women met at the home of Miss Nora Schenck on Manning avenue, and the Misses Mullen and Squier were invited to call when they were met with a hearty reception in the form of a shower of articles for use in their business, each article being tied with ribbons of a lemon color.

After a social time refreshments were served consisting of lemon gelatine, lemon cake, lemon candies, lemonade, etc., each guest being presented with a lemon in which a stick of lemon candy had been placed. There was a programme of vocal and instrumental music, phonographic selections and games.

Those present were the Misses Nora Schenck, Sara Hopewell, Minnie Young, Ethel Young, Ursula Auten, Anne Kelly, Edna Ryan, Agatha Badum, Bertha Enwright, Minnie Barker, Elizabeth Wilcox, Grace Ulrick, Florence Carver, May Day, Agnes Bailey, Mamie McKain, Carrie VanArsdale, Bertie Wilcox, Mrs. L. F. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. John Schenck.

MARTINE IN DEMAND AS A SPEECH MAKER

TO ADDRESS CLUBS AT HOLLYWOOD, EAST ORANGE AND JERSEY CITY.

During the next few weeks, "Farmer-orator" James E. Martine will be kept busy making speeches, in response to invitations extended by Democratic clubs. One Tuesday night he will be one of the principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Delaware Club in Jersey City. It is planned to make the dinner one of State-wide interest, and post-prandial speakers will include, in addition to Mr. Martine, several other well known leaders in the State Democracy.

Mr. Martine will also speak at the monthly meeting of the Democratic Club, of East Orange, to be held at the clubhouse in the Hollywood building, on Grove street, Thursday night, March 14. He has also accepted an invitation to speak at a dinner to be given by the Young Men's Democratic Club, of New Brunswick, on Tuesday night, April 2, in celebration of Jefferson's birthday anniversary. The purpose is to enliven the Democracy in that town.

Last week Mr. Martine addressed the New Jersey Editor's Association at Trenton and also the Americus Club of Camden at their annual banquets.

JOHNSON STILL LIVING.

No Trace of the Shooter—Witness Committed to Jail.

Lee Johnson, colored, who was shot by Thaddeus Payne, colored, Tuesday night, was in the same doubtful condition this afternoon. It was said at the hospital that he was resting easily, but could not be pronounced out of danger.

The police said this afternoon that they had no trace of Payne yet. The search is still going on.

Elijah Harris, the colored man held as a witness, was committed to the county jail this morning, in default of $200 bail. He said he thought his father might be able to go his bond, but his parents hadn't approved of his being in places like the poolroom, where the shooting occurred, and he wouldn't ask for bail from them.

P. H. S. Debating Society.

The regular weekly debate of the Plainfield High School Debating Society was held yesterday, the question being an extempenerous one: "Resolved, That wireless telegraphy is superior to the wire." The question was ably discussed and carried, the affirmative being taken by William Talbirt Lambert, Isador Kunzman and Arthur Titsworth. The negative was upheld by George H. Fisher, Jr., Sello Kahn and Louis de Bigard.

Bernard Treacy Jailed.

Bernard Treacy, who is familiar with the appearance of the city court, was arraigned again this morning, on the old charge of drunkenness. He said he celebrated his thirty-fourth birthday yesterday. Judge Runyon gave him thirty days.

BILL TO INCREASE ASSESSORS' EARNINGS

AMENDMENT TO MEASURE AS ORIGINALLY DRAFTED DECIDED ON YESTERDAY

The Union County Board of Assessors yesterday afternoon at a meeting in Elizabeth listened to an explanation from Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of a bill to be introduced into the Legislature giving municipalities the power to increase the compensation of assessors for the present term. When he concluded, the board offered several amendments which were accepted. It will be introduced by the Union county assemblyman the early part of next week.

All the Plainfield assessors attended the meeting. H. C. Runyon was elected chairman, and J. J. Farrelly, of Elizabeth, was made secretary.

The bill, which is in the form of a supplement to an act entitled "an act for the assessment and collection of taxes," was amended so that when the increase is eventually granted it shall include the year 1906 and subsequent years of the term of the present assessors. The bill formerly read "for the year 1906," which would have deprived the assessors of any increase for the remaining years, many of the terms not expiring until 1908.

It was changed to read "including the year 1906." The increase is asked for on the grounds that the assessors have had much extra work this year and will have for some time to come because of the changes in valuations.

County Attorney W. R. Codington, who drew the bill, was thanked by vote. He was present. Assemblyman Perkins was also thanked.

A plea made by the collectors for a like increase was frowned upon by the board, who embodied a clause in the bill excluding them from sharing in the benefits to be derived. It is held that the raising of the valuation affected in no way the labors of the collectors.

At the suggestion of C. C. Pollard, chairman of the board, the assessors will hereafter use similar books, and adopt a general bookkeeping system. The Plainfield books were recommended as models.

DEMONSTRATION OF BACILLUS.

Dr. F. W. Cornwell Shows Dread Germs Under a Miscrocope.

The miscrocopical demonstration of the bacillus of tuberculosis was an added feature of the State tuberculosis exhibit last night. It was in charge of Dr. Frederick W. Cornwell and proved interesting to the large number of people attending. Yesterday's attendance brings the total for the week up to the present time about 1,600. It is expected that the attendance today, tomorrow, Sunday afternoon and night, when the exhibit will close, will far exceed that of the early part of the week.

Tonight, Dr. DuBois, of North Plainfield, will be in charge to assist Miss DeLany, the trained nurse, in explaining the exhibit and the methods of prevention of the dread disease. Other physicians will also assist the rest of the week. The exhibit will probably be taken to Orange from this city.

Funeral of Sam. J. Yates.

The funeral services of Sam. J. Yates were held from the residence of his mother, Mrs. J. W. Yates, on East Seventh street, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss, a former pastor, was in charge of the services. Both read appropriate passages of Scripture and Dr. Bliss made extended remarks on the life and character of Mr. Yates as he knew him. During the services William N. Runyon sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and two other favorite selections. The interment was in Hillside cemetery at the convenience of the family.

Exhibition of Rope Spinning.

There will be an exhibition of rope spinning and lassoing in front of the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow noon at 12 o'clock by Cheyenne Bill Weadick on "Silver Heels," the famous bandit horse once owned by Tracey, the outlaw, now the property of Joseph Santley, who uses him in his new play, "Billy the Kid." Cheyenne Bill was with Buffalo Bill six years ago and is now associated with Mr. Santley.

Charles S. Davenport.

Charles S. Davenport, of Mountain avenue, Westfield, who was known here where he had many friends, died at his home, this morning. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport and was twenty-two years of age.

—The season of the year makes no difference. The display of fresh vegetables—really fresh—and fancy fruits—fit for the table of an epicure—at Neuman Brothers' store is always the largest in town.

WILL CRIPPLE SCHOOLS

If Hendrickson Bill is Enacted Public Schools Will Lose $3,500,000.

JR., O. U. A. M. ACTIVE

Senator Ackerman and Assemblymen Moxon, Perkins and Tillman Asked to Vote Against It.

Members of the Jr. O. U. A. M., in Plainfield as well as those throughout the rest of the State are taking an active interest in the effort to defeat the passage of a bill in the Assembly, which, if enacted, would cripple the public school system in New Jersey. Their plan of campaign is to petition the legislators to take a firm stand against the measure, which was introduced by Assemblyman Hendrickson, of Hudson county. Juniors in Plainfield are writing to Senator Ackerman and Assemblymen Moxon, Perkins and Tillman requesting them to use every possible means to kill the bill when it comes up for a vote.

In a letter to the legislative committees of the subordinate councils, State Council Secretary William H. Miers says that "the purpose of this bill is to take from the public school funds of the State all money now received by the State from the taxation of the main stem of railroads and to use it for municipal purposes." Continuing, Mr. Miers declares, "If this bill should become a law, all of our work of last winter will be lost and our schools be deprived of more than $3,500,000, and it will compel the State to put upon every citizen an 'extra or special school tax,' and many country districts will be deprived of the money that they now get from the State to pay their teachers, and in many of these districts they will be compelled to close their schools."

Mr. Hendrickson's measure, known as Assembly bill No. 10, has been reported by the committee on municipal corporations favorably and will come up for vote in the House next week. Blank forms of letters to the legislators requesting them to vote against it are being widely circulated.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH HISTORY IN AMERICA

INTERESTING LECTURE BY REV. DR. COODER WELL ILLUSTRATED.

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Cooder, of Rahway, delivered an interesting lecture on the history of the Episcopal church in America at Grace Protestant Episcopal church parish house, last night. The talk was finely illustrated with stereopticon pictures.

Dr. Cooder traced the history of Episcopalian effort in this country, from its beginning at Jamestown in 1607, when the colonists under Capt. John Smith brought over their chaplain, Rev. Robert Hunter, through the period of its awakening from 1700 on, down to the present. He touched on the beginning of the church in New Jersey, by Keith, one of the first two missionaries sent out from London, in 1703.

Commenting on the generally accepted idea that Episcopalians were not patriots as a rule in the war for independence, Dr. Cooder brought out the fact that sixty per cent. of the members of the first continental congress were churchmen.

Following the lecture, contributions were received for the men's missionary thank-offering.

Senator by Referendum.

The Gebhardt resolution asking for a constitutional convention under article 5 of the federal constitution, to so change the latter as to have United States Senators elected by the people, has been passed by the Senate after the sponsor of the resolution had convinced his colleagues that this was the only method by which the desired reform might be affected.

Dr. Lowerie a Pall-Bearer.

Dr. H. H. Lowerie, of Park avenue, past high chief ranger, and Charles Howell, of Newark, high chief ranger, were the two honorary pall-bearers at the funeral services of Dr. Oronhyatekha held at Toronto, yesterday. He was the head of the Independent Order Foresters and was at one time chief of the Mohawk Indians.

Fire in Central Shops.

Fire, starting in the oil room of the Central Railroad shops at Elizabethport yesterday afternoon, caused damage to the amount of $500, and for some time endangered the lives of several of the employees.

Charles H. Frost has gone to Cuba on a pleasure trip.

F. MORTIMER SLATER FOUND DEAD IN BED

PASSED AWAY WHEN HIS BREAKFAST WAS AWAITING HIM.

Fred Mortimer Slater, Sr., was found dead in bed at his home in Jackson avenue, at 6:40 o'clock, this morning. Although he had been quite ill during the past three or four months and was unable to attend to business, his condition was not such as to give the family any immediate alarm. When he retired last night at the usual hour he did not complain and there was nothing to indicate a change for the worse in his condition. This morning his wife went to call him for breakfast and she found him dead.

During the twenty-three years that Mr. Slater lived in North Plainfield he was always identified with the best interests of that municipality. He was one of the early members of the Borough Council and gave valuable service.

Mr. Slater was born in Elizabeth fifty years ago. His father died when he was sixteen years old and for four years he worked in a grocery store, spending his evenings studying civil engineering. At the age of twenty years he joined a corps of surveyors and he advanced from a chainman to the position of chief engineer of the National Storage Company, of Communipaw. When he reached the age of thirty-eight years he went with the Long Island Railroad, supervising the building of the extension of the line from Great Neck to Port Washington. That work being completed he identified himself with the Kalbfleisch Chemical Company, which was about the time of the Spanish-American War. He superintended the construction of nine nitrate retorts for the manufacture of nitrate used in the war. Later he was employed by the Plainfield Water Supply Company for a year and last year he was interested in the building of the high speed trolley line built between Newark and New York. Since that time he was unable to do any work, owing to failing health.

Mr. Slater was a member of the First Baptist church and for many years was a regular attendant at the services. He was also a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine Slater, who is about seventy-five years old and in feeble health, a widow, one son, F. Mortimer Slater, and a daughter, Miss Clyde Slater. The funeral services will probably be held at the home Monday afternoon.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS ABSENT; NO CONFERENCE.

Matter of Wing Walls for West End Avenue Bridge Hangs Fire.

Business of little general importance was transacted at the March meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, yesterday. A new committee, comprising S. P. T. Wilbur, J. Hervey Doane, Adolph Gruener, John Robinson and C. A. Smith, was appointed to look after the new bridge on West End avenue, and see to the completion of the wing walls, to be built by the two counties.

This committee was to have met members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, at the office of Engineer Frank J. Hubbard, this morning, but the Somerset members failed to appear and Freeholder Wilbur, as chairman adjourned the meeting subject to his call.

The director also appointed a committee composed of Thomas Pierson, chairman; S. P. T. Wilbur, Thomas Donohue, Henry Krausse and John Robinson to confer with the Elizabeth and Staten Island Ferry Company looking to a more favorable rate of fare across that ferry. The present fare is five cents and the distance is so short that it is considered exorbitant.

Attention was also called to the fact that cables run across a bridge in Rahway and were out of position and need repairs. This matter will be looked after by the Rahway member of the board.

Sunday-school Officers Elected.

The annual teachers' meeting of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church was held last evening in the lecture room, when the following officers were re-elected: Superintendent, George H. Bachelor; secretary, P. Newton Drake; treasurer, Samuel P. Case; librarian, Benjamin J. Shreve. The secretary and treasurer made their reports, and a number of committees connected with the school also made reports.

Euchre Club Gave a Dance.

The East End Euchre Club gave a complimentary dance in the Camera Club rooms, last night, the affair being attended by twenty-five couples. There were guests from Somerville, Elizabeth, Westfield and this city. Supper was served at midnight and the dancing was continued until an early hour this morning.

SPEAKERS SELECTED FOR YALE CLUB DINNER

MAYOR FISK WILL RESPOND TO TOAST "PLAINFIELD."

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the Yale Club dinner to be held at the Casino, Friday, March 15, has completed the list of speakers for the occasion and from present indications it will be the largest and most successful affair of the kind ever held by the club.

President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, will be the guest of honor and the principal speaker. The other speakers and their subjects will be as follows: Joseph M. Shellabarger, "Princeton;" Leighton Calkins, "Harvard;" Albert R. Atterbury, "Plainfield Yale Club," and Mayor Charles J. Fisk, "Plainfield." William N. Runyon will act as toastmaster.

Gordon Abbott, a member of the Yale Glee Club, with three other members of that club, will sing college songs, and will lead the members of the Plainfield club in singing.

It is earnestly requested that all those who have not as yet signified their intention of being present will do so as early as possible in order to facilitate the arrangements, and if any Yale men, residing in Plainfield or vicinity, have not received an invitation, the same will be sent to them by communicating with L. A. Williams, Jr., 48 Albert street, Plainfield.

The officers of the Plainfield Yale Club, in addition to H. B. Lovell, W. B. Tyler and Carroll T. Runyon, who compose the executive committee, are: President, Thomas M. Day; vice president, E. A. Stevenson; secretary and treasurer, L. A. Williams, Jr.

WATER COMMISSION TO RECEIVE OPINION

CORPORATION COUNSEL TO ADVISE BODY AS TO RIGHTS.

The water investigation commission, appointed by Mayor C. J. Fisk, to inquire into the question of the advisability of the city acquiring its own water supply, will meet tonight in the Mayor's office to report on the progress made since the last session At the previous meeting the question of rights and privileges in preventing the Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company from selling water outside the city was touched upon, and it was decided to refer the matter to Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh for an opinion.

It is likely that the committee will have some report ready tonight on this question. It is known that several members of the commission, if not all, are opposed to the practice of the water company sending water from this city to other places, but there is no certainty that the city can prevent it, as the company claims to be operating under an old charter, with subsequent rights acquired.

Another important question raised at the last meeting was that if the city should purchase the Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company's plant, there would be nothing to prevent it from establishing other wells in the same vicinity and continuing to do business here as at present. This would be possible because the company owns considerable land adjoining the pumping station, which it would probably not sell at any price. There are many fine points to be decided before the commission can make a final report, but the members are handling the subject in a manner that promises to give the taxpayers a clear insight into the water condition fn Plainfield.

Glee Club Coming.

The Brooklyn Daily Standard Union, in the publication of an article in connection with a programme given by the Rutgers Glee Club in that city, sums up the strenght of this organization as entertainers briefly in saying, "A record breaking attendance crowded the Marcy Avenue Baptist church to listen to the Rutgers College Glee Club, which kept the crowd in good spirits. The club was in good voice and gave one or two encores to every number." They will entertain in this city this evening in a programme of college songs, medleys, impersonations, comic imitations and humorous quartettes, and all that goes to make up a programme of musical fun.

Do You Know a Knauss?

William C. Ludwigh, of Hamilton, Ohio, has written to the police, asking if they can give him any information as to the whereabouts of August, or William, Knauss, who left Hamilton several years ago to go to this city. Ludwigh says he has important news for Knauss. The police said this morning that they could not locate Knauss. So far as they have been able to discover, he didn't come here.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS SAVES DROWNING MAN

Union Legislature Rescues Man Who Jumped Overboard From Ferry Boat on North River.

GOT GOOD DRENCHING

Deluded New Yorker Struggling In Water When Perkins Lowers Ladder and Pulls Him Up to the Boat.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, a man with a little body but a big brain, played the role of a life saver this morning and was wildly cheered by onlookers. The lawmaker pulled a drowning man out of the North river and in doing so got a good drenching, but he stands a show of getting a Carnegie medal for his heroic work.

When the ferryboat "Newark" of the Pennsylvania Railroad's fleet, left the Cortlandt street ferry landing at 8:30 this morning, Mr. Perkins was aboard with a big pile of lawbooks tucked in his pockets, and so was a man named Eugene Joly, who lives at No. 202 East Thirteenth street, New York. Perkins was absorbed in thoughts on legislation and his attention was not attracted by the peculiar actions of his fellow-passenger, Mr. Joly. The others aboard, however, noticed the strange movements of the latter. When the boat was in midstream. Joly suddenly pulled off his hat and coat and made a leap into the briney deep.

"Man overboard," shouted a deckhand and the self-possessed passengers joined in the cry while several women fainted. Losing no time the watchful pilot signalled the engineer to reverse the engine. The boat was quickly gotten alongside of where Joly went down, and there's where Perkins got the chance to become a hero. Grasping the opportunity, while his fellow-passengers looked on speechless, the assemblyman and a deckhand lowered a ladder. Off went Perkins' coat and hat and in a minute he was holding on to the bottom rung of the ladder with one hand and twisting a rope beneath the drowning man's neck with the other. Then taking a firm grip about the would-be suicide's body he climbed up the ladder while deafening cheers filled the air.

When the boat was tied up at Jersey City, Perkins made a dash for the comany's offices where he lost no time telephoning to his home for a dry suit of clothes. In the meantime, Joly was being questioned by the captain of the Newark. He said that a man had threatened to kill him and that he had become so worried that he decided to end all by drowning himself. It was said that the man is slightly demented.

MR. JOY'S LECTURE.

Illustrated Talk on Yellowstone National Park.

James R. Joy gave his illustrated lecture on "The Yellowstone National Park," under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night. Nearly 200 members and their friends were present. Mr. Joy has given this lecture on several occasions, but it was nevertheless as enjoyable as ever and gave those present an excellent idea of the wonders and beauties of the National Park.

The views shown by Mr. Joy are among the finest taken in the Yellowstone and the descriptive talk by Mr. Joy was entertaining and full of amusing incidents. During the evening a silver offering was received for the benefit of the society.

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary.

Miss Ethel Hall, of Prescott place, entertained fourteen of her young friends at her home Wednesday afternoon in honor of the tenth anniversary of her birthday. Games were played and supper served. In the evening the older people gathered and enjoyed a Victor talking-machine concert, operated by Elston M. Leonard and Henry C. Brose.

To Hear From Cooper

L. T. COOPER.

¶ We wish to call the attention of the public to a to a series of "short talks" by L. T. Cooper that are to be published in this paper.

¶ The Cooper medicines have made a remarkable record in the leading cities of the United States during the past two years and young Mr. Cooper has been the subject of much newspaper comment.

¶ Mr. Cooper has met and talked with thousands of sick people in his visits to almost every large city in the country.

¶ He is noted as a man of very few words and tells briefly in these articles what his preparations are doing for sick people and why they have been successful wherever introduced.

¶ Mr. Cooper's theory is that one half of all human ills is caused by stomach trouble, and the wonderful success of his preparations in the treatment of stomach disorders, kidney and liver complaints, rheumatism, etc., seems to have proven this claim.

¶ Some time ago we secured the agency for these celebrated medicines. We have been gratified by the extreme satisfaction of those who have purchased them from us and advise every one to read these "short talks" as they are full of terse, common sense.

WESTFIELD.

At the coming town school meeting the Westfield Board of Education will ask the voters for an appropriation of $23,500. In addition to this sum the voters will be asked for authority to increase the school accommodations, as at present the school buildings are crowded. The enrollment of pupils is over 1,200, a greater number than ever before in the town.

The house of Mrs. Charlotte N. Smith, on Clark street, about a mile from Westfield, was destroyed by fire Tuesday. Mrs. Smith, who is nearly eighty years old, had to be carried from the building by neighbors. Mrs. Smith does not know how the fire started. The house and contents were a total loss, amounting to about $2,500.

Word was received at Westfield Wednesday of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Coit at Berkeley, Cal. Mrs. Coit was a sister of Mrs. J. Laurence Clark, and was at one time an instructor in the Westfield High School.

Garwood residents have petitioned the Council for more police protection. The two men of the force, they claim, cannot properly preserve order in the borough, especially on Saturday nights.

A municipal ownership league is to be formed in Westfield for the purpose of investigating the feasibility of town ownership of a light and water plant.

THE TRUNK SEWER BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE.

Provides for Construction of $9,000,000 Tunnel to Relieve Passaic River of Pollution.

Among the measures enacted by the State Senate at Trenton Wednesday was the Passaic river anti-pollution and trunk sewer bill, which provides that sewering into the Passaic river must cease after 1912, and establishes one of the greatest sewer systems in this country, the construction of which, it is estimated, will cost about $9,000,000.

The bill was prepared after an agreement by the cities of Newark and Paterson, and when it came up in the Senate yesterday, it was passed without a dissenting vote. Inasmuch as it has already been sanctioned by the House, it only requires the s ignature of Governor Stokes to become a law. It will affect 21 municipalities in the Passaic valley, and from the standpoint of that locality the measure is the most important piece of legislation that has, or will come, up at the present session. Senator Colby fathered the measure in the Senate, while Assemblyman Baeder piloted it through the House.

Another measure passed by the Senate yesterday was Mr. Colby's bill providing for a universal rate for electrical energy, which, the introducer said was not opposed by the corporations furnishing light and power. Mr. Colby's bill giving the circuit court power to correct errors in petitions, and to direct a recount of votes in primary elections, was also passed.

This was followed by the passage of Senate 131, amending the primary election law so as to clearly designate the names to be erased from a ballot where delegates are voted for.

Senate 117, a bill which Senator Hillery introduced, was defeated, on the ground that it would be unwise to grant to a foreign guardian of a State ward privileges and immunity not afforded to citizens of this State under like circumstances.

Senator Frelinghuysen's bill, appropriating $15,000 for a military display at the unveiling of the monument to General George B. McClellan in Washingtong, on May 21, was passed with an amendment, including a representative of the Grand Army of the Republic of this State as well as the appropriation to $20,000.

Just before adjourning until next Monday night, it was announced that the Senate would tend a dinner to President Minch, at Atlantic City, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott Decker, of West End avenue, have leased Daniel Dugan's house on West Fourth street, and will move there April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Edgar, formerly of Fairview avenue, who have been in the South during the past two years on account of Mr. Edgar's health, will return to Plainfield about April 17.

To Pension Public Employees.

Trenton, March 8.—Senator Colby introduced a bill Wednesday providing for retiring on half pay employees in the Civil Service who have reached the age of sixty years and who have held their places for twenty years.

—Mr. and Mrs. William McIntosh, of College place, contemplate moving to North Plainfield about April 1.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The fourth quarterly conference of the First M. E. church was held in Vincent chapel Wednesday night, the business being of a routine nature.

The Junior Society of the Congregational church met yesterday and enjoyed a special programme under the direction of the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

Arrangements have practically been completed whereby the present members of the First Baptist church choir will continue another year and no changes are anticipated.

The members who are interested in the formation of a baseball team are urged to attend a meeting of the Boys' Athletic Club, of the First Baptist church, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Plans for the season will be discussed.

The choir of Grace church has begun rehearsals of "The Crucifixion," which will be given at the church Monday night in Holy Week. W. E. MacClymont, organist, is preparing an elaborate programme for the Easter service.

The special Lenten musical service will be held at the First Baptist church, under the auspices of the choir on Thursday night, March 28, when "The Seven Last Words" will be sung. The choir will probably be assisted by stringed instruments.

Mrs. E. M. Shotwell, who has been treasurer for the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church many years, has been obliged to relinquish her duties owing to feeble health. Her place has been taken by Mrs. Freeman Shotwell.

Under the auspices and for the benefit of the Boys' Mission Band, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Dillon Wallace, author of "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," will give an illustrated lecture on "What I Saw in the Labrador, and Dr. Grenfell's Work," in the chapel of the church Monday night.

Miss Ethel Chamberlain, of Somerville, has been spending a few days in town with friends.

Miss Agnes Smith, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit of a few days in this city.

Mrs. James Fields, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a visit with friends at Somerville.

Mrs. T. B. Titsworth, of the Babcock building, has returned from a visit with relatives in Washington.

Mrs. William Conover and son, of Somerville, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Dilts, of this city.

Mrs. A. B. Davis and daughter, of this city, have returned home after a visit with relatives at Pottersville, Hunterdon county.

Miss Florence Smalley, of East Front street, has recovered from her illness and resumed her studies at the Plainfield High School.

Mrs. Maze Edwards, of West Seventh street, leaves today for Detroit, where she will visit for a short time prior to taking an extended trip further west. She will be away a month or six weeks.

Judge William Newcorn presided in the district court, Elizabeth, in place of Judge C. Addison Swift, who is still ill. It will probably be several weeks before Judge Swift will be able to assume his duties on the bench, and Judge Newcorn will fill his position until his return.

Fortune for Convict.

Boston, Mass., March 8.—The announcement that half of a bequest of $80,000 left by Mrs. Ellen N. Devin, who died in Brooklyn on Feb. 23, belongs to Thomas Wandlass, alias Charles Howard, who is now serving out a sentence of seven years in the Charleston State prison for burglary, has revealed the romantic story that the young man is the black sheep in a prominent New York family. Howard refuses to reveal his real identification even to his counsel, Edward P. Barry, although he has told the lawyer some of the details of his life. His father is said to have been the owner and manager of a well known New York hotel, and his wealthy mother is said to be now the wife of a Wall street banker or broker. The mother, it is said, now has a summer place at Great Neck, Long Island. Howard's sister, who shares equally with him the bequest from his grandaunt, Ms. Devin, is said to be conspicuous in New York society.

Would Repeal "Electrocution Act."

Trenton, March 8—Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, introduced yesterday afternoon a repealer of the act of last year, and which went into force on March 1, providing for the killing of murderers by electricity. Senator Wakelee, who was the author of the "electrocution act," yesterday introduced a bill for erecting the death douse at Trenton. It is said Hutchinson, who lives in Trenton, put in the repealer to prevent the location of the death house in this city.

—Nicholas Pinchelli, an Italian employed at the Pond Tool Works, had a fall at the works yesterday morning and fractured his collarbone. He was taken to the hospital, where the bone was set.

DREW SEMINARY WILL ENDOW $100,000 CHAIR.

It Will Be Known As the Henry A. Buttz Professorship—Alumni to Raise Money.

Madison, March 8.—Drew Theological Seminary Alumni Association has determined to endow a chair in honor of the president of the seminary, to be known as the Henry A. Buttz Professorship. The endowment fund will be $100,000 and a commission of the alumni has been appointed to raise it.

The members of the commisssion are: Rev. Dr. John R. Wright, of Westfield; Rev. Dr. Ezra Tipple, one of the faculty of Drew Seminary; Rev. Dr. Charles E. Hamilton, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, of Albany, N. Y.; Rev. Dr. Frank P. Parker, of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. H. L. Jacobs, of Altoona, Pa.

The general plan for raising the endowment fund is to secure a subscription from each of the churches, the pastors of which are graduates of Drew. About 1,000 men have been graduaated from the seminary and it is calculated that about 700 of this number are pastors of churches in this country. The other 300 are accounted for through deaths, connection with other denominations and those who have gone into business or the professions, but it will take only a small sum from each charge, about $150, to make up the amount.

The character of the professorship has not been determined.

SEVENTEEN CITIES ASK ABOUT ANTI-SMOKE LAW.

Municipalities' Mayors Send to Atlantic City for Copies of the Ordinance.

Atlantic City, March 8.—Mayors of seventeen cities have written for copies of Atlantic City's anti-smoke law, which the Supreme Court declared constitutional last week, after half of the municipalities in the upper section of the State had tried in vain to find a way to regulate the nuisance.

Atlantic City's measure penalizes proprietors whose plants emit smoke of such density that it deposits soot and affects the comfort or injures the property of abutting owners.

REV. MR. FERRIS HAS CALL TO BINGHAMTON.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 8.—It was announced yesterday that Rev. Lincoln A. Ferris, of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, Newark, has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Tabernacle church of this city, succeeding Rev. A. W. Hayes, who is to be transferred to the First Methodist church of Westfield, N. J. The Tabernacle is the largest Methodist church in this section of the State.

Bishop Wilson, who will preside at the session of the Wyoming conference, to be held here early in April, will be asked to make the appointment.

HE HAS LIVED A LIFE OF VARIED ADVENTURE

COL. JOHN DIETRICH WAS A FORTY-NINER AND A SOLDIER.

There lives at the Margaret Home for Friends on Arlington avenue a man who has lived a life of adventure, and is one of those attractive personalities known in history as "fighting Quakers." He is Col. John Dietrich, whose wife left the home to the New York Society of Friends at her death.

Col. Dietrich was born in Belvidere, Warren county, in 1821, and is consequently 86 years old. His mother wanted him to go to college, but he desired to learn a trade, and with her consent, he went to Bloomington, Ill., in 1839, with his brother Martin, to learn the tinker's trade in a little shop conducted by another brother, George. He learned the trade well and a few years later entered into the hardware business with a nephew in Bloomington.

In 1849 he went to New York to buy a bill of goods, and was caught by the California fever that was raging there at the time. He took passage to the Isthmus of Panama with a friend and made his way from there to San Francisco with an adventurous steamer load of forty-niners. He stayed in the gold fields seven months, but went to other parts of California after that time. He returned to Bloomington after two years and nine months with $10,000 in gold. He went back into the hardware trade and prosecuted it so diligently that his business was in a big brick building, four stories high, quite a contrast from the small shop where he had learned his trade.

While in Bloomington, Mr. Dietrich had made the close acquaintance of Abraham Lincoln, then practicing law, and of Gen. Grant, whose father had sold him a good bit of the leather he used in his business. He often visited Lincoln at his home in Springfield and learned to love and admire him as did all those who came into close contact with the great statesman. He heard Lincoln's first public address, at the Second Presbyterian church, Springfield, in 1842.

When Col. Dietrich left Bloomington in 1862 he went into the treasury department at Washington, where he remained until 1863. Then the feeling that his place was at the front impelled him to seek the fighting line. He proceeded straight to the army before Vicksburg, and was given a high place in the quartermaster's department. When Vicksburg fell, and the first Meridian raid was organized, Grant made Mr. Dietrich colonel of the First Mississippi regiment, on guard at the captured city. That was the way in which he achieved his title.

After the war Colonel Dietrich rendered valuable service in the work of reconstruction. He served as surveyor of customs of the Galveston District, Texas, and after that as postmaster of Calvert county. He took the latter office simply to straighten it out and suppress the disorder that was demoralizing the service. He did it most effectively, and so energetically, that he was the recipient of a Ku-Klux warning. He paid no attention to it, and demonstrated that he was not to be intimidated. On more than one occasion his knife and his revolver and the knowledge that he knew how to use both were the only things that kept him from harm.

In 1876, things quieting down sufficiently to allow of the move, Col. Dietrich retired, and came to Plainfield. He married his second wife, who was Miss Margaret B. Laing, here. His life since 1876 has been quiet. He lives contentedly, active enough for a man of his age, among an interesting collection of relics. Among the latter are pictures of Presidents Lincoln and Grant, presented to him by the originals, at the White House.

$25,000,000 FOR ROADS.

Joint Resolution to Bond State for that Amount is Reported by Lower Legislature.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 8.—A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the State Constitution so as to authorize a $25,000,000 bond issue for good roads, was reported favorably in the House yesterday.

This resolution was defeated in the House Constitutional Reform Committee, but the committee reconsidered its action and decided to report it out.

What Yale Men Spend.

New Haven, Conn., March 8.—Basing his deductions on statements of 500 Yale students, Professor William B. Bailey finds that $292.30 is the average annual expenditure by the student who is in whole or in part earning his way through college. In the group of men who spend less than $500 in a college year the average for clothing is only $31.40, or a little more than six per cent. of what the man who spends $2,000 or more expends. The self-supporting students spend about one-tenth as much for physician's care and medicine as do the wealthy men. Upon pleasure pursuits eighteen times as much and upon tobacco and intoxicants eighty-two times as much money is spent by the wealthy students as by the self-supporter.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Central Building and Loan Association of Plainfield, New Jersey, on the evening of March fourth inst., the following resolution was directed to be prepared:

"Whereas God in all his wise providence, has seen fit to take from our midst our esteemed fellow director and associate, William H. Pangborn, in sorrow and with reverence, this Board would enter this minute and note of appreciation of his services and the loss we have suffered.

"His connection with this Board extended from almost the beginning of its organization, has been marked by wise guidance and a thorough and deep interest in the success of the Association.

"Taken from us in the prime of life, we mourn his loss, and would extend to his family and friends our deepest sympathy in this hour of their bereavement."

It was ordered that the foregoing minute be entered on the minute book of the Association and a copy be sent to his family and also published in each of the local papers.

Governor to Visit Paterson.

Paterson, March 8—It was learned yesterday that Governor Stokes will come to this city from Trenton on Friday evening, March 15, to attend a meeting of the joint Waterway Commission to consider the water question in Paterson. While here the Governor will be the guest of Vivian M. Lewis, clerk in chancery.

Thirty Days for Swearing on Car.

Deciding to meet out severe punishment for an employe's indiscretion in swearing on a trolley car of the Public Service Corporation in East Orange yesterday morning, Recorder Franklin W. Fort, in the Police Court of that city, sent John Lynch, of Orange, to jail for thirty days after it was shown the man, while perfectly sober, had used blasphemous language on a trolley car.

"JOKE" ON A NEWSPAPER.

Man Who Wired for a Reporter Wanted to Know About Thaw Trial.

Pittsburg, March 8.—The curiosity of R. S. Mills, a manufacturer of St. Louis, to learn how the Thaw trial was progressing created great excitement in a Pittsburg newspaper office early yesterday morning.

Shortly after midnight a telegram was received from Mills stating that he would be aboard the Pullman car Manhattan attached to the Pennsylvania Railroad train which would arrive at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and asked that a reporter meet him, saying that the meeting was important. A reporter was assigned to meet the train and the paper held back its last edition in expectation of a big story.

When the reporter finally dug Mills out of his bunk the man explained that he merely wanted to know whether Stanford White's son had been placed on the witness-stand.

Perkins Makes Restitution.

New York, March 8.—Because the Court of Appeals was divided in its opinion last week, when by a vote of 4 to 3 he was acquitted of a charge of grand larceny, George W. Perkins, formerly vice president of the New York Life Insurance Company, has sent to the insurance company a check for $54,019.19, representing as principal and interest the amount contributed by him in 1904 on behalf of the company to the Republican National Committee and for which he was subsequently reimbursed. By this action Mr. Perkins personally assumes the burden of the gift rather than rest under the implications made in the opinions of the dissenting members of the court.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will hold its regular session at the Court House, Somerville, on Tuesday.

SHOULDER BRACES

For Men, Women, Boys and Girls.

Stooping Shoulders is one of the growing tendencies of the age. It's a great pity, especially to see children getting into the stooping shoulder habit, for, like other habits, it may become fixed and lasting, if not corrected in time.

Now is the time to brace up, and the best bracer is a pair of our Shoulder Braces, which we are selling for 75c and $1.00.

HAS THIRD WIFE, 'TIS SAID.

Police Are of Belief that Perhaps More Spouses Exist.

Harry Horton, who was arrested at Princeton for bigamy, is said to have confessed to having another wife in Lambertville, N. J. The police think he has more than three wives, but will not give out any additional information.

Horton has been taken from the jail at Princeton to the county jail at Trenton, as it was feared relatives of Miss Green, his latest wife, might resort to violence to avenge their wrong. His case will be tried soon, and in the meantime the police are looking for more wives, as the towns he married in are less than twenty miles apart.

To Exhibit in Paris.

Trenton, March 8.—The New Jersey Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries has received an invitation from the International Book and Paper Exposition to make an exhibit at the exposition which is to be held in Paris from June until November this year. The bureau has accepted the invitation and is preparing the display, which will consist largely of books, documents and pictures.

Scholars Kill Their Teacher.

Goetbo, Okla., March 8.—Because he tried to whip a boy pupil, Perry Evans, teacher of a country school, was assaulted yesterday by several scholars and so severely injured that he died a few hours later. The young men who committed the assault are under arrest.

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-Wear.

Spring Garments

Which More Than Justify the Prices.

The Marshall & Ball window display is but a reflection of the Spring newness which pervades the entire store. It's pleasantly suggestive that Easter is rapidly approaching.

In Spring Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats there is at once apparent that excellence and individuality which have been dominent factors in placing Marshall & Ball among the foremost manufacturing clothiers, and their product among the highest type of ready-to-wear.

Our assortment of fabrics and styles is so wide that men and young men of whatever taste in dress may be satisfied.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Joseph Santley is probably the youngest actor-author on the stage in America as well as the highest priced actor of his years. The young man has just passed his eighteenth birthday, yet he is generally regarded as being one of the best equipped of the younger generation of players. In his younger years young Santley made for himself a host of friends by his realistic portrayals of the stellar roles in various plays, most of which were written especially for him. This season he appears not only as the star, but part author as well of a new play, "Billy the Kid," which, as the title implies, deals with the free life of the western country. It is reported to be a strong story, logically told, and to offer to the star many opportunities. The production is reported as being very elaborate and the supporting company an exceptionally strong one. Young Santley is to present "Billy the Kid" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

The comedy, "A Message from Mars," which was seen here last season and so well liked by local theatregoers, will again be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. Plainfield theatregoers remember with great pleasure the multiplied beauties of the play. They have most vivid recollection of the way the play hurls wit and sarcasm and erudition and thought fostering sentences at them like a rapid-fire gun. They remember also that it is replete with fluent, fascinating dialogue. It teaches a lesson in a sapient way and it entertains just as the people of the present day want to be entertained. In other words, "A Message from Mars," "delivers the goods." That was the concensus of the opinion when seen here two years ago.

A grand revival of "What Happened to Jones," with the same attention to detail which characterized the original comedy, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. The comedy is undoubtedly the most entertaining play ever written; there is not a moment that is not crowded with funny incidents from the very rise of the curtain to its fall. It has packed the houses of London for over 1,200 nights and almost equalled this tremendous run in New York. It is a play that never grows old; it simply carries the audience in a whirlwind before it. Never has the cast been so strong. Mr. Milton, who plays "Jones," is credited everywhere the best comedian who has ever assayed the role. The press has acclaimed him America's coming actor.

"In Old Kentucky," which will be seen again in this city at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, has had a wonderfully successful career. It is now in the fourteenth year of its existence in the United States and is also being played in England, Germany, Australia and South America. Jacob Litt produced the piece originally in St. Paul in 1892 and from that time to the present day it has held the stage season in and season out, and its potency seems to be as great with playgoers today as in the first years of its career. Charles T. Dazey is the author of "In Old Kentucky" and is still drawing big royalties for the play. It is always presented by a fine company and with adequate scenic equipment. The pickaninnies are a strong feature of the presentation and their part of the entertainment is always a distinct novelty.

Senate 141, the Frelinghuysen bill appropriating $15,000 for a military display at the unveiling of the monument to General George B. McClellan in Washington on May 2, has been passed by the Legislature with an amendment including a representation of the Grand Army of the Republic of this State as well as of the National and increasing the appropriation to $20,000.

It is estimated that the appropriation will take down to Washington a regiment of infantry, a troop of cavalry and a battery of artillery, under the command of a brigadier general.

PLAINFIELD WINS MEET FROM ELIZABETH

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES TAKE THE DUAL COMPETITION IN DANDY FASHION.

Gathering speed as the big State meet approaches, the Y. M. C. A. athletic team is rounding into shape as a steady and consistent winner. The combination won another dual meet handily last night, defeating the Elizabeth association by twenty-seven to eighteen points.

It was a pretty competition all the way through. All the Plainfielders did better than in the recent meet with Passaic, and all but one of the marks made in that competition—the shot put—were passed. All the events went off in lively fashion, but where Plainfield couldn't get a first the team landed second or third and kept piling up the points. When the potato race, the last event, was called, Plainfield had one point to gain to clinch the meet; Templin got a first and scored five.

The events:

Standing broad jump—Lawrence, 9 feet 10¼; Morton, 9 feet 7 inches; Burgess, 9 feet, 3¾.

Three standing broad jumps—Morton, Elizabeth, 28 feet 9½ inches; Lawrence, Plainfield, 28 feet 2¾ inches; Burgess, Plainfield, 26 feet 9¾ inches.

Shot put—Lawrence, Plainfield, 37 feet 7½ inches; Krug, Elizabeth, 36 feet 3 inches; Collier, Plainfield, 34 feet 4 inches.

Running high jump—Burgess, Plainfield, 5 feet 2 inches; Morton, Elizabeth, 5 feet 1 inch; Lueder, Plainfield, 5 feet.

Potato race—Templin, Plainfield, 1:45½; Krug, Elizabeth, 1:46; Noe, Elizabeth, 1:50½.

Officials—G. L. Bliven, Elizabeth, director of games; G. L. Listman, Plainfield, referee; Rumsey and Morse, judges.

High School Competition.

Morris won the three standing broad jump event in the High School all-around athletic competition at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, going 24 feet 9 inches; Karner was second, with 22 feet 7 inches. Morris leads the contestants with 265 points.

Girls' Basketball Game.

The girls' basketball five of the Plainfield High School will meet the team from the Westfield High School tomorrow on the Plainfield High School court.

Miss Mary Smith, of Raritan, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Weaner, of this city.

Mrs. Michael Moynihan, of Bound Brook, has returned home after a few days' visit with borough relatives.

Miss Lizzie Mulligan, of East Fifth street, has been called to her home in Annandale by the death of her mother.

Mrs. Fred Hyler, of West Front street, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, of North Branch.

John Haver, of North Branch, is at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment for a broken leg, the result of a fall on the ice.

Mrs. Frederick Harrington, of Rockview terrace, has gone to Dayton, Ohio, to visit at the home of her father, Captain Stiver.

Mrs. William H. Addis, of East Second street, gave a chafing dish supper to a number of friends last night in honor of her husband's birthday anniversary.

Mrs. M. Cathcart and daughter, Miss Cathcart, of 749 Belvidere avenue, will sail tomorrow for London on the steamship Minneapolis. They will be abroad about a year.

TO PARSON, NOT THEATRE.

Country Editor and Bride Kept Their Marriage Secret.

A marriage which was performed in Manhattan last October 2 became known yesterday at Whitehouse, when Frederick Review, of that place, acknowledged that that day he married Miss Elizabeth M. Reed, a teacher in the Peapack public school.

The couple went to the city ostensibly to join a theatre party, but when they arrived at New York they went to the house of Rev. William Johnson, at No. 174 West Ninety-sixth street and were married.

Before Miss Reed went to Peapack to teach she was principal of the public school at Whitehouse.

Archie Roosevelt Improving.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt were given great concern yesterday by a sudden change for the worse in the condition of their son, Archie, who has been ill of diphtheria since Saturday. Dr. Alexander Lambert, of New York, who for years has been the Roosevelt family physician, was hastily summoned from New York, and Surgeon General Rixey, of the navy, who has been attending the youth, last night turned the case over to him. Much encouragement was felt at twenty minutes after ten o'clock, when this bulletin was given out by Surgeon General Rixey as he left the White House for the night: "Archie Roosevelt has materially improved since noon, when considerable anxiety was felt on account of weak heart action. At twenty minutes past ten o'clock the case is favorable, with a normal temperature and heart acting well."

Somerset Stables' Sales.

It is hardly thought that the public realizes the large amount of high class horses that are being sold at the Somerset Stables. On Monday a Hackensack firm paid $1,250 for four heavy draught horses. On Tuesday a New York firm paid $1,000 for three. On Wednesday another New York man took one for $400. Councilman Ginna purchased what is said to be the finest team of draught horses in Union county. A fine pair was also sold this week to a Scotch Plains firm. There's a fine lot on exhibition now.

—Ephraim Carman and Mrs. Lucy Coles, both colored, of this city, were married yesterday by Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. William Hurling, Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Cuffy were the witnesses.

MOODY'S CAMPAIGN TALK

Union County Democratic Leader Gives Version of Talk With Smith

TELLS OF CORRUPTION

Alleges Smith Indirectly Admitted Getting Political Funds from Corporations and Railroads.

John Moody, of Cranford, addressed a large audience in he patrish hall of St. Stephen's church, Newark, Thursday night, on the topic "Sources of Political Corruption." He made caustic comment upon the influences exercised in political affairs by the "men higher up," and did not hesitate to strike hard at what he declared to be crying evils of the time. Incidentally, he told of a visit he once made to former Senator James Smith, Jr., and the latter's observation about grafting at Trenton.

"A few years ago I was the chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee," said Mr. Moody. "I thought then there was far less corruption in politics than people believe. My ideas have changed. I know now the big men are more corrupt than the little ones. We had a campaign in our county, and an opportunity to elect three Democratic members of the Legislature, but the county is normally Republican, and we were poor. I went to the State committeeman from our county and asked for assistance. He said he would try to get help from former United States Senator James Smith. He did try, but did not succeed, but returned and said the Senator wished to see me.

"I found him in New York at the headquarters of the Shipbuilding Trust. He greeted me like a long-lost friend and exclaimed: 'Dear Mr. Moody, how are things in your county?' I told him I was there to get some sinews of war. He replied:

"'That's the same old story I've been getting from every county in this State. For fifteen years I've been spending $15,000 a year out of my own pocket because I love the Democratic party, and today I'm practically poor.'

"I said to Mr. Smith, 'Senator, I'm not asking you to give me money. I only want your advice and influence.' He said if he didn't give the money the party would never have any. Then he went on to say that the trouble with the Democratic party had been the sending of too many grafters to Trenton, and asked me: 'How can you expect me to get any campaign funds from corporations or railroads, if our party sends men down there to graft on the railroads?'"

In other words, added Mr. Moody, as long as the big grafters could not get anything in the shape of suitable legislation, the little grafters couldn't get their share.

Mr. Moody, who spoke under the auspices of the Young Men's Club of St. Stephen's church, began his remarks by describing a conversation he had with a wealthy man and woman at Lakewood shortly after the election of 1904. The man deplored the placing of the country's government in the hands of what he termed was a "vulgar class of people'" of no social standing. The woman remarked that in her State, Massachusetts, the Governor's picture looked surprisingly like that of the picture in advertisements of a man who makes shoes and she believed they were related.

Mr. Moody said he ascertained that both the man and the woman derived their incomes from stocks and added:

Chief Source of Corruption.

"These people represent a class in this country who are identified closely with the chief source of political corruption. In my opinion the people who are politically corrupting this nation are the philanthropists, who endow libraries, from education boards, build universities and churches and who are looked upon as leaders of finance, captains of industry, with their vast crowd of hangers-on and imitators. They are the sort of men who never go into politics and who regard it as too vulgar and corrupt to be identified with, unless to be to join some reform movement which dies out before it accomplishes the purpose for which it was formed. They are the sort of men who constantly condemn their neighbors who go into politics.

"During the past seventy years the United States has grown tremendously in population, material wealth and in all other ways. A visitor to this country in 1830 said the most remarkable thing he observed was the equality of conditions between man and man. The change since that time has been tremendous. The national wealth has increased from four billions to 120 billions of dollars. The comfort of the average citizen should have increased in proportion, but as a fact, he is not near-

WESTFIELD, CRANFORD, PLAINFIELD, NORTH PLAINFIELD AND LEAL'S ENTER.

Representatives of five schools met at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, and arranged for an interscholastic athletic meet, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on April 9. The schools to take part are Plainfield High, North Plainfield High, Leal's, Cranford High and Westfield High.

The events will be standing broad jump, running high jump, standing high jump, three standing broad jumps, 15-yard dash, shot put, and potato race. The school winning the meet will get a silver cup. There will be first, second and third prizes for individuals, and first and second medals on total points records.

The meet will be the largest interscholastic affair held here in a long time. The meet of last year was confined to Plainfield, Cranford and Westfield high schools. Plainfield won it.

BENEVOLENT BAND PLANS FOR MUSICALE AND TEA.

Affair to Be Given at Home of Mrs. C. A. Marsh on Thursday Afternoon.

The Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters will give a musicale at the residence of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, on West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon, March 14, at 4 o'clock. Tea will be served at 5 o'clock. Those in charge of the affair have secured such artists as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McIntyre, Mrs. Viola W. Waterhouse, who appeared at Mr. McIntyre's last chamber concert, and Mr. Waterhouse.

Mr. Waterhouse is the tenor soloist at All Souls' church, New York, and his wife is a soprano soloist in one of the largest churches in Brooklyn. This programme will be presented:

Piano duet, overture, Nicolai, Mr and Mrs. McIntyre; songs, The Rosy Moon, Ronald; Heimliche Aufforderung, Strauss, Mr. Waterhouse; La Cloche, Saint-Saens; Conseils a Nina, Wekerlin, Mrs. Waterhouse; piano solo, Man lebt nur Einmal, Strauss-Tausig, Mr. McIntyre; songs, Le Baiser, Thomas; Noel d' Islande, Holmes, Mr. Waterhouse; The Robin Laughed in the Orange Tree, Ryder; O, Come With Me, Van der Stucken, Mrs. Waterhouse; trio, Te sol quest Anima, Atilla, Mr. and Mrs. Waterhouse and Mr. McIntyre.

FUNERAL OF MRS. APGAR.

Rev. Dr. Chambliss Conducted the Services This Afternoon.

The funeral services of Mrs. Henry H. Apgar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Saxton, were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from her late home on West Eighth street. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Apgar was a member, officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and young friends and there were numerous floral tributes, including pillows and wreaths. During the services E. E. Runyon sang two favorite selections.

The interment took place in Hillside cemtery and the pall-bearers were J. D. Voorhees, Chester Gaskill, Frederick Phillips, Maurice Sutphen, Richard Randolph, Clifford D. Manning.

To Tell of Their Lives.

On Sunday, March 24, E. C. Mercer, assistant superintendent of the old Jerry McAuley Mission on Water street, New York, will bring some of the men from the mission to speak in the Crescent Avenue church. One of the speakers will be a son of the late S. H. Hadley, for so many years the superintendent of the mission. Mr. Mercer is a graduate of the University of Virginia. Through the drink habit acquired in college he became a tramp on the streets of New York and was rescued in the Jerry McAuley Mission. He will probably tell the story of his life on the 24th.

An Entertainment.

An entertainment was given last evening in the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle for the benefit of the boys and girls in that vicinity. W. D. Williams gave selections on the phonograph; William Richards entertained with the harmonica, and John Richards gave several mandolin solos. Refreshments were served.

Lenten Musicale.

A Lenten musicale will be held this evening in the Swedish church, corner Sixth and New streets. The Vivo Instrumental Trio will render a programme of classical numbers, assisted by Mrs. L. R. Howard, soprano, and E. C. Martin, baritone. The accompanist will be Dr. J. H. Buckman.

Mrs. Humphrey to Speak.

Mrs. J. H. Humphrey will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue.

PROBERS HEAR REPORTS

Municipal Ownership Commission's Committee Present Findings.

WANT APPROPRIATION

Have Not Estimated As Yet Probable Cost—Engineering Work in the Spring.

Seven of the fourteen members, comprising the water investigation committee, appointed by Mayor C. J. Fisk, attended the regular session held in the office of the Mayor, last night. They were George H. Frost, Harry L. Hall, Dr. J. H. Cooley, Joseph O. Osgood, William Newcorn, William A. Coddington and W. S. Tyler. Preliminary reports from the legal and engineering committees were presented. It was decided to ask the Common Counncil for an appropriation of money for the necessary expenses of the commission.

At the last meeting it was decided by a vote that the legal committee should confer with Corporation Counsel Marsh with a view to obtaining definite information as to the rights of the city in relation to the operation of the Plainfield-Union Water Company in this city, and especially that feature of selling water out of the city to other towns and cities.

While no definite report was presented on this question, it is understood that the legal committee has satisfied itself as to vested rights enjoyed by the water company, that its interests are well protected in every way and that there is no barrier to is selling water in other towns and cities outside of Plainfield.

It is understood that the legal committee has examined the original charter of the water company and investigated facts relating to the merger of the Plainfield and Union Water Companies, now the Plainfield-Union Water Company, and has learned that the company has extensive rights and privileges which will be difficult to overcome.

There seems to be no question but that the city would have the right to condemn the holdings of the water company for the purpose of purchasing the plant, but whether this would be an advisable procedure is still an open question. The commission has not yet reached that point where it has any idea as to the probable cost of acquiring the present plant by purchase or establishing an independent plant. The principal question to be decided first is what rights the city has and how and upon what lines it can legally proceed. When these things are determined, then will follow an investigation into probable cost.

The report of the engineering committee was more of a preliminary character. It does not feel like employing an expert engineer for the work until an appropriation is made for expenses and until the weather is suitable for carrying on that part of the work.

The next meeting of the commission will be held on Friday night, April 12.

Mixed on Time of Meeting.

Thinking that it was yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock that they were to meet the bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, instead of in the morning, the members from the Somerset County Board came to Plainfield in the afternoon. They failed to find any of the Union county members, but later they got in communication with Freeholder Wilbur, chairman of his committee, and Wednesday, March 20, was the next date fixed for the meeting to decide about the wing walls for the West End avenue bridge. This time the meeting will be held at the Hotel Iroquois.

Will Reside in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Broadbent Tatham, who were recently married at the home of the bride's parents, Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, have changed their plans and will reside in Detroit, Mich., where Mr. Tatham has a position with a large automobile house. They had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur and left on Wednesday over the Lehigh Valley Railroad for their new home.

Woman Killed Picking Coal.

When picking coal yesterday on the tracks of the Erie Railroad at the west end of the Bergen tunnel at Jersey City, Mrs. Mary Hambreck, of No. 791 Tonnelle avenue, was struck by a passenger train and hurled one hundred feet. She died on the way to the City Hospital.

—Dr. Ralph M. Crane, osteopathist, of 220 Central Park South, New York city, will visit Plainfield Tuesdays and Saturdays. Those desiring appointments for consultation and osteopathic treatment, address, care of Rev. A. C. Nickerson, 768 Kensington avenue. 3 2 tf s m ***

STATEMENT BY JOHNSON.

Made to Lawyer for the Police—Johnson Getting Better.

A statement was obtained by the police yesterday from Lee Johnson, the negro who was shot Tuesday night by Thaddeus Payne, at the hospital. He made it to Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who acted for the authorities.

Johnson's condition was better today. He is beginning to stand a good chance for his life. The rip in his liver resulting from the passage of the ball was sewed up Thursday, and the operation was successful.

Payne is still a very much missed man. The police say they have not the faintest clew to his whereabouts.

WALTER SCOTT ILL.

Aged Manufacturer and Inventor Is in a Serious Condition.

Walter Scott, head of the printing press company bearing his name, 's seriously ill. He is suffering from paralysis.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of Philadelphia, who is known over the world as a nerve specialist, and Dr. Janeway, of New York, were in consultation yesterday with Drs. E. W. and B. VanD. Hedges.

Mr. Scott is widely known as a maker of presses, and as an inventor of press devices and improvements. His great age is against him in his battle against disease.

Clubhouse Becomes a Stable.

The Fanwood Clubhouse, where, in years gone by, the fashionable affairs of Fanwood were held, is to become a livery stable. Mr. Ritter, the new owner of the building, has announced his intention of remodelling it into a stable and dwellling. The Suburban club, which has been occupying the clubhouse, will be left homeless by the change and will probably disband. The clubhouse was built by the original boomers of Fanwood.

Trouble in a Hayfork.

Benjamin Cole, Jr., twelve years old, was struck on the head by the prongs of a hay fork that rebounded from the door of the barn on his father's place in New Market, after he threw it at the hayloft opening, yesterday afternoon. He was only slightly injured, but his sister, Miss Mabel Cole, fainted when she saw the fork strike him, and the family had their hands full for a time soothing Bennie and Mabel.

Administrator's Sale.

E. M. Laing, administrator of James Armstrong, and administrator with the will annexed of Ellen Armstrong, deceased, will sell at public auction on Tuesday, March 12, on the premises in the rear of 35 Prospect place, North Plainfield, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, goods and personal property, including household and kitchen furniture. P. H. Latourette will be the auctioneer.

Sunday-school A. L. Busy.

The Sunday-school Athletic League held its quarterly meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A. It voted to hold a second meet Friday night, April 12. The track and field committee, of which G. L. Listman is chairman, will arrange it. A baseball league will be organized, and an outdoor basketball league for a May competition at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. is to be formed.

Clock and Steam Engine.

An attraction in the show window of J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, is a French clock and miniature steam engine combined. There is indicated, in addition to the time, the temperature and forecast of the weather. The clock is owned by Fred Hand, of East Second street, and originally cost $250.

Misses Voehl Entertain.

The Misses Voehl, of Somerset street, entertained the S. I. 6 Crokinole Club last evening. The woman's prize was won by Miss Irene Voehl, and the gentleman's prize was won by Frank Merritt, after which a dainty repast was served by the hostess. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Bail for Shooting Witness.

Walker Hamler, the second witness in the Payne-Johnson shooting row, was placed under $200 bonds by Judge Runyon this morning, to insure his appearance before the Grand Jury. J. R. Truell, for whom he works, went on his bond. The police have found no trace of the shooter.

Organ Recital at Grace Church.

These numbers will be rendered at the recital to be given at Grace church tomorrow afternoon: Prelude, Dethier; Adagio from 5th Symphony, Widor; Ase's Death (by request), Grieg; Evening Star, Lohengrin (by request), Wagner.

Mrs. Hall's Lectures.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, has returned from Pennsylvania, where she gave two lectures at the Birmingham school, entitled "The Cardinal Points of Good Manners," and "Manners of Home and School."

TO ADVERTISE PLAINFIELD

City Board of Trade's Committee Plans a Campaign of Publicity.

RAISING A BIG FUND

First to Distribute Pamphlets in New York Apartment Houses—May Advertise in "L" and Subway.

The publicity committee and the officers of the Board of Trade discussed plans for the campaign of advertising decided upon at the last meeting of the Board, at a conference in Liefke & Laing's office, Park avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Following out the new policy of concentration, the Board will devote its energies for the present to the advertising idea, and get it started right. It was decided yesterday to have pamphlets on the city and its advantages printed, and give them to all the business houses. The business men will be asked to put copies in all their outgoing mail. Copies will be sent to New York for distribution among apartment house dwellers.

The advertising scheme will be spread out as the funds in the hands of the committee permit. A subscription list has been started to equip the committee with the sinews of a fast and extended campaign. All the business men will be asked to contribute, and the man who refuses to subscribe will lose caste. Advertising in the New York papers and in the New York elevated, subway and surface cars was discussed, but that line of publicity will have to wait on the funds.

Secretary Feickert has prepared the material for the pamphlet. Facts setting forth the attractions and advantages of the city as a home town and as a site for factories are concisely presented. The illustrations to accompany them will show views of Plainfield's streets, schools, churches and other institutions.

All the merchants, manufacturers, real estate men and business men generally as well as commuters will be asked to bear a share of the necessary expense to carry on the work properly.

MERWIN INVESTIGATING THE OPIUM TRAFFIC.

Sails for Orient to Use 'Muck Rake" for Public's Benefit.

Samuel Merwin, of this city, who is on the staff of Success Magazine, has been commissioned by that periodical to unearth the details and get at the true facts regarding the opium trade. He is now on his way to the Orient, and within the next few months the magazine will begin the publication of a series of articles on the subject. Mrs. Merwin, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Stephenson and Miss Ethel Stephenson, will sail on the Cedric, of the White Star Line, March 22, to meet Mr. Merwin in Liverpool.

While Mr. Merwin is in the Orient he will make a complete investigation of the Japanese grievances, regarding the alleged treatment of the Japanese children in the public schools of San Francisco, and he will also visit the Philippines in the interest of Success Magazine.

Minstrel Entertainment.

Plainfield's popular minstrel troupe, known as Muir's Gold Medal Company, has been secured to give one of its delightful black-face performances in Voorhees Hall Tuesday night, March 12, for the benefit of the piano fund of the Pierce school at East Bound Brook. The company numbers twenty singers, dancing and comedians, and they present a programme that is but little remoed from the professional article. They have been appearing in Plainfield and vicinity for the past three years and in that time have given twenty shows. Thomas M. Muir, who is well known to Bound Brook people, is the head of the troupe, and the roster includes The Musical Stewarts, The Four H. Quartette, George Bennett, the boy cornetist; Ira C. Bowers, buck and wing dancer; Elmer D. Cutting, well-known as a comic opera soloist, and Harry R. Robert, late principal comedian with the Crandall shows.—Bound Brook Record.

S. B. Howe, Jr., Speaks.

S. B. Howe, Jr., instructor of history in the Plainfield High School, spoke this morning before the Students of the Teachers' College, Columbia University, for the historical association of the Middle States, on the methods of history instruction in the secondary schools.

Miss Druse Will Sing.

Miss Leila Druse, soprano soloist, will assist at the Lenten recital at the Church of the Holy Cross, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. F. Clinton Lee will be at the organ. These recitals are free to the public.

PLAINFIELD BOWLERS DEFEAT NEWARKERS

HACQUER'S TEAM DEFEATS NEWARK NEWS AGGREGATION.

The Plainfield "newspaper" bowling team defeated the Newark News five on the Tuxedo alleys, Newark, last night, two games out of three. It was the first time Plainfield newspaper workers ever won anything from a News sporting combination, and the victors are wearing dazed expressions today; they were a heap sight more surprised than "Fozzy" Firstbrook's whirlwinds.

Plainfield took the first and the third games. Every Plainfielder but Cutting and Stout limped in the second game and the five were badly trounced. But they came back strong in the third, piled up the high team score and handed the wallop to Newark in a big mitt.

Refreshments that refreshed were served in Fred Nelson's tap room after the game. The victors will meet the vanquished again in this city, in a week or two. The bowling matches now stand one and one, and when the teams shoot here friendship will be chucked overboard and everybody will go after the other fellow's scalp.

The scores:

Firstbrook	159	176	123
Gunn	88	160	106
Higgins	137	156	166
Hughes	128	148	147
Norton	147	209	150
Kearny, B. W.	180	132	162
Totals	839	981	854
Hacquer	138	134	177
Blatz	136	133	191
Laing	129	111	161
Cutting	175	178	154
Stout	121	161	183

MAYOR McCLELLAN DEPLORES PLAY TO GALLERY TRICK.

Appeals to Princeton Students to Assist in Checking Unreasoning Opportunists.

Princeton, March 9.—Mayor McClellan was heard last evening on the subject of "Princeton Spirit in Politics" by one of the most enthusiastic undergraduate gatherings that ever met in Alexander Hall.

As Mr. McClellan himself is a Princeton man of the class of '86 his own enthusiasm on the subject was great, and it met such a response in his edger listeners that the cheering and stamping forced him to pause with great infrequency.

Enthusiasm broke loose the moment the Meyor appeared, and thereafter it went off as from the pull of a hair trigger every time he ventured on some statement that particularly appealed to his hearers. He was introduced by Professor John G. Hibben.

Mayor McClellan said he was at Princeton to urge his hearers to try to check unreasoning ambition of opportunists to play to the gallery.

Dr. Eastman to Speak Here.

Dr. Charles A. Eastman, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, will lecture before the Monday Afternoon Club on Monday, March 18, following up the course of study taken up by the club this season. Dr. Eastman is the only North American Indian on the lecture platform. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College and Boston University. He is not only well educated, but is a highly entertaining speaker.

MAYOR FISK CAN VETO SPRINKLING CONTRACT

Award of a $5,000 Contract Made Without Giving Notice or Obtaing ing Bids Can be Set Aside.

IF HE ACTS TODAY

According to Law, Mayor Must Approve or Veto Resolution—Objection to City Fathers' Methods.

Under the proisions of an act of the Legislature, which a member of the Common Council says has not been followed by that body, Mayor Fisk can have sweet revenge on the city fathers, who failed to respect a recommendation made in his message, by vetoing the street sprinkling contract. To day is the last day under the law that he may do so, however, and it is thought unlikely that he will.

In his first annual message, Mayor Fisk recommended the Common Council not to make any appropriation involving the expenditure of over $25 without first obtaining at least three bids. His suggestion received some attention on the part of the city fathers but they never did anything final in the matter. On Monday night, a resolution was introduced awarding the street sprinkling contract to a single bidder. Councilman Hibbard took objection on the ground that no public notice had been given to allow others to bid and that there was but a single bid. When the vote was taken, Councilmen Daniel and Charles Randolph lined up with him, but the other eight members voted in favor of the resolution.

In discussing the matter today, a city official declared that there was no objection so far as giving the contract to the man that received it, but there was a serious objection to the method of awarding it. Probably, he declared, even had there been advertisement there would have been no other bids, but in his opinion that did not alter the situation.

The law in question, which it appears has not been adhered to by the city fathers, was passed in 1892. It follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of the second class in this State no resolution or motion involving the expenditure of money adopted or passed by the board of aldermen or common council thereof, when the amount thereof exceeds the sum of fifty dollars, shall be operative unless the same be approved by the mayor of such city; provided, however, that if the said mayor veto the same or refuse or neglect to veto or approve the same within five days after the adoption of the same, the board of aldermen or common council of such city, after the expiration of said time and by a vote of three-fourths of all the members thereof, may order the payment of the money in such resolution or motion provided, notwithstanding such veto or refusal or neglect to veto or approve any such resolution or motion.

"And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, so far as they conflict herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately."

Exhibit Drawing to a Close.

The State tuberculosi s exhibit which has attracted hundreds of people during the week will close tomorrow night at 10 o'clock. The unusual interest manifested in the exhibit has been a source of surprise to the local tuberculosis society and the members believe that incalculable good has and will result from it. The attendance continued to be large yesterday afternoon and last night and Miss DeLany and Dr. DuBois were both busy giving necessary and desired information to anxious questioners. This afternoon Dr. VanHorn will be on duty and Dr. Fred Hughes will give his services tonight. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan will be in charge tomorrow afternoon and Dr. Harold Corbusier in the evening.

Old France by Plainfielder.

A talk on "Old France" will be given by Mrs. William Chesley, of this city, on Monday afternoon in the theatre of the Cartaret Club house, Jersey City. The affair is under the patronage of club members.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. E. Atherton Lyon, of Christ church, Yonkers, N. Y., will preach at Grace church next Wednesday night.

Miss Nicholl, contralto of the First Presbyterian church choir, has tendered her resignation to take effect May 1.

Gospel services of special interest will be held at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle tomorrow night and the Sunday-school will meet in the afternoon at the usual hour.

Rev. Harris C. Rush, of Grace church, Linden, was the special Lenten preacher at St. Stephen's church, last night. Next Friday night Rev. Erskine M. Rodman will preach.

Prof. John Smith, of New Brunswick, the State entomologist, will give an illustrated lecture before the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, Monday night, on "Mosquitoes." The women of the church are invited. Prof. Smith is an entertaining speaker and his subject will be full of interest.

Rev. J. H. Nolan, a graduate of Harvard, Dartmouth and the General Theological Seminary, will preach a series of three sermons at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The first of the series will be delivered tomorrow morning, the subject being, "The Mystery of Evil." Mr. Nolan is a forceful and eloquent speaker and his sermons should attract many.

From present indications there will be no change in the music arrangements at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church for next year. Mr. Dunn's services as organist are very satisfactory. He is a student at Princeton College and plans to spend Saturday night and Sunday each week at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Dunn, of Park avenue.

OLDEST LIVING TREES.

Yews in England that Have Flourished Hundreds of Years.

It may, of course, be known to scientists, but it will come to the ordinary "man in the street" as news, that trees are standing in this country which are 2,000 or 3,000 years old, says the London News.

The point has been evolved by a correspondent in The Times. Some time since the claim was put forward that the famous plane tree of Stanchio was the oldest living tree. But Sir George Birdwood makes short work of the pretension.

"We have not to cross the channel," he writes, "to find trees of a standing long prior to the date of St. Luke—the yew trees of Braburn, Kent (3,000 years old); Darley Churchyard, Derbyshire (2,096 years); and Firtingal, Aberfeldy, Perthshire (2,500-2,600 years); while other long-lived British yews are those of Crowhurst, Surrey (1,400 years); Grasford, North Wales (1,400 years); and Fountains Abbey, Ripon, Yorkshire (1,200); these instances and figures being taken from Humboldt's 'Views of Nature.'

"Otherwise, remote from 'this other Eden' of ours, there is the collosal gumdragon tree of Orotava, in Teneriffe, of limitless date in 'the dark backward and abysm of time,' the immemorial worship of the aboriginal Guanches, and, like then, an isolated survival from the lost Atlantean lands of the Hesperides. Adanson reckoned the boababs of Senegal to be at least 5,000 years, and an equal age must be accorded to the deciduous cypress of Mexico, the Wellingtonias of California, and, as some insist, the chestnuts of Mt. Etna.

"Also among the oldest of old-world trees must be ranked the double cocoanut of the Seychelles, and the sacred Bo, that is, Buddha's trees, and allied banyan trees of India, including Ceylon.'

INDIANA'S FIRST VOTE.

Hoosier State's Record Unique in Annals of Presidential Elections.

This story was told by an Indiana Congressman at a private dinner in this city, says the New York Sun. It interested all who heard it, and to some it was new history. The point of the story is that Indiana enjoyed a distinction different from all other States in the Union in that it cast its electoral vote for a President of the United States before it was admitted into the Union.

"Indiana adopted her Constitution June 16, 1816," he said. "It was admitted as a State on December 11 of the same year.

"In the summer, between the adoption of the Constitution and the admission as a State, Indiana elected a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and a Legislature. The Legislature met in November, elected two United States Senators, and chose three Presidential electors.

"The two houses of Congress met in joint session in February, 1817, to canvass the electoral vote. When the returns from Indiana were opened a Representative from New York—I do not recall his name—objected to the vote.

"He was about to speak on his objection when Henry Clay, then Speaker, ruled that as the two houses had met for a specific purpose of performing a constitutional duty, they could not perform any business not prescribed by the Constitution. A Representative from a New England State—if I had access to my private papers I could give his name and State—suggested that the matter could be considered by the House if the Senate would retire.

"The Senate retired by unanimous vote. The Representative who had objected to receiving Indiana's vote thereupon took the floor and argued the proposition that Indiana was not a State when its election took place. He moved that a joint resolution be passed declaring that the vote of Indiana was illegal.

"The debate turned upon the question whether Indiana was a State after the adoption of its Constitution and before its admission into the Union. As I recall it, the power of Congress to reject the vote—if it were not a State—was not questioned by the House. But at that point a motion to postpone indefinitely was carried unanimously.

"The Senate was informed of this, and that body returning to the House, the count was resumed. In that count Indiana cast its first electoral votes, three in number, and they were for James Monroe.

"Unless my memory has slipped a cog no State in the Union has a similar history in the electoral college. I have always said that the prompt ruling of Henry Clay saved the State."

HOW GIRLS HAVE CHANGED.

Boast of Having No "Parlor Tricks" and Are Most Practical.

What has become of the "accomplished girl?" Whither has she gone and why did she depart? She was very conspicuous a generation or two ago. All the Aramintas of our grandmothers' day could speak a little French—they invariably began their letters "Cher ami," if history is to be believed—they could thrum an accompaniment on the guitar while they warbled entertainingly of "Juniata," and usually they could play the harp and the piano as well.

Many of these young women could paint and draw, all could sew and not a few could embroider beautifully.

Unless they were equipped at least as well as this they were considered hopelessly uneducated and uncivilized.

They were not "up" in algebra and geometry, to be sure. They knew little of philosophy and political economy, those being deemed masculine studies, but they had the accomplishments.

Moreover, they had beautiful manners, and they spoke good and not hurried or slipshod English.

The average girl of the day seems proud to boast that she has no "parlor tricks." She can play on the piano a little, perhaps, but she is not particularly proud of that fact; her French is miserable, despite the four or five years she sat under a teacher of that language, scribbling notes to her friends in the next row. She cannot sing a bit. She would disdain to paint the trifling things in which her grandmother took such pleasure. She wishes to be a Murillo or a Velasquez or nothing.

Her equipment is more of the solid sort which has to do with the sciences. She can't even recite "The Maniac's Lament," to add to the gaiety of drawing-rooms.

She's nothing if not practical and prosaic.

SILVER IN MEXICAN CHURCHES.

One Altar Railing in Cathedral Which is Valued at $3,000,000.

"The amount of pure silver found in the Mexican churches is almost fabulous," said William P. Beyer, of Mexico City, as quoted in the Milwaukee Sentinel. "In the Mexican Cathedral, which has stood for several centuries, the altar railing is composed of virgin silver and represents an outlay of $3,000,000. All the altar coverings are generously covered with silver, and it is estimated that there is more than $30,000,000 work of the valuable product used in decorating the Mexican cathedrals. Up to the present day the Mexicans have little use for silver as a commercial product, and even the poorer classes use the greater part of their silver possessions for decorations.

"In the days of the Spanish rule, when the cathedral was built, there were several historically fabulous silver mines near the city that contained surface ore of great value. The ignorant Indians had no knowledge of its value, and when the explorers discovered them wearing large chunks of it in necklaces they found where the valuable mines were.

"Most of the silver was deposited in the churches, and when the people were unable to use it as money they decorated their houses and churches. Every rich home in Mexico has hundreds of dollars' worth of silver ornaments. When the American visits a Mexican home he is told by the polite host that whatever he wishes is his. This, of course, is only a polite Spanish expression, and oftentimes the American does not understand this and selects some costly silver ornament. As the rich Mexican is too polite to explain matters, he often loses many valuable silver articles, and many of them have found their way to American homes and are prized beyond value."

Mr. and Mrs. Nat. Samuels, of Somerville, who have been visiting relatives in town, have returned.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mack, of West Front street, are visiting relatives in Philadelphia for a few weeks.

Mrs. C. S. Stukey and daughter, Miss Grace Stukey, of Alfred, N. Y., are guests of Mrs. Stukey's daughter, Mrs. A. H. Smith, of Plainfield avenue.

—Joseph J. Yates, chief engineer of bridge construction work on the New Jersey Central, has leased the property at 506 East Second street, and will take possession April 1. He is now living in Elizabeth.

Panama Canal—Erie Canal.

Machinery is digging the Panama Canal a thousand times quicker than the shovel dug the Erie.

Machinery produces the L. & M. Paint at 50 times less cost for labor, than if made by hand.

The L. & M. gives the best job in the world, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years.

It only requires 4 gallons of this celebrated paint and 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at 60 cts. per gallon, to paint a moderate sized house.

If any defect exists in L. & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing.

JAIL FOR TRYING SUICIDE.

After Losing Fortune and His Landlady's Favor, Taylor Took Poison.

Mount Holly, March 9.—James A. Taylor, 25 years old, of Beverly, who comes of a well-to-do family in Madison, Wis., was sentenced yesterday to three months in the county jail here for attempting to commit suicide on Feb. 15 last, because of a love affair in which Mrs. May Vannell, a boarding-house keeper and wife of an ex-convict, figured.

Before coming to Beverly about a year ago Taylor inherited $50,000. He spent his money freely, and was much in the company of his landlady. The appearance at the Vannell house of a rival and the rapid depletion of Taylor's fortune made him despondent, and he took two ounces of laudanum.

The court, in imposing sentence, said he hoped a term in jail would change the prisoner's views of life.

Financial Concern Organizes.

New Brunswick, March 9.—The Middlesex Title Guarantee and Trust Company, which was incorporated some time ago, has completed its organization and paid in its full capital stock of $100,000. The following directors have been selected: Frederick L. Buckalew, of Jamesburg; Harry Conrad, cashier, First National Bank, Perth Amboy; Holmes V. M. Dennis, New Brunswick; James Deshler, president, New Brunswick Trust Company; Edwin A. Fisher, Sayreville; Benjamin F. Howell, president of the People's National Bank, New Brunswick; Alexander C. Litterst, cashier, Metuchen National Bank; George Litterst, Metuchen; Dr. Daniel L. Morrison, New Brunswick; W. Frank Parker, tax collector of New Brunswick; Charles D. Ross, secretary, New Brunswick Fire Insurance Company; Robert E. Ross, New Brunswick; Frank R. Valentine, Woodbridge; Anthony Viehmann, New Brunswick; George A. Viehmann, President, New Brunswick Fire Insurance Company. The directors have organized as follows: President, George A. Viehmann; vice president, Benjamin F. Howell; secretary and treasurer, George Litterst; assistant secretary and treasurer, Charles D. Ross.

Strother Boys Acquitted.

Culpeper, Va., March 9.—The unwritten law has triumphed in Virginia. After a two weeks' trial James and Philip Strother, charged with the murder of their brother-in-law, William F. Bywaters, whom they shot while he was trying to escape from the house in which they had forced him to wed their sister, were acquitted by a jury yesterday. It took but an hour and a half to reach an agreement. Judge Harrison addressed the jury as follows: "Gentlemen of the jury, I thank you for a verdict which I think will be approved by the public. It is an established precedent in the State of Virginia that no man tried for defending the sanctity of his home should be found guilty."

Central American War.

Managua, March 9.—It is reported here that General Manuel Bonilla, President of Honduras, personally led his forces in the attack Wednesday on the Nicaraguan positions at Namasiquo, on Honduras. The Nicaraguan forces were routed and many Nicaraguans were killed or made prisoners. Nicaraguan forces yesterday captured the Honduran position at Tuguare after a hard fight. In this engagement many Honduran prisoners were taken. Tuguare is near Choluteca, the strongest position held by the Honduran troops.

Dog Stops Runaway.

Winsted, Conn., March 9.—Returning from Torrington Wednesday night, William Martinez and his wife were thrown from their sleigh upon a snow bank when their horse took fright at a train. Their dog, which was tied in the sleigh, broke loose and brought the runaway steed back to his owners fifteen minutes later. Catching the dangling reins in his teeth, in turning the horse around the dog had righted the sleigh. The horse and dog are inseparable, the dog sleeping in the horse's stall nights.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY.

Stole $10,000 Worth of Silk.

New York, March 9.—Working apparently with absolutely no fear of detection or molestation, burglars early yesterday morning robbed the establishment of Saul Ellner, Nos. 60 and 62 West Fifteenth street, of silks valued at $10,000. This place is in the heart of the business district. There are signs to show that the burglars used a wagon in taking away the goods. They had previously dug a hole through a wall, blown up an iron door and cut five heavy locks. Neither the policeman on post nor any resident in the neighborhood appears to have noticed anything suspicious during the night.

STROKING, KNEADING, RUBBING AND STRIKING.

Like all other things, massage requires to be well done, and with knowledge. Attempting such things on the cheap, as a rule, spells failure, and those who are brave enough to undertake to massage their own faces should be duly instructed by those who do it well as to right methods, or the chances are they will be doing a very great deal more harm than good, and when you do harm in massaging you most probably do a lot of it. To make the flesh and muscles flabby is not at all what you desire, yet this is what you are likely to effect if you do not follow the right course of the muscles, rubbing upward across the lines and altogether do the work properly.

There are four movements which the beauty culturists, as well as the health promoters, in massaging have to execute—stroking, kneading, rubbing, and striking. This striking is not unlike slapping, but is decidedly stimulating. The strokes are given rapidly with the side of the hand or the entire hand, and sometimes on the face with the tips of the fingers. Stroking massage has been the means of restoring the outline to the chin, and reinstating the sagging check in its proper condition. Stroking is done quite slowly with the palm of the hand, and when applied to the body should be directed toward its centre. It stimulates the blood in our veins, and helps to produce that delicious sense of nerve-soothin, an inclination to rest without any due sense of fatigue, and a desire to sleep. Judicious massage is invaluable to those who are anaemic, for it increases the red corpuscles in the blood.

Exercise is as essential to our health as is proper food, and massage, in a great measure, takes the place of exercise. Even the filling in of hollows in the neck and throat is accomplished by exercise, for the massage that does it works the muscles and builds the tissues. For this, one kneads with the knuckles. A firm but not violent touch is needed. But kneading also means more than this. The skilful manipulator requires some time to entirely master this movement, perhaps the most difficult of the necessary ones. The tissues are to be treated and grasped, tightening and loosening the hold in a way that has to be learned and ery carefully followed.

Rubbing in massage is on a somewhat different principal to ordinary rubbing, finger tips and thumbs, or the entire hand, being employed in small circles.

Massage greatly improves the texture of the skin, and a woman who regularly cares for her face in this manner has fresher complexion and much better color. This is because the blood vessels and tissues are constantly being stimulated and strengthened, and her blood circulates there as it does over the body after a brisk walk. It will eliminate traces of fatigue more quickly than anything else, always remembering that a good cold cream, a skin food, should be used with it.

For medical purposes massage is most beneficial in the morning, and as a means of beauty culture it is better to carry it out at night, but there is little hope of it doing real good unless it is done regularly and with perseverance. This is particularly so where the removal or obliterating of wrinkles is the thing desired. Worry, ill-health and neglect are potent foes to beauty, and they should be met by constant care and skilful manipulation by the masseuse.

The object to be effected is the strengthening of the muscles and the stimulation of the blood. Few women have the slightest idea of the structure of the face, how the muscles are attached to the fundamental bone, the fatty and connecting tissues filling up the vacuum under the skin. We have to leave the bones as they are, but the muscles and the itssues may be most successfully manipulated, so much of the beauty of the face depending in the fatty fibre overlaying the muscles. Any shrinkage brings wrinkles and flabbiness, and with careful massage we can increase the fat and improve the hue of the complexion also. It is the capillaries or blood vessels which are most minute, that help to produce healthy conditions. When these vessels do not act satisfactorily, then pimples and blotches come, flushings and much we are anxious to avoid. Where the health is weak, massage combined with rest brings about wonderful results. A week in bed or a month, especially in cases of anoemia, is simply invaluable, and in young women standing on the threshold of life it will often bring about a good state of health. But the rest must be accompanied by fresh air and sunshine, the room must be fresh and cool and the surroundings cheerful. Massage will promote appetite and all the benefits of active exercise.

There are certain don'ts to be observed in massage, but they are so few and remote as not to be dangerous. The skin must not be stretched by it, nor the muscles overexerted. If there is superficial soreness the exercise should be abandoned for a few days. Some skins, being thicker than others, require more forceful treatment, but this each must learn for herself.—Washington Star.

Has Eight Sets of Twins.

Ravenna, Ohio, March 9.—E. R. Brown, of this city, father of eight sets of twins, has just heard from his eldest son, in St. Louis, that the latter's wife several days ago presented him with the sixth set of twins. In each case they are a boy and a girl. Brown says his family was numerically strong long before President Roosevelt propagated his race suicide idea. Mrs. Brown, who died eleven years ago, was a full blooded Cherokee Indian.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Local theatregoers will remember the beautiful comedy, "A Message from Mars," which was presented here sometime ago when it made probably the most lasting impression of any comedy that had up to that time been seen in this city for several years. It will also be remembered that it was one of the most humorous comedies, likewise the brightest and most wholsome, together with its serious side in dealing with a great moral problem—a kind of a cure—against the crime of extreme selfishness. This play will again be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, March 12. There are in the company that is soon to appear some of the same players who were here before, all of whom had been in the original London and New York productions. Many of them are English players and all recognized as competent and thorough.

While there is very little that hasn't been said before in speaking of "In Old Kentucky," soon to be given here again, yet the fact that the play is again coming clearly demonstrates the wonderful hold this drama has on the parts of playgoers. It is well worthing seeing twice.

Of the many successes in dramatic plays which have been produced the past three seasons those with their scenes laid in the western country have appeared to have appealed more strongly to the fancy of the theatregoers. A play with its scenes placed in the great southwest near the Mexican border, is now being presented by the popular young actor, Joseph Santley. It is called "Billy the Kid" and is said to tell a story that appeals to all classes of aumsement lovers. The plot is well conceived, there are innumerable strong dramatic situations and there is plenty of comedy. Some of the scenes are said to be especially realistic and the production a very elaborate one. "Billy the Kid," with Mr. Santley in the leading role, will come to the New Plainfield this afternoon and tonight.

SAYS BISHOPS LAW WILL STAND

Senator Lee Thinks Amendments Will Fail to Pass.

Senator Lee thinks there will be no modification in the Bishops' law at this session of the Legislature. In an interview yesterday Mr. Lee said:

"I do not believe there will be any amendments to the liquor laws passed at this session of the Legislature, as there appears to be a great deal of division in the House, particularly among the Democrats. Whatever amendment measures have been thus far proposed have met with sturdy opposition, and it looks very much to me as if the present laws will be continued for another year at least."

To Hire Women Police.

Los Angeles, March 9.—Long Beach will have women police during the coming summer. The suggestion was made by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and met with instant favor among city officials. The police in petticoats will soon be appointed. The idea is to have them patrol the beach, piers and auditorium after dark, perhaps half a dozen of them, and it is believed the cause of morality will be greatly aided and many evils of the past season remedied. Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will doubtless be selected, and they will have full police powers. The question of arming them has not been determined.

The Man of the Hour.

An unusually large number of people have been attracted to the performances of "The Man of the Hour" at the Savoy theatre, New York. Many men and women in eminent positions have witnessed performances of this wonderfully successful production of George Broadhurst's unique play, and they have with one accord been loud in their praise of the production. On Friday night last United States Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, was the guest of Wm. A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, and after the performance said: "The Man of the Hour" is indeed a great play, ably acted. The action of the piece develops along the lines that I have been following in my political career for many years. It shows up 'graft' in public affairs, and illustrates the great pressure brought to bear upon a public official who seeks to fulfill his obligations to the people. Such a play should have tremendous influence, for the stage is as powerful in its influence as the press or the pulpit." There is reference to Senator La Folette in "The Man of the Hour" in the debate between the mayor and the political boss, and this reference called forth much applause complimentary to Senator La Follette.

MONEY.

Norway even now uses corn for currency.

Absolutely pure gold is twenty-four carats fine.

Sheep and oxen among the old Romans took the place of money.

In some districts of New Guinea female slaves form the standard of value.

Seashells were the earliest forms of money, the skins of animals coming next as a substitute.

It is an interesting fact that the Japanese coins in the matter of fineness are superior to all others.

Marion Ruckert, in "A Message from Mars," at New Plainfield Theatre Tuesday Night.

The Icelandic and Irish laws yet have traces of the use of cattle for money. Many Teutonic fines were paid in cattle.

In the days of 1849 of California the ounce of pure gold ($16.50) formed the common medium of exchange. Another interesting form of money was a lump of gold, called a slug, equaling just $50.

The Spring Hat.

Cute and saucy are the terms that best describes the sprint hat, as it is presaged in advance models for southern wear. It is small, coquettishly bent and twisted, and of that delightfully piquant becomingness which women who like small millinery have awaited in vain for some years.

LITERARY.

The Pacific Coast has a District Attorney who does things. Francis J. Heney, who has recently been selected to push the prosecution of the grafters of San Francisco, established a new record for effective public service in securing the conviction of the Oregon land thieves a year ago. Success Magazine for January contains, under the title "Francis J. Heney—Fighting Man," a forceful characterization by Henry Beach Needham, of the methods and achievements of this Government attorney, who has been hailed as "the biggest man in the West." Out of thirty-four men, Government and State officials, bankers, lawyers and timber speculators, says Mr. Needham, thirty-three have been found guilty! Surely a remarkable record. Mr. Heney has lately joined the governing committee of the People's Lobby, the new bureau lately organized to operate in the interest to further congressional bills in the interest of the people.

The homes of a hundred and fifty thousand families in America have, in the last six years, been perturbed over the problem of the best choice in the first purchase of an automobile; there are still other hundreds of thousands to whom the same crucial question is every month getting nearer and nearer, and the longer it is postponed the more the car will cost. Few, very few automobilists have been ultimately disappointed, and whenever it has been the case, it has arisen from the buyers' lack of thoroughness in determining beforehand exactly what they wanted their particular automobile to accomplish. In the hurry and excitement, and in the ever present fear that, if they did not make a swift selection, they would have to wait for a future delivery, they threw prudence to the wind. They wanted an automobile and they wanted it badly, and they fell victims to the ready tongues of the salesmen, who glazed over the fact that all automobiles are not alike, any more than all horses are. —Charles Quincy Turner in March Recreation.

The March Atlantic fittingly observes the centenary of Longfellow by giving the leading position to an eloquent poem upon the well-beloved poet by Thomas Bailey Aldrich. The quality of the piece is worthy of the author, than which there can be no higher praise. Coming as it does from one of the finest American poets, who was an intimate friend of Longfellow's, it is likely to be as significant a centennial expression as we shall see. The number also contains a study of Longfellow's genius and place in American letters by Bliss Perry. Of the more solid contributions to the number, special mention must be given to the first installment of a keenly interesting examination of The Statesmanship of Cavour, by Andrew D. White, an important and helpful paper upon Efficiency in Making Bequests, by W. H. Allen, agent of the New York Association for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor, an instructive presentation of the events of the year in Mexico by Frederic R. Guernsey, and an important paper on The Study of National Culture, by Professor Kuno Francke.

The Circle Magazine for March is a big number, beautifully illustrated, and has a good showing of original articles and fiction on many subjects, besides the twenty-five regular departments that make this magazine such a strong favorite in the home circle. The original articles include "The Adventurous Army of Bible-Sowers," by William George Fitz-Gerald; "The Beauty and Youth of Old Age," by Theodore L. Cuyler, Edward Everett Hale, Senator William P. Frye, John Burroughs, Thos. Wentworth Higginson, Edwin Markham, and others; "A Singer's Art and Philosophy," by Madame Emma Eames; "Old-Time Maple-Sugar-Making," by Clifton Johnson; "Old Violins and Their Makers," by Elizabeth Mitchell Stephenson; "The Making of a Singer," by Madame Anna Arnaud. The fiction includes several stories by Lillian Townsend Taylor, Edwin Hugenet, Marion J. Brunowe and others. The current issue of this beautiful magazine, now on the news stands, contains some exquisite results in color work. The frontispiece is a study from life reproduced in a dark shade of red by the photogravure process. Another color study is from a photograph of Margaret Anglin in her remarkable success, "The Great Divide." The art form contains a brief sketch of Titian with reproductions from his most famous paintings reproduced in an exquisite art tone ink. An interesting story on life in Mexico is superbly illustrated with unusual photographs. Under the heading of People of Note William Dean Howells, ex-President Cleveland, Mrs. Cleveland, President Diaz of Mexico, and the Hon. James Bruce, the new English Ambassador, are given prominent place. A special form consists of many prominent singers in the operatic world and a number of prominent actresses.

OLD FASHIONED.

What has become of the old fashioned man who called it "stone coal?"

An old fashioned woman has very little confidence in medicine that tastes good.

What has become of the old fashioned girl who was ever ready to "faint away?"

What has become of the old fashioned woman who always opened the tremolo stop of her voice when she sang?

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

By Meredith Nicholson

Author of "The Main Chance," "Zelda Dameron," Etc.

Copyright 1905 by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Go ahead and let us be done with it. Wait till I tell Stoddard where we're going."

The chaplain was trying the second floor walls, and I asked him to eat some luncheon and stand guard while Larry and I went to the tunnel.

We took with us an iron bar, an ax and a couple of hammers. Larry went ahead with a lantern.

"You see," he explained, as we dropped through the trap into the passage, "I've tried a compass on this tunnel and find that we've been working on the wrong theory. The passage itself runs a straight line from the house under the gate to the crypt; the ravine is a rough crescent-shape and for a short distance the tunnel touches it. How deep does that ravine average—about 30 feet?"

"Yes; it's shallowest where the house stands. It drops sharply from there on to the lake."

"Very good; but the ravine is all on the Glenarm side of the wall, isn't it? Now when we get under the wall I'll show you something."

"Here we are," said Larry, as the cold air blew in through the hollow posts. "Now we're pretty near that sharp curve of the ravine that dips away from the wall. Take the lantern while I get out the compass. What do you think that C on the piece of paper means? Why, chapel, of course. I have measured the distance from the house, the point of departure, we may assume, to the chapel, and three-fourths of it brings us under those beautiful posts. The directions are as plain as daylight. The passage itself is your N. W., as the compass proves, and the ravine cuts close in here; therefore, our business is to explore the wall on the ravine side."

"Good! but this is just wall here—earth with a layer of bricks and a thin coat of cement. A nice job it must have been to do the work,—and it cost the price of a tiger hunt," I grumbled.

"Take heart, lad, and listen," and Larry began pounding the wall with a hammer, exactly under the north gatepost. We had sounded everything in and about the house until the process bored me.

"Hurry up and get through with it," I jerked impatiently, holding the lantern at the level of his head. It was sharply cold under the posts and I was anxious to prove the worthlessness of his idea and be done.

Thump! thump!

"There's a place here that sounds a trifle off the key. You try it."

I snatched the hammer and repeated his soundings.

Thump! thump!

There was a space about four feet square in the wall that certainly gave forth a hollow sound.

"Stand back!" exclaimed Larry eagerly. "Here goes with the ax."

He struck into the wall sharply and the cement chipped off in rough pieces, disclosing bricks beneath. Larry paused when he had uncovered a foot of the inner layer, and examined the surface.

"They're loose—these bricks are loose, and there's something beside earth behind them!"

The bricks were set up without mortar, and I plucked them out and rapped with my knuckles on a wooden surface.

Even Larry grew excited as we flung the bricks out into the tunnel.

"Ah, lad," he said, "the old gentleman had a way with him—he had a way with him!" A brick dropped on his foot and he howled in pain.

"Bless the old gentleman's heart! He made it as easy for us as he could. Now, for the Glenarm millions,—red money all piled up for the ease of counting it,—a thousand pounds in every pile."

"Don't be a fool, Larry," I coughed at him, for the brick dust and the smoke of Larry's pipe made breathing difficult.

"That's all the loose bricks,—bring the lantern closer,"—and we peered through the aperture upon a wooden door, in which strips of iron were deep-set. It was fastened with a padlock and Larry reached down for the ax.

"Wait!" I called, drawing closer with the lantern. "What's this?"

The wood of the door was fresh and white, but burned deep on the surface, in this order, were the words:

The Door
Bewilderment

"There are dead men inside, I dare say! Here, my lad, it's not for me to turn loose the family skeletons,"—and Larry stood aside while I swung the ax and brought it down with a crash on the padlock. It was of no flimsy stuff and the remaining bricks cramped me, but half a dozen blows broke it off.

"The house of a thousand ghosts," chanted Larry, as I pushed the door open, crawled through and dropped down inside.

Whatever the place was it had a floor and I set my feet firmly upon it and turned to take the lantern.

"Hold a bit!" he exclaimed. "Some one's coming,"—and bending toward the opening I heard the sound of steps down the corridor. In a moment Bates ran up, calling my name with more spirit than I imagined possible in him.

"What is it?" I demanded through the opening.

"It's Mr. Pickering. The sheriff has come with him, sir."

As he spoke his glance fell upon the broken wall and open door. The light of Larry's lantern struck full upon him. Amazement, and, I thought, a certain satisfaction, were marked upon his countenance.

"Run along, Jack,—I'll be up a little later," said Larry. "If the fellow has come in daylight with the sheriff, he isn't dangerous. It's his friends that shoot in the dark that give us the trouble."

I crawled out and stood upright. Bates, staring at the opening, seemed reluctant to leave the spot.

"You seem to have found it, sir," he said,—I thought a little chokingly. His interest in the matter nettled me; it was none of his affair, for one thing; and my first business was to go above for an interview with the executor,—a matter of immediate importance, as should have been clear to any one.

"Of course we have found it!" I ejaculated, brushing the dust from my clothes.

"Is Mr. Stoddard in the library?"

"Oh, yes, sir; I left him entertaining the gentlemen."

"Their visit is certainly most inopportune," said Larry. "Give them my compliments and tell them I'll be up as soon as I've articulated the bones of my friend's ancestors."

Bates strode on ahead of me with his lantern, and I left Larry crawling through the new-found door as I hurried toward the house. I knew him well enough to be sure he would not leave the spot until we had found what lay behind the Door of Bewilderment.

"You didn't tell the callers where you expected to find me, did you?" I asked Bates, as he brushed me off in the kitchen.

"No, sir. Mr. Stoddard received the gentlemen. He rang the bell for me and when I went into the library he was saying, 'Mr. Glenarm is at his studies. Bates,'—he says—'kindly tell Mr. Glenarm that I'm sorry to interrupt him, but won't he please come down?' I thought it rather neat, sir, considering his clerical office. I knew you were below somewhere, sir; the trap door was open and I found you easily enough."

Bates' eyes were brighter than I had ever seen them. A certain buoyant note gave an entirely new tone to his voice. He walked ahead of me to the library door, threw it open and stood aside.

"Ah, here you are, Glenarm," said Stoddard. Pickering and a stranger stood near the fireplace in their overcoats.

Pickering advanced and offered his hand, but I turned away from him without taking it. His companion, a burly countryman, stood staring, a paper in his hand.

"The sheriff," Pickering explained, "and our business is rather personal—"

He glanced at Stoddard, who looked at me.

"Mr. Stoddard will do me the kindness to remain," I said and took my stand beside the chaplain.

"Oh!" Pickering ejaculated scornfully. "I didn't understand that your relations with the neighboring clergy were so intimate. Your taste is improving, Glenarm."

"Mr. Glenarm is a friend of mine," remarked Stoddard quietly. "A very particular friend," he added.

"I congratulate you—both."

I laughed. Pickering was surveying the room as he spoke,—and Stoddard suddenly stepped toward him, merely, I think, to draw up a chair for the sheriff; but Pickering, not hearing Stoddard's step on the soft rug until the clergyman was close beside him, started perceptibly and reddened.

It was certainly ludicrous, and when Stoddard faced me again he was biting his lip.

"Pardon me!" he murmured.

"Now gentlemen, will you kindly state your business? My own affairs press me."

Pickering was studying the cartridge boxes on the library table. The sheriff, too, was viewing these effects with interest not, I think, unmixed with awe.

"Glenarm, I don't like to invoke the law to eject you from this property, but I am left with no alternative. I can't stay out here indefinitely, and I want to know what's I'm to expect."

"That is a fair question," I replied. "If it were merely a matter of following the terms of the will I should not hesitate or be here now. But it isn't the will, or my grandfather, that keeps me, it's the determination to give you all the annoyance possible,—to make it hard and mighty hard for you to get hold of this house until I have found why you are so much interested in it."

"You always had a grand way in money matters. As I told you before you came out here, it's a poor stake. The assets consist wholly of this land and this house, whose quality you have had an excellent opportunity to test. You have doubtless heard that the country people believe there is money concealed here,—but I dare say you have exhausted the possibilities. This is not the first time a rich man has died, leaving precious little behind him."

"You seem very anxious to get possession of a property that you call a poor stake," I said. "A few acres of land, a half-finished house and an uncertain claim upon a school teacher!"

"I had no idea you would understand my position," he replied. "The seriousness of a man's oath to perform the solemn duties imposed upon him by law would hardly appeal to you. But I haven't come here to debate this question. When am I to have possession?"

"Not till I'm ready,—thanks!"

"Mr. Sheriff, will you serve your writ?" he said, and I looked to Stoddard for any hint from him as to what I should do.

"I believe Mr. Glenarm is quite willing to hear whatever the sheriff has to say to him," said Stoddard. He stepped nearer to me, as though to emphasize the fact that he belonged to my side of the controversy, and the sheriff read an order of the Wabana county circuit court directing me, immediately, to deliver the house and grounds into the keeping of the executor of the will of the estate of John Marshall Glenarm.

The sheriff rather enjoyed holding the center of the stage, and I listened quietly to the unfamiliar phraseology. Before he had quite finished I heard a step in the hall and Larry appeared at the door, pipe in mouth. Pickering turned toward him frowning, but Larry paid not the slightest attention to the executor, but leaned against the door with his usual tranquil unconcern.

"I advise you not to trifle with the law, Glenarm," said Pickering, as the sheriff folded his paper. "You have absolutely no right whatever to be here. And these other gentlemen—your guests, I suppose—are equally trespassers under the law."

He stared at Larry, who crossed his legs for greater ease in adjusting his lean frame to the door.

"Well, Mr. Pickering, what is the next step?" asked the sheriff.

"Mr. Pickering," said Larry, straightening up and taking his pipe from his mouth, "I'm Mr. Glenarm's counsel. If you will do me the kindness to ask the sheriff to retire for a moment I should like to say a few words to you that you might prefer to keep between ourselves."

I had usually found it wise to take any cue Larry threw me, and I said:

"Pickering, this is Mr. Donovan, who has every authority to act for me in the matter."

Pickering looked impatiently from one to the other of us.

"You seem to have the guns, the ammunition and the numbers on your side," he observed dryly.

"The sheriff may wait within call," said Larry, and at a word from Pickering the man left the room.

"Now, Mr. Pickering,"—Larry spoke slowly,—"as my friend has explained the case to me, the assets of his grandfather's estate are all accounted for,—the land hereabouts, this house, ten thousand dollars in securities and a somewhat vague claim against a lady known as Sister Theresa, who conducts St. Agatha's school. Is that correct?"

"I don't ask you to take my word for it, sir," rejoined Pickering hotly. "I have filed an inventory of the estate, so far as found, with the proper authorities."

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear If the Advice of This Plainfield Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault.

Backache is really kidney ache;

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Plainfield women know this. Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. K. C. Philpott, of 126 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Two years ago I suffered with rheumatism and also a severe backache or pain in the loins. I suppose it was all caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, but at any rate, the medicines I was taking did not stop the pains. I therefore resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills, and I must say, in gratitude, that they gave me complete relief from my rheumatism and backache. I had no occasion to use any medicine for my kidneys since that time, until July, 1905, when I had not been feeling just right, and had been suffering sharp twinges of pain in my back. My daughter got me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, and on using them they relieved me as before. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people suffering from backache and rheumatism, and I shall continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GAS TALK No. 2

Gas in the home means good light. It also makes cooking easy. Why?

First, because Gas light gives a clear, steady glow that illuminates the room and does not hurt the eyes. Second, because a gas range does away with coal and ashes—two terrors to a housewife.

With Gas, these are replaced by cleanliness and easy regulation without unnecessary work. Install a gas range and save both time and labor.

A SOUTH CAROLINA BANKER WRITES:

"I received recently your notice of the dividend apportioned to me by your Company on my policy, and I feel called upon to express my gratification with the magnificent showing made by The Prudential.

"I carry several policies of the same kind with other companies, but upon comparison I find that The Prudential has broken all records and is far ahead of the others."

The Trust Company offers to the individual an opportunity to carry out his cherished purposes even after he himself has passed beyond the possibility of oversight and direction. Through its instrumentality he can provide surely for the comfort and well being of his family, for the education and maintenance of his minor children and for the prudent management of his estate as an entity until the time shall come for a division.

Inquiries will be gladly responded to.

ly so well off. There is a tremendous unequal distribution of wealth. One fact the people overlook in discussing this question is that half of this wealth may be called tangible and the balance fictitious or unearned increment. Less than five per cent. of the people of this country are interested in the unearned increment.

"Let us look at the Public Service Corporation, which owns every mile of street railroad in this State worth having and all the gas and electric light plants of any account. The corporation has stocks and bonds outstanding of about $210,000,000. It could be replaced today at a cost of $80,000,000. The difference between the two amounts is the unearned increment. The same thing is true all over this country. The Union Pacific Railroad in 1898 was sold for $44,000,000. Since that time it has grown to $170,000,000. The difference is the unearned increment with which the public has nothing to do.

"It is a kind of wealth created by the legislation in this country. Sit down and trace the Public Service Corporation's history since it started and you will be astonished at the ingenuity, the slick methods employed whereby men who have never been supposed to possess any exceptional intellect hae been able to wring out fortune after fortune and yet have the average man think they were almost on the verge of bankruptcy.

"Look at the annual statements in the Street Railway Journal, the official mouthpiece of those big interests, and you will be surprised what tremendous capitalization there has been of the stock and yet what insignificant returns. If this city's population jumps in the next ten years, will there be a reduction based on increased earnings? Not likely, but there will probably be another capitalization and a new stock issue ordered, and the results from that sale pocketed by a few in such a way that the average man will not see it."

Mr. Moody said the distribution of shares to the public had been used as an argument that there was no such thing as concentration of wealth, but the argument was false, since before the public was invited to buy the capitalization had been performed and the real wealth pocketed by the few. Great monopolies are the result, he held, of governmental favors of one kind or another bestowed on private interests. The men who seek to retain financial power seek to do it through the enactment of laws which will prevent interference by the great majority of people. The game of politics, he said, is to keep the public ignorant and secure laws that will prevent reformers from accomplishing their ends. If corruption is necessary to do it, then corruption is employed.

"Then men who are usually pointed out by the average man as the cause of political corruption are only instruments of other powers," continued the speaker. "They do their work for a consideration, but they are not the men higher up." In concluding, he said:

"This elimination of political corruption will be a life and death struggle in this country for years to come. It will be the problem of the century. The government must be more closely in touch with the people The more things you can get into the hands of the majority the better it will be, for the great mass of the people are honest."

Regarding the philanthropy of Carnegie and Rockefeller, Mr. Moody said possibly, if conditions continue, a trust will arise that will make either of these men's millions look like toy fortunes. He considered it no generosity to give back a trifling part of money wrung from the public by questionable means.

Manager Reid securing strong schedule—William Douglas temporary captain.

Baseball practise has begun at the Plainfield High School; twice a week the boys meet in the gymnasium and limber up their arms by pitching. Large numbers have turned out and showed enthusiasm which speaks promisingly for the nine. William Douglas was elected temporary captain. Manager Reid has secured a number of fast games and is adding others to the schedule. On April 20 the nine meets the Adelphia Academy, of Brooklyn, at Plainfield; Leals, May 15; Montclair at Plainfield, May 18; Newark High School at Plainfield, May 25; Jersey City High School at Jersey City, June 1; Leals, June 5. Other games which will no doubt be played but the dates of which are not yet settled are Stuyvesant High School; East Orange High School; Summeville High School; North Plainfield High School, and Westfield High School.

Both Passaic and Elizabeth want another crack at the Y. M. C. A athletic team, and have asked for return meets. Director Listman said this morning, at the association building, that they would be accommodated. Both meets will be held on the challengers' floors. The dates are to be fixed early next week.

State Y. M. C. A. Meet.

The list of events to be run at the State Y. M. C. A. meet was posted at the Y. M. C. A. this morning. It is as follows: Fifteen-yard dash, running high jump, standing broad jump, shot put, fence vault, 220-yard run. The meet will take place at Paterson on March 30.

Boys' Meet at Elizabeth.

The Y. M. C. A. juniors will go to Elizabeth this afternoon to meet the association boys of that city in an athletic competition and a basketball game.

MOTHER PAYS PENALTY.

Sent to Jail for Drunkenness and Neglecting Five Children.

Charged with drunkenness and neglecting her five children, Annie Bowblis, of No. 71 Jackson street, Newark, was sent to jail yesterday for sixty days by Judge Howell in the First Criminal Court. The woman's husband was the complainant against her.

Bowblis has been arrested several times for not sending his children to school, but he always put the blame on his wife.

Mrs. Bowblis declared the children had no shoes, but her husband denied this and declared that she not only spent what money she could get for drink, but that she was also trying to sell several pieces of property which they own in Elizabeth.

FELL ON CIRCULAR SAW.

Death Was Instantaneous—No One Near to Avert Accident.

Flemington, March 9.—Howard Hortman, about fifty-eight years old, was killed yesterday afternoon when assisting in the operation of a circular saw at the home of Carlton Durham, near Ringoes. Although no one can tell just how it happened it is believed that while handling a slab near the machine he tripped and fell on the saw.

A portion of his face was sawed off and one arm severed. The accident happened so quickly that those engaged in the work were unable to prevent it.

Mr. Grierson, of Crescent avenue, is planning to take his family to Scotland for a year or more and they will sail next month.

Miss Nannie Rodman, of East Orange, is visiting at the home of her grandfather, Rev. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street.

Sues the Sugar Trust.

New York, March 9.—With the serving of papers today on the officers and agents of the American Sugar Refining Company another interesting fight will begin in the United States Circuit Court against the power of the big trusts. As plaintiff in the case, the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company alleges that through a conspiracy on the part of the Sugar Trust a large refinery which it built in Philadelphia in 1903 has been ruined and that it is now entitled to $10,000,000 damages, which, under the Sherman anti-Trust law, will be trebled if the Court shall render a verdict in the company's favor. Defendants in the case are the American Sugar Refining Company, Henry O. Havemeyer, its president; John E. Parsons, its general counsel; Gustav E. Kissel, who is charged with putting through the alleged scheme by which the Philadelphia company was caught, and Walter D. Robinson, George L. Trigg and Morris J. Werner, who are charged with having played a part in the alleged conspiracy by acting as directors of the company after the Trust obtained control of it.

Adam Beak Goes to Jail.

Mrs. Anna Mulford Cox.

Mrs. Anna Mulford Cox, daughter of Mrs. Mary R. Gilson, died last night at her home, 437 West Fifth street, after a long illness. The funeral services will be private.

Charles Wilson Opdyke.

Charles Wilson Opdyke, a resident of Plainfield for many years, died at his home, 1234 Watchung avenue, this morning following a long illness. He was a son of the late Mayor Opdyke, of New York, and during the early part of his life was engaged in the banking business with his father. He is survived by a wife and married daughter. The notice of funeral will be given later.

PROBABLY HEIRS TO A $250,000 ESTATE.

Newark Family Seems to Be Next of Kin to the Dead African Miner.

If the contents of a letter received yesterday by the family of the late James P. Smith, of No. 95 Brill street, Newark, are true, the family will be raised from its present humble station to one of comfort. So will Thomas Smith, a brother of James, and Elizabeth Martin, of Lexington avenue, Manhattan. The three named were first cousins of James Bell, a bachelor, who made a fortune in the South African mines and died some time ago in County Craven, Ireland, leaving an estate valued at $250,000.

The letter, which was addressed to James P. Smith, who died four years ago, was opened by his son, Thomas J., who with his mother and seven brothers and sisters still occupy the Smith home. It came from H. P. Kennedy, a crown solicitor in Cavan, Ireland. It told of the death of Bell and the fact that the heirs to his estate are James P. and Thomas Smith, of Newark, and Elizabeth Martin, all first cousins. It suggested that they take steps at once to secure the property.

Mrs. Smith, the widow of James, and her brother-in-law, Thomas Smith, after having read the letter, said there could be no doubt they are the persons to whom it refers. Smith added that "Jimmie" Bell left home many years ago to take up mining in South Africa. James Smith followed some time afterward and tried to get him to return, but he refused. Nothing was heard of Bell after that. It was believed by the family that he had died long ago.

The Smiths expect Thomas Curry, of Blissville, L. I., to whom the letter will be taken by them, to prove they are the heirs. Curry, who also was a miner in South Africa, was well acquainted with Bell and also with the late James P. Smith and his family. His deposition will be secured as to the identification of the Newark Smiths, and they will then take steps to obtain the money left by Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Schuyler, of Belvidere avenue, have returned from a pleasure trip to Cuba.

FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS

Italian Laborer Run Down it is Alleged While Picking Coal From a Car.

WILD STORY AFLOAT

Rumor Had It That Man Had Been Murdered—Body Found By Trackwalker.

Alexander Pandolino, an Italian laborer, forty-five years old, who resided on Cottage place, was struck and instantly killed by a New Jersey Central train near the Washington street bridge at 5:30 yesterday morning. Appearances indicated that he had been gathering coal from cars on the siding and failing to notice the approach of the locomotive because of the storm, stepped directly in front of it. His body was hurled some distance away, the skull being fractured and the head otherwise injured.

Some resident of Cottage place who has an imaginative brain started a story soon after the body was found that Pandolino had been murdered. The nicely concocted tale asserted that the man's clothes had been removed from his body and that they were picked up at one side of the tracks, everything in one heap. It had semblances of truth about it and the police and newspapermen got busy but all for nothing. There wasn't a thing suspicious about the man's death and the fact was quickly established.

Pandolino was seen by the trackwalker about five minutes before he was struck and Michael Cerrano, who found the body, had been in the vicinity all the time. He had evidently been out for the same purpose that the victim was but he wouldn't admit it to the police—probably because they have been on the lookout for coal thieves around that way. And beside this, the only bit of apparel that was off the body was a belt.

The police and railroad detectives in looking about the scene of the accident found a bag half-filled with coal that had undoubtedly been taken from a car belonging to Joseph Harrigan, the East Fourth street dealer. Pandolina's cellar was also found to be well-filled with coal of various sizes, this being taken as an evidence that he was in the custom of visiting the car sidings.

The victim was employed as a general workman about the Hillside cemetery for four years but was laid off a short time ago. He leaves a wife and two children.

Party for H. P. Henriques, Jr.

Mrs. William Barlow, of Prospect place, gave a children's party at her home Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, for her grandson, Harry Percy Henriques, Jr., whose third birthday anniversary occurred at that time. There were nine children present between two and three years of age and the little folks had a jolly good time playing games and joining in a general romp. Later refreshments were server. The little fellow in whose honor the affair was given received a number of useful gifts. Those present were Isabelle and Edward Wilson, Feletia Riley, James French, Penelope Overton, Louise Brown, Norman McGee, William Barlow Stillman and Harry Percy Hendiques, Jr.

TOTAL SNOWFALL TO DATE 51.8 INCHES

THIS IS 17 INCHES MORE TEAN THE AVERAGE WINTER'S FALL.

The total snowfall this winter has far exceeded the average annual fall, to date it being 51.8 inches. A comparison with the years 1906-7 is interesting at this time. The total number of days that the snowfall of the winter of 1906-07, has been recorded, was thirty-six. The snow was measurable on twenty-six days and on the other ten days a trace of snow fell.

The first snow was on October 11, 1906, in the chape of a flurry, the amount being a trace. In November snow fell on three days of the month; total, 3.8 inches; in December snow fell on nine days, total, 1.3 inches; in January, 1907, snow fell on ten days, total, 12.2; in February snow fell on eight days, total, 24.0; in March, to date, snow fell on five days, total, 10.5; a grand total of 51.8 inches for the winter. The average annual snowfall is 34.6 inches.

LIAR GETS HIS DESSERTS.

And Learns That Judge Runyon Gets Back at Fakers.

John Moore, 28 years old, learned this morning, that a liar gets short shrift from City Judge Runyon. Moore, when arraigned before the court recently, charged with drunkenness and vagrancy, told a fairy tale that was accepted at face value at the time. Its gauzy texture was afterward learned, and the word "liar" was marked on his record card.

Moore was arraigned before the court today on a charge of drunkenness. He told a lovely tale of meeting two friends Saturday night, and falling a victim to sociability.

"You are a faker, Moore," said Judge Runyon with gentleness that always precedes the judicial brick; "three dollars or twenty days."

Moore couldn't pay.

Will Attend Conference.

State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of this city, is among those who will attend the National Congress of Road Builders to be held tomorrow and Wednesday in Pittsburg, in connection with the fourth annual convention of the American Road Makers' Association. The sessions will be held in Carnegie Hall, Pittsburg. Mr. Meeker, together with several county engineers from various parts of the State, will leave today for the Smoky City. Tomorrow morning Mr. Meeker will present a paper on road building, following one by State Road Commissioner E. A. Hutchinson, on "The History of Road Building in New Jersey."

Cricket Club Meeting.

The Bound Brook Cricket Club, thirteen members of which are Plainfield men, held a meeting at the home of the president, A. Newbury, in Bound Brook, Saturday night, and voted to purchase new grounds which will probably be six acres of the Bound Brook golf grounds. This season the club will be enrolled in the New Jersey League, and an effort is being made to enlarge the membership. Full particulars may be secured from Fred Wharton, of Sixth street and Grant avenue.

Plainfield Bowlers Defeated.

McCardell's bowling team went to Elizabeth Saturday afternoon with the intention of handing Neil McCarthy's team another defeat but the latter turned the tables. The Plainfielders didn't have a look in and lost all three of the series of games. The visitors were afterward entertained with lunch and an informal programme, such as was given when the Elizabethans came to this city a week ago Saturday.

Red Men's Benefit.

The performance of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," to be given by Edward Waldmann and his New York company at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night, March 22, will be given under auspices of the local order of Red Men. Mr. Waldmann, who played under their auspices at the Casino two years ago, appearing in a performance of "Faust," has many friends in that organization in Plainfield.

Noted Boy Soloist Will Sing.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, announced at the morning service yesterday that on Saturday afternoon at the free Lenten recital, F. Clinton Lee, organist, will lbe assisted by Walter McGowen, the boy soprano soloist from Grace church, Orange. He has a voice of exceptional sweetness.

Churchmen Will Smoke Up.

The Men's Club of Grace church will hold a smoker and bowling tournament at the Casino, tonight, in connection with the regular monthly meeting of the organization.

Edward C. Searing, of Park avenue, is confined to his home by an attack of the grip.

TOO MUCH STEP-MOTHER

So Declares W. C. Runyon Regarding Suits Brought by and Against Her.

A FAMILY MUDDLE

Young Lawyer Declares She Tore Up Life Policy—His Father Defendant In Divorce Case.

A family of Runyons who have local relatives and are well known in Plainfield, will figure prominently in the First district court at Newark today and tomorrow.

This afternoon, W. Cleveland Runyon, a young New York lawyer whose home is in Montclair but who formerly lived here, will appear as complainant against his stepmother, Mrs. Lavinia M. Runyon, having brought suit against her for $104. He alleges that on November 13, 1906, Mrs. Runyon, "absolutely and maliciously" destroyed an insurance policy of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company valued at that amount.

Tomorrow the young lawyer will defend his father in a suit brought against him by the latter's wife for divorce. At that time an application will be made by the mother's counsel for alimony. In her petition Mrs. Runyon states that she married Walter G. Runyon on June 12, 1897, he being at that time a widower with three children. On November 2, 1906, however, she alleges, while living with him at 288 Plane street, Newark, he deserted her and since that time has failed to support her.

W. Cleveland Runyon will try his own case as well as act as counsel for his father. In speaking of the former yesterday he remarked:

"It is a simple case of too much step-mother."

Mrs. Runyon's interests are being looked after by Alonzo Church, of 800 Broad street, Newark.

P. H. S. GIRLS DEFEAT WESTFIELD IN BASKETBALL.

Local Five Add Another Victory to Their Long String, Winning by a Score of 21 to 4.

Sustaining its reputation and adding to its long string of victories, the girls' basketball team from the Plainfield High School defeated the girls' team from the Westfield High School on the local court, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 21 to 4. The home team was far too strong for its opponents and had no trouble at all in scoring a victory. The first half of the game was a trifle slow, but in the last half the Plainfield girls played their best and fairly ran away from the visiting team.

Miss Edith Crampton, Miss Barbara Fleming and Miss Moody did the best work for the Plainfield team, while Miss Wittke, Miss Johnson and Miss Hohenstein excelled for the visitors. The game was marked by fast, clean play for which the local team has become noted. The lineup:

P. H. S.—Forwards, Miss Barbara Fleming, Miss Gertrude Moody; center, Miss Louise Andrews, Miss Minnie Line; guards, Miss Edith Crampton, Miss Bessie Alpaugh.

Westfield H. S.—Forwards, Miss Emma Wittke, Miss Bertha Johnson; center, Miss Clara Hohenstein; guards, Miss Verna Miller, Miss Gertrude Lock.

Henry Homann.

Following a short illness with pneumonia, Henry Homann, aged forty-one years, died yesterday morning at his home on Grant avenue. He had been removed to Muhlenberg Hospital Friday morning but when he found himself at the institution he asked to be taken back home. Mr. Homann was a motorman on the local street railway lines and was a son-in-law of Mrs. LeGrand Fulton, who died from pneumonia last week and with whom he lived. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Helen Fulton, and an infant daughter. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Of Interest to Bible Students.

A lecture will be given by Miss Eleanor Wood, of Philadelphia, on "How the Bible Came Down to Us," at the Friends' meeting house on Friday night, at 8 o'clock. All students of the Bible and others interested are cordially invited to attend.

Cop's First Arrest.

John McCloud, a machinist, was arrested Saturday night for drunkenness, by Patrolman Sweeney. It was the latter's maiden arrest. McCloud was released this morning under suspended sentence.

Chauncey Colthar is detained at home by an attack of tonsolitis.

Charles Wilson, of Buffalo, is visiting his father, C. M. Wilson, of West Sixth street.

YOUTH RUN DOWN AND KILLED BY P. & R. FLYER

HE WAS WALKING ALONG THE TRACKS AT EAST BOUNDBROOK.

Walking along the track, a youth abot 18 years old was struck and instantly killed by a westbound P. and R. flyer at East Bound Brook late Saturday afternoon. The body was badly mangled. Up to noon today the victim was unidentified.

The body was taken to Bound Brook on the train, the engineer of which saw the youth go under the wheels. Nobody in Bound Brook knew the victim, and as the accident occurred in Middlesex county, the body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Walter G. Runyon at Dunellen, Saturday night.

The boy was fairly well dressed and did not look like the usual hobo. There was a time card of a machine shop in his pockets and the Dunellen authorities are w orking on that clue.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION BEGAN AT ST. MARY'S.

Procession of Thirty Girls Marked the Service Yesterday. Morning.

Forty hours devotion began at St. Mary's church with the 10:30 o'clock solemn mass yesterday morning and will continue until tomorrow night. At the morning celebration, Father Delehanty was master of ceremonies and preached the sermon at the Blessed Sacrament. Father Bogan was the celebrant, Father John F. Dolan, of Jersey City, the deacon, and Father Vincent Sciolla the sub-deacon.

This morning masses were said at 5:30, 7:00 and 8:30, Father Bogan being in charge of the last mass. Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock Father Bogan will preach and on Friday night there will be "The Way of the Cross" service. Sunday night, in honor of the Feast of St. Patrick, Father Bogan will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

An impressive part of the service yesterday morning was the procession led by thirty girls who acted as flower strewers and followed by altar boys who chanted a selection.

The usual services were held at St. Joseph's church, yesterday, Father Miller having charge of the masses and preaching the sermon in the morning and in the evening.

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT CLOSED ON SATURDAY.

Attempt to Reopen Yesterday a Failure On Account of the Snow Storm.

The State tuberculosis exhibit which was held in the Stirling building, last week, was practically closed Saturday night, although it was opened for a couple of hours yesterday afternoon, when only a dozen people called. The storm made it impossible to continue it through the afternoon and evening. A record attendance was had on Saturday, when 825 people visited the exhibit afternoon and evening. The total attendance for the week was 3,200 or 3,500, including the lecture given at Trinity Reformed church. The exhibit will probably go to Orange from this city.

The unusual interest in the exhibit here exceeded the expectation of the Plainfield Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis, under whose auspices it was held, and the physicians believe that it will result in great benefit to people, not only to those who may be suffering from tuberculosis, but as a means of education to others who are now better informed as to methods of prevention and treatment.

Start New Normal Building.

E. Brognard Betts, of this city, a member of the committee of the New Jersey State Board of Education, which has in charge the construction of the new normal school at Montclair Heights, joined other members of the committee on Friday afternoon in the ceremony of opening the work on the building by throwing a shovel full of earth with a silver shovel provided for the occasion. The building is to cost $195,000, and will be ready for occupancy by February 1, 1909.

Celebrated Tin Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schilling, of Rahway, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding on Friday night, when they entertained a large number of relatives and friends. The celebrants were generously remembered with tinware, receiving enough to stock a store. The couple are known here, where they have many friends.

—Dr. Ralph M. Crane, osteopathist, of 220 Central Park South, New York city, will visit Plainfield Tuesdays and Saturdays. Those desiring appointments for consultation and osteopathic treatment, address, care of Rev. A. C. Nickerson, 768 Kensington avenue. 3 2 tf s m ***

2 KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Locomotive Boiler Blows Up at Metuchen With Terrible Results.

WHOLE TOWN SHAKEN

Engineer and Brakeman Killed and Two Others Dying—Several Fires Started.

Two men killed, two mortally injured, a number of others hurt, and Metuchen was shaken and threatened with many fires today when the boiler of engine No. 2294 of the Pennsylvania Railroad, exploded while drawing a long freight train through the town.

The Dead—Fischer, E. C., of Newark, engineer of the train; Smith, —, head brakeman, of Scranton, Pa. The names of the injured could not be learned by the Metuchen police. They reported that the fireman of the train would certainly die and that one brakeman was not expected to live. Others of the train crew were also injured, some of them seriously.

The train rolled out of Jersey City for the West last night, and at 1.05 o'clock this morning had reached Metuchen. The engine, one of the largest in the service of the Pennsylvania road, was making good headway with its big load, when just opposite the depot there came an explosion that was likened to the roar of many cannon.

Bits of broken iron and steel and fire were h urled two hundred yards away. Hahn's drug store, two blocks from the depot, caught fire. At the same instant McCutcheon's pharmacy, a block from the station, burst into flames.

Half-clad men and women ran from their homes to the street. There was not a whole window light within two blocks of the station, and the people were of the opinion that an earthquake had shaken the town.

The fires in the two durg stores were threatening adjoining property when the firemen arrived. Then there came the report that the postoffice was on fire. Every window in the postoffice was broken, and the walls of the building were cracked.

Not until the frightened people had got close to the depot was it learned that the boiler of the engine had blown up. Then the cries of injured men attracted attention.

Freight cars were piled one above the other. There was hardly anything left of the engine except its wheels, and the tracks on both sides were torn up.

One hundred yards from the engine was found the body of Fischer, so mangled and scalded it could hardly be recognized. Near Fischer lay the body of the head brakeman.

Several men were buried under the overturned cars, including the fireman and one brakeman. The wreck had caught fire, but the citizens made short work of the flames.

The fireman and brakeman, both unconsciousfl were taken to a nearby house. Physicians said they would die. Others in the crew who were injured were treated by physicians and kept until the arrival of a special train, hurried from Jersey City.

Young Woman's Responsible Position

Manager W. J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, is entertaining his sister, Miss Hannah Counihan, of Chicago. Miss Counihan is the personal representative and private secretary of Harry Deakin, head of the Deakin Art Rooms, of Chicago, one of the largest establishments of its kind in the middle west. She has been in the business for several years and in that time has become an expert in the selection of bric-a-bracs, tapestry, pictures, etc. Miss Counihan's visit east at the present time is to represent Mr. Deakin at a big sale that is to be held in New York this week.

Hold Two Meetings a Month.

It was the suggestion of President Leslie M. Daniel, of the Common Council, that that body has been holding two meetings a month, one regular and the other adjourned. He thought that while the rush of city business was on it would help to facilitate matters and prevent the extra long sessions. There will be an adjourned meeting on Thursday night to complete the business for the month. The idea seems to have met with much favor and the councilmen welcome it as a change from lengthy sessions.

Lawrence Developing.

Lawrence, the Leal's boy who made such a good showing in the Plainfield-Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. meet last week, did good work with the shot in practice Saturday night. He put the sphere 39 feet 6 inches, about two feet further than he threw it in the meet.

Corra Ryno, of Codington avenue, is confined to his home by an attack of grip.

DRUNKARD MEETS WITH A HEAVY PUNISHMENT

MUST STAY IN NEWARK AND AWAY FROM PLAINFIELD FOR A YEAR.

Having pleaded guilty to habitual drunkenness, George Leland, Jr., was sentenced to a hard fate by Judge Runyon, in the city court this morning. He was ordered to stay in Newark for a year.

Leland was arrested on complaint of his father, who has grown tired ot seeing him hang around the house, soused and sullen, every day. He pleaded guilty.

"But I have a good job waiting for me in Newark," he told the magistrate, "and if you will let me off, I will go to it, and never come into Plainfield or leave it in any condition but straight and sober."

"You can go to Newark," said the judge, "but you must promise to stay there a year. If you come back here inside of that time, I will let a sixty-day sentence fall."

Leland pleaded miserably for a lightening of the sentence, but the court was obdurate.

MUST PAY $3 OR SERVE TWO MONTHS IN JAIL.

Peter Malloy Will lHave to Make Good a Promise He Didn't Keep.

Peter Malloy, of Oak Tree, who was released on February 2 after his arrest for drunkenness on condition that he return within a week to pay a fine of $3 and failed to keep his promise, was arrested again Saturday night on the same charge.

"I sent the $3 to this place by Angel Lupo, who is an Eytalian but you'd never think it, he's that white," explained Peter, when asked about his dereliction by Judge Runyon this morning, "but the officer couldn't find anything on the books to show I owed a cent, so he took it away with 'im again."

"And I was not drunk on Saturday," continued Peter. "My feet are that sore I can hardly walk on thim, and it looks as if I'm paralqzed when I'm not at all, at all."

Peter was given until 9 o'clock until Wednesday morning to produce the $3 in court. A sentence of sixty days in jail will fall on him if he is even a half-hour late.

IMPROVEMENTS AT CO. JAIL.

Annex Being Made Into a Prison for Women.

Work is progressing on the new quarters for the female prisoners at the county jail, and Warden Dodd expects to be able to move the women prisoners from their present place in the basement to the new rooms by April 1. The new quarters are in the jail annex, which was used for the county offices while the new courthouse was being constructed. They are being fixed up in an up-to-date manner and will compare well with any in the State from a hygienic and sanitary point of view.

There will be nineteen cells in two tiers, nine below and ten above. The upper tier is enclosed with iron latticework. The lower cells have each two cots, one above the other, and managed by chains so as to be raised or lowered at will. The upper cells have each one cot. At the same time that the female quarters are being fixed up there are some improvements being made in the public and priate offices of Warden Dodd.

Former Plainfielder's Success.

The new banking house of the First National Bank, of Williamstown, this State, of which Jan van-Herwerden, formerly of this city, is the cashier, was opened on Saturday for business and was thrown open for inspection in the afternoon and evening. Three years ago Mr. vanHerwerden went to Williamustown, unknown and with opposition to his scheme of establishing a bank there. He succeeded in securing subscriptions to $25,000 worth of stock, and on May 23, 1904, opened the First National Bank. Through the efforts of Mr. vanHerwerden the institution has grown to be one of the leading institutions in the State. The directors drafted and adopted resolutions, expressing their high regard for Mr. VanHerwerden and his untiring efforts.

The Mayor Met Gov. Hughes.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley and William F. Williams, of North Plainfield, returned last night from Albany, where they spent a week. On their way home they met Governor Hughes and a party of Senators and Assemblymen from the New York State Legislature.

Boys Go To Elizabeth.

A big delegation of Y. M. C. A. boys visited the Elizabeth juniors at their gym Saturday afternoon. They were to engage in a dual meet, but a kink in the arrangements prevented it. They played games and had a good time, for all that.

AGED FARMER A SUICIDE

Brant Waved Goodbye to His Grandchildren, Then Cut His Throat.

NEW MARKET TRAGEDY

Old Man Fastened His Bedroom Door to Make Sure Work of Self-Destruction; Would Not be Interrupted.

Bernard Brant, 70 years old, killed himself at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. P. Noble, with whom he lived, in New Market, this morning. He cut his throat with a razor, and died within a few minutes. His mind is suposed to have been unbalanced by illness.

The Noble home is on a farm known as the Stuts place. The farm is run for the Nobles by Ad. Stuts. Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, Stuts started from the house with Mrs. Noble's children, to take them to the New Market school. As they walked down the road they turned and saw the old man standing at a window in his room upstairs, before a glass at which he was in the habit of shaving himself. He waved his hand at them in apparent cheerfulness.

It was about five minutes later that Mrs. Noble and a sister, who was in the lower part of the house with her, were starlted by the sound of a falling body from the old man's room. They hurried upstairs, to find their way into their father's room blocked by a fastened door. It was not usual for his door to be locked, and the circumstance frightened them. They tugged at the door and finally pulled it open.

They found their father lifeless beside his bed, with his thoat cut straight across and deeply. Blotches on the pane showed that he had drawn the razor across his neck in front of the glass, and then turned to walk to his bed. He slashed all too well, and fell dead before the short journey could be completed. He had fastened the door with a rope.

The suicide had been ill with grip and suffered much with rheumatism. He had made no threats of self-destruction, but the family are convinced his ills and the pains of old age had led him to plan the act. The care with which he fastened the door is taken to indicate that the suicide was not the result of momentary impulse.

Coroner Moke, of New Brunswick, was notified and will take charge of the case this afternoon.

DAILY PRESS PRIZE FOR P. H. S. SENIORS

TO STIMULATE INTEREST IN MATTERS OF MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, announced this morning at the school that The Daily Press had offered an annual prize of $10 in gold to be presented to the member of the senior class who writes the best essay on some subject connected with the municipal affairs of Plainfield.

The letter from Mr. Travell, accepting the offer of The Daily Press follows:

"I have your kind favor of present date in which you present the offer of The Daily Press to establish in the High School an annual prize of $10 in gold to be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall write the best essay on some subject connected with the municipal affairs of Plainfield. We accept your kind offer with pleasure. At the same time let me express to you my gratification that you add this to other gifts that you have made to the High School, and that you take this practical way of stimulating the interest in the problems and operation of our municipal government on the part of our youth, who must presently be influential factors in the right settlement of such problems.

"Very truly yours,
"I. W. TRAVELL,
"Principal Plainfield High School."

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The township school board will meet at the schoolhouse this afternoon to consider the Meskill—Saverd case, and after the meeting Justice Von Minden will hear the accused principal.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held April 7. The men of the church will serve a supper, cooked wholly by themselves.

Plans are being made for an entertainment for the library fund. S. S. Swackhamer, of Plainfield, and Judge Lyon, of Perth Amboy, will speak at it.

Mr. and Mrs. James Walton, 2d., of Plainfield, will not move to the village, as was reported. They have rented a house on West Fifth street, Plainfield.

The farming tools, wagons and household goods of Mrs. Olive Goddu will be auctioned off at the Ransom farm next Friday.

Thomas Bogue, who has been living in New York, has become a villager. He commutes to the city.

The Baptist church cook book committee hope to have the manuscript complete by tonight.

John Manning, who has been suffering from an injury to his foot, is able to be about as usual.

I. J. Stites has acquired possession of the house and lot recently purchased by John Fleming.

Wyckoff Voorhees erected a large color press for the Scott Press Works in New York last week.

Walter Blair has been suffering from an attack of blood poisoning in his hand.

Miss Irene Day is confined to the house by a heavy cold and a sore throat.

The notices for the annual school meeting on March 19 have been posted.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

The heavy snow storm of yesterday, one of the winter's last parting farewells, kept every one but those who were obliged to be out, in the house. Some of the older residents claim there are still two snow storms due before winter is over.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of West Front street, Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

But little improvement is reported in the condition of William C. Stanbery, who has been ill for several months.

Miss Evelyn Buckley, of Plainfield, was the guest over Sunday of her aunt, Miss Susie Parse, of East Front street.

Rev. A. H. Cook occupied his pulpit at the Methodist church yesterday after a vacation of several weeks.

The snow storm interfered materially with the missionary meeting last night at the Baptist church.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

It seems to be an accepted fact that a girl has a perfect right to go back on the man to whom she is engaged to be married when she becomes convinced that he is afflicted with the sin of egotism and selfishness. That is a part of the story in "A Message from Mars," the famous comedy drama which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Selfish men do find women who will marry them, but it is generally believed that the girl is deceived until too late. Some lawyers say that selfishness is the cause for more divorce suits than any other ten reasons that might be assigned. The author of "A Message from Mars" builded his play wisely, in that he made it on high lines and dealt with conditions as they really exist.

Horace Parker, in "A Message from Mars," at New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

Some of the wittiest sayings ever put together in a single play sparkle in the lines of "What Happened to Jones," the side-splitting comedy, which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night. They are sayings which are now part of the vocabulary of every "smart" up-to-date youth. Jones always equal to an emergency furnishes the following: When asked whom he is and his business replies "I'm Jones. I trael for hymn book houses and sell playing cards as a side line. If the town is dead, hymn books; if it's alive playing cards. I catch 'em coming and going." Again in drawing from the inside of a piano a whiskey flask, he says: "I need this every hour." When asked what the flask contains, he answers "Cold tea from Kentucky." Later in speaking to the old maid who is infatuated with him thinking him another he says: "When I whistled for the dog, you met me at the gate." The production will be headed by Richard Milton and New York cast.

The announcement is made that the "Queen of the Kidnappers" is coming to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. This is the play that has awakened universal interest as a portraiture of the lower stratum of New York life. As if wearied with the endless society plays, and the straining after an unreal mimic ideal, the public turned with relief to this bit of real life. It is a real, breathing portion of humanity such as we meet in the every day walks of life. Albert Chevalier has made himself famous and created a new field in English character work by his impersonations, songs and stories of the costermonger folk of the East Side of London. The great East Side of New York can furnish as many subjects for stage characterization, if not more, than the lower district of London. life is more diversified here. There is a greater jumbling of nationalties. A more varied and amusing jargon of tongues. The "Queen of the Kidnappers" was written after a personal study of the scenes and characters represented, and is the first attempt to embody them in characteristic form, and to place before the public the system of kidkiapping so often heard of, but never understood.

Probably the most popular of all plays of native origin, "In Old Kentucky," is to appear in this city next Friday night. Although produced in 1892 and played every season since that time, it has never lost its hold on theatregoers. Everybody knows the story of the play and it is not necessary to well at length upon its arious episodes. It is stirring and realistic, is romantic and idyllic and is unfolded with a directness of purpose and swiftness of action rarely found in latter-day dramas. Its tone is healthful and helpful. It is the sort of drama that goes a long way towards making the theatre to a certain degree a great teacher of the people.

Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The great success of Thomas Jefferson in this role for many years past has given the play an increased vogue, and should appeal strongly to the millions of admirers that his father had. Thomas Jefferson's Rip will be the same to those familiar with the character, and a new generation of theatregoers will greet it with enthusiasm. Three Jeffersons have played "Rip Van Winkle," beginning with the grandfather, continuing with the father, and now the son, Thomas Jefferson, representing three generations. "Rip Van Winkle" will come to this city after a most successful engagement at the Boston theatre, and Wallack's, New York city.

"The Rogers Brothers in Ireland,"

Marie Quinn, as "Madge," in "In Old Kentucky," at New Plainfield Theatre Friday Night.

the most famous musical comedy organization in America, will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. This will be quite an event. The massive scenery, as made for the New York production, will be mounted entire, and the same company of 100 people will appear.

TRAMP HAD TO BE SHOWN.

His Scheme to Get An Apple Did Not Work at Grocery.

"Sir," said the tramp to the grocer as he turned his back to the hot stove and looked longingly at a basket of red apples, "the returns of the agricultural department this year show that the apple crop reached the enormous yield of over 150,000,000 barrels, saying nothing of those saved out for cider."

"Don't doubt it at all," said the grocer.

"Under those circumstances doesn't it look to you as if you might spare me one single apple?"

"Not at all."

"Sir," continued the tramp as he backed two inches nearer the stove, "all medical men are agreed that the apple is a necessity to human health. The system needs the phosphates contained in such fruit. You agree with me, do you?"

"I would have agreed with you a year ago, but now it's different. Something better has been found. See here."

And he took the tramp by the shoulder and led him to the door and gave him a shove out into the cold world. The man returned, looked through the window and said:

"Oh, I'm not kicking at all. This is a world of improvement, and if I'm a year behind the times it's my fault, and I'm not saying a word. If shoving is better than phosphates, why, shoving it is."—Detroit Tribune.

A Wonder.

A number of military men in a Washington hotel were giving an account of an incident of the Civil War. A quiet man who stood by at last said:

"Gentlemen, I happened to be there and might be able to refresh your memory as to what took place in reference to the event just narrated."

The hotel keeper said to him:

"Sir, what might have been your rank?"

"I was a private."

Next day the quiet man as he was about to depart asked for his bill.

"Not a cent, sir; not a cent," answered the proprietor. "You are the very first private I ever met."—New York Times.

Short Rotation of Crops.

Every farmer realizes the value of a short rotation of crops in maintaining the fertility of the soil. Yet it is not at all uncommon to seed to timothy and clover and mow the field for three or four consecutive years till every vestige of clover has disappeared and nearly all the value of the clover plant as a renovator of the soil is lost, says a writer in Ohio Farmer. I believe sowing timothy with the clover is all right. I always practice it. Then I am quite sure of a catch, and I get more and better hay. There are also other advantages which space forbids I should enumerate here. I believe, though, that the meadow should be mowed but once and never more than twice before plowing.

The Evils of Divorce.

Wilfred and Elsie were quarreling over a costly doll. Wilfred had a good grip on the doll's leg, and Elsie held on to the china head with both hands. They pulled and quarreled simultaneously.

"Elsie," came mamma's voice from somewhere in the kitchen, "what's all that noise about?"

After a short pause Elsie replied: "Nothin', ma. We're only playin' divorce, an' Wilfred's fightin' for the custody of our doll."—Judge.

Thumb Print Murder Clew.

St. Louis, Mo., March 11.—Fully as interesting as Mark Twain's story of "Pudd'nhead Wilson," with its thumb print tragedy, is the murder in the author's native State of Mrs. Kate Quernhelm, wealthy daughter of a retired capitalist, wife of a downtown hardware merchant, who was murdered by kicks, stamps, blows and mutilated in daylight in her own home after the slayer had locked every window and door. But the slayer left two clews behind. One a mark of his clutch on her neck, the other finger prints in blood on a piece of her clothing nearby. Mark Twain's theory has been accepted as a factor in the identification of criminals and its efficacy may be proven for the first time in St. Louis. Mrs. Quernheim's body was found late yesterday afternoon in her home, at No. 3,720 Vest avenue.

Good Guesser Gets Reward.

St. Louis, Mo., March 11.—After two years of litigation decision was rendered yesterday by Judge McElhinney, in the Circuit Court at Clayton, awarding to M. Logan Guthrie, of Fulton, Mo., the prize of $25,000 in a contest to the person who entered the nearest guess to the total number of paid admissions into the World's Fair. Guthrie guessed 12,804,616, which was announced as the exact number of admissions. Several other claimants appeared and payment of the prizes was held up pending settlement to the different claims. Guthrie instituted suit in 1905. Finally the other claimants withdrew their claims and the court awarded the money to Guthrie.

Suicide Rather Than Exposure.

New York, March 11.—Leonidas M. Preston, popularly supposed to be very wealthy, took his own life in the Hotel Cumberland on Thursday rather than face impending revelations in his business affairs. Just at the moment a committee of stockholders from the company of which he was the general manager for New York was at his door bent on questioning him he swallowed prussic acid, dying instantly. The presence of the poison was detected at an autopsy performed by Dr. Philip F. O'Hanlon. The accountants working all day on Mr. Preston's books and the admissions of personal representatives of his family are assigned as the cause for self-destruction.

Need Not Shave Negroes.

Hartford, Conn., March 11.—In a decision yesterday the Supreme Court declared that barbers in the State have a right to refuse to shave negroes. The decision was reached on an appeal from a Superior Court decision in Bridgeport by Henry H. Foulkner, a negro, who sued Thomas Solazzi, a barber of that city. Solazzi refused to shave Foulkner, his defence being that his barber shop was not a place of public accommodation within the meaning of the law. The Supreme Court upholds that contention.

'Frisco Boss Arrested.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—Abraham Ruef, political "boss" of this city, under indictment for extortion, who has been missing for several days, was found last night at a resort on Ocean Beach and at once placed under arrest. The arrest was made by State Senator W. J. Biggy, who earlier in the day had been appointed elisor by the Court to apprehend the fugitive. The elisor was piloted to the hiding place of Ruef by Detective Burns.

WHAT CAUSES CONSUMPTION?

After years of investigation and experiment, Prof. E. vonBehring, of the University of Marburg, Germany, makes the somewhat startling statement that notwithstanding the teachings of Prof. Koch and other recognized authorities on tuberculosis, pulmonary consumption is rarely acquired by breathing in contaminated aid ladened with tubercule bacili which lodge in the lungs. The world famous discoverer of diphtheria antitoxin, who is the peer of Koch as a bactereriologist, holds to the theory that in the great majority of cases the bacili find their way into the human system through milk absorbed by the intestines and carried to the lungs through the blood and lymph. He reasons that the disease is really contracted, in most instances, in infancy, while Koch says that it works into the human system more frequently in adult life.

In an exceptionally instructive discussion of the struggle against tuberculosis, in the current issue of The Independent, Dr. von Behring says that he considers the care of cattle, consequently, the most important element in the battle with this ancient scourge of humanity. Dr. Koch on the other hand, has always held to the view that the only way to get rid of the disease is to prevent human beings from inhaling the consumptive sputum.

All this brings to mind the work of the Plainfield Board of Health which is fighting the battle on both theories, although there is no doubt that that body as well as the Plainfield Clinical Society places more confidence in the Koch theory. At least judging from the regulations the local health authorities have established concerning the remedy and prevention of pulmonary consumption, the view is shared here in common with other such bodies throughout the country that the bacili breathed into the lungs is the root of the evil and that the best way to end the plague is to stop consumptives expectorating in such places where the dried sputum is likely to be inhaled by healthy persons.

A Western lawyer, who has figured in over a score of murder trials, has coined a name for the alienists who swear to almost anything. He calls them "calisthentic artists."

The safest answer to give "Constant Reader" as to when Plainfield will inaugurate a system of municipal collection of garbage is to say "You Never Can Tell."

Newark man, who has been prohibited by Judge Runyon from setting foot on Plainfield soil for one year, may well ask "Is life worth living?"

Dr. Dowie has gone but Prophet Crowdy and Mrs. Eddy are still with us.

WANTS G. A. R. REPRESENTED.

Bill Appropriating $15,000 for Jersey's Part in McClellan Shaft Unveiling.

Trenton, March 11.—It is probable that an amendment will be offered in the Legislature tonight increasing from $15,000 to $20,000 the appropriation which is expected to be made for New Jersey's participation at the exercises attending the unnveiling at the McClellan monument at Washington on May 2.

The additional $5,000 is to be asked to provide for the participation in the exercises of members of the G. A. R. It is proposed to limit the delegates, who will be sent at the expense of the State, to the actual members of General McClellan's command during the war.

This bill was laid over in the Senate on Wednesday for the express purpose of having it amended so that the G. A. R. might participate in the ceremonies.

MUST PAY FRANCHISE TAX ON CAPITAL STOCK.

Errors Tribunal Reverses Supreme Court's Decision, Which Had Upheld Knickerbocker Appeal.

Trenton, March 11.—The mere announcement recently that the Court of Errors and Appeals had reversed the decision of the Supreme Court, which had rendered a decision in favor of the Knickerbocker Importing Mompany, in its suit against the State Board of Assessors, was followed Saturday by the filing of the higher court's opinion by Judge Dill.

A franchise tax of $500 was levied by the assessors against the company on the ground that its $500,000 of capital stock was all outstanding. At the time that the assessment was made the Knickerbocker company claimed that only $154,000 of its stock was outstanding. Prior to the assessment the corporation had made an agreement with the Cazanove Champagne Company to take over the latter concern, including its rights and liabilities, and to issue therefor $500,000 of stock.

The Cazanove company agreed to take this stock and pay for and immediately turn back to the Knickerbocker company $371,800 of the stock to assist the latter company in procuring a working capital. There were other provisions to the agreement which it was held were carried out.

A statement was filed by the Knickerbocker company with the State Board of Assesors to the effect that the $500,000 of stock had been issued but rhat ptior to the date of the assessment 3,460 shares, through the agreement with the Cazanove company, had been returned to the treasury of the Knickerbocker company, leaving only $154,000 of stock outstanding, and claims that the last named sum should have formed the basis of the assessment.

The Supreme Court, under certiorari proceedings, upheld this contention and reduced the assessment to the sum of the $154,000 of stock out standing, and the State board appealed.

The Knickerbocker company, Judge Dill says in his opinion, could not avoid its liability to the State to pay a franchise tax based upon the $500,000 of stock issued, by an corporate in-buying of its own stock.

EIGHT RESCUED.

Morristown Police and Firemen Grope Bravely Through Smoke-Filled Tenement.

Morristown, March 11.—Members of the p olice and fire departments distinguished themselves yesterday morning, when, at a fire that broke out in the basement of the clothing store of Morris Holland, 17 Washington street, they rescued five women, two children and a man who would have perished but for the heroism of the fire fighters and the patrolmen.

Dense volumes of cmoke filled the entire building and that, combined with the flames, cut off all means of exit from the second and third floors, where the rescued persons lived. Ladders were brought into play and the firemen and police made their way through the blinding smoke, secured the children and carried them to places of safety. Others assisted the man and the women to the ground, some of whom were half suffocated from the smake.

When the women saw their plight and all hopes of escape being apparently cut off, they frantically yelled from the windows for assistance, one or two even threatening to jump to the ground as a last resort, but the wiser counsel of the man, who was in the same predicament, prevailed.

The candy store of A. Butera, in the same building, was also damaged, and the losses on the b uilding, stores and furniture will probably amount to something like $5,000.

NEAR DEATH FOR HER DOLL.

Little Girl Ran Into Blazing Room to Save It—Rescued by Mother.

Bloomfield, March 11.—Mrs. Robert Myer and her three young children, one a baby, had a narrow escape from being burned to death Saturday night. While she was putting the baby to bed a kerosene lamp in the dining room, where the other children were playing, was thrown to the floor, and the rugs took fire.

Mrs. Myer ran to the back door with thec hildren and called for help. Mrs. Moffat, who lives next door, ran to her assistance. She picked up rugs from another room and tried to smother the flames. Finding this of no avail , she invited the mother and children into her home. When the women started to leave, it was discovered that one of the children was missing. The mother called her by name and teh answer came from the blazing room:

"Mamma, I want my dolly."

The grightened mother ran into the room, and grouping her way through the smoke, found the little girl lying on the floor. When Mrs. Myer reached a place of safety agais with the child, it was found that her own and the child's clothes had caught fire. It was quickly put out before either suffered any injury.

SUNDAY DRINK BILL WILL BE KILLED TONIGHT

BLOHM MEASURE MARKED FOR DEFEAT BY REPUBLICANS.

Trenton, March 11.—The Democrats will make their last attempt tonight to pass the Blohm bill, which allows an open Sunday for selling liquor when the voters of a municipality so decide.

The intention of the House Democrats last Tuesday evening was to abandon the bill, but the brewers at a meeting held in Newark Saturday declared that the bill must be passed to a vote. The Democratic leaders then issued orders that a vote must be had.

When the Blohm bill comes up the Republicans will line up solidly against it, and they will be helped by Messrs. Morris, Firth, Holcombe, and Hendrickson, Democrats. It is not unlikely that Mr. Morris will speak against the bill. He is one of the powerful Democrats of the House, and his speech will have much weight with his fellow-Democrats. It is known that Majority Leader Klenert has no heart in the task of defending the bill. He may not even speak. No one expects the measure to pass. The Democrats are glum and the Republicans jubilant.

The passing away of the Blohm bill will result in the legislators showing a feverish haste to close up the present session. There is no apparent interest in the railroad bills, severe as their provisions are, and the Hendrickson act to tax the main stem of railroads by local assessors at local rates for local purposes has run against all sorts of snags.

MANY CURIOUS WATCHES MADE IN VARIOUS LANDS.

A man in Switzerland has just made a watch entirely of ivory, obtained from an old billiard ball. Works, hands and case are all of the same material. And yet it keeps very good time.

The first phonograph watch was made in Paris in 1897. It was large and heavy but was regarded as a great curiosity, nevertheless. Now, however, watches that speak the hours in place of chiming them are not at all uncommon.

They are, says the House Beautiful, still somewhat bulky, as compared with the best ordinary modern chronometers, although not so much so but that they can be easily carried in an ordinary waistcoat pocket.

Beneath the crystal back of a valuable chronometer owned by an English tradesman six tiny gold and silver fish with ruby eyes are seen, apparently swimming about in real water. The fish, infinitely small, are beautifully modeled, and the effect of movement in their natural element is due to a combination of hair springs with a background of quicksilver.

Far more wonderful, because of its small size, is the watch owned by the Czarina of Russia, originally presented to the Empress Elizabeth on her coronation.

At the back is inset an exquisitely beautiful little model of the Holy Sepulchre, over which is seen standing, stern and motionless, a Praetorian guard.

This is viewed through the crystal of the case. On opening it the imitation stones roll away from the mouth of the miniature vault, the sentry kneels reverently, angels appear at opposite sides of the opening and at the same time there is played, softly and sweetly the music of one of the sacred Easter songs beloved by all orthodox Russians.

The watch weighs only seven ounces, but the maker is said to have worked at it almost uninterruptedly nine years.

One of the most treasured ornaments of a London star of burlesque is an exquisitely pretty little blouse watch which plays a couple of selections from "The Belle of New York." The watch is keyless so far as its ordinary mechanism is concerned, but a tiny key has to be used to start it playing. The music is low in tone, but very sweet and clear.

LITERARY.

The boys of America will surely say that the March American Boy is the best ever. The stories are as varied as boys' hobbies, and every one is good, clean, and intensely interesting. Further chapters of the serials by Stratemeyer, Alger, Shute, Sprague, and Tomlinson are given which will increase the reader's interest in the various characters. A new serial by Edward S. Ellis, entitled "Off the Reservation," dealing with the notorious Apache chief Geronimo, starts in this number and will prove a winner with the boys. The shorter stories include: "A Hot Twenty Minutes," telling of a thrilling naval battle during the Civil War; "The Codfish," a fine story of trawling on the Grand Banks; "Bray's Kid," showing how the innocence and purity of a child can soften the roughest of men; "A Race with a Moose" tells how one of these big deer towed a boat with a little girl far out into a lake; "Dave of the Dauntless," a story of the dangers attending the capture of seals in the Far North. Installment No. 3 of How to Become Strong tells "How to be a Good Runner." The Boy on His Muscle is a new department which all healthy boys will like. It is edited by Arthur Duffey, the champion sprinter.

TO 'PHONE SPEECH TO G. A. R.

Veteran Currie, in Florida, Host of Banquet in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, March 11.—Refusing to forego the pleasure of his annual dinner to Grand Army comrades because of his absence in Florida, Banker George Currie, of this city, who led a company in the Civil War, has issued invitations by wire for a gathering of the old soldiers to celebrate his seventy-second birthday today and will join them by telephone.

The dinner will be given at the Wentz Hotel here, and a long-distance telephone in the centre of the table will be connected with the host while toasts are being made, so that he can deliver his annual speech to his comrades. Currie has never been out of the city before on the anniversary of the dinner and arranged the telephone scheme after he had been sent to Florida for his health.

ADDRESSES ALLOWED ON SOUVENIR POSTAL CARDS.

Writing Is Now Permitted On the Face of the Picture Postals.

Last Friday, March 1, was the day when it became permissible to mail souvenir post cards with writing on the address side and receive them without being compelled to pay penalty postage. Nobody was more joyful than the postoffice men themselves, especially the postage-due clerks and the carriers. What with the enormous growth of the souvenir card custom, and the general disregard by the public of the antiquated rule which forbade writing on the face of the cards, all of the large offices, Trenton among them, have for a year or longer been confronted with a problem that was annoying, to say the least.

The charging of the postage-due accounts against the different carriers' routes and the collection on their part of the money for penalty postage is believed to have cost more in time than the actual amount recovered by the exactions of the old regulations. It has been stated that many of the carriers, rather than be delayed by the collection of the odd pennies, paid the penalty postage out of their own pockets, though this would probably not apply to certain sections of the city where the penalty postage charged against one route would sometimes figure as high as $7 for a week's delivery.

However that may have been, it is done away with now and the public may use the left side of a souvenir for a message of greeting, provided the address side on the right is left open enough for a legible address. Expert postal men are of the opinion that the department's sensible conclusion in the matter will save considerable time in the handling of the cards and that the revenues will not be seriously affected, because nobody believes that the writing ever added much weight to them. The public ought to be pleased because it will now be possible to send a card that is attractive, without being compelled to write the message into the picture, unless one paid letter postage.

NEW JERSEY HAS MANY SMALL INVESTORS.

The State Not Given Up to Large Corporations Only.

"Perhaps on account of the large number of foreign corporations which incorporate in New Jersey," said one of the leading business men of the State yesterday, "there seems to be more or less of an impression that the State is given over principally to industries involving a large amount of capital, to the exclusion of the smaller or individual industry. No impression could be more erroneous, for the latest figures of the industrial census show that New Jersey, while being the home of many large industries, is also peculiarly adapted to smaller businesses. Of the 7,010 recorded producing establishments in the State, 3,324 have annual products of less than $20,000 each, and 1,900 of these reach less than $5,000 each. In addition to this, there are something like 10,000 still smaller establishments not included in the census figures, most of which of course belong in the less than $5,000 class.

"This should not be taken to mean that the industries of the State are small and unimportant, for in the same connection it should be remembered tha New Jersey has 955 establishments each of whose annual products is worth from $100,000 to $1,000,000, and 121 establishments each producing over $1,000,000 annually. But it does show that New Jersey is a good place for the man of small means, and the number of small establishments in the State shows to what a surprising extent such men are contributing to the healthy development of the State. Of course, there are various causes which attract the small investor to New Jersey as compared to New York. Development is very rapid here and legitimate investment sure of rapid growth."

OLD NEW YORK.

Four Hundred Years Ago New York Was the Wilderness.

Few people think nowadays, said an old New Yorker, of how this island looked 400 years ago. Now one sees nothing but brick and stone and hurrying people. There are three stories of transportation lines, piled one upon another, and houses from fifteen to thirty stories high. It is hard to look back to the time before the white man sailed up the bay. Then New York island was forest clad, with wide meadows facing the bay and the rivers, and perhaps with little open parks among the woods on the higher land. Of course, there must have been plenty of game here—deer, bear and turkeys; and springs and ponds with brooks running down to the salt water in all direcctions.

Why, I myself can remember when we used often see quail and woodcock not so very far from where Central Park is now, and when the herons used to breed in a patch of woods which stood in blocks now covered with big apartment houses. The ponds in which boys used to go fishing, and about the edges of which woodcock were somtimes started, have long been filled up. But underneath this big city the springs still pour out their floods and the brooks still run to the salt water.—Century.

WHEN EMPEROR WILLIAM TRAVELS.

Works Hard and Accompanied by Staff of Government Officials.

Even when traveling the Kaiser is at work, for being the chief of a great nation he must keep the government machine in motion.

A large staff of government officials accompanies him. A high official from the foreign office attends to the duties of foreign politics, making reports on the affairs of state, receives the orders of the soverign and keeps up the communications between the Kaiser and the Chancellor. Then there is a privy councillor, who takes dictations, deciphers telegrams and transmits the same. Besides, two adjutants accompany the suite.

For the very lively exchange of messages between the Kaiser and the Chancellor special arrangements is made by the imperial postal department. Telegraphic messages must be presented at once to the Kaiser. When necessary to be deciphered a postal official is in the nearest telegraph office to attend to this duty.

When the Kaiser is out hunting special messenger goes after him in case urgent messages must be delivered. Even at a late hour in the night the Kaiser has ordered that regardless of his own convenience he shall be awakened if important communications arrive. In addition to these telegraphic reports, mail matter, which arrives daily by courier, must be given to the reports of Ministers from other departments, conferences must be held at all times of the day, and long dictations given in the study where the Kaiser is stopping, be it on board of the Hohenzollern or in his sleeper.

Added to this must be reckoned the hours when he is working alone, consisting of the reading of newspaper clippings, the active correspondence with his wife, from whom he receives a daily letter, and the correspondence with royalties or friends. —American Review of Reviews.

THE GOLDEN PLUM.

The original tree of the Golden plum is said to have been grown in 1887 or 1888 by Mr. Burbank from a seed of Robinson, which was the result of a cross with pollen of Abundance, one of the best known and most widely disseminated of the Japanese plums in America. It was named Golden by Mr. Burbank in 1892 and appears under that name in his catalogue of new creations in fruits and flowers in 1893. About that time the original tree and right of introduction were purchased by a Missouri nursery firm which catalogued is as "Gold." The name "Golden," however, has been generally adopted by pomologists. This ariety has been planted in most of our plum districts, and, while not of the highest dessert quality, it is a hardy, productive and excellent fruit in most of the territory where either the Japanese or the Chickasaw plums succeed.

The fruit is medium in size, surface a golden yellow, lightly flushed with carmine, when well ripened, and covered with a thing bloom, with numerous dots of russet or gray. The skin is thick, rather acid and bitter when picked prematurely; the stone small to medium cling; flavor rich, subacid, pleasant; quality good to very good, season medium, about July 20 to 30 at Augusta, Ga., where the specimens here illustrated were grown.

The tree, dwarfish and compact, with small foliage, resembling its Chickasaw rather than its Japanese parent in these respects, is pronounced by Pomologist William A. Taylor of Washington to be a good bearer, apparently hardy throughout all but the coldest plum districts and particularly well adapted to the south Atantic and Gulf States.

Rockefeller's Amusing Story.

Several years ago, when the University of Chicago held its decennial celebration, John D. Rockefeller was its guest for several days. A bewildering succession of functions followed one another with such rapidity that each affair was from one to four hours late, relates Lippincott's.

At the great banquet on the closing day, Mr. Rockefeller, in his after-dinner speech, told the following story:

"I have felt for the past twenty four hours like the Boston business man, who lived in the suburbs and came in to his office every day. One winter afternoon he took the train for his home, but a terrific snow storm was raging, and about half way to his suburb the train was snowed in. All night the passengers were imprisoned, but early in the morning they managed to reach a nearby telegraph station, and the Boston man sent the following dispatch to his office:

"'Will not be in the office today. Have not got home yesterday, yet.'"

Which?

Once upon a time two young women came to a wise theatrical manager and applied for positions as stars.

"It is not our custom to engage stars who have had no dramatic experience," he said. "And neither of you has been on the stage?"

"No, sir," they replied.

"Then what qualifications do you possessess?"

"I, sir," said the first young woman, "have ambition and a future."

"I, sir," said the second young woman, "have ambition and a past which would make copy."

And so the manager made out a contract for one of them.—Judge.

"Certainly. But I merely wish to be sure of my facts for the purpose of this interview, to save me the trouble of going to the records. And, moreover, I am somewhat unfamiliar with your procedure in this country. I am a member, sir, of the Irish bar. Pardon me, but I repeat my question."

"I have made oath—that, I trust, is sufficient even for a member of the Irish bar."

"Quite," said Larry, nodding his head gravely.

He was not, to be sure, a presentable member of any bar, for a smudge detracted considerably from the appearance of one side of his face, his clothes were rumpled and covered with brick dust, and his hands were black. But I had rarely seen him so calm. He recrossed his legs, peered into the bowl of his pipe for a moment, then asked, as quietly as though he were soliciting an opinion of the weather.

"Will you tell me, Mr. Pickering, whether you yourself are a debtor of John Marshall Glenarm's estate?"

Pickering's face grew white and his eyes started, and when he tried suddenly to speak his jaw twitched. The room was so still that the breaking of a blazing log on the andirons was a pleasant relief. We stood, the three of us, with our eyes on Pickering, and in my own case I must say that my heart was pounding my ribs at an uncomfortable speed, for I knew Larry was not sparring for time.

The blood rushed into Pickering's face and he turned toward Larry stormily.

"This is unwarrantable and infamous! My relations with Mr. Glenarm are none of your business. When you remember that after being deserted by his own flesh and blood he appealed to me, going so far as to intrust all his affairs to my care at his death, your reflection is an outrageous insult. I am not accountable to you or any one else!"

"Really, there's a good deal in all that," said Larry. "We don't pretend to any judicial functions. We are perfectly willing to submit the whole business and all my client's acts to the authorities."

(I would give much if I could reproduce some hint of the beauty of that word authorities as it rolled from Larry's tongue!).

"Then, in God's name, do it, you blackguards," roared Pickering.

Stoddard, seated on the table, knocked his heels together gently. Larry recrossed his legs and blew a cloud of smoke. Then, after a quarter of a minute in which he gazed at the ceiling with his quiet, blue eyes, he said:

"Yes; certainly, there are always the authorities. And as I have a tremendous respect for your American institutions I shall at once act on your suggestion. Mr. Pickering, the estate is richer than you thought it was. It holds, or will hold, your notes given to the decedent for $320,000."

He drew from his pocket a brown envelope, walked to where I stood and placed it in my hands.

At the same time Stoddard's big figure grew active, and before I realized that Pickering had leaped toward the packet, the executor was sitting in a chair, where the chaplain had thrown him. He rallied promptly, stuffing his necktie into his waistcoat; he even laughed a little.

"So much old paper! You gentlemen are perfectly welcome to it."

"Thank you!" jerked Larry.

"Mr. Glenarm and I had many transactions together, and he must have forgotten to destroy those papers," continued Pickering.

"Quite likely," I remarked. "It is interesting to know that Sister Theresa wasn't his only debtor."

Pickering stepped to the door and called the sheriff.

"I will give you until to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to vacate the premises. Those claims are utterly worthless, as I am ready to prove. The court understands the situation perfectly."

"Perfectly, perfectly," repeated the sheriff.

"I believe that is all," said Larry, pointing to the door with his pipe.

The sheriff was regarding him with particular attention.

"What did I understand your name to be?" he demanded.

"Laurance Donovan," Larry replied coolly.

Pickering seemed to notice the name now and his eyes lighted disagreeably.

"I think I have heard of your friend before," he said, turning to me. "I congratulate you on the international reputation of your counsel. He's esteemed so highly in Ireland that they offer a large reward for his return. Sheriff, I think we have finished our business for to-day."

He seemed anxious to get the man away, and we gave them escort to the outer gate where a horse and buggy was waiting.

"Now, I'm in for it," said Larry, as I locked the gate. "We've spiked one of his guns, but I've given him a new one to use against myself. But come, and I will show you the Door of Bewilderment before I skip."

CHAPTER XXII.

A Prowler of the Night.

Down we plunged into the cellar, through the trap and to the Door of Bewilderment.

"Don't expect too much," admonished Larry; "I can't promise you a single Spanish coin."

"Perish the ambition! We have blocked Pickering's game, and nothing else matters," I said.

We crawled through the hole in the wall and lighted candles. The room was about seven feet square. At the farther end was an oblong wooden door, close to the ceiling, and Larry tugged at the fastening until it came down, bringing with it a mass of snow and leaves.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we are at the edge of the ravine. Do you see the blue sky? And yonder, if you will twist your necks a bit, is the boathouse."

"Well, let the scenic effects go and show us where you found those papers," I urged.

"Speaking of mysteries, that is where I throw up my hands, lads. It's quickly told. Here is a table, and here is an old despatch box, which lies just where I found it. It was closed and the key was in the lock. I took out that packet—it wasn't even sealed—saw the character of the contents, and couldn't resist the temptation to try the effect of an announcement of its discovery on your friend Pickering. Now that is nearly all. I found this piece of paper under the tape with which the envelope was tied, and I don't hesitate to say that when I read it I laughed until I thought I should shake down the cellar. Read it, John Glenarm!"

He handed me a fragment of legal-cap paper on which was written in the unmistakable handwriting of John Marshall Glenarm, these words:

HE LAUGHS BEST WHO LAUGHS LAST.

"What do you think is so funny in this?" I demanded.

"Who wrote it, do you think," asked Stoddard.

"Who wrote it, do you ask? Why Jack's grandfather wrote it! John Marshall Glenarm, the cleverest, grandest old man that ever lived, wrote it!" declaimed Larry, his voice booming loudly in the room. "It's all a great big game, fixed up to try you and Pickering,—but principally you, you blockhead! Oh, it's grand, perfectly, deliciously grand,—and to think it should be my good luck to share in it!"

"Humph! I'm glad you're amused, but it doesn't strike me as being so awfully funny. Suppose those had fallen into Pickering's hands; then where would the joke have been, I should like to know!"

"On you, my lad, to be sure! The old gentleman wanted you to study architecture; he wanted you to study his house; he even left a little pointer in an old book! Oh, it's too good to be true!"

"That's all clear enough," observed Stoddard, knocking upon the despatch box with his knuckles. "But why do you suppose he dug this hole here with its outlet on the ravine?"

"Oh, it was the way of him!" explained Larry. "He liked the idea of queer corners and underground passages. This is a bully hiding place for man or treasure, and that outlet into the ravine makes it possible to get out of the house with nobody the wiser. It's in keeping with the rest of his scheme. Be gay, comrades! To-morrow will likely find us with plenty of business on hands. At present we hold the fort, and let us have a care lest we lose it."

We closed the ravine door, restored the wall as best we could, and returned to the library. We made a list of the Pickering notes and spent an hour discussing this new feature of the situation and speculating as to the hiding place of the remainder of my grandfather's fortune. Larry and Stoddard both declared their intention of remaining until my troubles were ended in spite of my protests. Stoddard stayed for dinner, and afterward we began again our eternal quest for the treasure, our hopes high from Larry's lucky strike of the afternoon, and with a new eagerness born of the knowledge that the morrow would certainly bring us face to face with the real crises. We ranged the house from tower to cellar; we overhauled the tunnel, for, it seemed to me, the hundredth time.

It was my watch, and at midnight, after Stoddard and Larry had reconnoitered the grounds and Bates and I had made sure of all the interior fastenings, I sent them off to bed and made myself comfortable with a pipe in the library.

I was glad of the respite, glad to be alone,—to consider my talk with Marian Devereux at St. Agatha's, and her return with Pickering. Why could she not always have been Olivia, ranging the woodland, or the girl in gray, or that woman, so sweet in her dignity, who came down the stairs at the Armstrongs'? Her own attitude toward me was so full of contradictions; she had appeared to me in so many moods and guises, that my spirit ranged the whole gamut of feeling as I thought of her. But it was the recollection of Pickering's infamous conduct that colored all my doubts of her. Pickering had always been in my way, and here, but for the chance by which Larry had found the notes, I should have had no weapon to use against him.

The wind rose and drove shrilly around the house. A bit of scaffolding on the outer walls rattled loose somewhere and crashed down on the terrace. I grew restless, my mind intent upon the many chances of the morrow, and running forward to the future. Even if I won in my strife with Pickering I had yet my way to make in the world. His notes were probably worthless,—I did not doubt that. I might use them to procure his removal as executor, but I did not look forward with any pleasure to a legal fight over a property that had brought me only trouble.

Something impelled me to go below, and, taking a lantern, I tramped somberly through the cellar, glanced at the heating apparatus, and, remembering that the chapel entrance to the tunnel was unguarded, followed the corridor to the trap, and opened it. The cold air blew up sharply and I thrust my head down to listen.

A sound at once arrested me. I thought at first it must be the suction of the air, but Glenarm House was no place for conjecture, and I put the lantern aside and jumped down into the tunnel. A gleam of light showed far away for an instant, then the darkness and silence were complete.

I ran rapidly over the smooth floor, which I had traversed so often that I knew its every line. My only weapon was a heavy hickory club. Near the Door of Bewilderment I paused and listened. The tunnel was perfectly quiet. I took a step forward and stumbled over a brick, fumbled on the wall for the opening which we had closed carefully that afternoon, and at the instant I found it a lantern flashed blindingly in my face and I drew back, crouching involuntarily, and clenching the club ready to strike.

"A Lantern Flashed Blindingly in My Face."

"Good evening, Mr. Glenarm!"

Marian Devereux's voice broke the silence, and Marian Devereux's face with the full light of the lantern upon it, was bent gravely upon me. Her voice, as I heard it there,—her face, as I saw it there,—are the things that I shall remember last when my hour comes to go hence from this world. Her slim fingers, as they clasped the wire screen of the lantern, held my gaze for a second. The red tam-o'-shanter that I had associated with her youth and beauty was tilted rakishly on one side of her pretty head. To find her here, seeking, like a thief in the night, for some means of helping Arthur Pickering, was the bitterest drop in the cup. I felt as though I had been struck with a bludgeon.

"I beg your pardon!" she said, and laughed. "There doesn't seem to be anything to say, does there? Well, we do certainly meet under the most unusual, not to say unconventional, circumstances, Squire Glenarm! Please go away or turn your back. I want to get out of this donjon keep."

DIAMOND DUST.

George Allen has signed to catch for the Washington, (Pa.) team of the P. O. M. League. Allen played with the same team last season but was taken ill and obliged to return home before the close of the season.

"Phil." Smith, the local twirler, has received an offer from Manager Adam Nunebeck, of the Elizabeth team, to pitch for that club this summer. The club is a member of the outlaw Atlantic League, and although the offer of $200 a month with expenses is very tempting to "Phil" it is not likely that he will accept.

The management of the Clinton Avenue Club, members of the Plainfield Amateur League, has announced its lineup for the season as follows: Squires, Scott, Barkley, pitchers; Hermann and O'Loughlin, catchers; Barnes, first base; Brit. Martin, second base; Emery, third base; Jack Martin, short-stop; Adam Scott, left-field; Richard Scott, centre-field; Barkley, right-field.

Manager Bogart Conklin, of the Somerville Baseball Club, announces that the county seat of Somerset will have a strong team this season. He is not prepared as yet to give his lineup, but says that it will include several well-known ball tossers. Bogart is a little disappointed that he could not get in the amateur league organized here, because he believed that the rivalry would make things interesting.

BOWLING.

The Perseverance Lodge bowling team will take a jaunt to Newark Thursday night when a return game will be rolled with the Newark Lodge quintet on the Empire alleys. Two weeks ago the Newarkers swamped the Perseverance pinners in three straight games, but the locals have recovered their nerve and hope to make a better showing on the Newark "drives."

"Richest Man" Missing.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—The entire Pacific coast is stirred by a report that Frederick Weyerhauser, a leading lumber man, disappeared from a train between here an Santa Barbara within the last forty-eight hours. Weyerhauser is said to be wealthier than John D. Rockefeller, and his lieutenants here are much alarmed. He passed through San Francisco and was recognized at Santa Barbara on a train bound for Los Angeles about noon on Friday. Since then his movements have been all impenetrable mystery. The leading hotels of Los Angeles or Pasadena have no record of him. The Southern Pacific officials having been appealed to, every trainman and operator has been notified to trace the missing man. He is seventy-eight years old, wears a gray beard and mustache, dark suit, black bow tie, and is bald in front. Robert L. McCormick, confidential man for Weyerhauser, is not with him on this trip. The missing man left Minneapolis some weeks ago to inspect his forests.

Offers to Manage Town.

Armour, S. D., March 11.—One man may run this town—not a political boss, but a business manager. J. C. Cantonwine is, with other taxpayers, disgusted with the city debt and high assessments. He will put up a bond guaranteeing that if given the management of the city's affairs he will demonstrate that a town and city can be run profitably when conducted along business lines. Some of the Aldermen look askance at the proposition, but the taxpayers generally would like to try it. Armour has two thousand inhabitants and is a thriving town, but it has a bonded debt of $40,000, and city warrants have to be sold at a discount.

Austin Which and family, of East Fifth street, expect to move to Brooklyn next month.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll, a former well known resident of Elizabeth, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William W. Willis, of West Fifth street, shortly before noon today. She had lived in Elizabeth nearly all her life, coming to Plainfield last summer. Death was due to a complication of troubles brought on by advanced age. Beside Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Carroll is survived by a son, George T. Carroll, of Elizabeth, who is prominent in lodge and sporting circles and has many friends in this city.

George F. Fisher.

George F. Fisher died Saturday at his home on Park avenue, following a short illness with pneumonia. He had undergone a siege of grip and suffered a relapse that brought on the more serious trouble. Mr. Fisher was engaged in business in New York and formerly lived in the borough. He leaves a wife and two sons. He was a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. The funeral will be held at his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

James Victor Bowzer.

James Victor Bowzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bowzer, died yesterday at the residence of his parents on East Third street. He had been ill for a long time with a lingering complaint. He was twenty-five years old and leaves a wife. The funeral will be private.

Carman Venzea.

Carman Venzea, the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Venzea, of Scotch Plains, died at the parents' home Saturday. The burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery this afternoon.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will elect officers at a stated conclave to be held on Monday night, March 18.

D. W. Little, treasurer of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, received a check on Saturday from E. A. Skinner, supreme treasurer of the order, for $3,000 to pay the death claim of Charles C. Burnet, who was a member of Plainfield Council. The check was received five days from date of mailing proof of death and thirteen days from date of death.

FROM THE FAR WEST.

The Young Men's Christian Association of San Francisco is about to begin the erection of a $500,000 building on the site of the one that was burned last April. It will cover a lot 87.6x187.6, will be nine stories high and, with the exception of three stores on the ground floor, will be devoted entirely to the association's uses. It will be the largest and most complete building of its kind in the United States.

Edward B. Condon, who went to Tanana, Alaska, without a dollar three years ago, now owns mining property worth a million dollars. On Christmas Day his friends gave a dinner in his honor at Fairbanks and presented him with a handsome watch fob. The old man burst into tears. He declared it was the only gift he had ever received.

A bill has been introduced in the California Legislature to allow the people of the State to vote at the next general election on the question of Japanese exclusion, as they voted in 1880 on Chinese exclusion. At that election they voted almost unanimously for exclusion.

Mrs. Lina Catherine Carlisle, whose father was a cousin of Abraham Lincoln and whose husband was a cousin of ex-Senator John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, is dying in poverty at 340 South Olive street, Los Angeles. She was found starving there the other day by a chance acquaintance.

Slays Father With Bat.

Solon, Ohio, March 11.—Richard Kennedy, Jr., a school teacher, twenty years old, struck his father yesterday with a baseball bat, killing him instantly. His father and mother were quarrelling and the son came to his mother's rescue, dealing his father the fatal blow. The boy surrendered to the police.

To Meet Head of His Clan.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 11.—Andrew Carnegie will find himself at the founder's day exercises in the $6,000,000 institute here on April 11, 12 and 13 in the presence of a man to whom, if he is a true Highlander, he owes more fealty than to President Roosevelt or King Edward VII. This is the Earl of Southeck, chieftain of the Clan Carnegie, for whom every member of the clan is expected to yield life and possessions when called upon. The Earl has promised to attend the exercises. He is eighty years old, a colonel in the British army and has won renown on the field of battle. He is also an author of considerable note. The chief of the Clan Carnegie has an estate of twelve thousand acres in the Highlands, his ancestral seat being known as Brechin Castle. Here he lives in the feudal style which gave Andrew Carnegie his ideas for the rehabilitation and maintenance of Skibo Castle.

TRENTONIAN UNCONSCIOUS FOR OVER FIVE WEEKS.

His Case Has Attracted Attention of the Medical Profession All Over the State.

After lying unconscious almost continuously since February 3, as the result of a fractured skull, John M. Cutter, a business man of Trenton, will be operated on at the Mercer Hospital in that place. He received his injury by falling down stairs at the Trenton Club.

The case has attracted the attention of medical men from all over the State, one of the most surprising features being the continued good physical condition of the patient.

Although this is not the longest time a man has been known to live in a state of coma, the interval since the accident has been more than it is generally believed that a man can survive. The periods of consciousness have been so few and so widely separated that the physicians in charge have had to resort to hypodermic nourishment to Cutter to sustain life.

Little or no variation of the heart action has been observed, though at times the pulse has weakened a trifle. In every instance it has rallied to almost a normal beat. The same has held true as regards the temperature of the patient, scarcely any fever having been apparent at any time.

The proposed operation is one that, while not uncommon, is considered as serious by experts. It is known as trephining, and consists of removing the damaged bone and substituting for it a metal plate. Owing to Cutter's unusually fine condition there is little doubt felt by the doctors that the operation will lbe successful.

TAXATION OF RAILROADS.

Arguments on Constitutionality of the New System Begin.

Argument on nine writs of certiorari to review the constitutionality of the new system of railroad taxation established by the Perkins act of last year were heard Saturday before Supreme Court Justices Fort, Pitney and Hendrickson, and it was agreed to hear the conclusion March 23 next, at the Court House, where the hearing was begun.

Richard V. Lindabury and William H. Corbin appeared on behalf of the interested railroads and their chief contention was that the statute in question is defective. Former Justice Bennett Van Sickel made an elaborate reply on behalf of the State, and Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter had a few words to say on behalf of the act. The latter will reply at length on the second and last day of the hearing, when John R. Hardin will be ready also to submit a brief. The exemption phase went over to the date named.

The railroads were not prepared to argue the entire issue and Mr. Lindabury, representing the united railroads, said he had not prepared his brief on the exemption question but would submit it later.

FATHER TEARS TROUSSEAU.

Trenton Bride Has Him Arrested for Alleged Spitework.

Trenton, March 11.—Charged by his daughter, Mrs. John Kish, a bride of less than a fortnight, with having stolen or ruined her wedding presents and with the tearing of her wedding gowns and other clothing, Lewis Sabo is under arrest at the Second District police station.

The daughter declares her father tried to prevent her from leaving home to begin housekeeping for herself, and when she refused he damaged her property for spite. Sabo declares that his son-in-law is indebted to him for a loan and refuses to make payment. The case will be heard by Justice Rees today.

Decision Help Workmen.

New York, March 11.—Workmen will be interested in a recent decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court than an employee of a firm or corporation who is injured through the negligence of another employee is entitled to recover damages from the company for which both work. The decision was rendered in the case of Harry Best, an employee of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, who while on his way to work was run down at Seventy-second street and Eleventh avenue. He sued in the Supreme Court and recovered a verdict of $17,500. The company maintained as one of the forms of the defence that as Best was an employee of the company and was injured by the equipment of the company he was not entitled to collect damages. Judge Maddox held that because Best was an employee and was injured through the negligence of another employee it did not deter him from receiving damages. The company appealed the case, and the Appellate Division upheld Judge Daddox.

A PEEP INTO THE FUTURE.

Prof. Robert Ellis Thompson, of the Philadelphia Central High School, has been taking a peep into the future, and has seen some marvelous things. Professor Thompson says: "There will be no cooking in the home of the future. All our food will be prepared in one large central kitchen by men who are experts. It will be purchased at wholesale by experts. It will be served by contract, the dishes being kept warm between layers of felt, as in Norway. All sweeping, washing and dusting about the home will be done by corporations employing experts, on a strictly business footing. Stairways will give place to safety elevators; great pipes connecting with a large exhaust engine will suck out the foul air and dust and ensure perfect ventilation. The drudgery now resting upon the wife and mother will be so lightened that she will have plenty of time to improve her mind and take part in the activities of the time beyond the home circle in addition to presiding with grace and beauty as the queen of the family."

Really, we hope that no one will be unkind enought to awaken Professor Thompson. 'Twould be a pity to spoil a dream like that.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Keep all the kitchen utensils in one place, and a small one at that. It will save time and steps.

Keep the cookbook directly over the cooking table on a slanting shelf, where it will remain open to be easily read and stay clean.

Let the water in which cabbage has been boiled cool before pouring it down the sink. This precaution will avoid an unpleasant odor in the kitchen.

When a pot or teakettle has boiled dry pour boiled water into it, never cold water. There will be little danger of the vessel cracking or the enamel peeling if this is done immediately.

A kettle that is placed directly upon the fire soon becomes coated with soot and lampblack, which are difficult to remove. To prevent this grease the bottom of the outside of the kettle. The black can then be easily rubbed off with a newspaper.

JERSEY EXHIBIT FOR FRANCE.

Winton C. Garrison, chief of the New Jersey bureau of statistics of labor and industries, has received a special invitation from the managers of the International Book and Paper exposition to be held in Paris, France, to make a department exhibit there. The exposition will be held from June to November, this year.

The Jersey exhibit will consist largely of documents, books and pictures. It is being designed practically to illustrate two matters. The most important of these will be the extent to which the state bureau has occupied the field of sociology in this State, and incidentally it will be made to show what states can do in keeping sociology and its advancement before the public. The other matter to be presented will be the extent to which the betterment idea has progressed in New Jersey manufactories.

TELL OF JERSEY ROADS

Commissioner Hutchinson and Supervisor Meeker Speak Before National Body.

AT PITTSBURG, PA.

Plainfielder Explains How a Good Road Is Made—Jersey Well Represented.

State Road Commissioner E. C. Hutchinson, State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, together with County Engineers Joshua Daughty, Jr., of Somerset; Colin R. Wise, of Passaic; Frank J. Epple, of Mercer; J. J. Albertson, of Camden, and W. H. DeNyse, of Monmouth, who have been appointed as delegates by Governor E. C. Stokes, to represent the State, left yesterday for Pittsburg, where today and tomorrow they will attend the National Congress of Road Builders to be held in connection with the fourth annual convention of the American Road Makers' Association. The sessions will be held in Carnegie Hall.

Of special interest to New Jersey is the fact that Commissioner Hutchinson presented this morning a paper on "The History of Road Building in New Jersey." This paper shows that road building in the State began in 1868 at Orange, and it gave an interesting sketch of improvements made from that time to the present date, including the history under the State Aid Act, New Jersey being the first State to adopt such a measure.

New Jersey leads the States of the Union in road building, Massachusetts being second, Connecticut third and New York a poor fourth. New Jersey has been able to build the best roads for $7,000 a mile, while New York has been paying $14,000 a mile. Under the State Aid Act this State has 1,154 miles of macadamized roads, while under the county bonding act, the various townships, boroughs and towns have built as many more miles of macadam roads, making a total of 2,300 miles, outside of the city streets.

Following the paper by Commissioner Hutchinson, Mr. Meeker, who has been closely identified with road building in the State for several years, having supervised much of the work, read a paper on "The Fancies, Fallacies and Facts of Road Building." This was unique in that Mr. Meeker chose for his subject a Scripture selection that proved to be appropriate. It reads as follows: "Make straight in the desert a highway .... Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain."

Mr. Meeker referred to Claudius Appius, the old Roman road builder, and the famous "Appian Way," well known in picture and story, but he said that it was too hard for the travel of horses and is today as much avoided as possible. While the idea lived after Appius no one ever thought of copying it. It was only in the use of thoroughly drained earth was to be found the sure foundation for good roads and only then is progress made.

Some people were prone to look upon macadamized roads as something nice to have a luxury, but very expensive. Mr. Meeker cited the fact that New Jersey has added hundreds and thousands of dollars to the realty value by having good roads. He referred to the first road built by him when he used 16 inch telford. This he found to be expensive and hard and the top wears off easily. Citing a case of macadamizing in Plainfield, he spoke of twelve inch telford used on Park avenue and four inch used on East Front street. The latter was found to have more elasticity and would wear better, while with the twelve or fourteen inch the frost would heave it.

Mr. Meeker then explained according to his ideas and his own experience how to build a model road. In the first place he said that there should be a grade of five per cent. or less, fill up the flats one half of one per cent., cut off all waters by underdrain, establish a crown on the road three quarters of an inch per foot. Cut out the sub-grade, being careful to give it the same curvature as a finished road. Roll the sub-grade until it is hard and smooth, removing all spongy and vegetable earth. Spread the bottom course evenly, roll and add binder and continue rolling until the stone ceases to sink and creep in front of the roller.

Then spread the second course and roll it with additional binder and water until the whole surface is hard and smooth, carefully filling with stone any depressions that may appear and then finish the whole with a course of three-quarter inch stone and screenings. The last must be soaked with water and rolled until a wave of mud is found in front of the roller, being careful to commence

PLAINFIELD MAY GET A COAL INSPECTOR

IF DAAB'S BILL IS PASSED COMMON COUNCIL CAN APPOINT ONE.

Assemblyman Philip Daab's bill, authorizing governing bodies of second class cities to appoint inspectors of coal, ice and other wares and merchandise sold in said cities, salaries of such inspectors to be fixed by such governing board, not exceeding $1,000 per year, was passed unanimously last night in the House at Trenton.

Under the provisions of this bill, should it pass the Senate and be signed by Governor Stokes, the Common Council of Plainfield will have power to appoint a citizen to inspect coal delivered by local dealers and ascertain whether it comes up to the required standard in weight and quality. The same act will apply to ice and wares and merchandise. For some time there has been considered agitation in this direction particularly regarding coal and ice, but in the absence of legislative action nothing could be done.

CONTEST FOR BRIGADIER.

Talk of Deal Whereby Third Regiment Will Vote for Second's Candidate.

The chances of electing a successor to Brigadier-General Q. O'M. Gillmore, resigned, tonight are said to be brighter than they have been since the deadlock between Colonel Dennis F. Collins, of the Second Regiment, and Colonel John C. Mather, of the Third, which occurred two weeks ago. There has been talk to the effect that Governor Stokes had been urged to appoint Colonel Mather, but that he refused to interfere in military matters unless no other course was open to n im. This talk is taken as a fiction because, it is pointed out, the attorney-general has advised the Governor that he has no power of appointment in such cases and that the only legal method is by the present election form.

It is said that since the last meeting of the officers of the two regiments there have been overtures made by both sides. A deal, according to one on the inside, has been made, whereby the Third Regiment will be sent to Washington, D. C., on May 2 to participate in the McClellan monument unveiling ceremonies and is also to be known as the heavy artillery regiment, having the privilege of visiting forts and the like, all in exchange for supporting the Second Regiment candidate for promotion.

Funeral of F. M. Slater.

The funeral of Fred Mortimer Slater, who died suddenly Friday morning, was held at his late home on Jackson avenue, yesterday afternoon. It was attended by a large gathering of friends, many being from New York, Elizabeth and other places. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, was in charge. There was an unusually large display of floral tributes. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery, the pall bearers being James K. Arnold, John H. Williams, E. A. Vermeule and Charles Steiner.

Addition to S. S. Building.

The trustees of the First Baptist church have decided to make some extensive improvements in the Sunday-school room of the church, which will provide four large size class rooms, that can be shut off from the main room during the teaching of the lesson. The rooms will be built on the Grove street side of the room and will be so constructed that the partitions can be rolled back, throwing the whole room into one open space, when necessary.

An Evening of Games.

The Men's Club of Grace Protestant Episcopal church enjoyed an evening of games last night. They met in the basement of the Casino, instead of at the parish house, and the members divided their time between bowling, pool, billiards and smoking. The affair was much enjoyed.

Railroad Victim Buried.

The funeral of Alexandreo Pandolino, who was killed on the railroad Sunday, was held at St. Mary's church this morning. The mass was conducted by Rev. Father Sciola and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Carroll's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll, who died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Willis, of West Fifth street, will be held at St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, where requiem mass will be offered. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery, New York.

Girls' Basketball Game.

The girls' basketball five of the Plainfield High School meets the girls' team of the Westfield High School in a game tomorrow afternoon in the latter's gymnasium.

TROLLEY FARES FIXED BY ASSEMBLY MEASURE

HUDSON ASSEMBLYMAN'S BILL ALSO PROVIDES FOR TRANSFERS.

Assemblyman Aufderheide, of Hudson, introduced a bill in the Assembly at Trenton last night fixing trolley car rates as follows:

Not more than five cents for every ten miles transportation, coupon or tickets sold at follows: 25 tickets $1.00, 50 tickets $1.75, 100 tickets $3.50; larger amounts at the rate of the 100-ticket book. Each coupon thus sold to entitle the holder therof to one ride not exceeding ten miles.

Each cash fare or coupon shall entitle the bearer to transfer to any other line owned, leased or operated by the same company and shall ibe good for one hour at the junction point. This act shall apply to corporations or organized steam railroads which run electric cars thereon.

L. L. MANNING TO BUILD.

Will Erect Four Story Structure on West Front Street.

L. L. Manning, owner of the property at West Front street and Central avenue, has decided to erect thereon a handsome brick building four stories in height. The first floor will be devoted to stores, while the three upper floors will be used for comodious apartments. The building will be a modern one in every particular. Mr. Manning has signed the contract for the mason work with Townley Brothers, of North Plainfield, and a little later the other contracts will be executed.

It was the intention of Mr. Manning to erect the proposed building two years ago, but material and labor were so expensive that he abandoned the project at that time. He has since completed his plans, although they have not yet been filed with the building inspector. There will be several stores on the West Front street side and also on Central avenue, while the apartments will be the finest yet constructed in this city.

Elias Nadel Marries in New York.

Elias Nadel, of this city, and Miss Sarah Bardach, of New York, were married Sunday night at Lafayette Hall, New York, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The groom is a member of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, of this city, and that organization attended in a body. Samuel Rothberg, the president, presented the bride with a handsome clock on behalf of the association. The Young Men's Progressive Club, of New York, also attended in a body, Mr. Nadel being an officer of that organization. The couple have gone to Niagara Falls on a wedding trip. They will reside at 311 Liberty street.

Shot Snow Shoveler for a Burglar.

Elizabeth, March 12.—James Thorn, a negro, was shoveling snow in the backyard of George G. Hollins, of 126 West Jersey street early yesterday morning, and the noise of his labors awakened Hollins. Hollins thought a burglar was at work in the rear of his house. Throwing up a window he began firng his revolver. Thorn was hit, and as there was no flow of blood it is feared that blood poisoning will result.

Gold Medals to Invade Bound Brook.

Muir's Gold Medal minstrel troupe, of this city, will appear in Voorhees' hall, Bound Brook, tonight. The show will be under the auspices of the Pierce school at East Bound Brook and will be for the benefit of its piano fund. The advance sale of seats indicates that the troupe will be greeted by the largest audience it has appeared before this season.

ENTERTAINMENT FOLLOWS CHRISTENING OF BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Adelberg's Reception Was Largely Attended.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Adelberg, of East Second street, entertained relatives and friends at their home Sunday afternoon and night in honor of the christening of their son. The ceremony took place in the afternoon with Rabbi Davison, of this city officiating. The boy was named Charles. Judge William Newborn acted as godfather and Mrs. Newborn godmother, while Morris Abrams was the former's assistant.

Following the christening, dinner was served and at its conclusion an informal social session was enjoyed. The decorations throughout the house were elaborate but tasty.

The guests present included Mr. and Mrs. A. Adelberg and Max Adelberg, of Flatbush; P. Adelberg, of Cedarhurst, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. L. Goldin, Mr. and Mrs. Samson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Simon, Mr. and Mrs. M. Monne, Mr. and Mrs. P. Levine, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sugerma, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. S. Ullmann, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. I. Bordin, of Perth Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. N. TEA FOR RETIRING PRESIDENT.

Informal Affair Held at the Home of Mrs. Clarence Bond.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, a reception and tea was given to the retiring president, Mrs. David K. Young, at the home of the new president, Mrs. Clarence Bond, of East Front street. The affair was attended by more than one hundred women from the church.

Mrs. William H. Shotwell, Mrs. Abram Cadmus and Mrs. Campbell MacKillop poured tea and coffee and were assisted in serving by Miss Linda Cave, Miss Charlotte Cave, Miss Clara VanVliet, Miss Bertha Hill and Miss Bessie Bond.

NEW JERSEY'S TRIAL TRIP.

Battleship Will Be Sent Over the Sea Course This Week.

Newport News, March 12.—The battleship New Jersey will be given a trial at sea this week. A special board will arrive today from Washington. The battleship, probably, will put to sea soon after the arrival of the board.

It is said that the cruiser St. Louis, now at the Southern drill grounds below the Capes and engaged in target practise, will be one of the three cruisers the Government will send to the French Exposition. The squadron will leave soon after the opening of the Jamestown Exposition.

Another P. H. S. Prize.

In addition to The Daily Press prize award another new prize is to be given for the first time this year to the Plainfield High School. The prize is a silver cup and is offered by the Yale Club of this city to the student who has the best standing in both scholarship and athletics. This cup will be on exhibition at the coming meeting of the Yale Alumni Association of this city.

ANOTHER COLD COUNTRY TRAVEL TALK HEARD

DILLION WALLACE TELLS OF LABRADOR AT CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Dillon Wallace, the Labrador explorer, who went into the wilderness after the body of Leonidas Hubbard several years ago when the latter starved to death after an unfortunate choice of trails, spoke to a large audience at the Crescent Avenue church last night. He appeared under the auspices of the Boys' Mission Band.

Mr. Wallace did not speak of the Hubbard expedition, but of a later trip of 2,000 miles by himself. He showed a great many views—more than he usually did, he said,—and they made his talk highly interesting. He spoke of Dr. Grenfell and his mission at Battle Harbor, at some length, and the audience heard him with natural interest. Dr. Grenfell's picture was applauded warmly.

Mr. Wallace gave interesting hints of life in the Labrador country. The audience learned, among other things, of how pemmican of a certain kind is made. Dried beef, tallow, sugar and raisins are mixed, and a pound is supposed to be a man's ration for a day.

NEW SOPRANO SOLOIST.

Miss Anna L. Case Engaged By the First Presbyterian Church.

Miss Anna L. Case, of South Branch, a talented soprano, who has been the organist and soloist at Neshanic during the past year, has been engaged as soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian church for the coming year and she expects to assume her new position about April 1. She sang at the church on trial last Sunday and was enthusiastically received by the congregation at both the morning and evening services.

Miss Case, who is nineteen years old, has a voice of remarkable sweetness and perfect control. She was a pupil for three years of Miss Kate Opdyke, of Somerville, and during the past seven or eight months has been studying with Mme. Renard, of New York. She has natural musical talent and is an exceptionally fine reader of music. Next Sunday Miss Jessamine Burd, of Somerville, contralto, will sing at the church on trial for the position to be vacated by Miss Edna Nicholl, who resigns May 1.

BRASS CANNON FOR MONUMENT.

Condemned Metal May Be Used By Elizabeth for Scott Memorial.

At last night's meeting of the Scott Monument Association at Elizabeth, the president was authorized to appoint a committee of fifteen to solicit subscriptions, and the executive committee was requested to consider the advisability of having printed certificates or some kind of insignia of membership. Letters were received from Senators Kean and Dryden and Congressmen Fowler, Hughes, Hamill, Loudenslager, Howell, Parker and Wood, assuring the committee that they would do all in their power to effect the passage of the bill introduced by Senator Kean, which provides for the appropriation of 25,000 pounds of condemned brass cannon out of which to cast the proposed memorial.

P. H. S. Oracle Prize Number.

The March number of the Plainfield High School monthly publication, The Oracle, came out yesterday with the prize cover design, drawn by Weston Gavett. Each department is headed with a design, for some of which prizes were awarded in the recent competition. "Understudy to a Nihilist" is the title of the prize story, written by DeLancy Ferguson. Other stories in this number are: "Mrs. O'Grady's Interview with the Census Man," by Miss Helen Whitney; "'Henri,' the Donkey," by Guion H. Fountain; "When Kenmore's Horse Ran Away," by William Lambert; "'Hickory' Jones' 'Health Joint,'" by Walter Knokilton; and "The Book Agent and the Lady with No Time to Waste," by F. Williams. This issue also contains cuts of the school glee club and instrumental clubs.

Brightside Circle Fund.

Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of Grandview avenue, has offered the use of her house to the Brightside Circle, of the King's Daughters, for an entertainment to be held there tonight. Mrs. J. A. Powlison has charge of the entertainment and the affair will be given for the purpose of raising funds with which to meet the circle pledge for the salary of the city nurse.

Dramatics at Truell Court.

Several women stopping at Truell Court are planning to give a series of dramatics at the court soon after Easter. The entertainments will be given on an elaborate scale.

CORPORATION COUNSEL ADVISES COMMISSION

CRAIG A. MARSH EXPLAINS LEGAL ASPECTS OF CONSOLIDATION.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh appeared before the bi-municipal consolidation commission yesterday afternoon at Mayor Fisk's office. He had been requested at the last meeting to give an opinion regarding the legal aspects of the proposed merger of North Plainfield and Plainfield and this he did in an informal but thorough way.

It is not known whether he advised that there were any insurmountable constitutional barriers to the proposed consolidation for President Alexander Gilbert, who is the only one authorized to speak for the commission declined to tell. His refusal is in compliance with a rule adopted by the commission weeks ago not to give anything out until a report is made to the governing bodies of the two places. It is reported, however, that Mr. Marsh holds that consolidation may be accomplished provided remedial legislation is passed by the Legislature.

HOPE CHAPEL TO HAVE SPECIAL EASTER SERVICE.

Elaborate Programme of Music and Offerings for the Organ Fund.

The Easter Sunday services at Hope chapel will be of special interest this year. There will be an elaborate programme of music, both morning and evening by a considerably increased choir. At the morning service there will be children baptism. Mrs. Robert Patterson hopes to have the memorial to her son, Harvey Patterson, completed before that day. This is a beautiful marble baptismal fount to be placed on the attractive standard recently put in position.

Probably, the most interesting feature of the day will be the offerings. They will all be for the Squires' Memorial organ, at both church services and the Sunday-school session. If the amount obtained is what is hoped for the organ will be ordered at once. The organ fund now amounts to $600 and it is desired that $200 be added to it this month. The organ desired will cost something over $1,600, and will require five months to build.

TWO MEMBERS GET APPLAUSE.

Congratulatory Votes Extended John Baader and R. E. Perkins.

Two members of the House at Trenton last night were in for a round of applause. Assemblyman John Baader, who was appointed a police commissioner of Newark, was congratulated through a resolution presented by Assemblyman Patrick Corish, of Essex. The resolution called for congratulations and "commiserations."

Assemblyman Randolph E. Perkins, of Union, was the other congratulated member. He rescued a would-be suicide from the waters of the Hudson last Friday. Two resolutions were entered in behalf of Mr. Perkins, and when Clerk Michael W. Higgins read the last one, recommending the Union man for a "Carnegie medal," a loud clapping issued from the members and the galleries, which were well filled with members of the fair sex.

WANTS SINGERS' CONVENTION.

Home Week Committee to Ask Societies to Meet at Elizabeth.

The executive committee for the Old Home Week celebration at Elizabeth last night decided to arrange for a State convention of the German singing societies of New Jersey, to take place during the week of the celebration.

Acting in accordance with a communication received from the State secretary of the Saengerbund at the meeting last night, Charles A. Trimble was persuaded to resume his duties as corresponding secretary.

Plainfield Theatre News.

Manager Counihan has secured Edward Waldmann in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" to play Friday, March 22, under the auspices of Wetumpkah Tribe of Red Men. Waldmann has his own strong company that played with him through the East. He will play in Plainfield, Elizabeth and Newark before he opens his engagement in New York at the Bijou in April. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is a high class play which theatregoers will appreciate. It is a great lesson that Stevenson portrays and is sure to be greeted with a crowded house.

Auto Class to Resume.

Professor Clarence B. Brokaw, head of the Y. M. C. A. automobile school, will resume his classes at the association tonight, after a two weeks' suspension on account of his illness.

WATER BREEDS SKEETERS

Prof. John B. Smith Says Expenditure of $350,000 would Rid State of the Pest.

DUE TO THE MARSHES

State Entomologist Talks Interestingly Before Men's Club of First Baptist Church.

Although a little out of season the illustrated lecture by Prof. John B. Smith, of New Brunswick, before the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, last night, proved to be one of the most interesting in the series of club entertainments. The pestiferous little insect so well known to all was shown up in all his glory and the peculiar traits for which he is noted explained in the minutest detail. Not only was the lecture interesting, but highly instructive and served as a means of showing how one can rid his home and surroundings of mosquitoes.

Prof. Smith's talk covered that part of the mosquito's existence from birth to the time it is banished or allowed to multiply and inflict whole communities and even a State. He explained that there are forty different kinds of mosquitoes and that it is quite important to be able to tell at least a few species and know where and how they breed.

He began with the common variety, known as the house or rain-water barrel mosquito, which has its birth as a wriggler. Prof. Smith explained at the outset that where there is no water you will find no mosquitoes. They cannot exist without water.

In speaking of the house mosquito the speaker said that they are to be found now in the cellar waiting for the warm weather so that they may lay their eggs. He stated that this variety is provided with brush-like wings which are kept constantly in motion gathering in the microbe organism to be found in water and upon which they live.

This variety does not exist in the grasses, where there is no dampness. By covering the pool or rain water barrel with oil it serves to choke the insect for he is unable to get air through his tubes.

The peculiarities of the malaria mosquito were then explained. This variety, he said, has spotted wings and his method of laying eggs is different from any other. They are to be found on top of the water and feed on things to be found on the surface. Its habits are different from the house mosquito. In the case of the latter variety they maintain a perpendicular position, while that of the malaria insect is always in a horizontal position. Each mosquito has a battery of six different lancets with which to carry on its troublesome work. One peculiarity noted was that the male insect cannot draw blood, but in the case of the female it obtains blood first by dropping a little poison beneath the skin which tends to thin the blood, otherwise it would not be able to take it up.

Views taken in New Brunswick and other places were shown, giving an idea how the insects breed in pools and marsh lands. He stated that one cubic foot of water would breed 100 mosquitoes. Contrary to the accepted belief, the Hackensack meadows are not a good place to breed the insects. He considered the oil treatment only a means of temporary relief, declaring that strict sanitary inspection and the removal of all pools of water of every description the only safe and sure way of ridding a section of them.

In referring to the salt marsh mosquito, Prof. Smith said that Plainfield is a little too far away to be bothered with this variety much, yet he cited the fact that in the summer of 1903 there was a plague of the pest throughout this part of the State, due to the fact that an unusually large number were bred on the salt marshes and became very active.

In the opinion of the professor the State can be rid of the mosquito by the method of digging ditches to drain off the surface water to be found in hundreds of places. He stated that there are 296,000 acres of marsh land in the State, one-third of which breeds mosquitoes and that $350,000 would permanently rid the State of the pests.

Prof. Smith exhibited a large number of views showing the mosquito in every stage of its existence. He also displayed pictures of the experimental stations where tests are carried on for the purpose of studying every phase of the life of a mosquito. Prof. Smith inaugurated this work over five years ago in New Jersey and has made substantial progress. He has plans which will carry on even a more progressive campaign against this common nuisance—the mosquito.

At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was given to Prof. Smith for his instructive and entertaining talk.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

It has come to the attention of the governing board of the Dunellen Athletic Club that rumors are in circulation to the effect that there is gambling going on in the club rooms. The club was not organized for this purpose but as a place where the young men of the town could congregate and enjoy themselves in a gentlemanly manner. As some one has started such a baseless report, to endeavor to show that its members are acting as gentlemen and expect to continue to do so, the club invites all citizens to drop into the clubroom at any time—the door is never locked—when members are present and see for themselves the manner in which the club is being conducted. It is hoped everybody will accept the invitation, inspect the rooms, and set aside the prattle of idle persons.

The landlord and tenant action of Abram Van Arsdale against Charles Jennings was decided for the plaintiff by Justice Von Minden, yesterday. Jennings was given until Friday to vacate the premises.

Rev. Frank Fletcher acted as supply at the Baptist church Sunday morning for the first time since he retired as pastor. He made no personal reference. There was no evening service.

Charles Berkheiser has become the partner of his father-in-law, George F. Giles, in the tinning and plumbing business. The firm is to be known as George F. Giles & Co.

The borough clerk has received a check for $175.36 from the P. S. C., the corporation's share of the cost of repairs to North avenue during the past year.

The hearing of School Principal Meskill is set for 5 o'clock next Monday afternoon. The school board will meet at 2:30 o'clock.

A young people's card club which will meet weekly at the home of different members, on Tuesdays, has been organized.

Howard Bird is to erect a store and flat building near the new car barns. There will be two stores.

A candidate for membership was admitted by Court Dunellen at its meeting last night.

Miss Catherine Cole has returned from a visit to Miss Adelaide Collins, of Bayonne.

Miss Mary Baldwin has returned from a week-end stay with friends in Elizabeth.

H. S. Garretson's house has been rewired by A. N. Randolph.

The Presbyterian Sunday-school is rehearsing Easter music.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Marsh house on Front street, occupied by George Harper, is undergoing a number of interior improvements, being painted and papered throughout.

The baseball team is arranging to hold another entertainment during the latter part of the month or the first week in April.

Daniel T. Hendrickson returned yesterday from a stay of several days at his home at Port Monmouth, N. J.

Miss Nettie Reick, of Westfield avenue, has been entertaining Elizabeth friends over Sunday.

John Falvey, who has been spending several weeks at his home at Dover, has returned.

CRANFORD.

Fire destroyed the stock of Philip John, a painter and decorator, on North avenue, Saturday night, and also burned through the partition into Morris Clock's stove store. The latter's stock was ruined by water and fire. The stock of Doremus' grocery was damaked by smoke. The tenants in the flats over the paint shop rushed into the snowy street clad in their night clothes, and were cared for by neighbors. The firemen were delayed, as there were no horses available to draw the hose wagons, which were pulled by hand.

Frederick Yeager, sixteen years old, was arrested by Policeman William Jennings Saturday afternoon on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace W. W. Mendell, in which Michael Ryan complained that his daughter, Helen Ryan, thirteen years old, was knocked down and kicked by Yeager. The boy admitted a part of the charge, and was allowed to go, on condition that he report to the squire every Friday afternoon, in default of which he would be locked up.

Thomas P. Cady, freight agent of the Central Railroad, and his assistant, Charles Schulz, while at work in the office Saturday afternoon were startled by the "ping" of a bullet, which grazed their heads, and smashed two window panes in its flight through the room. They captured a boy outside with a rifle, who said he was trying to hit a telegraph pole nearby, and intended them no harm. After a reprimand he was told to go elsewhere for practise.

WESTFIELD.

Funeral services of Charles Davenport were held Sunday afternoon at his home, Mountain avenue, Westfield. Interment took place yesterday, at Quakertown. He was in his twenty-fifth year and had a wide circle of friends among the street railway men. He was shop foreman, in the employ of the Public Service Corporation.

There was a large attendance at the opening of the special services at the Westfield Congregational church Sunday night. The services will be continued each evening this week except Saturday.

A musical will be given by the Woman's Guild of St. Paul's church, Westfield, at the Westfield Club hall, this evening.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

That delightful comedy drama, "A Message from Mars," is the offering at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The reputation this play has acquired in London and New York city by its long and phenomenal runs, together with its popularity in all of the cities where it has been seen, was sufficient to cause very general interest upon the part of theatregoers to see it when it came here. It is needless to say that local theatregoers were in no wise disappointed. The play "made good" in every particular yet there were, of course, a great many who did not see it. It received high praise and general commendation from all sources after its presentation here. The play has many merits, and strange to say, it appeals to all classes, the lower floor, the balcony and the gallery alike.

"What Happened to Jones," this captivating farce comedy, this remarkable play which adds thousands of friends to its already long list will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. It is known as the one play that has a laugh in every line, and this is true. There isn't a dull second in the entire play; it simply sparkles; laugh follows laugh, complication follows complication until the audience fairly weeps with joy. The same attention to detail as characterized the initial performance will be seen here, and the cast, as the press everywhere has acclaimed, is in every way the best ever seen in this play; the management has spared neither effort nor expense in bringing this about and are proud of their labor. Mr. Milton, who is acclaimed as one of our most promising young actors, plays Jones.

The "Queen of the Kidnappers," a remarkable personage with a remarkable history, is the conspicuous character in the forthcoming attraction of the same name, which will seen at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. This desperate human being is shown in scenes which are associated with incidents of her own life, and she is surrounded by characters such as you might meet at any time on the lower quarters of New York city. The managers have given this play an elaborate production.

In melodrama there are none so good as the old favorites and Jacob Litt's production of "In Old Kentucky," will undoubtedly attract the same generous support from all classes of theatre-goers when it comes to the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, as on its previous visits. One does not have to go below the surface to discover the elements which make for the success of the piece. It is bountifully supplied with that homely sentiment which is never failing in its power to appeal to the emotions. It has an abundance of comedy to lighten the shadows of the plot, and it reveals a delightful romance of the Southland. The merry little coterie of pickaninnies, always identified with the play, will be strongly in evidence again. With their buck and wing dancing, their songs, their band music and their baton whirling, to say nothing of the many unrehearsed and extremely amusing antics that they nightly indulge in in the barnyard scene, they form an interesting and novel part of the performance. The play is always satisfactorily cast, but this season's company is said to be the best that has ever been seen in the play. A fine scenic production, all new, has been provided for this year's presentation. "In Old Kentucky" has attained the rare distinction of being the most popular of all American plays of the present day.

Thomas Jefferson, the eldest actor son of Joseph Jefferson, plays "Rip Van Winkle," and while his interpretation is similar to that of his father, it is not an imitation by any means, and displays considerable originality. The jolly, true-hearted, drinking and rollicking vagabond character that Irving created is well presented by Thomas Jefferson. The pathos and humor, the beautiful story of Irving, is well brought out by him. The theatrical family of Jefferson is known to every American household, and it is a pleasure to feel that the lovable character of Rip will not die since Joseph Jefferson retired from this mundane sphere. Thomas Jefferson plays the part at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, after a most successful engagement at the Boston theatre and Wallack's theatre, New York city.

The Rogers Brothers, with an organization of one hundred people, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The comedy presented this season is called "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland." It is rather unlike the previous productions but equally tuneful and far more consistent. It is the biggest and best play the Brothers have ever had.

LITERARY.

Beatrix Demarest Lloyd is the author of the novel which opens the April Smart Set. Her story is entitled "The Miniature," and she has never written a finer piece of work. The scenes are laid in Paris, and the absorbing narrative, which grips the reader's attention at the outset, moves along to a most unexpected and thrilling conclusion. Of the younger writers of today, none is more promising than Miss Lloyd, and The Smart Set is to be congratulated on publishing so notable a novel. John G. Neihardt contributes a piece of fivtion entitled "Beyond the Spectrum," which, because of its power and weird setting, deserves a place side by side with some of Edgar Allan Poe's short stories.

"Pure sunlight is now being made by man!" So writes Eugene Shade Bisbee in the Technical World Magazine for April. "The incandescent lamp which has been for twenty-five years the standard of the world's artificial illumination must take a back seat or retire from commercial activity. The arc, the mercury vapor and every form of illumination at present holding sway in centers of industry are relegated to the past. The true, pure, commercially possible light has came and after years of experimentation has been brought to a practical basis of manufacture.

Used Necktie for Suicide.

Philadelphia, March 12.—Mrs. Jessie Welch-Wilkin, wife of W. E. Wilkin, of the Security Corporation Company, committed suicide early yesterday morning at the home of her husband, No. 502 West View avenue, Pelham. She had hanged herself to a hook in a closet with one of her husband's neckties. She had to draw up her feet from the floor and hold them so until rendered unconscious by the band about her neck. The dead woman, who was fifty years old, had for some time been a sufferer from melancholia and nervous depression, and had twice before made unsuccessful attempts to take her life, once by throwing herself into the water and again by cutting herself with glass.

Plainfield High Baseball Dates.

Candidates for the Plainfield High School baseball team for 1907 have started indoor practise in the school gymnasium. Thirty-five candidates have handed in their names to Manager Fred Reid and are working for places on the nine. Manager Reid has partially completed his schedule, which is as follows: April 20, Adelphia Academy, at Plainfield; May 15, Leal's School, at Plainfield; May 18, Montclair, at Plainfield; May 25, Newark High School, at Plainfield; June 1, Jersey City High School, at Jersey City. Dates for games are also pending with Stuyvesant High School, East Orange, Somerville, North Plainfield and Westfield.

Mrs. Fred Ivamy, of West Second street, has entirely recovered from an operation performed at the hospital a few weeks ago.

Irving Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, who has been spending some time at home, has returned to Montana, where he will resume his position in the engineering corps of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

That delightful comedy drama, "A Message from Mars," is the offering at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The reputation this play has acquired in London and New York city by its long and phenomenal runs, together with its popularity in all of the cities where it has been seen, was sufficient to cause very general interest upon the part of theatregoers to see it when it came here. It is needless to say that local theatregoers were in no wise disappointed. The play "made good" in every particular yet there were, of course, a great many who did not see it. It received high praise and general commendation from all sources after its presentation here. The play has many merits, and strange to say, it appeals to all classes, the lower floor, the balcony and the gallery alike.

"What Happened to Jones," this captivating farce comedy, this remarkable play which adds thousands of friends to its already long list will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. It is known as the one play that has a laugh in every line, and this is true. There isn't a dull second in the entire play; it simply sparkles; laugh follows laugh, complication follows complication until the audience fairly weeps with joy. The same attention to detail as characterized the initial performance will be seen here, and the cast, as the press everywhere has acclaimed, is in every way the best ever seen in this play; the management has spared neither effort nor expense in bringing this about and are proud of their labor. Mr. Milton, who is acclaimed as one of our most promising young actors, plays Jones.

The "Queen of the Kidnappers," a remarkable personage with a remarkable history, is the conspicuous character in the forthcoming attraction of the same name, which will seen at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. This desperate human being is shown in scenes which are associated with incidents of her own life, and she is surrounded by characters such as you might meet at any time on the lower quarters of New York city. The managers have given this play an elaborate production.

In melodrama there are none so good as the old favorites and Jacob Litt's production of "In Old Kentucky," will undoubtedly attract the same generous support from all classes of theatre-goers when it comes to the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, as on its previous visits. One does not have to go below the surface to discover the elements which make for the success of the piece. It is bountifully supplied with that homely sentiment which is never failing in its power to appeal to the emotions. It has an abundance of comedy to lighten the shadows of the plot, and it reveals a delightful romance of the Southland. The merry little coterie of pickaninnies, always identified with the play, will be strongly in evidence again. With their buck and wing dancing, their songs, their band music and their baton whirling, to say nothing of the many unrehearsed and extremely amusing antics that they nightly indulge in in the barnyard scene, they form an interesting and novel part of the performance. The play is always satisfactorily cast, but this season's company is said to be the best that has ever been seen in the play. A fine scenic production, all new, has been provided for this year's presentation. "In Old Kentucky" has attained the rare distinction of being the most popular of all American plays of the present day.

Thomas Jefferson, the eldest actor son of Joseph Jefferson, plays "Rip Van Winkle," and while his interpretation is similar to that of his father, it is not an imitation by any means, and displays considerable originality. The jolly, true-hearted, drinking and rollicking vagabond character that Irving created is well presented by Thomas Jefferson. The pathos and humor, the beautiful story of Irving, is well brought out by him. The theatrical family of Jefferson is known to every American household, and it is a pleasure to feel that the lovable character of Rip will not die since Joseph Jefferson retired from this mundane sphere. Thomas Jefferson plays the part at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, after a most successful engagement at the Boston theatre and Wallack's theatre, New York city.

The Rogers Brothers, with an organization of one hundred people, will lbe seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The comedy presented this season is called "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland." It is rather unlike the previous productions but equally tuneful and far more consistent. It is the biggest and best play the Brothers have ever had.

LITERARY.

Beatrix Demarest Lloyd is the author of the novel which opens the April Smart Set. Her story is entitled "The Miniature," and she has never written a finer piece of work. The scenes are laid in Paris, and the absorbing narrative, which grips the reader's attention at the outset, moves along to a most unexpected and thrilling conclusion. Of the younger writers of today, none is more promising than Miss Lloyd, and The Smart Set is to be congratulated on publishing so notable a novel. John G. Neihardt contributes a piece of fiction entitled "Beyond the Spectrum," which, because of its power and weird setting, deserves a place side by side with some of Edgar Allan Poe's short stories.

"Pure sunlight is now being made by man!" So writes Eugene Shade Bisbee in the Technical World Magazine for April. "The incandescent lamp which has been for twenty-five years the standard of the world's artificial illumination must take a back seat or retire from commercial activity. The arc, the mercury vapor and every form of illumination at present holding sway in centers of industry are relegated to the past. The true, pure, commercially possible light has came and after years of experimentation has been brought to a practical basis of manufacture.

Used Necktie for Suicide.

Philadelphia, March 12.—Mrs. Jessie Welch-Wilkin, wife of W. E. Wilkin, of the Security Corporation Company, committed suicide early yesterday morning at the home of her husband, No. 502 West View avenue, Pelham. She had hanged herself to a hook in a closet with one of her husband's neckties. She had to draw up her feet from the floor and hold them so until rendered unconscious by the band about her neck. The dead woman, who was fifty years old, had for some time been a sufferer from melancholia and nervous depression, and had twice before made unsuccessful attempts to take her life, once by throwing herself into the water and again by cutting herself with glass.

Plainfield High Baseball Dates.

Candidates for the Plainfield High School baseball team for 1907 have started indoor practise in the school gymnasium. Thirty-five candidates have handed in their names to Manager Fred Reid and are working for places on the nine. Manager Reid has partially completed his schedule, which is as follows: April 20, Adelphia Academy, at Plainfield; May 15, Leal's School, at Plainfield; May 18, Montclair, at Plainfield; May 25, Newark High School, at Plainfield; June 1, Jersey City High School, at Jersey City. Dates for games are also pending with Stuyvesant High School, East Orange, Somerville, North Plainfield and Westfield.

Mrs. Fred Ivamy, of West Second street, has entirely recovered from an operation performed at the hospital a few weeks ago.

Irving Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, who has been spending some time at home, has returned to Montana, where he will resume his position in the engineering corps of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

EX-GOV. MURPHY BUYS HISTORIC STRUCTURE.

Will Present It to New Jersey Society, Which Will Make It Its Home.

Arrangements have just been made by which the historic "Bloomsbury Manor," also known as the "Dey House," will soon pass into the possession and become the home of the New Jersey Historical Society. The property has been purchased by former Governor Murphy and will be turned over to the society as soon as the necessary papers are completed.

"The Dey House" was erected in 1742 by the late Derrick Dey, who was a prominent merchant in New York. The house is in Lower Preakness, about two miles from Paterson. It is in a remarkably good state of preservation despite its age. The house is about fifty feet wide and thirty feet deep. It is built of brick and brown sandstone in front, and the side walls and rear are of rubble, laid in yellow clay and pointed up.

The tract is a part of that obtained by Thomas Hart, of England, and was originally staked out by representatives of Mr. Hart and the Indian residents of that section of New Jersey. Mr. Dey purchased the 500 acres in 1717 for "120 pounds, current money of the province of New York," but it was not until 1742 that he erected the present house.

KILL "3-MEN-IN-A-CAB" BILL.

Railroad Men Tell Jersey House Committee It Would Be Dangerous.

Trenton, March 12.—The "Three-Men-in-a-Cab bill" was killed in the House Committee on Railroads yesterday afternoon. Experienced railroad men appeared before the committee and declared that the safety of the public would be endangered more by having an extra engineer in the locomotive cab than by having the present one man. Division of responsibility, they said, would lead to clashes, and in moments when a quick decision had to be made wrecks would certainly result from "two heads on one job."

The Committee on Miscellaneous Business agreed last night to report favorably on the Tumulty bill, making lawyers' fees a first lien on the amounts their clients collected. Lawyers appeared at the hearing and said that suits were frequently settled out of court, and they were deprived of their fees after doing the work. There was a hearing on the Elvins bill to empower the Attorney General to commence suit in the Court of Chancery to determine the ownership of the canal basin in Jersey City claimed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

It is likely that the Senate will approve the bill, although Judge Gilbert Collins attacked it, saying that it was a blow at vested rights. The House has already passed the measure.

Robbed by His Bride.

Chicago, Ill., March 12.—Mrs. Sophie Wambaugh, formerly Sophie Finlen, of Denver, Col., who was married in court last Friday after she had been arraigned on the charge of obtaining $3,000 from her prospective husband, William Wambaugh, disappeared yesterday after obtaining more than $3,000 from her husband. Wambaugh reported to the police that he had gone to a department store with his wife, and said that he entered a room to try on a pair of trousers he had purchased. His wife induced him to give her all the money he had, about $3,000, before entering the room, and said that she would wait until he came out. He searched the store for an hour, and then reported the matter to the police. Wambaugh told the police yesterday that he had spent more than $6,000 on his wife since he met her in Denver a week ago.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

"The Music Master," in which David Warfield is starring, had been played 858 times Saturday night. Since October 1 the gross receipts from this popular production amount to $399,994. Mr. Warfield says he is going to make a million dollars out of the play. In October next he will produce a new comedy-drama at the Belasco theatre, New York, which will be one of a repertoire of three plays, the others being "The Auctioneer" and "The Music Master," to which he will devote his time for several years to come.

The new musical farce by George M. Cohan, which will be produced at an early date, will be called "Fifty Miles from Boston," instead of "The Small Town Gal," the title first chosen for it. Lulu Glaser, who has been starring in "The Aero Club," was to have assumed the leading feminine role, but owing to her illness the part will be assigned to another. Emma Janvier, who is pleasant remembered by Plainfielders as "Madam Stitch" in "The Mayor of Tokio," will be one of the principals in the cast.

Andrew Mack, the Irish singing comedian, and his company have sailed for Australia, where they will play an extended engagement under the direction of W. W. Wilkinson.

Charles Wilson, a former local boy who has been "on the road" with various companies for the past five years, is spending a short time with relatives in town. He starts out next month on his second season as a member of the advance force for Barnum & Bailey.

The coming of "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland" next Monday night is anxiously awaited by local theatregoers who have never had the opportunity of witnessing this clever team. The present vehicle is the best they have ever appeared in and gives them unusual opportunities to display their ability as dialect comedians. They are surrounded by a company of eighty people and the production has an unusually heavy scenic mounting.

ABANDON THE BLOHM BILL.

Jersey Legislators Would Have Thirsty Women Drink at the Bar.

Trenton, March 12.—The Democratic leaders have abandoned the Blohm bill, which would legalize the selling of liquor on Sunday, and now will try to repeal the Bishops' law, or at least put through amendments to it. Mr. Klenert, the Democratic leader, introduced the new liquor-regulating measure last night. It was referred to the Judiciary Committee. Amendments to the present Bishops' law strike out Section 3, regulating the license fees in different municipalities.

In the section defining the class of persons to whom licenses shall be issued, the prohibition against granting licenses to persons not residents of the municipality for one year and not United States citizens, is removed excepting in first-class counties, provided the Essex Excise Boards and Judges may exercise their discretion in ordering screens down during prohibited hours. The amendments also strike out the present joint liability of owners of property and saloon tenants for violation of the law. At present licenses are denied to saloonkeepers for one year on conviction of offenses against the excise law. This bill is the compromise measure agreed on in a conference between the Senate and House Democrats today.

The sale of liquor to women in saloons is restricted to the bar, where they must drink as do men.

A NEW COAL BILL.

Senator Minturn Offers a Substitute Resolution Covering Newark Home Incident.

In the State Senate last night, Mr. Minturn introduced joint resolution No. 7, which he will press as a substitute for his joint resolution providing for the investigation of the coal and ice monopolies in connection with the railroads.

It was pointed out that the original resolution might not be broad enough to cover an investigation of the Newark City Home coal discrimination case, and Senator Minturn has come to the same conclusion.

The resolution which he introduced last night provides for a joint committee to investigate the method and system under which railroads are now operated in this State; he quality and nature of their equipment, the general efficiency of the service; the rates charged, etc.

The committee is to report to the next Legislature, together with a bill providing for a railroad commission. An appropriation of $10,000 for expenses is called for.

It was referred to the committee on railroads and canals.

Senator Hillery to Talk.

Tomorrow evening Senator Thomas J. Hillery will give an address before the members of Trenton Council, No. 355, K. of C. A large attendance is expected to greet the distinguished speaker.

Miss Caroline Staats, of Elizabeth, has been visiting friends in town for a few days.

HEIRS SEEK $400,000 FOR KILLING OF THREE.

Suit Over Accident at Allaire for Which Chauffeur Is Blamed By Coroner's Jury.

Manasquan, March 12.—The heirs of George Laffarge, Henrietta Laffarge and Angelica Burch, who were killed when their automobile was struck by a train at Allaire August 18 last, have brought suits, aggregating $4000,000, against the Pennsylvania Railroad. The coroner's inquest of the wase was held here Saturday afternoon, and the jury, after hearing the testimony, rendered a verdict placing the blame on the driver of the automobile.

This inquest was delayed more than six months, that Charles Lurch, husband of Mrs. Lurch, who was killed, might testify. He was confined to a hospital in Spring Lake for several weeks after the accident. After his recovery he returned to his home in New York, and the coroner was unable to compel his appearance here.

AMENDS CORPORATION ACT.

Alexander Bill Limits Duration of Charter to Thirty Years.

Assemblyman Alexander introduced a bill at the House session last night amending the corporation act so that two of the three incorporators shall be residents of New Jersey.

The bill limits the period of duration to thirty years. It authorizes all absent stockholders to vote at all meetings at all elections of directors, managers or trustees, each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as shall equal the number of shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors, etc., to be elected.

He may cast all such votes for a single director or may distribute them among the number to be voted for. This shall be termed cumulative voting. It also provides for additional information in annual reports, including a statement of assets and liabilities. Any false statement made by any officer or director shall constitute a misdemeanor.

Bryan a Too Expensive Attraction.

Altoona, Pa., March 12.—Believing that William Jennings Bryan would be a first class drawing card, the Committee of Arrangements of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church wrote him for his terms to deliver the principal lecture at the annual session, to be held next week in Tyrone. His price was so high it took the clergymen's breath away. His fee was larger than a whole year's salary of some of the ministers. The committee concluded to get a less-expensive attraction.

Confer With President.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—J. Piermont Morgan, of New York, was in conference with President Roosevelt for two hours last night. He came here at the request of certain business men of New York to discuss the business situation, particularly as affecting the railroads. He asked the President to grant an interview to four railroad presidents, which request was granted. B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, conferred with President Roosevelt yesterday and announced himself unreservedly in favor of close co-operation between railroad interests and the federal government in order that public confidence in railroads might be restored and radical legislation by State Legislature be abated.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The regular Tuesday evening prayer-meeting will be held tonight in the Baptist church. The pastor will explain the 29th Psalm.

Some of the young men in the Young People's Social Club are getting up a ball to be given in Washington Hall on April 5.

Mrs. Walter Sisty, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. William Manning, of this place, returned to her home in Netcong.

The electric lights are now being placed in the Baptist church under the supervision of Frank Randolph, of Dunellen.

Morris Higgins is still suffering from his leg, which is the result of ramming a pitchfork into it.

Two positions on the shifting engine as brakemen are vacant and have been advertised.

Mrs. Katherine Smith is convalescent from her recent illness.

Miss Grace Terrell, of Perth Amboy, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Frank Faulks is entertaining out of town relatives.

Miss Edna VanNest is visiting relatives in Jersey City.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will hold its annual meeting in Vincent chapel this afternoon.

Danish Lutheran services will be held at the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Kiaer will preach.

Preparatory services will be held at Hope chapel Thursday night and communion services will be held Sunday night, with reception of new members.

The annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held on Wednesday night, March 27, for the presentation of reports and election of officers.

Those in charge of the mission work at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle have received a large clock from P. H. Latourette, which has been placed on the wall of the meeting-room.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society of Warren chapel will hold its annual meeting in the chapel Friday afternoon. Officers will be elected and there will be an address by Mrs. Adrain Lyon, of Perth Amboy.

FOR RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

Moxon Bills Will Enable Elizabeth to Cleanse Creek.

Among the bills introduced last night in the Legislature were two by Assemblyman John R. Moxon, both of them for the benefit of Elizabeth. One of the measures authorizes cities through which any river, stream or creek runs, and into which the sewers of any city empties, to build and construct intercepting sewers to receive and dispose of such sewage and to issue bonds to meet the expenses thereof.

The other bill enables cities to widen, deepen and improve streams, creeks or rivers which are the outlets of the natural drainage or water surface water therein, and to erect retaining walls on the same. It also provides for the issue of bonds to pay for the same.

Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, Peter Bonnett, the city comptroller, and James C. Connolly, the city attorney, were present at the State House and worked for the passage of the bills. Elizabeth has no ordinance providing for intercepting sewers. The cleansing of the Elizabeth river has been contemplated for some time by the authorities.

HEAT OF ACETYLENE FLAME.

Some Parts Have Higher Temperature Than Others.

From the best of combustion of acetylene, its temperature, writes Nikols in Physikalische Zeitschrift, is calculated to be between 2100 degrees Centigrade and 2420. But the experimental values so far obtained vary from the melting point of platinum down to 1400 degrees. That some parts of the flame possess a temperature higher than the melting point of platinum may be proved by introducing very fine platinum wires into it and showing that they melt. Herr Nichols has made some careful measurements by means of thermocouples, consisting of fine platinum and platino rhodium wires. The difficulty in all such measurements is to avoid conduction, which reduces the temperature of the hot junction below that of the flame into which it is immersed. The author has heretofore employed the expedient of using four different diameters of wires, ranging from 0.19 millimeters to 0.08 millimeters, and extrapolating the cruves thus obtained down to a zero diameter. The temperature of the hottest portion thus obtained was found to be 1920 degrees, or 100 degrees above the highest temperature obtained with thinnest wire. An ordinary gas jet gave under the same conditions a temperature of 1780 degrees, or a few degrees above the melting point of platinum.

YALE STUDENTS EXPENSES.

Statistics Show They Run From $293 to $2,000 a Year.

New Haven, March 12.—The danger of a too liberal allowance to students at Yale University is set forth in statistics gathered by Professor William B. Bailey, of the department of political economy, and just made public. He obtained his data from 500 students.

Five groups were made, beginning at the students who spend less than $500 during their college year, up to those who spend more than $2,000. The average amount spent by students working their way through college is $292.30. The largest group spend between $500 and $1,000, while only nine spend over $2,000. The man in the $500 group spends 6 per cent. on clothes, while it is 25 per cent. with the man who spends more than $2,000 a year. The wealthy students make many gifts, spend more on intoxicants than on tobacco and liberally patronize the theatres. Statistics show that the pipe is the favorite with the Yale smoker, and that for every dollar spent by the poorest students the wealthiest spend $8.43. By a table of percentages the wealthiest students are shown to spend eighteen times as much on pleasure and eighty-two times as much on tobacco and intoxicants as the poorest students.

SEASONABLE REMINDERS.

Sow some grass or clover seed on the winter grain.

A good garden should be the pride of every farmer.

Burn the prunings and the rubbish gathered in the fields.

This is a good time to repair and paint the house and farm buildings.

Parsnip and salsify roots still in the ground should be dug before any growth begins.

Farm land to be suitable for raising two crops in one season must be rich, and in good tilth.

Do not expect to raise good crops from poor seed. The penny-a-packet seeds are the most expensive in the end.

Let those plants which were covered for the winter retain their protection until the weather becomes more settled.

Earliness is all-important with the market gardener. A few days will make a considerable difference in his receipts.

Preparation of the soil must be pushed as fast as its condition will allow. Use an abundance of manure and plow deeply.

If fruit trees are planted for orchard purposes, select only a few kinds that are known to succeed in the locality where they are to be grown.

SUCCESS NUGGETS.

A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market.

Anxiety never yet successfully bridged over any chasm.

Genius has a twin brother whose name is patience.

We postpone and postpone until smiling possibilities are dead.

True merit is like a river. The deeper it is the less noise it makes.

You will not find poetry anywhere unless you bring some with you.

By sparing ourselves the daily task we dig the grave of our higher possibilities.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given, That the account of the subscribers, executors and trustees under the will of Elias R. Pope, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the twentieth day of March next.

Dated February 18, 1907.

JAMES C. POPE,
FRANK A. POPE,
HOWARD A. POPE,
2 19 oaw 5 tu Executors, etc.

She took my hand coolly enough and stepped down into the passage. Then I broke out stormily.

"You don't seem to understand the gravity of what you are doing! Don't you know that you are risking your life in crawling through this house at midnight?—that even to serve Arthur Pickering a life is a pretty big thing to throw away? Your infatuation for that blackguard seems to carry you far, Miss Devereux."

She swung the lantern at arm's length back and forth so that its rays at every forward motion struck my face like a blow.

"It isn't exactly pleasant in this cavern. Unless you wish to turn me over to the lord high executioner, I will bid you good night."

"But the infamy of this—of coming in here to spy upon me—to help my enemy—the man who is seeking plunder—doesn't seem to trouble you."

"No. Not a particle!" she replied quietly, and then, with an impudent fling, "Oh, no!" she held up the lantern to look at the wick. "I'm really disappointed to find that you were a little ahead of me, Squire Glenarm. I didn't give you credit for so much—perseverance. But if you have the notes—"

"The notes! He told you there were notes, did he? The coward sent you here to find them, after his other tools failed him?"

She laughed that low laugh of hers that was like the bubble of a spring.

"Of course no one would dare deny what the great Squire Glenarm says," she said witheringly.

"You can't know what your perfidy means to me," I said. "That night at the Armstrongs', I thrilled at the sight of you. As you came down the stairway I thought of you as my good angel and I belonged to you,—all my life, the better future that I wished to make for your sake."

"Please don't!" she exclaimed sorrowfully, the mirth all gone. I felt that my words had touched her; that there were regret and repentance in her tone and in the gesture with which she turned from me.

She hurried down the passage toward the chapel, swinging the lantern at her side, and I followed, still mystified, and angered by her composure. She even turned, with pretty courtesy, to hold the light for me at the crypt steps,—a service that I accepted perforce and with joyless acquiescence in the irony of it. I knew that I did not believe in her; her conduct as to Pickering was utterly indefensible,—I could not forget that; but the light of her eyes, her tranquil brow, the sensitive lips, whose mockery stung and pleased in a breath,—by such testimony my doubts were alternately reinforced and disarmed. Swept by these changing moods I followed her out into the crypt.

"You seem to know a good deal about this place, and I suppose I can't object to your familiarizing yourself with your own property. And the notes—I'll give myself the pleasure of handing them to you to-morrow. You can cancel them and give them to Mr. Pickering,—a fitting pledge between you!"

I thrust my hands into my pockets to give an impression of ease I did not possess.

"Yes," she remarked in a practical tone; "$320,000 dollars is no mean sum of money. Mr. Pickering will undoubtedly be delighted to have his debts canceled—"

"In exchange for a life of devotion," I sneered. "So you knew the sum—the exact amount of these notes. He hasn't served you well. He should have told you that we found them today."

"You are not nice, are you, Squire Glenarm, when you are cross? But Mr. Pickering wasn't kind not to tell me. Why, I might catch a dreadful cold down here!"

She was like Olivia now. I felt the utter futility of attempting to reason with a woman who could become a child at will. She walked up the steps and out into the church vestibule. Then before the outer door she spoke with decision.

"We part here, if you please! And—I have not the slightest intention of trying to explain my errand into that passage. You have jumped to your own conclusion, which will have to serve you. I advise you not to think very much about it,—to the exclusion of more important business,—Squire Glenarm!"

She lifted the lantern to turn out its light, and it made a glory of her face, but she paused and held it toward me.

"Pardon me! You will need this to light you home."

"But you must not cross the park alone!"

"Good night! Please be sure to close the door to the passage when you go down. You are a dreadfully heedless person, Squire Glenarm."

She flung open the outer chapel door and ran along the path toward St. Agatha's. I watched her in the starlight until a bend in the path hid her swift-moving figure.

Down through the passage I hastened, her lantern lighting my way. At the Door of Bewilderment I closed the opening, setting up the line of wall as we had left it in the afternoon, and then I went back to the library, freshened the fire and brooded before it until Bates came to relieve me at dawn.

CHAPTER XXIII.
Besieged.

It was nine o'clock. We had swallowed some breakfast, though I believe no one had manifested an appetite, and we were cheering ourselves with the idlest talk possible. Stoddard, who had been to the chapel for his usual seven o'clock service, was deep in the pocket Greek testament he always carried.

Bates ran in to report a summons at the outer wall, and Larry and I went together to answer it, sending Bates to keep watch toward the lake.

Our friend, the sheriff, with a deputy, was outside in a buggy. He stood up and talked to us over the wall.

"You gents understand that I'm only doing my duty. It's an unpleasant business, but the court orders me to eject all trespassers on the premises, and I've got to do it."

"The law is being used by an infamous scoundrel to protect himself. I don't intend to give in. We can hold out here for three months, if necessary, and I advise you to keep away and not act as a tool for a man like Pickering."

The sheriff listened respectfully, resting his arms on top of the wall.

"You ought to understand, Mr. Glenarm, that I ain't the court; I'm the sheriff, and it's not for me to pass on these questions. I've got my orders and I've got to enforce 'em, and I hope you will not make it necessary for me to use violence. The judge said to me, 'We deplore violence in such cases.' Those were his honor's very words."

"You may give his honor my compliments and tell him that we are sorry not to see things his way, but there are points involved in this business that he doesn't know anything about, and we, unfortunately, have no time to lay them before him."

The sheriff's seeming satisfaction with his position on the wall and his disposition to parley had begun to arouse my suspicions, and Larry several times exclaimed impatiently at the absurdity of discussing my affairs with a person whom he insisted on calling a constable, to the sheriff's evident annoyance.

"You, sir,—we've got our eye on you, and you'd better come along peaceable. Laurance Donovan; the descriptions fits you to a 't'."

"You could buy a nice farm with that reward, couldn't you—" began Larry, but at that moment Bates ran toward us calling loudly.

"They're coming across the lake, sir," he reported, and instantly the sheriff's head disappeared, and as we ran toward the house we heard his horse pounding down the road toward St. Agatha's.

"The law be damned. They don't intend to come in here by the front door as a matter of law," said Larry. "Pickering's merely using the sheriff to give respectability to his maneuvers."

It was no time for a discussion of motives. We ran across the meadow past the water tower and down to the boat-house. Far out on the lake we saw half a dozen men approaching the Glenarm grounds. They advanced steadily over the light snow that lay upon the ice, one man slightly in advance and evidently the leader.

"It's Morgan," exclaimed Bates. "And there's Ferguson."

Larry chuckled and slapped his thigh.

"Observe that stocky little devil just behind the leader. He's my friend from Scotland Yard. Lads! this is really an international affair."

"Bates, go back to the house and call at any sign of attack," I ordered. "The sheriff's loose somewhere."

"And Pickering is directing his forces from afar," remarked Stoddard.

"I count ten men in Morgan's line," said Larry, "and the sheriff and his deputy make two more. That's 12, not counting Pickering, that we know of on the other side."

"Warn them away before they get much nearer," suggested Stoddard. "We don't want to hurt people if we can help it,"—and at this I went to the end of the pier. Morgan and his men were now quite near, and there was no mistaking their intentions. Most of them carried guns, the others revolvers and long ice hooks.

"Morgan," I called, holding up my hands for a truce, "we wish you no harm, but if you enter these grounds you do so at your peril."

They had paused at a word from Morgan and listened sullenly.

"We're all sworn deputy sheriffs," called the caretaker smoothly. "We've got the law behind us."

"That must be why you're coming in the back way," I replied.

The thickset man whom Larry had identified as the English detective now came closer and addressed me in a high key.

"You're harboring a bad man, Mr. Glenarm. You'd better give him up. I've got my papers and the American law supports me. You'll get yourself into trouble if you protect that man. You may not understand, sir, that he's a very dangerous character."

"Thanks, Davidson!" called Larry. "You'd better keep out of this. You now I'm a bad man with the shillalah!"

"That you are, you blackguard!" yelled the officer, so spitefully that we all laughed.

I drew back to the boat-house.

"They are not going to kill anybody if they can help it," remarked Stoddard, "any more than we are. Even deputy sheriffs are not turned loose to do murder, and the Wabana county court wouldn't, if it hadn't been imposed on by Pickering, lend itself to a game like this. And this business here is only a private affair between Pickering and the sheriff."

"Now we're in for it," yelled Larry; and the 12 men, in close order, came running across the ice toward the shore.

"Open order, and fall back slowly toward the house," I commanded. And we deployed from the boat-house, while the attacking party still clung together,—a strategic error on their side, as Larry assured us.

"Stay together, lads. Don't separate; you'll get lost if you do," he yelled derisively to the enemy.

Stoddard bade him keep still, and we soon had our hands full with a preliminary skirmish. Davidson, the detective, seemed disgusted at Morgan's tactics, openly abused the caretaker, and ran ahead of his column, revolver in hand, bearing down upon Larry, who held our center.

The Englishman's haste was his undoing. A light fall of snow a few days before had gathered in the little hollows of the wood deceptively. The detective plunged into one of these and fell sprawling on all fours—a calamity that caused his comrades to pause uneasily. Larry was upon his enemy in a flash, wrenched his pistol away and pulled the man to his feet.

"Ah, Davidson. There's many a slip! Move, if you dare, and I'll plug you with your own gun." And he stood behind the man, using him as a shield while Morgan and the rest of the army hung near the boat house uncertainly.

"It's the strategic intellect we've captured, general," observed Larry to me. "You see the American invaders were depending on British brains."

Morgan now acted on the hint we had furnished him and sent his men out as skirmishers. The loss of the detective had undoubtedly staggered the caretaker, and we were slowly retreating toward the house, Larry with one hand on the collar of his prisoner and the other grasping the revolver, with which he poked the man frequently in the ribs. We slowly continued our retreat, fearing a rush, which would have disposed of us easily enough if Morgan's company had shown any fighting spirit. Stoddard's presence rather amazed and intimidated them, I think, and I saw that the invaders kept away from his end of the line. We were now far apart, stumbling over the snow-covered earth and calling to one another now and then that we might not become too widely separated. Davidson did not relish his capture by the man he had followed across the ocean, and he attempted once to roar a command to Morgan.

"Try it again," I heard Larry admonish him, "try that once more, and The Sod, God bless it! will never feel the delicate imprint of your web-feet again."

He turned the man about and rushed him toward the house, the revolver still serving as a prod. His flight gave heart to the wary invaders immediately behind him and two fellows, urged and led by Morgan, charged our line at a smart pace.

"Bolt for the front door," I called to Larry, and Stoddard and I closed in after him to guard his retreat.

"They're not shooting," called Stoddard. "You may be sure they've had their orders to capture the house with as little row as possible."

Another Shipment of "Elbeco" Sewing Machines

We are pleased to announce the second big consignment of "Elbeco" machines, which, on account of the congested condition of freight and other unforseen and altogether unfortunate circumstances, was two weeks overdue. This shipment, while considerably larger than the first, will doubtless be gone before our third reaches us, and our candid advice to those who wish to avail themselves of this splendid club offer and secure a machine at once, is to act promptly. Remember, it costs you but $200 to join our club, and this $2.00 applies directly to the cost of the machine. There are no "extras"—no "club fees"—no "interest"—ours is the broadest, best and, by an overwhelming majority, the most helpful proposition ever placed before the public.

"I am in receipt of notice of a five-year dividend due under my policy for $5,000. The options are as follows:

First—That I may draw in cash dividend of $108.25; or

Second—I may apply the dividend to increase the face value of my policy, thus adding $270 to my insnrance; or

Third—I may use the dividend to reduce the premium on my policy for the ensuing five years, under which arrangement I will have to pay only $125.20 per annum instead of $148.35.

I have selected the first option, and beg to express my satisfaction with the results received, and my continued confidence in the management of The Prudential."

MONTCLAIR MAN'S GIFT.

William T. Evans Presents Valuable Pictures to National Gallery.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—William T. Evans, of Montclair, N. J., has made a much appreciated donation to the National Gallery of Art in the capital city. For more than twenty-five years Mr. Evans has been one of the foremost patrons of native artists, and has thus done m uch to bring about a recognition of American art. He has from the first bought directly from the artists, but he has purchased only works of unquestioned merit. He now owns a collection of over 200 paintings, which collection is said to be one of the finest in this country.

Mr. Evans has now selected forty of the choicest paintings from his notable collection and presented them to the National Gallery. Many of the leading artists of this generation, both living and dead, are represented in the selections. Unlike the Freer collection, which was given to the same institution a year or so ago, Mr. Evans' gift becomes immediately available and is given without any restrictions. With the Freer collection it will form the nucleus of a great galery, which art lovers believe will one day become the most notable of its kind in the world.

Owing to lack of space in the present quarters occupied by the National Gallery, this collection, to be known as "The William T. Evans collection," will be temporarily placed in the Corcoran Art Gallery, which is visited by every visitor to the capitalfi old or young. Mr. Evans' gift is worth in money about $100,000, but to the art world its value is inestimable.

AN ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE.

Tendered Last Night to Mr. and Mrs. John Bowers at Millington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowers, of Millington, were tendered a surprise by nearly 200 friends, last night, on the occasion of the twenty-second anniversary of their wedding. It was one of the largest gatherings of the kind held in that section in a long time and Plainfield was well represented among the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers were totally unprepared for the invasion but it did not interfere with the after-enjoyment and the fun continued until after midnight.

The celebrants were married at Bernardsville and are among the best known residents of the Millington section.

BILLS FLOOD SENATE.

Twenty-six, Including Colby's Utility Measure, Introduced.

Twenty-six bills were introduced in the Senate at Trenton last night. One by Senator Everett Colby would create a public utility commission. Another Colby bill created a State railroad commission, to consist of three persons, to be appoined by the Governor and to have general supervision over all railroads. Salaries are fixed at $4,000 per annum.

Senator Bradley introduced a bill of interest to automobilists, providing that all vehicles shall keep to the right when they meet or overtake another vehicle. They shall carry at night a light in front and a red light behind.

R. R. COMMISSION BILLS UP.

Reported to House and Put on Second Reading.

The entire series of bills providing for the creation of a State Railroad Commission, presented by Assemblyman Edward H. Wright, Jr., of Essex, were reported favorably last night at Trenton in the House by the committee on railroads and canals. The bills were advanced to a second reading and Mr. Wright is making every effort to have them acted upon before adjournment this week.

Considerable opposition to the bills is evident on all sides. Those who favor the measures are watching the lobbyists who are thought to be working against the bills.

Had Children Steal.

New York, March 12.—Jacob Trest and his wife, Annie, of Jamaica, L. I., were held yesterday in Manhattan Avenue Court for trial at special sessions on a charge of larceny. The two were arrested Saturday night in a Broadway department store after their two sons, aged five and three years, it is charged, had been seen stealing articles and handing them over to their parents. At the Stagg street station when searched five bags containing articles were found in possession of the woman. In court Mrs. Trest became hysterical and begged for release, promising she would never do anything wrong again. She said her family was destitute and as the children were in want of shoes she contrived to steal them. Magistrate Geismar directed an agent of the Children's Society to go to the Trest home and take the children away.

Two Churches at Neshanic Station.

Neshanic Station is the scene of great religious activity, and indications point to the erection of two church edifices there this spring. Several leading residents have formed the Neshanic Methodist Episcopal church, which has filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office. The Reformed church at Neshanic, about a mile distant from Neshanic Station, which has stood on its present site for 150 years, is also making arrangements to build a chapel at Neshanic Station. Rev. John Hart, who has had charge of the Reformed church for thirty years, is at the head of the movement.

Bit Thief's Finger.

New York, March 12.—Attacked by two highwaymen in the hallway of her daughter's home, No. 279 East Third street, late last night, Mrs. Beckie Tuster got one of the fingers of her assailant between her teeth and held on while he screamed with pain. His yells brought out the tenants of the house, and both men fled. Mrs. Tuster lost one of her front teeth. Mrs. Tuster wore a pair of diamond earrings, and the man whose finger she bit strove to get them, but in groping for her ears in the dark hallway his hand went into her mouth.

Jacob Gaub, formerly of this city, but now of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., has been visiting relatives here for a few days.

TELL OF JERSEY ROADS

rolling at the sides and gradually working it toward the center, for by so doing the crown of the road is preserved.

Mr. Meeker stated that if this work is well and thoroughly done the road will be hard, smooth and convenient for travel at all seasons of the year.

After the presentation of the paper there was an informal discussion of it in which many of the foremost road builders in the country took part, explaining their individual experience and comparing it with that of Mr. Meeker.

GAVE HER RING TO PAY FOR DRESSES.

Constable Who Took It and Released Woman's Trunk Is Now Worrying.

Constable Saparino, of Hoboken, much perplexed as to what disposition he can make of a ring, alleged to be worth $500, which he got last Saturday as payment for a dressmaker's bill of $211. He says unless it is redeemed ery soon he will hae to dispose of it to pay the debt.

Just as the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria was to sail last Saturday afternoon the constable levied on seven trunks of Mrs. Clarie J. Cornell, who was a passenger. The attachment was sworn out by Assemblyman Archibald Alexander at the request of Englehard & Keidall, dressmakers, who claimed that Mrs. Cornell owed them $211 for dresses, and that they had been unable to collect it. They learned that she was about to sail for Paris and secured the attachment on her trunks.

Mrs. Cornell was highly indignant and said it was an outrage that her belongings should be seized in that manner. She was told that if she paid the bill she would have no further trouble. She offered to do that. All the money she had, she said, was $110, but the constable refused to accept this, and then the woman remembered about her ring.

After much bartering the constable accepted it as payment for the bill, with the understanding that a "Mr. Thompson," of New York, a friend of Mrs. Cornell was to redeem it just as soon as she could send him a wireless.

Mrs. Cornell then had her trunks put on board the steamer and the vessel sailed, leaving the constable in possession of the ring. The constable still has it and has hear nothing from "Mr. Thompson."

CRABBING BILL GOES OVER.

South Jersey Practically Defeats Fish and Game Measure.

Trenton, March 12.—South ersey members of the Assembly practically defeated another fish and game measure last night in the House. The bill presented by Assemblyman Simon Hahn, of Essex, making it unlawful to catch crabs between November 1 and May 1, was objected to by Assemblymen William R. Drake, of Middlesex, and Samuel S. Taylor, of Ocean.

Mr. Drake said that the time specified in the bill was just the time crabs were fine for eating. "It is a bad bill," he said, "and I hope it does not pass."

Mr. Taylor took the same line of argument as his colleague, with the result that Mr. Hahn, who had strongly advocated the bill, asked that it be laid over until tomorrow.

Seek Light on Capitol Cost.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 12.—The legislative inquiry into the new State Capitol contracts and accounts was begun here yesterday. The capitol was built under the direction of a building committee at a cost of $4,000,000. It was furnished and equipped by the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings at a cost of nearly $9,000,000. Members of the Board when the contracts were given out were Governor Pennypacker, Auditor General Snyder and State Treasurer Mathues, Republicans. Mr. Mathues was succeeded by W. H. Berry, a Democrat, a year ago, and Mr. Berry, declaring overcharges in the furnishings exceed $4,000,000, has refused to pay several bills on the grounds that they are exorbitant and excessive.

Moving Day Tragedy.

One of the ever-threatening tragedies of moving day was aired in the district court this morning, in the only contested case. William Smith, suing Mrs. Alice Stranahan for damages, claimed compensation was due him for damage done to his household goods, following Mrs. Stranahan's refusal to allow him to move into one of her houses, which he had previously rented. Mrs. Stranahan, he said, met him, when he came to the place last October, with a van load of furniture, and told him that she couldn't let him take the house, because she had learned he had children. She is alleged to have said her husband might let him have it, but the husband was asleep and he would have to wait until he arose. Smith waited, with his furniture, for several hours, a rainstorm arose, and the furniture was dampened and damaged. Judge Newcorn had just begun his charge at 2:30 o'clock. W. G. De Meza appeared for Smith, and S. S. Swackhamer for Mrs. Stranahan.

Hope Canton, No. 6, Independent Order Odd Fellows, will hold a dance in Saengerbund Hall, April 9.

TWO QUEUES WERE SINGED.

Wing Loosens Glas Pipe, Wong Holds Clandle—Laundly Blows Up.

Paterson, March 12.—Hop Wing, of 106 Market street, was preparing to move across the street yesterday morning. Among other fixutres that he was going to take with him were thirty feet of gas pipe.

Hope failed to turn off the gas and loosened the pipe while his assistant laundryman, Charley Wong, held a lighted candle for him.

The explosion singed two queues and blew out the front of Wing's laundry and many windows in the Curie building. Damage, $200.

COLLINS NOW BRIGADIER

Second Regiment's Colonel Succeeds the Late Gen. Quincey O'M. Gilmore.

ELECTION UNANIMOUS

Lieut.-Col. N. Y. Dungan Gets Col. Collins' Position As' Head of Regiment.

Colonel Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, commandant of the Second regiment, Second brigade, National Guard of New Jersey, was last night elected as Brigadier General to succeed General Quincy O. M. Gillmore, of Princeton, who recently resigned on account of ill health. The election took place at Trenton.

Colonel Collins' election was unanimous, his opponent, Colonel John C. Mather, of Camden, withdrawing. This ends a contest that was a deadlock for forty-three ballots and diverts what threatened to be a political ward in the ranks of the guard.

The Governor favored Colonel Collins because he was senior officer and was acting commander of the brigade. Colonel Collins is a Democrat and the Democrats in the Legislature declared that they would cut down this year's military appropriation if a Republican was jumped over his head.

The new commander of the Second Brigade has risen from the ranks. He was a captain a short time before the Spanish-American War and was then promoted to the rank of major. A short while later he was raised to the colonelcy of the Second. His command attained great efficiency in behavior, drill and marksmanship and merited high praise from State officials.

General Collins is the presiding officer of the Elizabeth Common Council, president of the Peter Breidt Brewing Company and a member of several Elizabeth lodges.

Following the election the officers and a number of guests were entertained in the Dutch room at Margerum's cafe in Trenton by the newly elected brigadier general.

General Collin's guests were Major General P. F. Wanser, who was judge of the election; Lieutenant Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, Major Leon Manton, Jersey City; Major Edward B. Broadway, of Camden; member of the brigade staff; Colonel James V. Oliphant, Captain Harry Kranmer, Camden; Captain Nelson B. Gaskill, Mount Holly; Captain J. H. McCullough, of Company A, Second Regiment; Captain Mahlon Margerrum, of the Governor's staff; Captain Edward H. Gordon, of the Second Regiment field staff; Captain John M. Rogers, of Second Regiment; Captain David M. Flynn and Lieutenant Charles W. Stark.

Lieutenant Colonel Nelson Y. Dugan, of Somerville, will succeed Col. Collins as commander of the Second Regiment. Major George L. Forman will advance to lieutenant colonel; Captain John H. McCullough will advance to the rank of major. First Lieutenant Walter Morton is slated for captain of Company A, succeeding Captain McCullough and Second Lieutenant Edward Myatt is slated for first lieutenant succeeding First Lieutenant Morton.

Lieutenant Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, who is slated for colonel of the Second Regiment, is one of the most popular officers of the National Guard of New Jersey. He enlisted in Company H. Third Regiment, July 28, 1891, and became a corporal in August of the same year. He was elected first sergeant in 1893; battalion sergeant major in 1894; captain and judge advocate in 1894. He retired in 1899 and reentered the service in 1900 as captain of Company M of the Second Regiment. He was elected major in 1901 and became lieutenant colonel upon the death of Lieutenant Colonel Jos. Climo, of Burlington.

NEW MANAGER.

Mr. and Mrs. Muff to Manage 'Plains Hostelry.

"Willie" Deegan, the baseball twirler, who is the proprietor of the old Hotel at Scotch Plains, which is a landmark of the village, has secured Mr. and Mrs. Adam Muff, of New York, as managers for the place. This change is made because "Willie" has signed to pitch for the Jersey City Eastern League team, this season, and will not be able to devote his time to hotel affairs. He will leave on Saturday to join the Skeeters at Jersey City.

Mr. Muff is an old hotel man, having been engaged in the business in New York State for several years. He will engage in the mushroom growing business on an extensive scale. He has also planned a number of improvements about the hostelry. Mr. Muff is a relative of Henry Pedeflous, of Washington Valley, who has a reputation for growing mushrooms.

JOHN I. BROWER WEDS MISS JOSEPHINE GILMORE

REV. JOHN P. PETERS OFFICIATES AT CEREMONY AT BRIDE'S HOME.

Miss Josephine Louise Gillmore, daughter of Mrs. E. D. Gillmore, and John I. Brower, son of Mrs. H. W. Brower, of 144 East Ninth street, this city, were married last night at the home of the bride's mother, 232 West 107th street, New York. Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michaels' church, officiated. The affair was a quiet one, being attended only by the members of the immediate families and intimate friends. The only attendant was Henry W. Brower, brother of the groom, who was best man.

The bride was gowned in chiffon and lace over white satin and she carried a bouquet of white roses and maiden-hair ferns. She was given in marriage by her mother. An informal reception was held after the ceremony. Gifts of great value were received by the bride.

The decorations in the parlor consisted of palms and pink roses, while the prevailing color in the dining room was red.

Following a honeymoon trip the couple will reside in New York, where the groom is engaged in the real estate business.

DENTON COLLEGE CHAMPION.

Plainfielder Wins Athletic Title at Brown University.

Arthur L. Denton, of Washington avenue, a student at Brown University, won the title of college gymnast at the Brown physical training exhibition on Saturday afternoon in Lyman gymnasium, with a score of 136 7-15. It was visiting day and the gymnasium was crowded with members of the corporation, faculty, etc.

The exhibition included the various class drills, a competition to decide the gymnastic champion of the college, and finally a swimming contest, which included diving, racing, plunge for distance and a short water polo game.

Prior to entering Brown Drenton had a reputation here as a gymnast, having made fine records while attending the Plainfield High School and in various Y. M. C. A. contests. Last fall he was one of the substitute players on the 'varsity football team and whenever called upon to play acquitted himself creditably. He is also one of the honor men at Brown in his studies, having won several prizes.

PETITIONS FOR DISCHARGE.

W. N. Tier, Bankrupt, Granted a Hearing in District Court.

William N. Tier, of East Front street, was on October 13 last, was adjudged a bankrupt, declares that he has surrendered all of his property and rights of property and has complied with all the requirements of the law and the orders of the court relating to his bankruptcy, has petitioned to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate as are excepted by law from such discharge.

In view of this, notice has been given that a hearing on the petition will be granted in the United States District Court at Trenton, before Judge Cross, on Monday, April 1, giving all creditors and other persons interested an opportunity to appear and show cause, if any they have, why the petition should not be granted.

Dunellen Concert.

An entertainment will be given in the Dunellen Presbyterian church by the Special Grand Concert Company of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The personnel of the company is Miss Madge A. Rogers, reader; Miss Lillian A. Cropper, violinist; Miss Winifred Fuller, soprano, and Miss Lela Hulslander, pianist. Two are members of the faculty of the conservatory and the others specially engaged artists.

A. O. H. Annual Ball.

Division No. 4, A. O. H., will hold its thirty-second annual ball in Saengerbund Hall next Monday night. Suhr's Imperial Orchestra will furnish the music and the committee has secured Prof. Francis X. Hennessey, of New York, to give Irish bagpipe selections. The committee in charge of arrangements comprises Timothy Cullinan, Patrick O'Brien, Patrick Harrington, John Simpson, Thomas Brown, Thomas Farrell, Patrick Breen, James J. Tobin, Patrick Griffin and John F. Casey.

Dr. Richards Will Speak.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will address the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday night, March 22. A social half-hour will follow, giving the young people an opportunity to meet Dr. Richards.

SOMERSET'S BOARD TO BUILD A ROAD

YES, OF COURSE IT IS AT OTHER END OF THE COUNTY.

Elijah C. Hutchinson, State Road Commissioner, refused to approve the contract awarded to William Hardgrove, of Somerville, for the construction of a clay-binder road from North Branch to the Hunterdon county line, near Whitehouse, at his bid of $27,362.15, and at a meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders at Somerville yesterday the contract was revoked. It was understood that Mr. Hutchinson would approve a sand-binder road, and as Mr. Hardgrove's bid for this, $30,224.32, was the lowest the contract was at once awarded to him, subject to the approval of the State Commissioner.

Residents of Hunterdon county have secured the signatures of the members of the Somerset board to a petition to the State Commissioner urging him to approve the macadamizing of the road on into Hunterdon county. The Somerset people are anxious to have the road continued through to Whitehouse and Whitehouse Station.

MRS. REED EXPLAINS THE BABY CAMP WORK.

President of King's Daughters Union Speaks at Warren Chapel.

In response to an invitation from the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, president of the City Union of The King's Daughters, addressed the members at their weekly meeting in the chapel, last night. She told something of the work carried on at the baby camp on the mountains every summer. The society has contributed more or less to this work, but it desired to know more about it that the interest might be aroused in such a worthy local charity.

Mrs. Reed gave a brief history of the King's Daughters work and of the establishing of the baby camp work, which has resulted in so much good. She also took occasion to say something about The Day Nursery work, giving the Endeavorers an idea of the large number of children cared for during the year and enlisting their sympathy. The society will undoubtedly plan to lend more support to these charities in the future.

IDENTIFY TRAIN VICTIM.

Youth Killed by P. and R. Flyer Was Clinton Knapp, of Barclay, Pa.

The youth killed at East Bound Brook by a P. and R. flyer Saturday afternoon, has been identified as ClintonKnapp, of Barclay, Pa. The identification is positive and Undertaker Walter G. Runyon, to whose establishment in Dunellen the body was taken, is awaiting word from the dead boy's parents in Barclay.

The identification was established through letters found on the body. Knapp worked in Bayonne, as a machine man for the Insulated Wire and Cable Co. He was on his way home for a visit when struck by the train. The youth's identity was not established until yesterday, and at noon today arrangements for the disposition of the body had not been made.

Bible Talks.

"How the Bible Came to Us" is the theme of a lecture to be given at the Friends Meeting-house, Watchung avenue and East Third street, Friday night, at 8 o'clock. All students of the Bible and others interested are cordially invited to attend. "The Bible Vindicated by Modern Criticism" will be the subject of an address by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, before the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The men's clubs of the other churches are cordially invited to be present.

Dislocated His Knee Cap.

Royal Phillips, of Madison avenue, is detained at home, the result of an accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Rahway ten days ago. He was getting off a passenger train at that place when his heel caught on the car step, throwing him to the ground. As he fell he dislocated his knee cap and was rendered helpless. Medical aid was summoned and temporary treatment given until Mr. Phillips could be brought to his home.

Johnson Better.

Lee Johnson, the negro shot by Thaddeus Payne, also colored, a week ago, is steadily recovering at the hospital. The doctors say he is gaining strength daily.

Cuff Begins Sentence.

Edward Cuff, colored, of this city, who was sentenced to two years in the State Prison for stealing, two weeks ago, was taken to Trenton this morning.

TRAIN KILLS BRAKEMAN

Henry W. James, of This Ciyt, Meets Death on New Jersey Central at Somerville.

BROTHER DREAMS OF IT

Almost Exact Manner in Which Fatality Occurred Revealed To Him As He Slept.

In almost exactly the manner that his brother dreamed, Henry Ward James, of this city, a passenger brakeman on the New Jersey Central, was killed by the cars in the Somerville yards early this morning. In attempting to board an east bound freight train to get to Plainfield, he was struck by a coaler going west and badly mangled. The body was discovered at 4 o'clock lying between the tracks.

James came to this city from Morrisville, Va., two years ago and worked until a few months ago as conductor on the local trolley lines. Last fall he entered the employ of the New Jersey Central and was attached to the train that reaches this city from New York at 12:50 a. m. He boarded with Philip Maguire on West Fourth street and as the train reaches Somerille at 1:33, the only way for him to get back was by catching a freight due in Somerville at 2 o'clock. The operator at the station was in the habit of having it slow up for him and this was done as usual this morning. James was seen to run out to catch it and he was soon lost to view in the darkness. The coal train passed west a moment or so afterward and there is no doubt but that it struck him.

James' brother, Ambrose James, resides at 105 Somerset street and early this morning he was roused from sleep by a vivid dream. It seemed to him that Ward, as he was known, had been struck by an engine and in the vision he saw him hurled between the tracks. He was so startled by it that he related the facts to his wife and it was some time before he could get to sleep again. At 6 o'clock the Somerville authorities telephoned to North Plainfield fire headquarters, which are next door to his home, and asked that Ambrose be brought to the wire, when the messenger told him what was wanted, almost his first words were:

"I dreamed something happened to Ward and it must be so."

The facts he learned a few moments later bore out his conviction. The victim of the accident was but 20 years old and besides the brother in this city, he is survived by a mother, two sisters and two brothers, who live in Morrisville, and a brother, George James, of Brooklyn. The body will be sent from Somerville to Morrisville for burial.

BLACKJACKED AND ROBBED BY FOOTPADS

MICHAEL GLEASON RECOVERING FROM RESULTS OF ENCOUNTER IN SUBURB.

Michael Gleason, of Madison avenue, is nursing bumps and bruises, the result of a holdup on the outskirts of Dunellen. He was hit with blackjacks and lost sixty cents.

The hold-up occurred Saturday night, near the Aluminum Plate and Press Works, where Gleason works, at the Dewey Park line. It was just closing-down time when two men closed in on Gleason from either side, and demanded all the money he had.

Gleason had only sixty cents, and he told the hold-up men so. They wanted to know where his wages were. Gleason told them his wages were drawn for him, and he didn't carry the money. The strong-arm men became pettish and hit him with blackjacks and took the sixty cents from him. They escaped swiftly.

It is supposed the hold-up men were local toughs. They seemed familiar with the neighborhood.

Greenbrook Council Entertains.

Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum, enjoyed a smoker, vaudeville entertainment and addresses at its meeting Monday night in Columbus Hall, on East Front street. William Hand, of Bayonne, a clever impersonator, and Saunders and Sanders, a well known musical team, furnished the entertainment. In addition there was an address by Supervising Deputy Koester, of Bayonne, and the vice regent of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. It was a stag affair and all were pleased with the fine programme prepared by John Hillier, Horace Conover and John Dixon, the committee in charge.

Miss Anna Boice, of Park avenue, has returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

YOUTH DISAPPEARS; POLICE ASKED TO SEARCH

HOWARD ELLIS, SEVENTEEN YEARS OLD, CARRIES OUT THREATS TO RUN AWAY.

The police were asked, this morning, to send out a general alarm for Howard Ellis, seventeen years old, who disappeared from this city last night. He is supposed to have run away.

The youth was employed at the office of the Sabbath Recorder, Madison avenue. He came to Plainfield, with his widowed mother, Mrs. Belle Ellis, and a married sister, from Alfred, N. Y., two months ago. He left his work as usual, early last evening, went home, changed his clothes, and left the house. He was seen to board an eastbound main line trolley car at Richmond and Fifth streets at eight o'clock, and that is the last point to which his people or the police can trace him.

Ellis is said to have threatened to run away several times. His mother is worried over the disappearance, and is on the verge of prostration. The Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which the family are members, has interested itself in the search. The pastor, Rev. George Shaw, brought word of the disappearance to the police this morning.

BRIGHTSIDE CIRCLE ENTERTAINS FOR BENEFIT.

Mrs. C. H. Rugg Offers Her Home for Delightful Musical and Social Affair.

Under the auspices of Brightside Circle, of The King's Daughters, an entertainment and social was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of Grandview avenue, last night. No admission was charged, but a silver offering was received for the benefit of The Day Nursery, one of the charities of the City Union, of The King's Daughters. There was a large attendance of members and friends and a pleasant and profitable time was had.

The programme, an informal one, delighted everyone. There were vocal selections by Miss Emma Perdue, of East Orange, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian A. Force; recitations by Miss Stelle and piano selections by Miss Force. The several numbers were enthusiastically received by generous applause.

A social hour followed the entertainment and refreshments were served by Mrs. Rugg. The entertainment was arranged by Miss Elizabeth Claypoole and Mrs. J. A. Powlison.

PARK GOLF CLUB ELECTS.

Encouraging Reports Presented at the Annual Meeting.

Governors were elected and reports received at the annual meeting of the Park Golf Club, held last night at the Park Club. The reports were encouraging, there being a balance in the treasury. The membership is sixty-three. It was decided to continue the club another season and as soon as Charles W. McCutchen returns from his southern trip the officers will be chosen and plans for the season decided upon.

The governors elected last night were Charles W. McCutchen, George A. Chapman, Alexander Gilbert, Jas. F. Parker, Reuben Knox, Miss Lydie Loizeaux and Charles B. Morse.

Hearing On Osteopathy.

During the noon recess of the Legislature yesterday, the Senate committee on miscellaneous business gave the second hearing on the Hutchinson bill to create a State board of osteopaths for the licensing of practitioners of that science. Prominent practicing physicians from the State, including several from this city, were in attendance.

Report has it that "Bob" Davis, the leader of the Hudson county Democrats, is opposed to that county's delegation to the coming Democratic Gubernatorial convention having any choice for the nomination. His friends say that he does not want any Hudson man named.

King's Daughters Musicale.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Waterhouse will present the programme at the musicale to be given at the home of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, on West Eighth street, tomorrow afternoon, under the auspices of Benevolent Band, of The King's Daughters.

In the Borough Court.

John Schenck was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough court, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He paid $5 in preference to going to jail for the same number of days.

—Albert W. Pangborn will continue the mason and building business lately conducted by his father, who died last month. Mr. Pangborn has been associated with his father for a number of years and is thoroughly familiar with all its details. See adv.

PLAINFIELD SINGER MAKES A HIT ABROAD

MISS SCHAFFER SCORES AS ELIZABETH IN "TANNHAUSER" AT SWITZERLAND.

A beautiful Plainfield girl, Miss Josephine Schaffer, has just made her debut in Zurich, Switzerland, as Elizabeth in "Tannhauser." So remarkable was her success that she has received offers from both Munich and Berlin managers to remain there under contract. After the "Prayer Song" she received six curtain calls.

Miss Schaffer, who was a pupil of Miss Emma Thursby, studied in New York and Brooklyn for four years and by her teacher's advice she went abroad. There she has studied dramatic work and the languages for the past two years. She has been coached in her acting by Herr Direktor Fuchs, of Munich. Her voice is a clear dramatic soprano which, the notices from abroad state, met all the requirements of the exquisite role in the Wagnerian opera in which she chose to make her operatic debut.

Miss Schaffer sang small parts in the Metropolitan for two years before going abroad, and her work as the Priestess in "Aida" was most favorably commented upon by the local critics at the time. She will spend this year singing in various cities on the Continent. Next winter Miss Schaffer expects to return to Plainfield.

NOISY COUPLE IN COURT.

Colored Pair Fought Too Loudly for Neighbors' Peace of Mind.

Special Officer James Babbitt, colored, appeared as complainant in the city court this morning, against James Wilkins and his wife, also colored, whom he charged with disorderly conduct. Babbitt said they fought so much and so noisily as to be a nuisance to the other members of the negro colony back of French's mill. Wilkins pleaded guilty.

The couple have had more spats than a well conducted colored neighborhood is used to. They took to throwing furniture around, and even got to throwing pails of ashes. Mrs. Wilkins yelled murder and otherwise upset the tranquility of the neighbors.

Wilkins said he was through fighting. A night in jail had toned him so he wouldn't fight his wife above a whisper. He promised to move within three days, and sentence was suspended.

TO START IN BUSINESS.

Caspar F. Waglow, Veteran Dry Goods Man, to Open in Westfield.

C. F. Waglow, who is one of the veteran dry goods men of this city, has resigned his place with Levy Bros., West Front street, to go into business for himself in Westfield. He will leave the Levy's employ Saturday night to prepare for the opening of his store, the first of next month. His "line" will be general housefurnishings.

The store will be in a store built by Dr. Pettie on Broad street. Mr. Waglow was employed in Isaac Lederer's store for eleven years and for nearly nine years in the business now conducted by A. E. Force & Co. Mr. Waglow expects to have a formal "opening" and hopes to welcome a large number of his friends at the new store.

TALK TO S. S. TEACHERS.

Crescent Avenue Church Workers Hear Child Study Expert.

Patterson Dubois, of Philadelphia, addressed the Sunday school teachers of the Crescent Avenue church at the home of Sidney Williams, East Ninth street, last night. Mr. Dubois is a former editor of the Sunday-school Times, and an expert in child study and teaching. He spoke on Sunday-school work. Mr. Dubois is the guest of Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church.

Practically the entire teaching and executive force of the Sunday-school attended the gathering. A social hour was enjoyed after the talk.

Funeral of Henry Homann.

The funeral of Henry Homann, who died Sunday from pneumonia, was held at his late home on Grant avenue, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. A large floral pillow was contributed by the employees of the local trolley lines. The body was placed in the vault at Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being James Stewart, John Traynor, Foster Johnson, Samuel Robinson, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Mark Hipp.

NEW BRUNSWICK FIRE LOSS A HALF MILLION

Janeway & Carpenter's Big Wallpaper Factory Completely Destroyed This Morning.

DWELLINGS IN DANGER

Firemen Had Hard Time Fighting the Flames—May Not Rebuild—Other Towns Asked For Aid.

The wallpaper factory of Janeway & Carpenter, at New Brunswick, said to be one of the largest in the country, was destroyed by fire this morning, involving a loss of $600,000 and throwing 400 employes out of employment.

The fire is believed to have been caused by crossed electric light wires. It was discovered about 8 o'clock in the block-cutting room by an employe, who with the aid of fellow-workmen tried to put it out. Realizing that the flames were getting beyond their control, fire headquarters was notified and a general alarm given, calling out all of the department apparatus.

Difficulty was experienced in throwing sufficient water on the blazing building because of poor puality of coal used in the steamers. For some unkown reason it would not burn and make steam and considerable time was lost dumping the fires and rebuilding them with better coal.

In the meantime the fire was making rapid headway throughout the immense structure and the firemen, finding that it would be impossible to save it, directed their attention to the many frame structures on the opposite side of the street. This they were able to do, although the dwellings were thoroughly soaked and the families driven out. Rev. Thomas Brock, pastor of St. James M. E. church, opened the edifice and permitted the families to remain there where it was warm and comfortable.

The factory, which covers a whole block, was located directly on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad within two feet of the embankment, and traffic was suspended on the road for three hours while the fire was at its height. Later it was possible to open up a couple of tracks and allow the passenger trains to go through.

One serious handicap in fighting the fire was the fact that the large building was not equipped in any way with apparatus for such an amergency. Several blockcutters, who attempted to save some of their tools, were burned about the hands and arms, but fortunately no fatalities resulted. Soon after the fire was discovered and the departments at Perth Amboy, Trenton and Elizabeth were called upon for assistance, but later the request was countermanded, the local department decided that it could handle the blaze. It was nearly noon before the fire was gotten under control, but the large quantity of debris will probably smoulder for two or three days.

Col. Jacob J. Janeway was the principal owner of the business, and it was definitely stated today that if the structure is rebuilt it will not be on the old site, while it is possible that it may not be rebuilt. Ever since the Pennsylvania Railroad elevated its tracks in New Brunswick, the wallpaper company has suffered by reason of having the sidings cut out. This compelled the hauling of its material a considerable distance to the freight station. Another report circulated is that the company will rebuild along the canal near the Raritan Railroad, where better facilities are obtainable for moving goods.

There is another wallpaper factory in New Brunswick owned by Janeway & Co., Henry L. Janeway being the principal owner. He is related to the Janeways in the other company and Janeway & Company may arrange to take over the business of Janeway & Carpenter.

Mary Wright Memorial Society.

In response to a special invitation from Mrs. L. R. Howard, a number of young women have organized a missionary society at Hope chapel to be known as the Mary Wright Memorial Society, in memory of the daughter of Major and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of East Seventh street, who died while engaged in mission work in Chiia. The society will study both home and foreign missions. One meeting has been held and the society primises to be a large and successful one.

COLBY FIGHTS FOR HIS LIABILITY ACT REPEALER.

Record Also Speaks for Bill Before House Committee, While Lindabury Opposes It.

Trenton, March 13.—Richard V. Lindabury and George L. Record, corporation counsel for Jersey City, again threshed out the Colby repealer of the promoters' liability act before the House Committee on Miscellaneous Business yesterday. This is the measure which Senator Colby succeeded in getting through the Senate last year only to have it die in the House because Assemblyman Buck, of Cumberland, chairman of the committee to which it was referred, refused to let it come out.

This year Mr. Colby introduced it again in the Senate and Mr. Tumulty offered it in the House. The Senate bill went to the Committee on Corporations, and Chairman Robbins, at the request of Mr. Lindabury, fixed a hearing for last Monday. The corporation lawyer failed to appear then, and at his request the hearing went over to last Wednesday afternoon, after the session.

Again Mr. Lindabury failed to appear, and Monday night the bill was reported in the Senate and placed on second reading. Yesterday morning Mr. Lindabury appeared before the House Committee. Mr. Record and Mr. Lindabury followed the line of argument they used at the hearing on the measure last year. Senator Colby also spoke for the bill.

Mr. Lindabury said that he drew the act which the bill sought to repeal and that he drew it for a New York lawyer in the interest of a corporation, but that corporation was not the U. G. I. or any kindred organization.

He thought the agitation which was being waged over this and other matters now going on through the State would injure the business interests of New Jersey.

"What principles are we agitating that you do not privately believe in?" asked Mr. Colby. Mr. Lindabury made no reply, but changed the subject.

ROSELLE.

A large crowd gathered Monday night in the borough hall to witness the termination of the case against Charles B. Trimmer, the deposed tax collector of the borough. It was not until after the Mayor, John I. Howe, called the meeting to order that the crowd learned that Councilman Higgins, owing to a sudden attack of grip, would be unable to attend the hearing. As it is desired to have all the councilmen present when the case is summed up, Councilman Patterson moved for an adjournment until next Friday evening. If at that time Mr. Higgins is still unable to be present, Mr. Patterson advocated that some night the week following be fixed. The motion was carried.

The music-loving residents of the borough filled St. Luke's church Monday evening and heard a rendering of Mounder's sacred cantata, "Song of Thanksgiving," by the choir of the church. The soloists were Mrs. Walter P. Ten Eyke, of Roselle Park, soprano; David Lunn, of Union, tenor, and Charles F. Patterson, basso. An orchestra, under direction of C. W. Pickells, assisted, and Miss Lillian Jones was the piano accompanist.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Manager Counihan is indeed fortunate in having secured that merriest of farce comedies, "What Happened to Jones," headed by the eminent comedian, Richard Milton, and a celebrated cast for his theatre tonight. This play has been presented and seen by more people than any other production in the past twenty years and is destined to remain at the end of the procession for at least as many years more. It is aptly called "The masterpiece of farce comedy;" there isn't a moment when the audience is not fairly bubbling over with merriment, laugh follows laugh, complication follows complication in rapid succession.

Manager Counihan of the New Plainfield theatre heralds the approaching arrival of the "Queen of the Kidnappers," that unrivaled living portraiture of life with great anticipation, for this is the attraction that has been praised by press and public wherever it has been seen. With its notable cast it has scored one of the biggest hits during the past season. The production is new throughout. With its elaborate scenery and a score of new effects and novelties, this attraction has in fact kidnapped its way into the hearts of the public. A surprised is promised by its wide-awake managers, who are constantly on the lookout for new features. It is safe to predict that the coming of this popular play will be an event of the season. It will be here tomorrow night.

The play that never grows old, "In Old Kentucky," as interesting and as exciting as of yore, is now on its fourteenth annual tour of the country, and with a splendid company and a complete scenic equipment entirely new this year, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. Since its original production away back in 1892, its success has been remarkable. It continues to attract theatre-goers year after year and judging by past and present standards of what the people want in the way of theatrical fare, there seems to be no limit to the future of the play, for it appeals strongly to every class of playgoer. In these days of the garish musical potpourri and the cheaply sensational dramas of the machine-made sort, "In Old Kentucky" comes like a breath of new mown hay. The piece breathes the fragrance of the green slopes of Kentucky, exudes the aroma of corn whiskey and depicts the inherent love of horseflesh possessed by the average man, woman and child, whether they were born in the Blue-grass State or elsewhere.

Thomas Jefferson is the son of his father. As Rip Van Winkle he is of a verity a "chip of the old block," one in whom the great Joseph felt fatherly pride. Not often in real life do we find sons who may so satisfactorily take up and carry on the artistic work of their progenitors, though such circumstances may be found in commercial lines. Thomas Jefferson displays a filial duty as well as artistic ambition in emulating his sire and endeavoring to make his own interpretation of the character as much as possible like that of the departed senior. In this Thomas has succeeded to a marked degree. His delineation of the happy-go-lucky Rip seemed for all the world like that of the elder Jefferson. The play of "Rip Van Winkle," which is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is one of the few in which the character of a sodden drunkard can be depicted without violating the senses of the beholders. In all his weak capitulation to the flowing bowl of schnaps, Rip has the sympathy of the people, and certainly the results of his bibulation afford ample warning of the bad effects of over-indulgence. The story is told on the stage in such a charming manner as to insure for it a popularity that is destined to obtain forever.

The engagement of the Rogers Brothers is announced by the management of the New Plainfield theatre for next Monday night. This great musical comedy success is well known because of its long runs in New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, and the tremendous receipts it attracted in various other cities, while the fame of the Rogers Brothers have been enhanced by their admirable performance in the principal parts. The organization which support them is the identical original company and the owners promise the complete production in every detail. The comedy which this year is called "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland" contains bright and catchy music, amusing situations, funny lines, novel stage effects, elaborate scenic equipment and attractive costuming. No more comprehensive theatrical exhibit is possible, and a real treat may confidently be anticipated.

Richard Carles' funniest piece, "The Mayor of Tokio," which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night is said to have more tuneful, catchy music than any comic opera ever written. The company that manager Joseph M. Gaites has organized for the exploitation of "The Mayor of Tokio" this season is one of the largest and most capable ever seen outside of New York, and is practically the same that made the long runs in Chicago and New York last year. The piece has been equipped with an entire new dress of scenery and costumes and the production in every way is said to be a delight to the eye as well as to the ear.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. E. Atherton Lyon, of Christ church, Yonkers, will be the Lenten preacher at Grace church tonight.

The annual meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held during the first week in April.

The weekly gospel service will be held tomorrow night at the Hunter Avenue Tabernacle. There will be special music.

tonight.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, will be the special Lenten preacher at St. Stephen's church Friday night.

"The Holy Spirit and the Usefulness of the Christian," will be the subject of the prayer-meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church

The present music arrangements at the Congregational church will probably be continued for another year, no changes being contemplated.

Walter McGowen, the boy soprano soloist at Grace church, Orange, will sing at the free Lenten recital in the Church of the Holy Cross Saturday afternoon.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, will preach Sunday morning the fifth of his special series of sermons for Lent on the subject of "Anger-Patience."

W. D. Murray, editor of The Messenger, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church monthly magazine, is now assisted in the management by L. R. Hopton, Arthur Lovell, F. M. Genung, Lindsey Best and D. W. Taylor.

In response to a request W. E. MacClymont, organist at Grace church, has arranged to repeat Gounod's "Gallia," at the musical service Sunday afternoon at the usual hour. This will take the place of the regular Sunday organ recital.

Christian Science claims that human beings can attain to such spiritual perfection that not only is disease impossible but physical decay and death are prevented and that one may pass on to the life eternal by translation without the intervention of the grave. If this is o we would naturally expect to find evidences of the fact in the history of the dispicles and apostles of our Lord. On the contrary, we discover that S. Peter, who certainly became a man of great sancity, expected to die, S. Paul looked forward to his death as a benediction and an entrance into life eternal with the Lord. Even S. John, whose long life was one of singular holiness, died in his bed at Ephesus. If length of saintly years, Faith, Love and Blessed Works would deliver one from the grave surely S. John would have so passed into the presence of his Master and the world would have known that it was so.—The Crozier.

To Fight Cigar Trust.

New York, March 13.—War against the so-called "cigar trust" has been begun, and before long the country is likely to be wreathed in the smoke of battle. The first shot has been fired by a corporation known as the Import Cigar Company, which announces that it has $2,000,000 at its command and that it will, after getting its batteries in position in New York, place a line of ornately furnished cigar stores across the continent. It is said to be largely backed by Frank Tilford, a wealthy wholesale grocer of this city.

St. Patrick Deckings.

There are shamrocks.
Paddy hats are plenty.
Pipes trim some of the hats.
Green silk flags are ready to figure.
The shamrock decks pretty box tops.
Steamer trunks, with Irish labels, are to be seen.
Many of these are intended to be filled with sweets.
These clever trifles at once serve as decorations and favors.

THE NEW WAY TO CURE DYSPEPSIA

PEPSOIDS DESTROY DISEASE GERMS OF THE STOMACH. TRY A BOTTLE—FREE.

Pepsoids cure the worst forms of Dyspepsia and all other Acute or Chronic Stomach Disorders by repairing the worn out lining of the stomach and destroys all disease germs. Dyspepsia once cured in this way never returns. Pepsoids is not a patent medicine, but the successful prescription of Dr. Oldman who has cured thousands of cases of Chronic Stomach Troubles, among them Cancer of the Stomach. It cost more money to produce Pepsoids than any similar preparation on the market, owing to the large quantity of the purest Pepsin and other expensive drugs each tablet contains, (see formula on bottle.) Pepsoids are sold at 50 cents a bottle on an absolute guarantee to cure, or money refunded. We will send you, if you have not used Pepsoids before, a 50-cent bottle FREE; merely send us your name and address, and you will receive promptly a full sized bottle. You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Every man or woman now has the opportunity of possessing a strong and healthy stomach. Will you grasp it? People with weak stomachs are always in misery. Pepsoids have made thousands of people happy by giving them what nature intended everyone should possess—a strong and healthy stomach, so as to enjoy the best there is in life. Try Pepsoids to-day, price only 50 cents a bottle at drug store. Or you may have a full sized bottle free by writing the Medical Department of The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill.

He was well known here, where he had many friends.

Mrs. Anthony Crello.

Mrs. Mary Ann Crello, wife of Anthony Crello, died last night at her home on St. Mary's avenue. She had been ill a long time. Beside her husband she is survived by three children. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church this afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Elizabeth Harper.

Elizabeth Harper, daughter of Samuel and Margaret J. Harper, died at the home of her parents on South avenue this morning. She was in her fifteenth year and had been ill nearly a year. The funeral announcement will be made later.

Cuts Clerks' Election Fees.

Senator E. R. Ackerman has introduced a bill that provides that municipal clerks shall be paid a sum not to exceed $10 for each polling district, for duties imposed upon them under "An act to regulate elections," approved April 4, 1898, thereby reducing the cost of elections. Under the present laws clerks get paid for elections by both city and county, an inheritance from the days when city and general elections were separate. Since the elections were merged they have been virtually receiving half their election pay as a gift.

HOUSE ROUTS BREWERS

Sunday Selling Bill Defeated By Decisive Vote in the Assembly.

TWO HOURS' DEBATE

Seven Democrats Come to the Aid of the Republicans — A Hot Fight.

The Blohm open Sunday bill was beaten in the House at Trenton yesterday afternoon by the emphatic and unexpected vote of 35 to 24. With this majority of eleven against the measure went all the hopes of the brewers, the Democratic leaders and the saloon keepers for the session.

It had been supposed, even by the opponents of the bill, that the vote would be close. When the vote was cast and it was discovered that seven Democrats had voted in the negative —Erle, Klenert and VanBlarcom, of Passaic; Firth, of Warren; Morris, of Sussex; Holcombe, of Hunterdon, and Hendrickson, of Hudson—the surprise was great all around.

The brewers are trying to recover from their dismay and to consider what had better be done. It is considered certain, however, that all attempts at liquor legislation will be abandoned for the present session. There is some talk of a bill simply amending the Bishops' bill being introduced by a Republican. If that should happen it would be the extent of temperance or liquor legislation, as it looked last night, for the session.

The debate on the measure occupied nearly two hours, and was indulged in by many of the members. It was not long before the discussion revealed that the feature of the bill providing for making legal Sunday liquor selling and the consequent alleged desecration of the Sabbath was the chief and forceful argument against the measure. It was used to good effect by Barber, Perkins and Jess.

The advocates of the bill did their best to get around the proposition, but after Barber had started the Decalogue with solemn emphasis and inquired whether a special election was needed on the fourth commandment, "To remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy" and received hearty and prolonged applause from the crowded galleries, there was apparently little left for the defenders of the bill.

Klenert, leader of the Democratic majority, gave an idea of what was coming when he said he should vote in the negative, because his constituents and, in fact, the people of Passaic county at large, did not want any legislation that would in any way desecrate the Sabbath. The leading speeches in favor of the measure were made by Assemblymen Blohm, the introducer; Alexander, Tumulty and Bker.

Moxon, Tillman and Perkins, of Union, voted against the bill.

JUDGE QUOTES SCRIPTURE IN SENTENCING BOY.

Imparts Biblical Injunction in Sending Youth to State Prison.

Thomas Tobin, 19 years old, who some weeks ago attempted to hold up a night ticket agent in the Central Railroad station at Westfield, was sentenced to three years in State prison in the Circuit Court by Judge Atwater at Elizabeth yesterday.

Tobin has served a term in he State Reformatory, having once held up a Miss Juliet L. Dewey. He was also found guilty of the robbery of jewelry, valued at several hundred dollars, from the residence of Mrs. Fannie A. Clark. In imposing sentence Judge Atwater repeated the Scriptural warning, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss will be given by the members of the First Baptist church on Tuesday night, March 26. As usual, the affair will be attended by many pleasing 'features. The women of the church are now perfecting the plans for the reception.

In adjudicating the estate of Edmund P. Dwight, of Philadelphia, who died in 1903, the Orphans' Court has awarded these charitable bequests: Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, $50,000; general assembly of the Presbyterian church of America, $50,000; Methodist Episcopal church of the United States, $20,000; Young Men's Christian Association, $15,000; American Sunday-school Union. $15,000.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., initiated four candidates at the meeting Monday night.

Watchung Council, Independent Order Foresters, will hold an entertainment and social Tuesday night.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow night and receive several applications for membership.

Several candidates will receive the third degree at a communication of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., on Tuesday night, March 26.

FEAST AT JERSEY CITY

Plainfield Orator Alleges State's History Is Written In History of Democratic Party.

Prominent Democrats of Hudson and Essex counties dined last night and talked a lot about New Jersey State politics. The occasion was the annual banquet of the Delaware Club, held in the theatre of the Jersey City Clubhouse. James E. Martine was one of the chief speakers.

Frank S. Katzenbach, former Mayor of Trenton, spoke on "The Modern Battles of Trenton;" George S. Silzer, Senator from Middlesex county, spoke on "New Politics;" James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, spoke on "The State Democracy," and William C. Nicoll, of Essex county, on "Our Sister County."

Charles C. Black was the man of the hour, being applauded again and again.

The subject assigned to former Senator Robert Hudspeth, of Hudson, who was unable to be present, was "The Mission of New Jersey Democracy," and the thread of this was woven through the speeches of the evening, all dwelling upon Senator Hudspeth's admonition to the party of "Get together."

Mr. Katzenbach said that some people in Trenton were charged with being Hessians, but the real Trentonians still considered themselves as real Washingtonians. He denounced the accommodations furnished by the Public Service Corporation.

Mr. Martine, speaking on the subject of "The State Democracy," paid a tribute to the past history of the Democratic party in the State. He declared that the State's history was written in the history of the Democratic party. He quoted the illustrious names and achievements of Bedle Randolph, "Little Mac," and Werts. He appealed to the younger element of Democracy to take up their slogan. His reference to Black, the Democratic equal taxation champion, in connection with his fight for limited riparian franchises as against granting in perpetuity, was the signal for a wild outburst of applause. He paid his respects to the voting machine by declaring that "its mechanism was the device of the devil." It was declared by some of his auditors that he had forgotten his declaration not to ride in the carriage provided by the committee, but this sally, the man from Union county, laughingly parried.

In the speech delivered by Mr. Black, taking up Senator Hudspeth's theme, he paid a compliment to William Jennings Bryan. The name of the great commoner was the signal for an outburst of applause. "Whether we do or do not believe in his economic doctrines, he speaks the mind of the great body of Democracy in this nation.

"He was not," said Mr. Black, "afraid to speak for the Democracy. He was not only a great leader, but a great personage, not only in this country, but of the world. We must not be afraid to curb corporations, and prevent them from securing ill-gotten gains. We do not wish to pound them, but we want their property taxed the same as that of private individuals. Such is the mission of the Democratic party in the State."

Mr. Nicoll, in his speech, referred to the bonds between Essex and Hudson, when results for the people were to be gained. Among the committee in charge of the affair was H. Otto Wittpenn, supervisor of Hudson county, who is regarded by sterling Democrats as the logical candiadte for Mayor, this fall.

It was the Delaware Club that first suggested the name of Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, of Hoboken, as a candidate for United States Senator, and from the expression of good feeling for the absent Colonel it was conceded the club members still regard him as the only Democrat in Hudson or the State, to whom the honor should have gone.

SERVICES IN MEMORY OF MARGARET BOTTOME

PROMINENT WORKERS WILL ADDRESS MEETING TO BE HELD MARCH 22.

Under the auspices of Benevolent Band, of the King's Daughters, a service in memory of Margaret Bottome, the late national leader of the organization, will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Saturday afternoon, March 23, at 3 o'clock. All of the local circles have been invited to attend the service.

Speakers of national and local note will be heard and the meeting will be of especial interest to the members of the organization. Mrs. William Myers, of the Benevolent Band, will preside and Mrs. Isabelle Davis, one of the national officers, who spends much time in Plainfield, will give a talk on the life and character of Margaret Bottome. Mrs. John C. Bliss, wife of the former pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and who assisted in forming the local King's Daughters' Union, will speak on that part of her work. Mrs. Frederick G. Mead will tell of the first years of the organization here, while Mrs. Charles A. Reed, president of the Union, will tell of the work of today.

In addition to the meeting being in memory of Margaret Bottome, it will also serve to give the members a clear and comprehensive idea of the work of the King's Daughters from a national and local point of view.

Young Archie Nearly Well.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Archie Roosevelt's condition is now so favorable that the physicians expect soon to raise the quarantine at the White House. The President's son is said to be quite out of danger. The main concern of the doctors now is to keep the lively lad quiet and safeguard him from any excitement that might bring on an attack of heart failure.

WORKS WONDERS.

A Wonderful Compound—Cures Piles, Skin Itching, Skin Eruptions, Cuts and Bruises.

Doan's Ointment is the best skin treatment, and the cheapest, because so little is required to cure. It cures piles after years of torture. It cures obstinate cases of eczema. It cures all skin itching. It cures skin eruptions. It heals cuts, bruises, scratches and abrasions without leaving a scar. It cures permanently. Plainfield testimony proves it.

Thomas Haskard, of 941 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a member of Co. A, First Regt., N. J. Vols., under Col. Montgomery. I was out in 3½ years of the Civil War and was wounded once in the leg and once in the neck. During the Rebellion I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on ever since. No one who has not suffered from this troubles knows what the irritation is. I tried about every salve, wash and ointment known in the hope of finding a cure but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Ointment and it took just three boxes to put me in shape so that I have been free ever since from any trouble arising from piles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for th eUnited States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance, entitled "A Supplement to an Ordinance, entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the necessary funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.' Approved July 5, 1906," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at eight o'clock p. m. on Monday, the first day of April, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Seven, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., March 4, 1907.

A Supplement to an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance For the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits." Approved July 5, 1906.

Whereas, The money obtained by the sale of bonds issued under the Ordinance to which this Ordinance is a Supplement has proved inadequate for the full payment of the permanent street improvements authorized by said Ordinance and the further sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) is needed to make up the deficiency;

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That for the purpose of obtaining by sale of the bond hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of the Streets and parts of Streets specified in the Ordinance to which this is a Supplement in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of said City do hereby, pursuant to the Statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of one municipal bond of the City of Plainfield of one thousand dollars, which bond shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum payable semi-annually, and be payable three years from the date of issue with the option of the City to redeem or pay off said bond at any time after one year from date of issue and before three years from said date of issue on giving personal notice to the holder of said bond or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bond may be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bond shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the City at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited by the improvement specified in the Ordinance to which this is a Supplement shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bond.

Proposals For Furnishing Crushed Stone and Material for Culverts and Crosswalks.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular meeting held March 4, 1907, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the office of the Committee, No. 151 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, March 21st., at eight o'clock p. m., at which time and place said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1907, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing the following sizes, viz.:

Fine screenings, ½ inch stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such places in the city as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The above must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, equal in every respect to samples in Street Commissioner's office, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best quality hard blue stone from the Hudson River quarries, equal in quality to sample in Street Commissioner's office.

No Erie, Pennsylvania or similar stone will be accepted.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets and Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved.

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets and Sewers.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

we were now nearing the edge of the wood, with the open meadow and water tower at our backs, while Larry was making good time toward the house.

"Let's not wait for them here," shouted Stoddard.

Morgan was advancing with a club in his hand, making directly for me, two men at his heels, and the rest veering off toward the wall of St. Agatha's.

"Watch the house," I yelled to the chaplain; and then, on the edge of the wood Morgan came at me furiously, swinging his club over his head, and in a moment we were fencing away at a merry rate. We both had revolvers strapped to our waists, but I had no intention of drawing mine unless in extremity. At my right Stoddard was busy keeping off Morgan's personal guard, who seemed reluctant to close with the clergyman.

I have been, in my day, something of a fencer, and my knowledge of the foils stood me in good stead now. With a tremendous thwack I knocked Morgan's club flying over the snow, and, as we grappled, Bates yelled from the house. I quickly found that Morgan's wounded arm was still tender. He flinched at the first grapple, and his anger got the better of his judgment. We kicked up the snow at a great rate as we feinted and dragged each other about. He caught hold of my belt with one hand and with a great wrench nearly dragged me from my feet, but I pinioned his arms and bent him backward, then, by a trick Larry had taught me, flung him upon his side.

Meanwhile Bates continued to call lustily from the house.

"Come on at any cost," shouted Stoddard, putting himself between me and the men who were flying to Morgan's aid.

"Shoot, you fools, shoot!" howled Morgan, and as we started across the open meadow and ran toward the house a shotgun roared back of us and buckshot snapped and rattled on the stone of the water tower.

"There's the sheriff," called Stoddard behind me.

The officer and his deputy ran into the park from the gate of St. Agatha's, while the rest of Morgan's party were skirting the wall to join them.

"Stop or I'll shoot," yelled Morgan, and I felt Stoddard pause in his gigantic stride to throw himself between me and the pursuers.

"Sprint for it hot," he called very coolly, as though he were coaching me in a contest of the most amiable sort imaginable.

"Get away from those guns," I panted, angered by the very generosity of his defense.

"Feint for the front door and then run for the terrace and the library door," he commanded as we crossed the little ravine bridge. "They've got us headed off."

Twice the guns boomed behind us, and twice I saw shot cut into the snow about me.

"I'm all right," called Stoddard, reassuringly, still at my back. "They're not a bit anxious to kill me."

I was at the top of my speed now, but the clergyman kept close at my heels. I was blowing hard, but he made equal time with perfect ease.

The sheriff was bawling orders to the men, who awaited us before the front door. Bates and Larry were not visible, but I had every confidence that the Irishman would reappear in the fight at the earliest moment possible. Bates, too, was to be reckoned with, and the final struggle, if it came in the house itself, might not be so unequal, providing we now knew the full strength of the enemy.

"Now for the sheriff—here we go!" cried Stoddard—beside me—when we were close to the fringe of trees that shielded the entrance. Then off we veered suddenly to the left, close upon the terrace, where one of the French windows was thrown open and Larry and Bates stepped out, urging us on with lusty cries.

They caught us by the arms and dragged us over where the balustrade was lowest, and we crowded through the door and slammed it. As Bates snapped the bolts Morgan's party discharged their combined artillery and withdrew across the ravine toward the lake.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Fight in the Library.

"They're coming faster this time," remarked Stoddard, as we saw the enemy advancing across the bridge.

"Certainly. Their general has been cursing them right heartily for retreating without the loot. He wants his $300,000 autograph collection," observed Larry.

"Why doesn't he come for it himself like a man?" I demanded.

"Like a man, do you say!" ejaculated Larry. "Faith and you flatter that flathead!"

It was nearly 11 o'clock when the attacking party returned after a parley on the ice behind the boat house. The four of us were on the terrace ready for them. They came smartly through the wood, the sheriff and Morgan slightly in advance of the others. I expected them to slacken their pace when they came to the open meadow, but they broke into a quick trot at the water tower and came toward the house as steady as veteran campaigners.

"Shall we try gunpowder?" asked Larry.

"We'll let them fire the first volley," I said.

"They've already tried to murder you and Stoddard—I'm in for letting loose with the elephant guns," Larry protested.

"Stand to your clubs," admonished Stoddard, whose own weapon was comparable to the Scriptural weaver's beam. "Possession is nine points of the fight, and we've got the house."

"Also a prisoner of war," said Larry, grinning.

The English detective had smashed the glass in the barred window of the potato cellar, where Larry had lodged him, and we could hear him howling and cursing below.

"Looks like business this time!" exclaimed Larry. "Spread out now and the first head that looms over the balustrade gets a dose of hickory."

The attacking party now divided, half halting between us and the bridge and the remainder swinging around the house toward the front entrance.

"Ah, look at that!" yelled Larry. "It's a battering ram they have. O man of peace! have I your Majesty's consent to try the elephant guns now?"

Morgan and the sheriff carried between them a stick of timber from which the branches had been cut, and, with a third man to help, they ran it up the steps and against the door with a crash that came booming and echoing back through the great halls of the house.

Bates was already bounding up the front stairway, a revolver in his hand and a look of supreme rage on his face. Leaving Stoddard and Larry to watch the library windows, I ran after him, and we clattered over the loose boards in the upper hall and into a great unfinished chamber immediately over the entrance. Bates had the window up when I reached him and was well out upon the coping, yelling a warning to the men below.

He drew his revolver up to shoot, and when I caught his arm he turned to me with a look of anger and indignation I had never expected to see on his colorless, mask-like face.

"My God, sir! That door was his pride, sir—it came from a famous house in England, and they're wrecking it as though it were common pine.

He tore himself free from my grasp as the besiegers again launched their battering ram against the door with a frightful crash, and his revolver cracked smartly thrice, as he bent far out over the door.

His shots were a signal for a sharp reply from one of the men below, and I felt Bates start, and pulled him in, the blood streaming from his face.

"It's all right, sir—all right—only a cut across my cheek, sir"—and another bullet smashed through the glass, spurting plaster dust from the wall. A fierce onslaught below caused a tremendous crash to echo through the house, and I heard firing on the opposite side, where the enemy's reserve was waiting.

Bates, with a handkerchief to his face, protested that he was unhurt.

"Come below; there's nothing to be gained here"—and I ran down to the hall, where Stoddard stood, leaning upon his club like a Hercules, and coolly watching the door as it leaped and shook under the repeated blows of the besiegers.

A gun roared again at the side of the house, and I ran to the library, where Larry had pushed furniture against all the long windows save one, which he held open. He stepped out upon the terrace and emptied a revolver at the men who were now creeping along the edge of the ravine beneath us. One of them stopped and discharged a rifle at us with deliberate aim. The ball snapped snow from the balustrade and screamed away harmlessly.

"Bah," such monkeys!" he muttered. "I believe I've hit that chap!" One man had fallen and lay howling in the ravine, his hand to his thigh, while his comrades paused, demoralized.

"Serves you right, you blackguard!" Larry muttered.

I pulled him in and we jammed a cabinet against the door and returned to the hall.

Meanwhile the blows at the front door continued with increasing violence. Stoddard still stood where I had left him. Bates was not in sight, but the barking of a revolver above showed that he had returned to the window to wreak vengeance on his enemies.

Stoddard shook his head in deprecation.

"They fired first—we can't do less than get back at them," I said, between the blows of the battering ram.

A panel of the great oaken door now splintered, but in their fear that we might use the broken panel as a loophole, they scampered out into range of Bates' revolver. In return we heard a rain of small shot on the upper windows, and a few seconds later Larry shouted that the flanking party was again at the terrace.

This movement evidently heartened the sheriff, for, under a fire from Bates, his men charged again and the log crashed into the door, shaking it free from the upper hinges. The lower fastenings were wrenched loose an instant later, and the men came tumbling into the hall—the sheriff, Morgan and four others I had never seen before. Simultaneously the flanking party began smashing the small panes of the library windows. We could hear the glass crack and tinkle above the confusion at the door.

In the hall he was certainly a lucky man who held to his weapon a moment after the door tumbled in. I blazed at the sheriff with my revolver, but he stumbled and half fell at the threshold, so that the ball passed over him, and he promptly gripped me by the legs and had me prone and half dazed by the rap of my head on the floor.

I suppose I was two or three minutes at least getting my wits. I was first conscious of Bates grappling with the sheriff, who sat upon me, and as they struggled with each other I got the full benefit of their combined, swerving, tossing weight. Morgan and Larry were trying for a chance at each other with revolvers, while Morgan backed the Irishman slowly toward the library. Stoddard had seized one of the unknown deputies by the collar and gave him a tremendous swing, jerking him high in the air and driving him against another invader with a blow that knocked both fellows spinning into a corner.

"Come on to the library!" shouted Larry, and Bates, who had got me to my feet, pushed me down the hall toward the open library door.

Bates presented at this moment an extraordinary appearance, with the blood from the scratch on his face coursing down his cheek and upon his shoulder. His coat and shirt had been torn away and the blood smeared over his breast. The fury and indignation in his face was something I hope not to see again in a human countenance.

"My God, this room—this beautiful room!" I heard him cry as he drove me before him into the library. "It was Mr. Glenarm's pride," he muttered, and sprang upon a burly fellow who had come in through one of the library doors and was climbing over the long table we had overturned to serve as a barricade.

We were now between two fires. The sheriff's party had fought valiantly to keep us out of the library, and now that we were within, Stoddard's big shoulders held the door half closed against the combined strength of the men in the hall. This pause was fortunate, for it gave us an opportunity to deal singly with the fellows who were climbing in from the terrace. Bates had laid one of them low with a club and Larry disposed of another who had made a murderous effort to stick a knife into him. I was with Stoddard against the door, where the sheriff's men were slowly gaining upon me.

"Let go on the jump when I say three," said Stoddard, and at his word we sprang away from the door and into the room. Larry yelled with joy as the sheriff and his men pitched forward and sprawled upon the floor; then we were at it again in a hand-to-hand conflict to clear the room.

"Hold that position, sir," yelled Bates.

Morgan had directed the attack against me and I was driven upon the hearth before the great fireplace. The sheriff, Morgan and Ferguson hemmed me in. It was evident that I was the chief culprit, and they wished to eliminate me from the contest. Across the room, Larry, Stoddard and Bates were engaged in a lively rough and tumble with the rest of the besiegers, and Stoddard, seeing my plight, leaped the overturned table, broke past the trio and stood by my side, swinging a chair.

"TOM" MUIR'S MINSTRELS IN SOMERSET'S WILDS

LEAVING KEROSENE ROUTE, STOP AT A PLACE CALLED BOUND BROOK.

Filled with a desire of conquer new worlds," Muir's Gold Medal minstrel troupe, of this city, jumped away from the "kerosene" route, last night, and gave the residents of Bound Brook an opportunity to see their popular blackface show. Their fame had gone before them and when the curtain went up at Voorhees hall, which is almost a "regular" theatre, the company faced an audience of 500 people. It was one of the largest that has ever been in the place and the Plainfielders could not have been given a more cordial reception if they belonged to the town.

The show made good from the start and in the first part every song and joke made a hit. There was a bunch of local "gags" interspersed and a topical song referring to the recent burglary epidemic in Bound Brook had the audience convlused for several minutes. Ira C. Bowers scored with a new buck and wing dance and an original spectacular finish to the first part, "The Good Old U. S. A.," was enthusiastically applauded.

The Four H. Quartette again made one of the biggest hits of the olio and the members were compelled to take up almost double the time allotted them. They introduced several new songs and closed with an international selection, "Since Tommy Atkins Married Dolly Gray." The quartette is composed of Harry Roberts, first tenor; Horace J. Martin, Jr., second tenor; Hugh Ricketts, baritone, and Harry Blimm, bass.

The show was given for the benefit of the Pierce school piano fund and was as big a success financially as it was artistically. The next appearance will be at Mount Bethel and after that Westfield and Rahway will be visited.

TEACHING THE BLIND HOW TO READ BOOKS

MISS ELLA A. PALMER HAS AN ODD CLASS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

A new feature has been inaugurated at the Plainfield Public Library by Miss Ella A. Palmer, of 231 East Sixth street. Every Tuesday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock Miss Palmer meets her class of blind people at the library and reads to them. The work was inaugurated February 19 last and the class now numbers six with prospects for an enlarged membership.

It was started for the purpose of affording blind persons or those whose sight is so defective as to prohibit reading, an opportunity to keep in touch with the current topics of the day as well as interesting magazine stories. Miss Palmer selects current events, the morning news, magazine articles and bright stories to read to her class and she finds that the members appreciate it exceedingly.

An added feature was the presence of Mrs. Kellock, of the Public Library, New York, at the session of the class yesterday She teaches the New York point system of reading for the blind. She will visit Plainfield once every two weeks and give instructions to blind people who care to take advantage of the opporiunity.

Percy Cannon and others who have learned to read by the system invented for such persons has no difficulty in reading articles in the "Magazine for the Blind," and it is believed that other members of the class may soon learn the system as taught by Mrs. Kellock. Miss Palmer is giving her services and no charge made for the use of a room at the library for the weekly sessions.

Urge Passage of Child Labor Bill.

The executive committee of the City Union, of the King's Daughters, met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Reed, on Myrtle avenue, and adopted resolutions which will be forwarded to the new Jersey Senate, urging the passage of Senate bill No. 90, relating to child labor. This action is in harmony with that taken by various organizations throughout the State.

BOUND FOR HEAVEN HE SPRANG FROM ROOF

A "HOLY JUMPER," CRAZED BY RELIGION, KILLS HIMSELF.

Crazed by religion, Lieutenant William Warner, of the "Holy Jumpers," at Weston, near Bound Brook, jumped from the roof of the main building, yesterday afternoon, imagining that he was going straight to Heaven.

The lieutenant had been overseeing some work on the roof. Suddenly, while looking Heavenward, he was overcome by an ecstacy of religious fervor and began to dance and shout. In doing so he approached too near the edge of the roof, and before he could be prevented, he sprang over the edge and fell to the ground below, a distance of thirty feet. His death was instantaneous, his skull being fractured.

NEW SHIPYARD FOR RAHWAY.

Nixon Will Build $400,000 Plant on Staten Island Shore.

Shipbuilding men in Perth Amboy are interested in the announcement that Lewis Nixon, who formerly conducted the Crescent shipyards at Elizabeth, will establish a $400,000 shipyard on Staten Island Sound, directly opposite that place, this spring. The ground has already been purchased, and the plant is bound to add greatly to the prosperity of this section.

During the Russian-Japanese War Mr. Nixon leased the old Ramsay shipyard at Perth Amboy and built torpedo boats, which disappeared in a mysterious manner, it being declared at that time that they were delivered to the Russian government. Since that time the local yard has been practically idle. Mr. Nixon made an effort to buy it, but the title being involved in litigation, he has abandoned the idea, and will be located directly opposite. The new plant will employ 600 men.

$150,000 Theatre for Bayonne.

Manager E. A. Schiller, of the Bayonne theatre, yesterday announced that the Bayonne Amusement Company, of which he is the president and manager, would break ground within the next two weeks for the erection of a $150,000 theatre at Avenue C and Twenty-sixth street in that city. It will be known as the Bayonne Opera House. The structure will be 158 by 160 feet. Beside the theatre the building will contain a large hall and rathskeller. The house will be devoted to high-class attractions. It will seat 1,700 persons. It is planned to open it on October 1 next.

"CENTRAL PARK"
Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

MISS STEPHANIE KROM TAKES A FATAL DOSE

Attractive Young Woman Found Dead in Her Room at Truell Court by Her Father.

WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED

Daughter of Stephen Krom—Had Taken Chloral Hydrate and Died Alone—Family Heartbroken.

Miss Stephanie Krom, one of the best known young women in local society circles, was found dead by her father, Stephen A. Krom, in her apartment at Truell Court, yesterday noon. He had stepped in to call her for lunch and at first thought she had fallen in faint. Dr. Hedges was hurriedly summoned and on examination found that she had died from an overdose of chloral hydrate, a drug frequently used to allay pain and relieve headaches.

Miss Krom had not been in the habit of taking chloral and it had not been prescribed for her, consequently the impression was gained that she had an ulterior motive in view when she used it. She was a very sensible girl, one of unusually high aims and accomplishments; her home life was very happy to all appearances and under the circumstances family and friends found it hard to arrive at any such conclusion.

Miss Krom was engaged to marry Augustus Vane, of Elizabeth. She broke the engagement Tuesday evening. She was not seen about the Court yesterday morning but was speaking to her father at 11 o'clock. It was when he entered her room more than an hour later that he discovered her body.

Miss Krom was twenty-two years old and was widely known in every part of the city. She was very attractive in appearance and fond of outdoor sports. During the winter she spent a great deal of time on the ice, being an expert skater, and in summer she was in the open air almost all day. Her education had been thorough and she talked entertainingly on a wide range of subjects.

Beside her father, Miss Krom is survived by four brothers. They are Arthur Krom, who is the head of the Krom Machine Works on North avenue; Fred Krom, of Plainfield; Louis Krom, who is in business in Southbridge, Mass., and Stanley Krom, of Jersey City.

Funeral of Mrs. Carroll.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll, mother of George T. Carroll, of Elizabeth, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. A solemn requiem mass was said with Rev. Father Bogan as celebrant; Rev. Father Delehanty deacon and Rev. Father Sciola sub-deacon. A solo was rendered by Miss Anna Daley. There was a large offering of floral tributes from friends in this city and Elizabeth and from the societies with which George Carroll is connected. The b ody was sent to New York for interment in Calvary cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Daniel J. Shea, Hugh Reilly, Fred Moore, William Townsend, Charles Stranzenbach and Henry Wierenga.

King's Daughters Sale and Musicale.

The Cheerful Workers' Circle of The King's Daughters is planning to hold a musicale and sale on Friday afternoon, March 22, at the home of Mrs. David H. Rowland, of West Seventh street. The affair was arranged for this date so as not to interfer with the service to be held under the auspices of the Benevolent Band of the King's Daughters at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in memory of Mrs. Margaret Bottome, on Saturday afternoon, March 23.

Repeated "Village Choir" Concert.

The "village choir" concert which Judge William N. Runyon gave at Hope chapel on Washington's birthday night, was repeated at the chapel last night. It scored another success and was heard by an audience almost as large as was in evidence the first time. Judge Runyon was again in charge and the soloists and principals remained the same.

Somerset Club Meeting.

The Somerset Club will hold an important meeting in the rooms Friday night. The members will act upon the proposition to keep the organization going and broaden the scope of work or wind up its affairs.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS HOLD JAPANESE SOCIAL

ENTERTAINMENT OF THE WOMEN'S SOCIETY FOR CHRISTIAN WORK.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, a Japanese social was held in the church parlors, last night. The affair was largely attended and in the opinion of those present it was the best social held at the church in a long time. The room was artistically decorated with Japanese draperies, and all those taking part wore Japanese costumes. There was a tea room, candy booth and a sale of Japanese novelties and during the evening a fine entertainment was given.

The tea room was decorated with Japanese parasols and lanterns, while a bower of wisteria made the candy table attractive. The tea room was in charge of Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Mrs. William H. Rogers, Mrs. M. L. Clawson, assisted by a number of young women. Mrs. Asa F. Randolph and Mrs. Orra S. Rogers were at the candy table and Mrs. L. B. Crandall and Dr. Martha R. Stillman at the novelty table.

The programme was opened with a Japanese Love Song, by Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, accompanied on the piano by Miss Mabel Maxson, followed with an interesting paper on "Japanese Life and Customs," by Miss Ernestine C. Smith.

Probably, the feature of the entertainment was called a "Japanese Menagerie," given by a number of young women in Japanese costume. Each one represented in song various animals and fowls as follows:

Mill Mildred Greene, dog; Miss Isabelle Randolph, rooster; Miss Helen Rogers, donkey; Miss Maudella Ford, cat; Miss May Hunting, duck; Miss Celia Cottrell, pig. The songs were of the jingo style with choruses.

Another pleasing feature was a Japanese drill, cleverly executed by Miss Ida Spicer, Miss Mary St. John. Miss Matie Green, Mrs. O. B. Whitford, Miss Mildren Greene, Miss Isabelle Randolph, Miss Marie Rogers, Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Maudella Ford and Miss Mary Hunting. They were trained by Mrs. J. E. Kimball and Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis accompanied on the piano.

There were also Japanese Mother Goose rhmyes by Miss Mary Hunting, Miss Maudella Ford, Miss Celia Cottrell, Miss Beatrice Cottrell. The last number was a Japanese lullaby song by the Misses Celia and Beatrice Cottrell.

The general committee in charge comprised Mrs. J. E. Kimball and Miss Ernestine C. Smith. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. L. B. Crandall. Mrs. W. C. Hubbard was in charge of a table where kimonos and aprons were sold.

AUTHOR ADDRESSES WOMEN.

F. D. Gordon Talks On "Guidance" at the Home of Mrs. Mead.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Frederick G. Mead and Mrs. Percy Stewart, a company of fifty women were privileged to hear a delightful talk at the home of Mrs. Mead, "Sunnyside," yesterday afternoon, by F. D. Gordon, of Madison. Mr. Gordon is the author of three well known books, "Quiet Talk On Prayer," "Quiet Talk On Power" and "Quiet Talk On Service."

His talk yesterday was on the topic of "Guidance," and it proved to be exceedingly helpful. Mr. Gordon will speak again at Mrs. Mead's home on Friday afternoon, March 22. Owing to the limited accommodations it will be impossible to extend a general invitation to the public. Cards have been issued to the seating capacity of the home.

AGAINST TWO-CENT FARE BILL.

Gebhard's Measure Adversely Reported by Committee on Railroads.

Senator Gebhardt's two-cent-a-mile railroad fare bill was reported adversely by the Committee on Railroads and Canals at Trenton last night.

The bill for the extension of time of completing certain railroads caused a lively debate in the Senate. It finally passed, however, and Senators Colby and Silzer voted against it.

The Senate passed the bill increasing the appropriation for the Essex Troop's armory. The bill had already passed the House.

Gave a Lemon Party.

Miss Agnes Mahoney, of New street, gave a lemon party at her home last night in honor of Miss Margaret Eagan, of Central avenue. An excellent entertainment was furnished by Charles Currin, vocal selections; William Mahoney, piano, and James P. Lynch, violin selections. Games were also played and refreshments served.

A parlor sociable will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George VanBlake tomorrow evening by the fair committee of Bethel chapel.

MADE P.S.C. TAKE WATER

Determined Newarker Compels Trolley Lords to Unbend and Capitulate.

TAKEN BACK TO NEWARK

Wrongly Transferred in City, He Stuck to Car All the Way to Plainfield and Insisted on His Rights.

Patrolman Frank Sweeney was called from his post to the car barn, West Fourth street, at 12:45 o'clock this morning, to look over a passenger who had come in on the car that had just completed its run from Newark. The trolley people said he was a suspicious character, and would like him removed.

Sweeney found the "suspicious character" sitting in the car with a determined expression on his face. He was not distrubed by the appearance of the officer. He said he was Felix Maugone, of 22 Nassau street, Newark, and he purposed remaining on the car until the P. S. C. carried him back to Newark. He had been transferred to the wrong car in Newark, through the stupidity or carelessness of P. S. C. employes, he said, and he intended to have the mistake righted, and that was all there was to it. The policeman gathered that the case was pretty much as Maugone put it. Maugone and the car crew had gotten into a dispute over the passenger's transfer, Maugone got his anger up and insisted that the P. S. C. carry him back to where his proper car could be boarded, and give him passage on it.

Sweeney could not seet that Maugone had been guilty of any disorder, and refused to interfere. The trolley men threw up their hands and surrendered to the determined Newarker. They whizzed him back to the trolley station at Watchung avenue, gave him the freedom of the last car for Newark, and he started homeward with all the honors of war and passage guaranteed.

LEHIGH RAILROAD PLANS ANOTHER BIG YARD.

New One to Be Built at South Plainfield at the Westbound Tracks.

Plans have been decided upon by the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the construction of a big yard on the westbound side of the tracks at South Plainfield. It will stretch from Park to Clinton avenues, and include something like fifty tracks. There is a small yard on the west side at present.

Details of the plans cannot be learned at South Plainfield, but the announcement that the yard is to be built is positive.

Hungarian Fatally Injured.

John Rehorchuck, a Hungarian employed as a laborer for the Lehigh Valley Railroad and residing at South Somerville, was run over by a freight train at that place last night, receiving a severe injury to the left leg and a scalp wound. He was picked up by the Black Diamond Express which follows the other train, brought to South Plainfield and was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. It was found necessary to amputate the left leg below the knee. The man's condition is not favorable and his recovery is doubtful. He is thirty-seven years old and so far as can be learned has no relatives in this country.

Cancelled Tonight's Attraction.

Manager Counihan viewed a performance of "Queen of the Kidnappers' at Yonkers, N. Y., last night, and reached the conclusion that it was not up to the standard demanded by Plainfielders, consequently cancelled the booking for his playhouse tonight. Mr. Counihan declares that he prefers the house to remain dark than to present an attraction that would prove unsatisfactory. The management of "Queen of the Kidnappers" insisted at first that the performance be allowed to go on but the Plainfielder quickly convinced him that there was no sense in arguing.

Must Have New Licenses.

Chief of Police Kiely announced this morning that all the present licenses would expire tomorrow, and that all persons engaged in business requiring permits would be prevented from operating unless they were provided with new forms. All the licenses granted are at police headquarters, and may be obtained by application there.

Common Council Meets Tonight.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to finish up the business for the month. The ordinance providing for the establishing of the grade on certain streets will be passed on third reading and other matters of more or less importance considered.

WM. C. STANBERY DEAD

Venerable Resident of Scotch Plains Dies After a Long Illness.

UNION COUNTY NATIVE

Aged Eighty-four Years—His Father Fought In Revolutionary War.

William C. Stanbery, of Scotch Plains, who was widely known in this city and throughout Union county, died at his home this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Old age was virtually the cause of his death; he was 84 years old.

Mr. Stanbery was born in Scotch Plains, on the homestead that had been in the family for generations. His people had lived in Scotch Plains since colonial times, and the name was part of Scotch Plains' history. His father was a colonel in the Revolutionary Army.

Mr. Stanbery engaged in farming, on a place at Martine avenue, Scotch Plains. He sold all but a few acres in the midst of the first big realty boom that struck the Plains and retired. He lived quietly after that, directing and managing a not inconsiderable estate. He made money steadily, and has always been accounted wealthy.

Mr. Stanbery lived and died in the house in which he was born on June 17, 1822. His father was an officer in the Continental Army. Mr. Stanbery attended school in Elizabeth. He cast his first vote in Plainfield. He was a cousin of Henry Stanbery, attorney general under President Johnson and by marriage was a relative of Chancellor Theodore Runyon, at one time Ambassador to Germany. Mr. Stanbery engaged in farming and the real estate business since 1870.

In the days when Westfield township was still unpartitioned Mr. Stanbery served as assessor for a number of terms. Later he was a town committeeman.

His health began to fail seriously about a year ago. The experience of his son, William R. Stanbery, in a fatal automobile accident and his death not long afterwards, seemed to mark the turning point between health and senile debility. He had not left the house since early last fall.

HAIL EVERETT COLBY AS NEXT GOVERNOR.

Picture of Essex Senator Shows What His Admirers Hope for Him.

A lantern slide picture of State Senator Everett Colby, shown on a screen at the annual meeting of the League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation, in the New Auditorium at Newark Tuesday night, inspired the cohorts of the reform element to hail their leader as "Our Next Governor." The facsimile of the Senator's countenance was kept before the gathering for more than a minute, and was the means of eliciting numerous shouts, indicating the admiration with which the crowd regarded Mr. Colby. The pictures of many of the reform leaders were shown, as were some cartoons that have been published in the Newark News.

It took the league exactly twenty-five minutes to reorganize and elect officers. Every one of the retiring officers was chosen for another term, with the exception of Jerome T. Congleton, of the Eleventh Ward, who declined to serve again as corresponding secretary. Following are the selections:

Chairman, Gardner Colby; first vice-president, Lathrop Anderson; second vice-president, William Mungle; third vice-president, R. Arthur Heller; treasurer, Alexander M. Linnett; recording secretary, John S. Gibson; corresponding secretary, Captain Andrew B. Byram; executive committee, Senator Colby, chairman; Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, Alderman William P. Martin, County Register Edward S. Perry, William Fellowes Morgan, Judge Benjamin F. Jones, Colonel Harry A. Potter, William Riker, George Virtue, Gaetano M. Belfatto, Harrison VanDuyne, former Congressman William H. Wiley, Charles D. Cleveland and former Assemblymen Philip C. Walsh, Austen Colgate, Henry C. Hines, Gustav W. Roeber, Russell M. Everett, Gustavus F. Sommer and George F. Serbe.

U. S. Consul Expelled.

Panama, March 14.—Private advices indicate that W. L. Merry, United States Minister, was expelled from Nicaragua by President Zelaya. Nicagagua has seized a consignment of rifles at Corinto which had been shipped to San Salvador for the use of Honduras. J. W. Lee, Minister to Guatemala and Honduras, was aboard the ship at the time of the seizure.

Benares, the sacred city of India, is visited annually by nearly two million pilgrims.

BAKER PLAYS DETECTIVE

And Does It Well, Capturing His Quarry Like a Sleuth.

NABS A FLIM-FLAMMER

Flashy Young Man Who Got $5 From George Voehl's Clerk Must Face the Grand Jury.

Through energetic detective work by George Voehl, a young man suspected of being a flim-flam grafter, who describes himself as James Davis, of Chicago, was arrested last night, after he had secured $5 from Miss Townsend, a clerk in Voehl's bakery on West Front street.

Davis, well dressed and of prosperous, if flashy, appearance, went in Voehl's store shortly after 6 o'clock, with a companion. He bought ten cents worth of cream puffs and handed Miss Townsend a $10 bill. She took four $1 bills from the cash register and then discovering she did not have change enough, called Mr. Voehl and got two $5 bills from him. The change was handed over, but Davis' companion suddenly discovered he had the price of the puffs handy and he told Davis to get his $10 bill back. The note was handed back and the pair left the store. Then Miss Townsend discovered that she was $5 short. Mr. Voehl had had a good look at Davis and his friend, and he started out as a sleuth at once.

He watched two outgoing trains without seeing a sign of the pair, started back along North avenue toward Park, and saw the two coming out of Louis Skelly's stationery store. He followed them, and saw Davis go into Timbo's restaurant, leaving his companion outside. Voehl went into the resaurant, and heard Davis ask to have $10 in small bills exchanged for a single note. Voehl afterwards learned that the pair had had a $10 bill changed in Skelly's.

Voehl secured Mr. Timbo's assistance, and took Davis into custody. Davis wanted to square things, and offered to pay over $5 without question, but the amateur sleuth refused to compound the alleged crime. He notified police headquarters, and Patrolman McDonald took Davis to the station house. His companion disappeared.

In court this morning, Davis acknowledged that he got $5 too much from Miss Townsend, and wanted to know why he couldn't settle the difficulty by repaying the amount. He seemed pained when Mr. Voehl insisted on pressing the charge. He was held for the grand jury in $200 bail. The police believe he and his companion are professional swindlers of extended experience.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Kruger Who Killed Wife and Tried Suicide Taken from Hospital.

William Krueger, who shot and killed his wife at their home, No. 247 Hawthorne avenue, Newark, on February 19, and also shot Mrs. Sabina Boise, a neighbor, and then tried to end his life by shooting himself and cutting his wrists, was taken from St. Barnabas' Hospital, where he had since been confined, and arraigned on a formal charge of murder yesterday.

Krueger has fully recovered from the effects of his wounds, and appeared to be little concerned as to his fate. He said he thought he would get no more than two years for his deed. He was sent to jail await the action of the grand jury. Krueger, it is alleged, was enraged at his wife, because that he learned that the woman was endeavoring to get a separation from him.

"GOVERNOR'S BILL" PASSED.

Its Purpose Is to Establish Home for Curable Consumptives.

Trenton, March 14.—The bill known as the "Governor's bill," providing for the regulation of the reception of inmates at the sanatorium at Glen Gardner, passed the House of Assembly unanimously yesterday.

The purpose of the bill is to establish a home for curable tuberculosis patients, who can be instructed in fighting the disease, so that they may go out to establish colonies for the purpose of affording relief to consumptives. Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen introduced a similar bill in the upper House.

Amends Civil Service Bills.

Amendments to Senator Colby's Civil Service bill were presented in the Senate yesterday by Senator Hillery and ordered printed. The amendments make the bill applicable to the State government and to counties and cities of the first class and eliminates school teachers and laborers from its provisions.

GRAND JURY CENSURES P. R. R. FOR CROSSING

CONDITIONS AT STELTON HELD TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF DUNNS.

The Grand Jury of Middlesex county, yesterday, brought in a presentment censuring the Pennsylvania Railroad for the dangerous condition of its grade crossing at Stelton, where Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Dunn were killed on the night of December 18, when returning from prayer-meeting.

The Grand Jury says the railroad merits severe condemnation for the inadequate protection it gives to the public at this crossing; it believes two flagmen should be on duty there day and night, and gates erected to be operated by a man from a tower who has a full view of the tracks. The jury says it is its firm conviction that the dangers will not be eliminated until the crossing is abolished by depression of the roadway or putting up an overhead bridge.

The people of Stelton have been protesting against the crossing for years. A number of fatalities have occurred there, and it is claimed that practically all of them would have been prevented by proper safeguards. A movement was recently organized to compel the railroad to change conditions, and the grand jury's presentment is expected to give it impetus sufficient to make it successful.

YALE CLUB ANNUAL.

Plainfield Alumni Banquet at Casino Tomorrow Night.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Yale Club met at the home of the president, Thomas M. Day, last night, and completed final arrangements for the annual dinner to be held at the Casino, tomorrow night. The committee considers it fortunate that it has been able to secure President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, as the principal speaker for the occasion, and his presence will be of special interest to every Yale man, who will no doubt give him a rousing welcome to Plainfield.

D. W. Richards, of Orange, a brother of Rev. Dr. W. F. Richards, formerly of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will also be present and speak for the Essex County Alumni Association, while Mayor Charles J. Fisk will speak for the city.

It is expected that every Yale man in Plainfield will attend the dinner, and those who have not signified their intention of doing so are requested to communicate with L. A. Williams, Jr., of 48 Albert street. In addition to the speeches there will be plenty of good music to enliven the old college spirit.

Bill of Local Interest.

In the State Senate, Senator Frelinghuysen introduced a bill which places all cities and municipalities under the law of June 8, 1906, entitled "An act to enable any city in this State, other than cities of the first class, to construct, purchase or otherwise acquire water works for the purpose of supplying pure and wholesome water for public and private use in said city or in adjoining municipalities, and providing for the maintenance of the same."

Adding to Track Team.

Two new men have been added to the track team of the Y. M. C. A. for the meet against the Hudson City association Saturday night. They are Carl Steiner, who is a high jump possibility, and Harry Viebrock, potato racer. There is talk of bringing Arthur Denton, who is a star Brown athlete, home f or the State meet at Paterson. He would strengthen the team a lot.

Time to Buy Railroad Stocks.

W. deLa R. Anderson, manager for Mills Bro. & Co., brokers on Park avenue, reports an exceptional opportunity to purchase gilt-edged railroad and other stocks at low prices for investment. He believes that the plan to have Federal control of railroads will be of great benefit to the country and will always insure a substantial price for securities.

John P. VanHorn Injured.

John P. VanHorn, of Somerset street, employed as a machinist at the Pond Tool Works, received a painful injury yesterday morning, a piece of steel flying from a machine and striking him over the left eye. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan was obliged to take four stitches to close the wound.

Drunk Released.

James Saunders, who describes himself as a blacksmith's helper and a boilermaker, was arrested at the North Avenue station, last night, for helpless drunkenness. He promised to leave town, and sentence was suspended.

Miss Harper's Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Harper, who died yesterday morning after a long illness, will be held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harper, of South avenue, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

COUNCILMEN DECIDE ON PERMANENT PAVEMENTS

Vitrified Brick to Be Laid Throughout the Business Section of the City.

IT WILL COST $65,000

Councilmanic Street Committee Comes to a Decision and Chairman Ginna Will Present Ordinance at Next Meeting.

After much mature discussion, the Councilmanic committee on streets has decided to recommend to the Common Council that permanent pavements be laid in the business section of the city without further delay. The action was taken at a meeting of the committee a few nights ago and Chairman Daniel F. Ginna will bring the matter up at the next regular meeting of the city fathers in April.

The estimated cost of the improvement is $65,000, this figure having been arrived at from prices furnished by pavements contractors. For the price named, the committee will be able to lay a vitrified brick pavement. It was the consensus of opinion among the members that brick would be preferable to Belgian block or prepared wood block. Vitrified brick has been put to a test here, having been used on a short strip on that section of Watchung avenue, near North avenue, which the city authorities permit the P. S. C. to use as a trolley depot.

The section to be improved includes the thoroughfares between Watchung avenue and Central avenue and Front street and Fourth street. The entire strip on Front street between Watchung avenue and Central will be laid with brick as will the section on Second street between Watchung avenue and Madison avenue. Park avenue from Front to Fourth and Watchung avenue from Front to Fourth will also be done in like fashion. North avenue will not be touched for it is considered that that thoroughfare is in pretty fair condition.

There is one obstacle in the way of bringing about the desired improvement at once. The Common Council cannot legally, it is said, float bonds, bearing a higher rate of interest than four per cent. As money is tight at present much higher rates of interest are demanded by investors and it is said that it would be well nigh impossible to float the necessary bonds at four per cent. For this reason, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh has been asked to solve the dilemma and it is probable that by the time of the next meeting of the city fathers, all difficulty will be removed.

An Evening With Robert Burns.

Admirers of Robert Burns will have an opportunity tomorrow evening to listen to a lecture on the Scottish poet to be delivered by the Rev. William A. Smith, of Groton, N. Y. Mr. Smith, who is a Scotchman, himself, has made a creditable name for himself as a lecturer, being best known in his home State. He is thoroughly familiar with his subject and his interpretation of the Scottish dialect is said to be perfect. The lecture will be given in Hope chapel. The musical programme will be furnished by the Plainfield High School Glee Club. The proceeds will go to the organ fund.

Didn't Like His Cell.

Patrick Nugent, of 926 West Third street, arrested yesterday for helpless drunkenness, was loaded with grievances when he faced Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He complained, after sentence had been suspended, that he couldn't get his overcoat or a drink of water in his cell yesterday afternoon. He said his cell was an icebox and not fit for a dog. He was told he had brain storms and was chased away.

Reception March 21.

The date of the reception to be given Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, by the church and congregation of the First Baptist church, will be Thursday night, March 21, instead of Tuesday, March 26. The reception will be held in the lecture room of the church.

—Neuman Brothers' store is headquarters for high grade butter and strictly fresh eggs. The price in either instance has been reduced in the past few days.

Rev. J. R. Atkinson, of Elizabeth, conducted service in St. Paul's Episcopal church last night.

WARREN COUNTY.

Owing to the conditions exacted by State Superintendent Hutchinson, it is doubtful if the macadam road from Rocksburg to Phillipsburg will be built this year, as planned by the Board of Freeholders. The superintendent calls for certain grades, which may make the cost about $11,000 per mile. The State pays only one-third the amount, and it is claimed that the county can build the road according to its own plans at a cost that will be less than the two-thirds share if built by State aid.

Eighty deer have been shipped from C. C. Worthington's deer park in Pahaquarry Township. The State of Pennsylvania was the purchaser. Forty deer were also ordered by the State of New Jersey.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Miss Frances Starr makes a wonderful appeal to women in her delightful impersonation of Juanita, the Spanish-American maiden in "The Rose of Rancho." No other actress in New York today is drawing so largely upon the fashionable public. The Belasco theatre every night is crowded with an audience which can only be compared with the brilliant gathering at a gala performance of grand opera at the Metropolitan and Manhattan opera houses. It is her dainty youthfulness and sprightly coquettry in the poetic scenes of the Belasco-Tully play that account for the success of the brilliant little artist, especially with the gentler sex. This is notably true at the Saturday matinees, when the overflow is large enough to fill another theatre of the same capacity. Miss Starr has demonstrated that she is not an accident, for in the manifestation of the many moods that make up the complex character of the girlish heroine she has no rival in the United States, added to which she sings and dances with the utmost grace and delicacy. She has become a Broadway favorite in everything that the term implies, and her success is another triumph for the artistic discernment of Belasco in picking her out of a multitude of ambitious actresses.

There was a great scrambling of mermaids in the water tank of the New York Hippodrome one afternoon last week, when Nero, one of the trained seals, slipped from its cage in the wings and flopped over into the water before any one could get to it. Nero was confined with the other seals behind the proscenium arch, and after his act in the ring, his cage was not securely fastened. During the water scene he caught sight of the tank and dived in with a splash. King Neptune was just coming to the surface in his chariot when the seal made his appearance, and there was a great splashing of mermaids, as they tried to get out of the water. Nero dived repeatedly and seemed to enjoy the excitement caused by his unexpteced advent. Miss Marie Louise Gibbon hesitated as long as she could before stepping into the boat that carried her down near th seal, but finally she mustered up courage enough, took a long breath and went into the water. Some of the fishermen tried to scare the seal away from the mermaids by splashing water. As soon as the curtain shuto ff the view from the audience, a dozen excited mermaids were helped from the water tank in a highly nervous condition, and Captain Webb, with the assistance of several stage hands, caught the seal and returned it to its cage.

Daniel Frohman takes pleasure in announcing a return engagement of the popular lecturer and traveler, Burton Holmes, to the Lyceum theatre, New York, for two parallel courses of his finely illustrated travelogues or "Travel-Talks," course A to be given on five successive Sunday evenings, beginning March 24, and course B to be given on five successive Monday afternoons, beginning March 25, the evenings at 8:30 and the afternoons at 3 o'clock. The series is to be different in subjects from that given at the Lyceum last fall, the topics being announced in the following order, each to be given twice: "Japan, the Cities and the Country;" "Port Arthur, the Siege and Surrender;" "Ireland, the Beautiful;" "Switzerland, from the Engadine to the Matterhorn," and "Vesuvius-Naples." All of these will be finely illustrated with magnificently colored still pictures and a profusion of motion-pictures, all of which, with the exception of those shown in the Port Arthur lecture, being Mr. Holmes' own taking. The Port Arthur lecture is illustrated with pictures taken on the spot by well known war photographers who were personally attached to Nogi's or Kuropatkin's headquarters. The sale of seats for the courses begins Monday, March 18.
